SPICE BUSH TRAIL

0.80-mile loop TRAIL RATING: Moderate
ESTIMATED HIKING TIME: 35 minutes

Spice Bush Trail goes through the Meramec River's floodplain along slightly elevated terraces to the nearby level woodland floor, where redheaded woodpeckers frequently feed and often nest. In late April, bluebells bloom in profusion along much of the trail. Along the journey, three bridges cross a perennial stream, but after a good rain, other small drainages can make for a wet and slippery hike. The trail passes through a rich bottomland woodland with a mixed herbaceous groundcover below tall sycamore, ash, pawpaw and black cherry trees. The dominant underbrush is spice bush, for which the trail is named.

LOST HILL TRAIL

2.60-mile loop TRAIL RATING: Moderate
ESTIMATED HIKING TIME: 1 hour, 55 minutes

Lost Hill Trail winds through the only uplands in the park. 'Lost Hill' received its name from the upland hill that has been detached from other ridges or uplands by erosion. The woodlands along the trail contain a mix of plants adapted to the dry rocky soils as well as areas with more lush vegetation. Hiking the north side of the trail provides an excellent view of an old oxbow slough of Calvey Creek, and extends down into the bottomlands surrounded by pawpaw trees. The two trailheads provide a great connection between the campground and Spice Bush Trail.
