42 Further Description of Important Features The large structure has a corbelled cornice with tile coping. Brick pilasters run from the 2nd through the 4th. story and set off the bays composed of 3 grouped 6-over-6 windows with soldier course lintels and concrete sills. The 1st story is capped by a soldier, rowlock, soldier belt course. The central bay, E facade contains the double leaf entrance with segmental transom and corresponding header. Fenestration of the windows in this bay indicate interior stairs. The S bay of this facade has been altered (see attached)

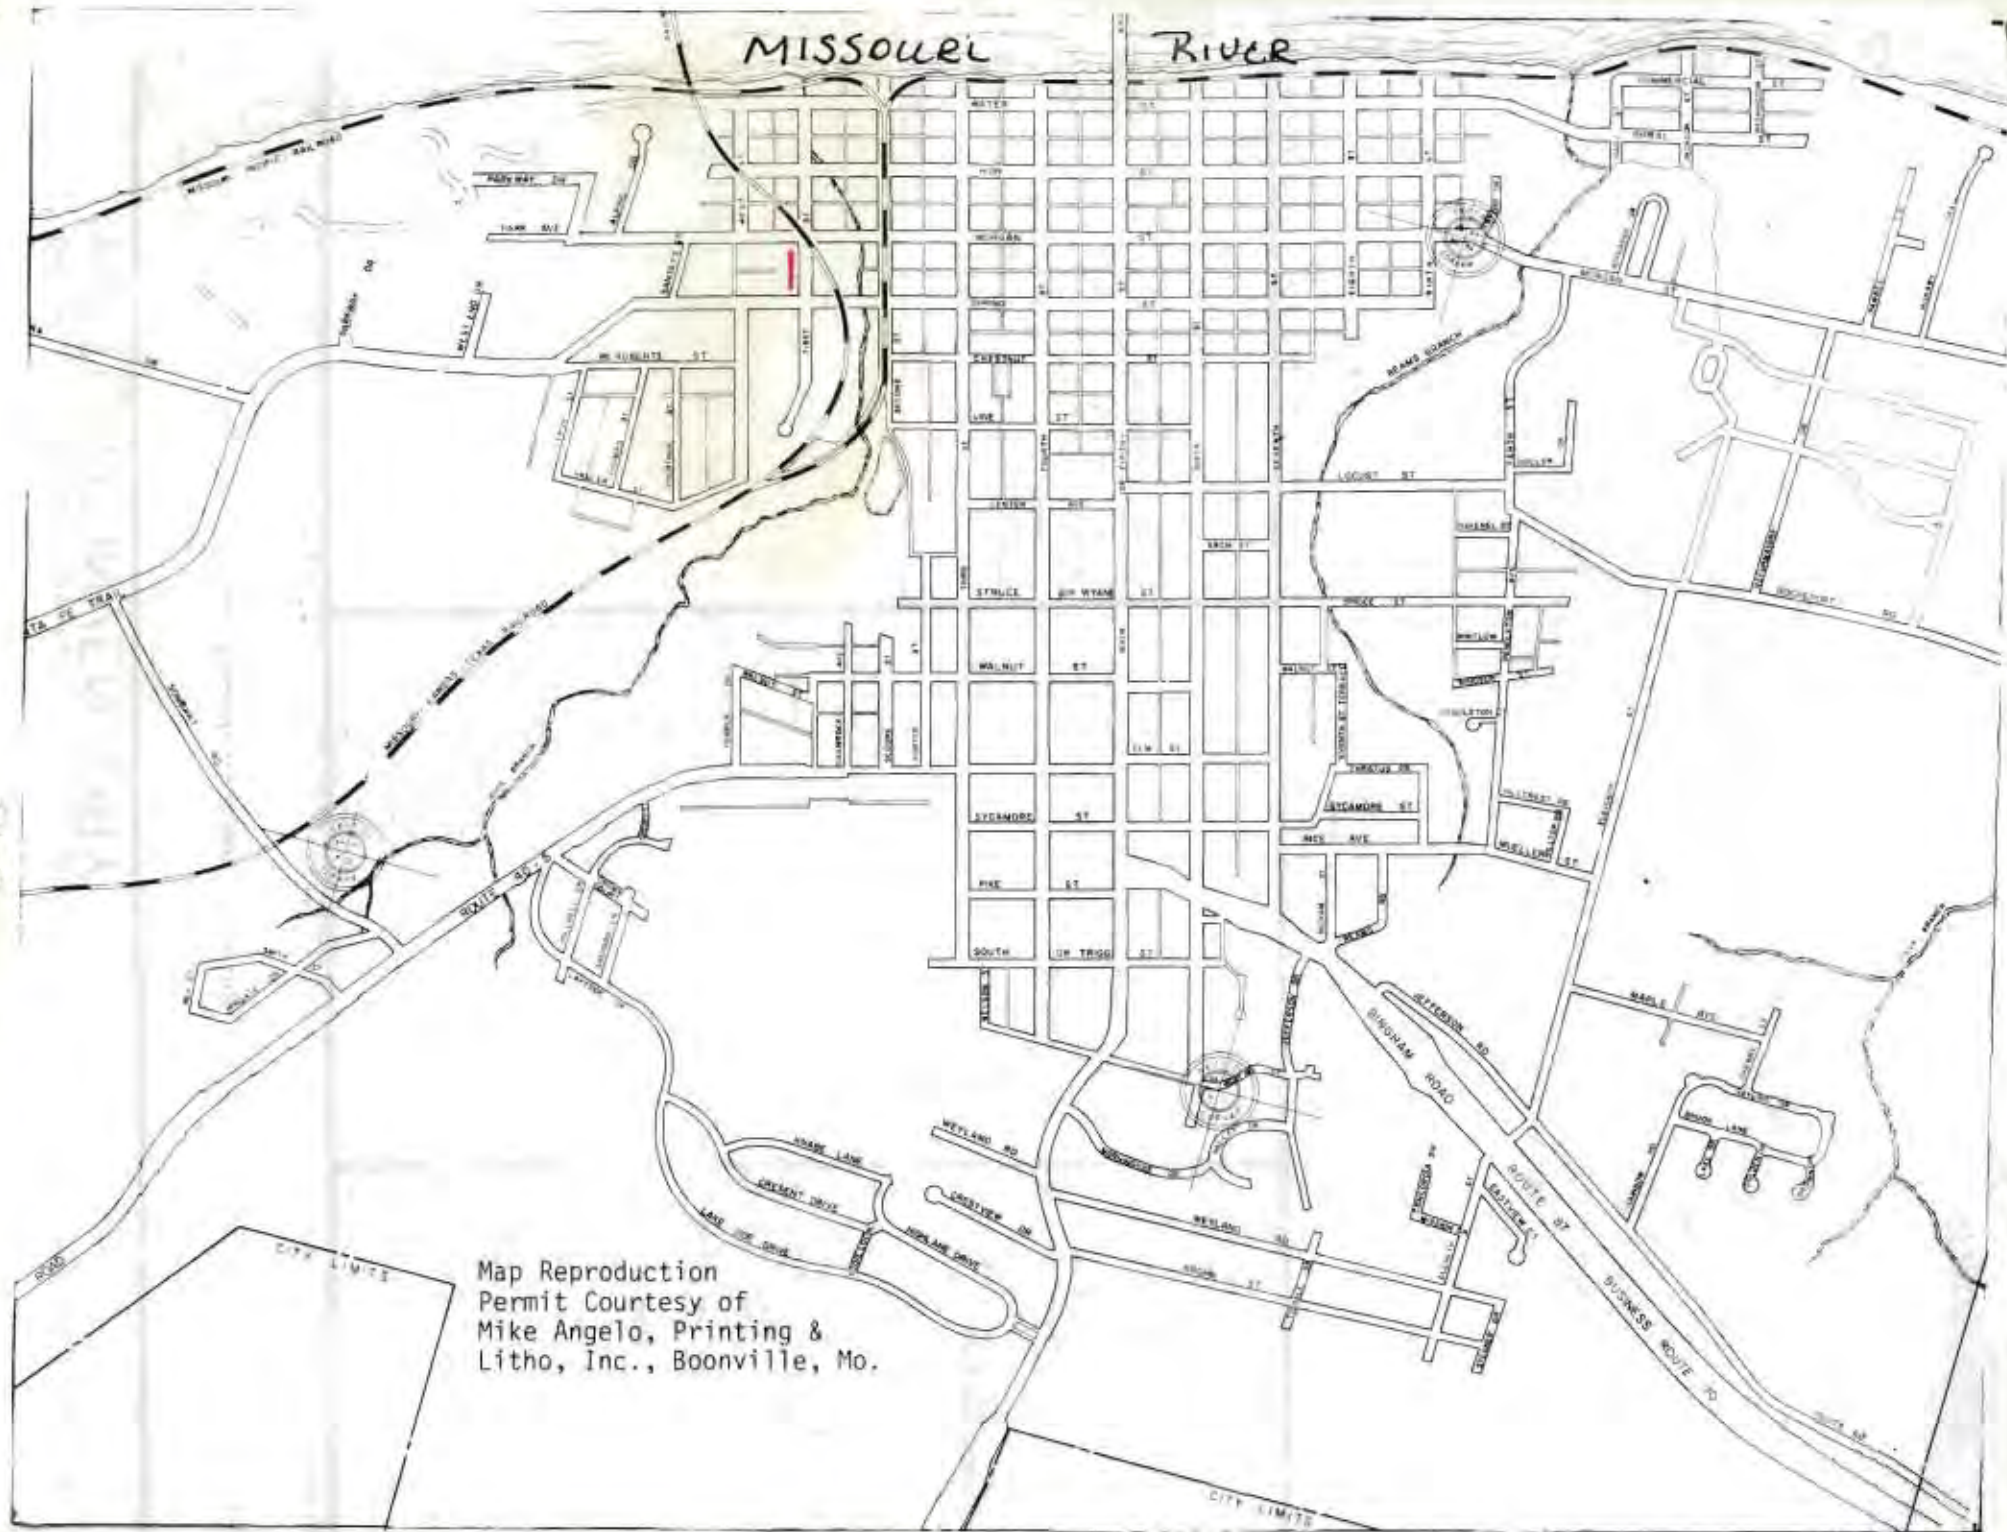

43 History and Significance When used by Hamilton-Brown, shoes were made on the 2, 3 & 4th. floors. The large 4 story 50 x 250 foot building was constructed by the W.J. Cochran & Sons Construction Company in 1919 at a cost of $216,000. This building was that company's largest endeavor. The Hamilton-Brown Shoe Company became a large employer and produced in 1924, 34 different kinds of women's and children's shoes with an output of 1800 pairs per day. The company was later bought by the Selwyn Shoe Manufacturing Inc. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto 1st Street and the railroad tracks. An alley and associated 1 story brick outbuildings are to the W. The factory basically fills the block between Spring and Morgan Streets.

42. (cont.) to form a secondary entrance. The N facade has large doors and loading dock. The structure has wood interior post and a skylight.

43. (cont.) By the 1960's production slowed down and it produced only heels for shoes. In 1971, operations ceased and the building was purchased by the City of Boonville. At present it is leased to the McGraw-Edison Company and serves as a storage building.

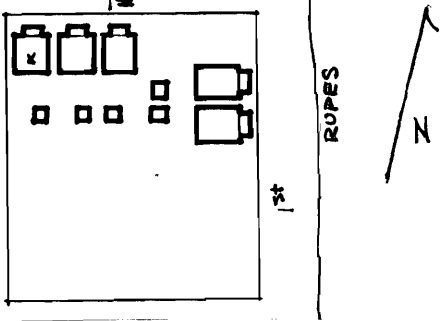

The factory is significant on the local level for its historical (commercial) importance to the community.

42 Further Description of Important Features The residence has an exposed basement on the E, N, & W. There is a clapboard pent roof addition on the N with an entrance to the E. Across the E facade is a 2 story porch with brick columns at the basement level and an Eastlake frame porch at the 1st. story. Openings have double rowlock segmentally arched lintels. There are star-end reinforcing rods running through the structure.
43 History and Significance An early owner of the structure was John Potter, c. 1920's. Since that time it has remained in the same family.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits back from the street. A stone wall is to the S with steps which lead up to the 1st. story.

This bay repeats the flemish (see attached sheet)		26 Local Contact Person or Organization Friends of Historic Boonville
43 History and Significance Significant on a local level, this depot is important for its historical (commercial) associations. The station was built from plans which were drawn by MKT engineers and was constructed by railroad depot construction personnel. The Boonville station was one of two MKT depots in the country utilizing this design. The second one, in Osage, Oklahoma, was razed in the 1950's. In the era of the 1920's a total of 8 passenger trains and freight trains used the depot daily. Between 1930 and 1942 depot traffic decreased and (cont.)		27 Other Surveys in Which Included

A basement entrance is to the E. Windows and doors are boarded and or locked up. They are generally 6-over-6 with trabeated lintels.

43. (cont.) the station received only four passenger and four freight trains per day. However, with World War II and the years 1942-45, the depot dealt with an average of 60 trains per day. Following the war, traffic decreased to the 1930-42 level and finally ceased passenger operations altogether in 1969. At present the station sits boarded up and is in a deteriorating condition.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure features gable end parapets (N & S) which have 3 stretcher courses in the cornice and corbelled ends. The primary entrance is to the E, has a transom and is capped by a 1 bay flat roofed porch which has doric wood columns on brick piers. Windows on this facade may have been altered, presently there are no headers. This facade has a boxed cornice. Side windows have segmentally arched headers. To the W is a brick pent addition. The S bay of this facade has a pent frame addition which (see attached)

43 History and Significance This architecturally significant Missouri German brick structure is believed to have been built for John Otten, a clerk in William Johnson's store, for speculation in 1868 on the site of an earlier brick school, possibly built by John Kennedy in 1857. Later that year it was purchased by Frederick Wassman for his residence. The Wassman Brothers operated a brick yard that was located on the adjoining land to the east. In 1881 Charles Passler (cont.)

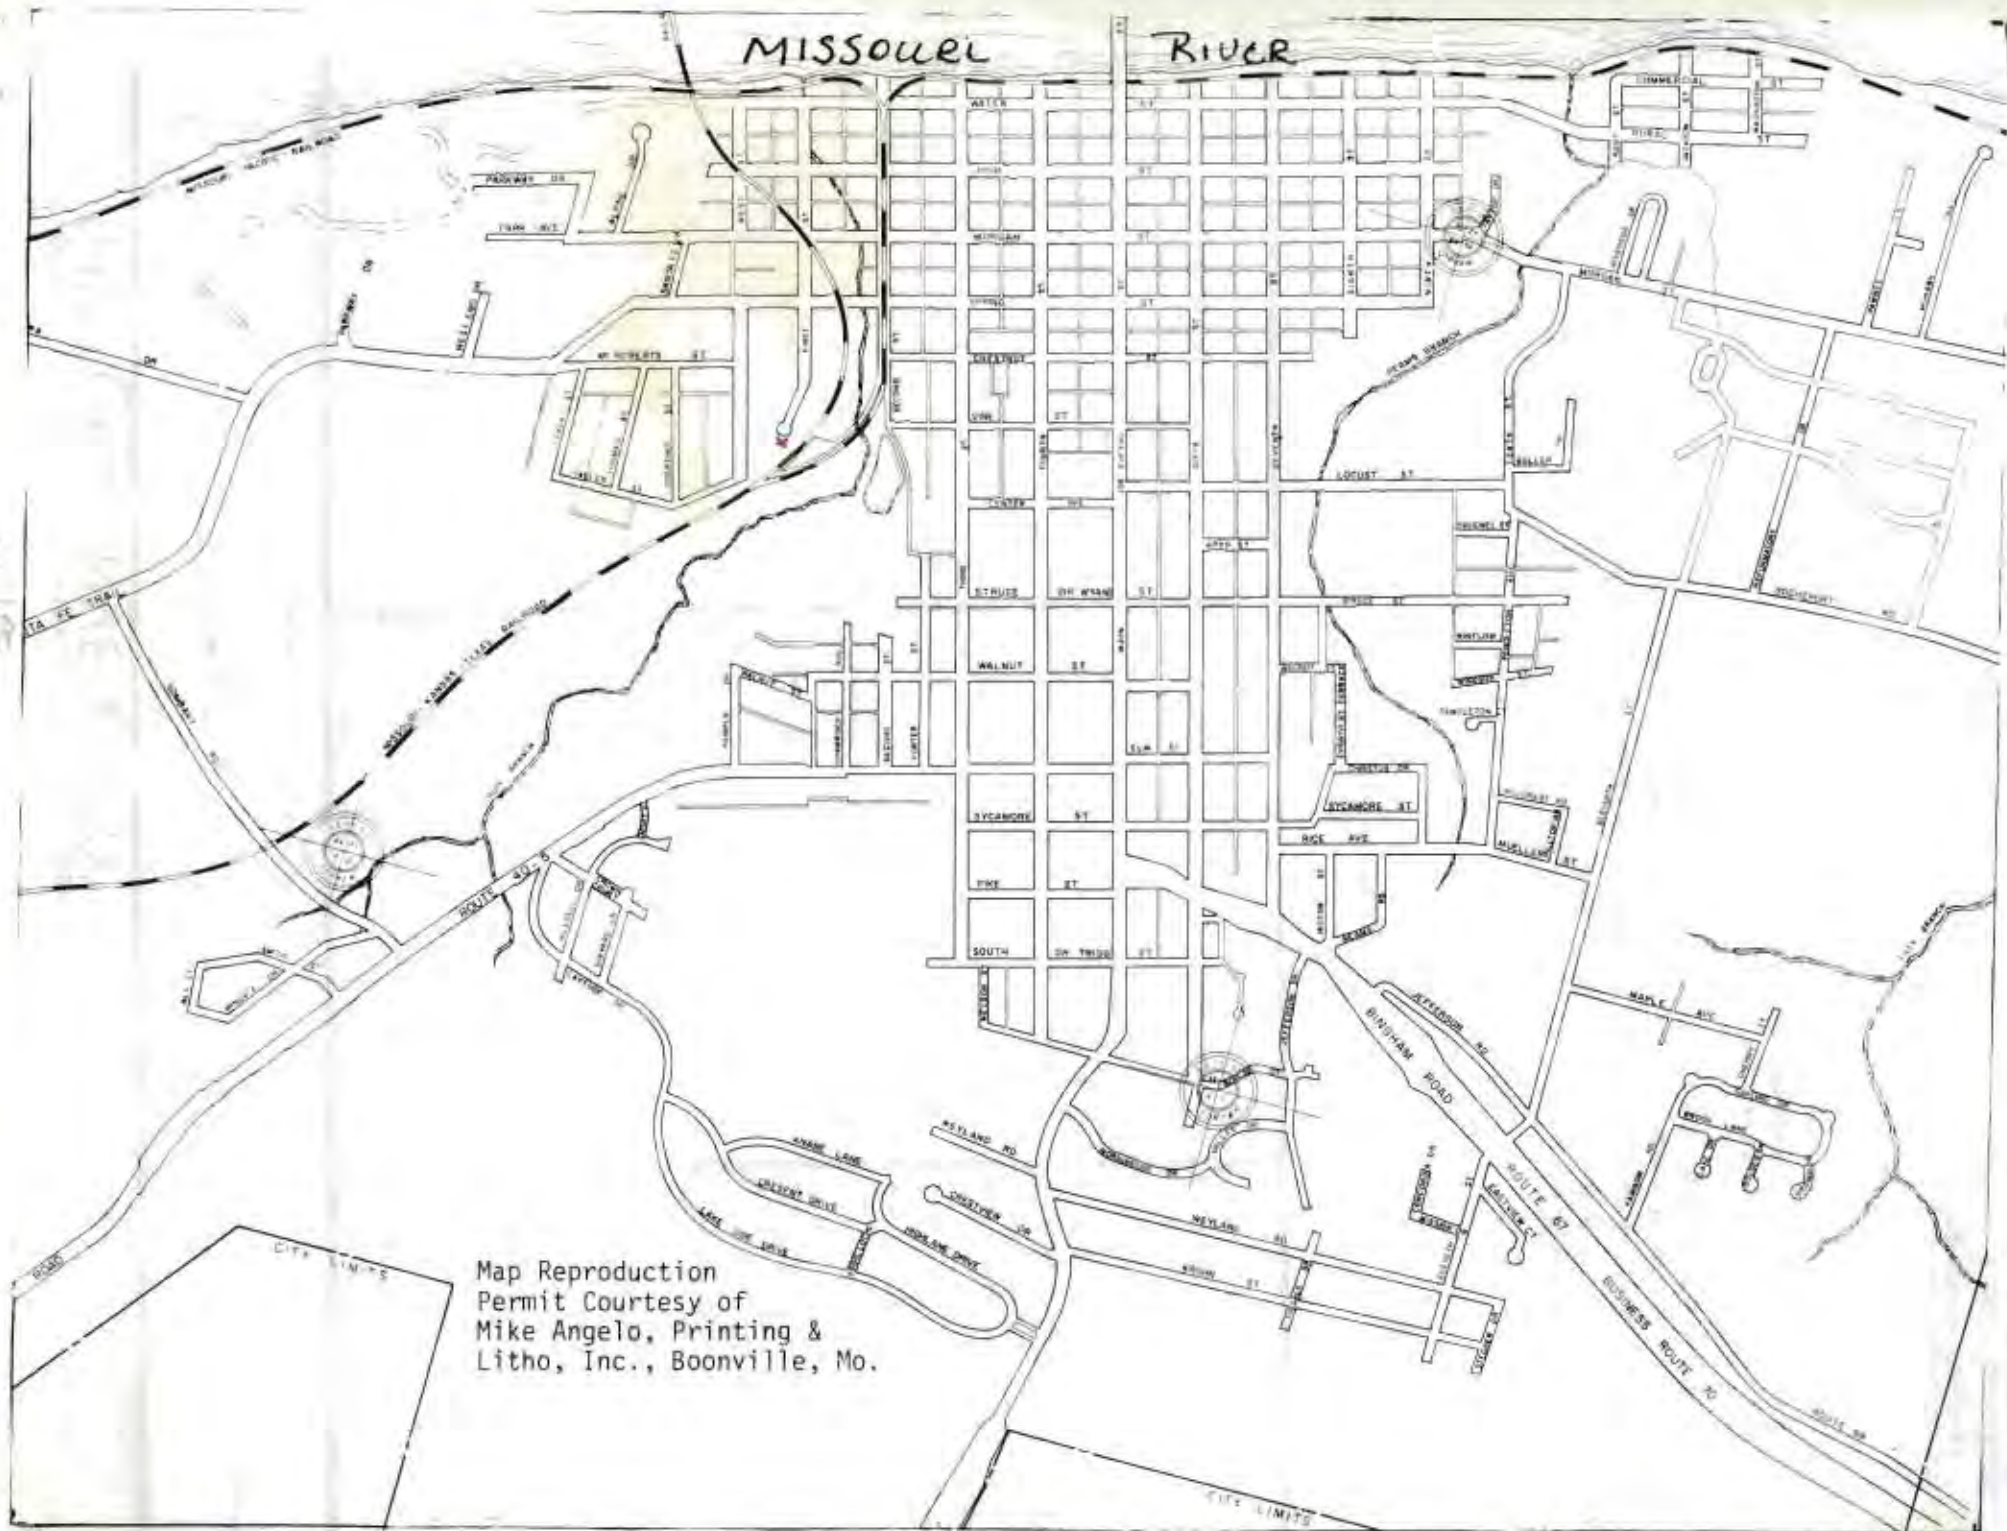

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure is one of the earliest in this part of the city. It sits on a bluff looking NE toward town. Presently it appears to sit at an angle to the lot, is reached by 1st street and sits at the end of a cul-de-sac. There is a small brick outbuilding with a pent roof to the W of the residence.

42. (cont.) has composition siding. There is also a pent frame porch over the W addition.

43. (cont.) purchased the structure but it is unknown whether he had any relationship to the brick yard. The structure in 1905 sold to Louis and John Gantner, and J. Henry Stretz who were by that time operating the brickyard. The structure does not appear, however, to have served as residence to any of the partners. The structure was then traded between the partners until 1938 when it sold to John E. Stapleton. In 1966 it was purchased by Julius Johnmeyer who developed the area into the Grace Addition to the City of Boonville and erected the first government funded housing projects in the city. Johnmeyer retained the structure for rental property until its sale in 1980 to the present owner whose son resides there.

The end parapets are similar to those at 809 Locust and 825 E. High St.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built with many of the typical depot motifs, the plan is for a passenger depot. Wide extended eaves run about the building, including an intervening roof on the gable ends. These gable ends are covered by asbestos siding and have 3 small windows. Windows are 2-over-2. On the E facade are 2 large paired windows with soldier course, segmentally arched headers over the arched transoms. Sills are concrete. Below the windows are corbelled (cont.)

43 History and Significance In Nov. 1868, the Osage Valley and Southern Kansas Railroad Company completed the railroad line, known as the "Boonville Branch" from Tipton, Mo. to Boonville. That year the Pacific Railroad leased all of the O.V. and S.K. Railroad for 30 years. Default being made by the parent company it was sold to various men, one of which was James M. Nelson of Boonville, and the branch became part of the Boonville, St. Louis and Southern Railway Company (1878). The Pacific Railroad, adding new lines to its company, (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Tracks run to the N & SW; 2nd street is to the E. Remnants of the herringbone brick platform and walks are still evident under the now graveled area surrounding the SE area. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) rectangular brick panels. The S facade has a frame loading dock at the slightly projecting E end. A double rowlock brick header forms a segmental arch over the double leaf doors. Brickwork indicates a bricked-in door also in this area. Originally a 1 story, hip roofed ell extended to the S at this point. The central section has 2 windows and an entrance all under a concrete header course. The entrance is reached by concrete steps. On the W end of this facade is a frame addition which extends to the tracks S and follows the angle of the tracks to the NW. Large freight doors are along the tracks and on the E side. The primary (N) facade faces the tracks. The eastern bay repeats the paired window of the E facade and also has a double-leaf entrance door and arched transom. Wide concrete steps lead up to the doors. This section was used as the waiting room. In the central section, which was used as the office, is a single leaf door, a single window, and the typical rectangular projecting bay window all under a concrete header course. There is also a concrete string course below the windows. A concrete string course directly above the foundation runs about the building. Two segmentally arched, wide freight doors at track level are in the W section. This area was used as the Express and Baggage area. Originally the E section of the building was a 2 story structure with a belcast hip roof. Windows were rectangular, 1-over-1, and had a concrete header and sill courses. Truncation of this section and removal of the SE ell severely altered the original integrity of the structure.

43. (cont.) and becoming known as the Missouri-Pacific Railroad, continued its leases till it purchased the stock of the Boonville St. Louis & Southern Railroad Company. The branch discontinued service of its one daily passenger train on April 30, 1936 by authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The original Boonville Branch Station was located at 2nd and Morgan Streets and served first as a passenger and freight depot and then after 1901 solely as a freight depot. The original structure has since been razed. The Missouri-Pacific station was built in 1901 using an "L" shape plan with the general waiting area being 2 stories and the agents, baggage, express and rest rooms being 1 story. The building was built of brick with walls 17 inches thick, with six foot projecting hip and gable roofs composed of slate. The interior floors were maple except in the baggage room which was concrete. The exterior north brick platform was 12,140 square feet. To the south of the depot was a 10 foot by 12 foot coal house.

Renovations and additions to the depot are as follows:

1927 - Rewiring of building

1937 - Construction of 6 foot by 18 foot timber freight platform

1948 - Removal of both the 2nd floor of passenger station and the South wing, elevate entire floor 3 feet, relocation of toilets, rearrangement of partitions and interior redecoration

1956 - Construction of unloading dock and redecoration

Passenger services limited to one arrival per day were discontinued in 1936. The building currently is used for radio relay and storage of standby charging equipment and batteries. On the NE corner of the building a high water marker is located marking the floods of 1903 to present.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure was associated with another which was along the alley in 1892. Today it stands alone however it has several additions to it. The primary facade (W) has an entrance, without transom, which is afforded protection by a later flat roofed porch on brick columns. Windows are 1-over-1. Openings are capped by double rowlock, segmentally arched lintels and chimneys with corbelled caps (N&S), a frame cornice, and S tie rods accent the structure. To the rear (E) a frame (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance The structure was converted into 3 apartments by Ben Smith, Sr., around 1950. The present owner purchased the structure in 1951 and incorporated 2 of the apartments into one for his residence. At present the other apartment is vacant.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto 2nd. Street. An alley is to the S. It sits on a slight embankment with a retaining wall to the W. This embankment drops off to an open lot on the N and allows for a cellar entrance in this bank.

43 History and Significance The full lot (101), with an earlier, simple structure, was purchased by John Salzman from Charles Wilson in 1919. The house could have been built as late as 1929 when Salzman obtained a $2500 loan. In 1944 Salzman heirs sold the property to Wilhemina Manion, who quit her claim to Ben Smith, Sr., a realtor, later that year. In 1945 it sold to Fred Armstrong, who in turn sold it to Rupert Renison in 1946. In that same year Renison sold it to F.M. Robinson. 43 History and Significance Sits on the site of the Boonville Gas Co., which was organized in 1892, and the Boonville Electric Light and Power Co., organized in 1889. W.A. Sombart purchased and merged both companies in 1915, and it became known as the Boonville Light, Heat and Power Co. until 1925. In that year it was renamed the Missouri Power and Light Co. Prior to 1953 both a frame "gas shed" and a brick building were removed for the building of the present structure.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building faces E onto 2nd St. Rupe's Branch is to the W. Spring St. is to the S. Morgan St. and the 1 outbuilding is to the N. This outbuilding sits at the NW corner of the lot. Its E & W facade have corrugated metal over brick. The building has a pent ell to the N., parapets, and bricked up segmentally arched openings. This structure is probably part of the old Sombart Gas Co.		45 Sources of Information Cooper County Record, Jan. 27, 1949 Interview with Jess Wooldridge, 3/80

43 History and Significance The Phoenix American Cob Pipe Factory in the first half of the 20th century was Boonville's largest industry and was the basis for Boonville's claim to being "THE CORN COB PIPE CAPITAL OF THE WORLD". The company was founded in 1893 by C.O. Strutz in Washington, Missouri, and was a family owned and run business. Desiring to be where the corn was, the company moved to Boonville in 1911 and into their building in 1912. The construction (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The factory faces W onto 2nd St. and the railroad. There are no outbuildings. There is a parking area to the W and a parking lot to the E. This lot to the E. and the adjoining E property was originally used as a cob storage area.		46 Prepared by L. Harper/ J. Higbie

43. of the building was the largest and most important contract of James William Jones who had built such buildings as the Farmers State Bank, Colored Public School, I.O.O.F. and the Gmelich Residence (323 E. High). The building, which cost $40,000 to erect, has 38,000 square feet of floor space with a warehouse capacity for storage of 151 carloads of materials including space for over 10 million corn cobs. The office was in the 1st story S end. The remainder of the 1st floor was used for cob sawing, machine shop, and pipe tumblers for shellacing. The 2nd floor had the sanding, turning and varnishing areas. The 3rd floor was for packing, assembly, and drying. There were 2 elevators. The company is credited with revolutionizing the industry through developing mechanized mass production and modern marketing techniques. In 1917 it employed 150 workers and produced 100,000 pipes per day, but by 1932 it produced only half that amount. The company became world famous for the production of quality, low cost pipes among which were the Dewey (1890's), Mel-O-Cob (1935) and the Ima-Cob (late 1930's). By 1940 the company employed over 70 workers and was still Boonville's largest private employer. The company ceased production in 1953. The building was bought and modernized in that year by McGraw Edison, Inc. In July 1954 the building again became operational with housing of the P.A.T.G. Division offices and the service department (small appliance's repair). In 1979 the P.A.T.G. Division was sold to Toastmaster Inc.

42 Further Description of Important Features The projecting ell on the NE has a raking cornice and scews, as do the S & W gable ends. The porch on the SE has a pent roof with roll roofing, Eastlake posts and brackets, and a plain balustrade. It affords protection to the entrance which has a transom, and retains its original Eastlake interior door. Additions include a pent roofed room on a concrete block foundation to the W and an enclosed porch on a brick foundation to the SW. This last addition has an entrance to the S with a (Attached sheet)

43 History and Significance In the 1912 and 1916 Cooper County Directories, Thomas W. Goodman, a cabinet-maker with the firm of George & Goodman Furniture Store, is listed as residing at this address. Thomas Goodman was born in Cooper County in 1857 and was married in 1878 to Amelia Thoma. He operated a pottery for awhile and was sexton of Walnut Grove Cemetery for 21 years. In his later life he worked as a cabinet maker in his son's (J. Henry Goodman) furniture store. It is not known, however, if Thomas Goodman owned the property. By the 1920's the (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings This residence faces E onto 3rd. Street. An alley is to the N which gives access to a 1 car frame garage with a gable roof which is to the immediate W of the residence. It has an overhead door to the N.

43. (cont.) property was owned by the Fred Boller family (which was closely associated with the Goodmans). Fred Boller came from Germany about 1848 and moved to Boonville from a nearby farm in 1898 when he became a grocer for several years before he retired. The Bollers lived in a house at the NE corner of Spring and 3rd Streets up into the 1920's when they moved into the nearby house at 309 3rd. Following the death of the elder Bollers, their daughter, Matilda ("Tilly"), who never married, resided in the house until her death in 1970. At this time the house was sold to Lewis Chappell, the present owner, who resided here for a few years and then turned the house into rental property. A number of people have resided in the house from that time to the present, including Andy Rhorer (1975-77) and Rick Hutchison (1978-79).

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is similar in plan and has the same flair between the 1st and 2nd story windows as does 411 3rd. Street, however it sets somewhat closer to the street, has reverse orientation and new siding obscures the fishscale shingling. The structure has a chamfered 2 story bay on the NE, a 1 story hip roof porch which is original to the S, but now extends and wraps around the SE corner to a 1 story rectangular bay on the S which has a hip roof and a brick foundation. There is a S entrance (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance J.R. Tackett owned and operated the Tackett Bottling works that was in operation in 1900. Following the original owner the house was the residence of Al Nicholls. The present owner, Dr. J.F. Jonas, is a dentist with offices at 906 Main Street.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on the NW corner of 3rd. and Chestnut Streets. A gravel drive from Chestnut gives access to the garage. The yard drops off sharply to the W. There is 1 outbuilding, a small metal storage shed with a lean-to metal addition to the NW of the residence. Originally the property had a picket fence.

42 Further Description of Important Features Queen Anne details include a 2 story chamfered bay (E) with a gable wall dormer with small fan window, a gable wall dormer to the N., and a polygonal bay with scroll brackets and pendants on the S facade. The front entrance with transom is afforded protection by a porch supported on square wood posts. There is a small stained glass window to the side of the entrance. Windows generally are 1-over-1 with simple frame surrounds. On the W facade is a covered rear entrance, and a pine deck at the 2nd story level.

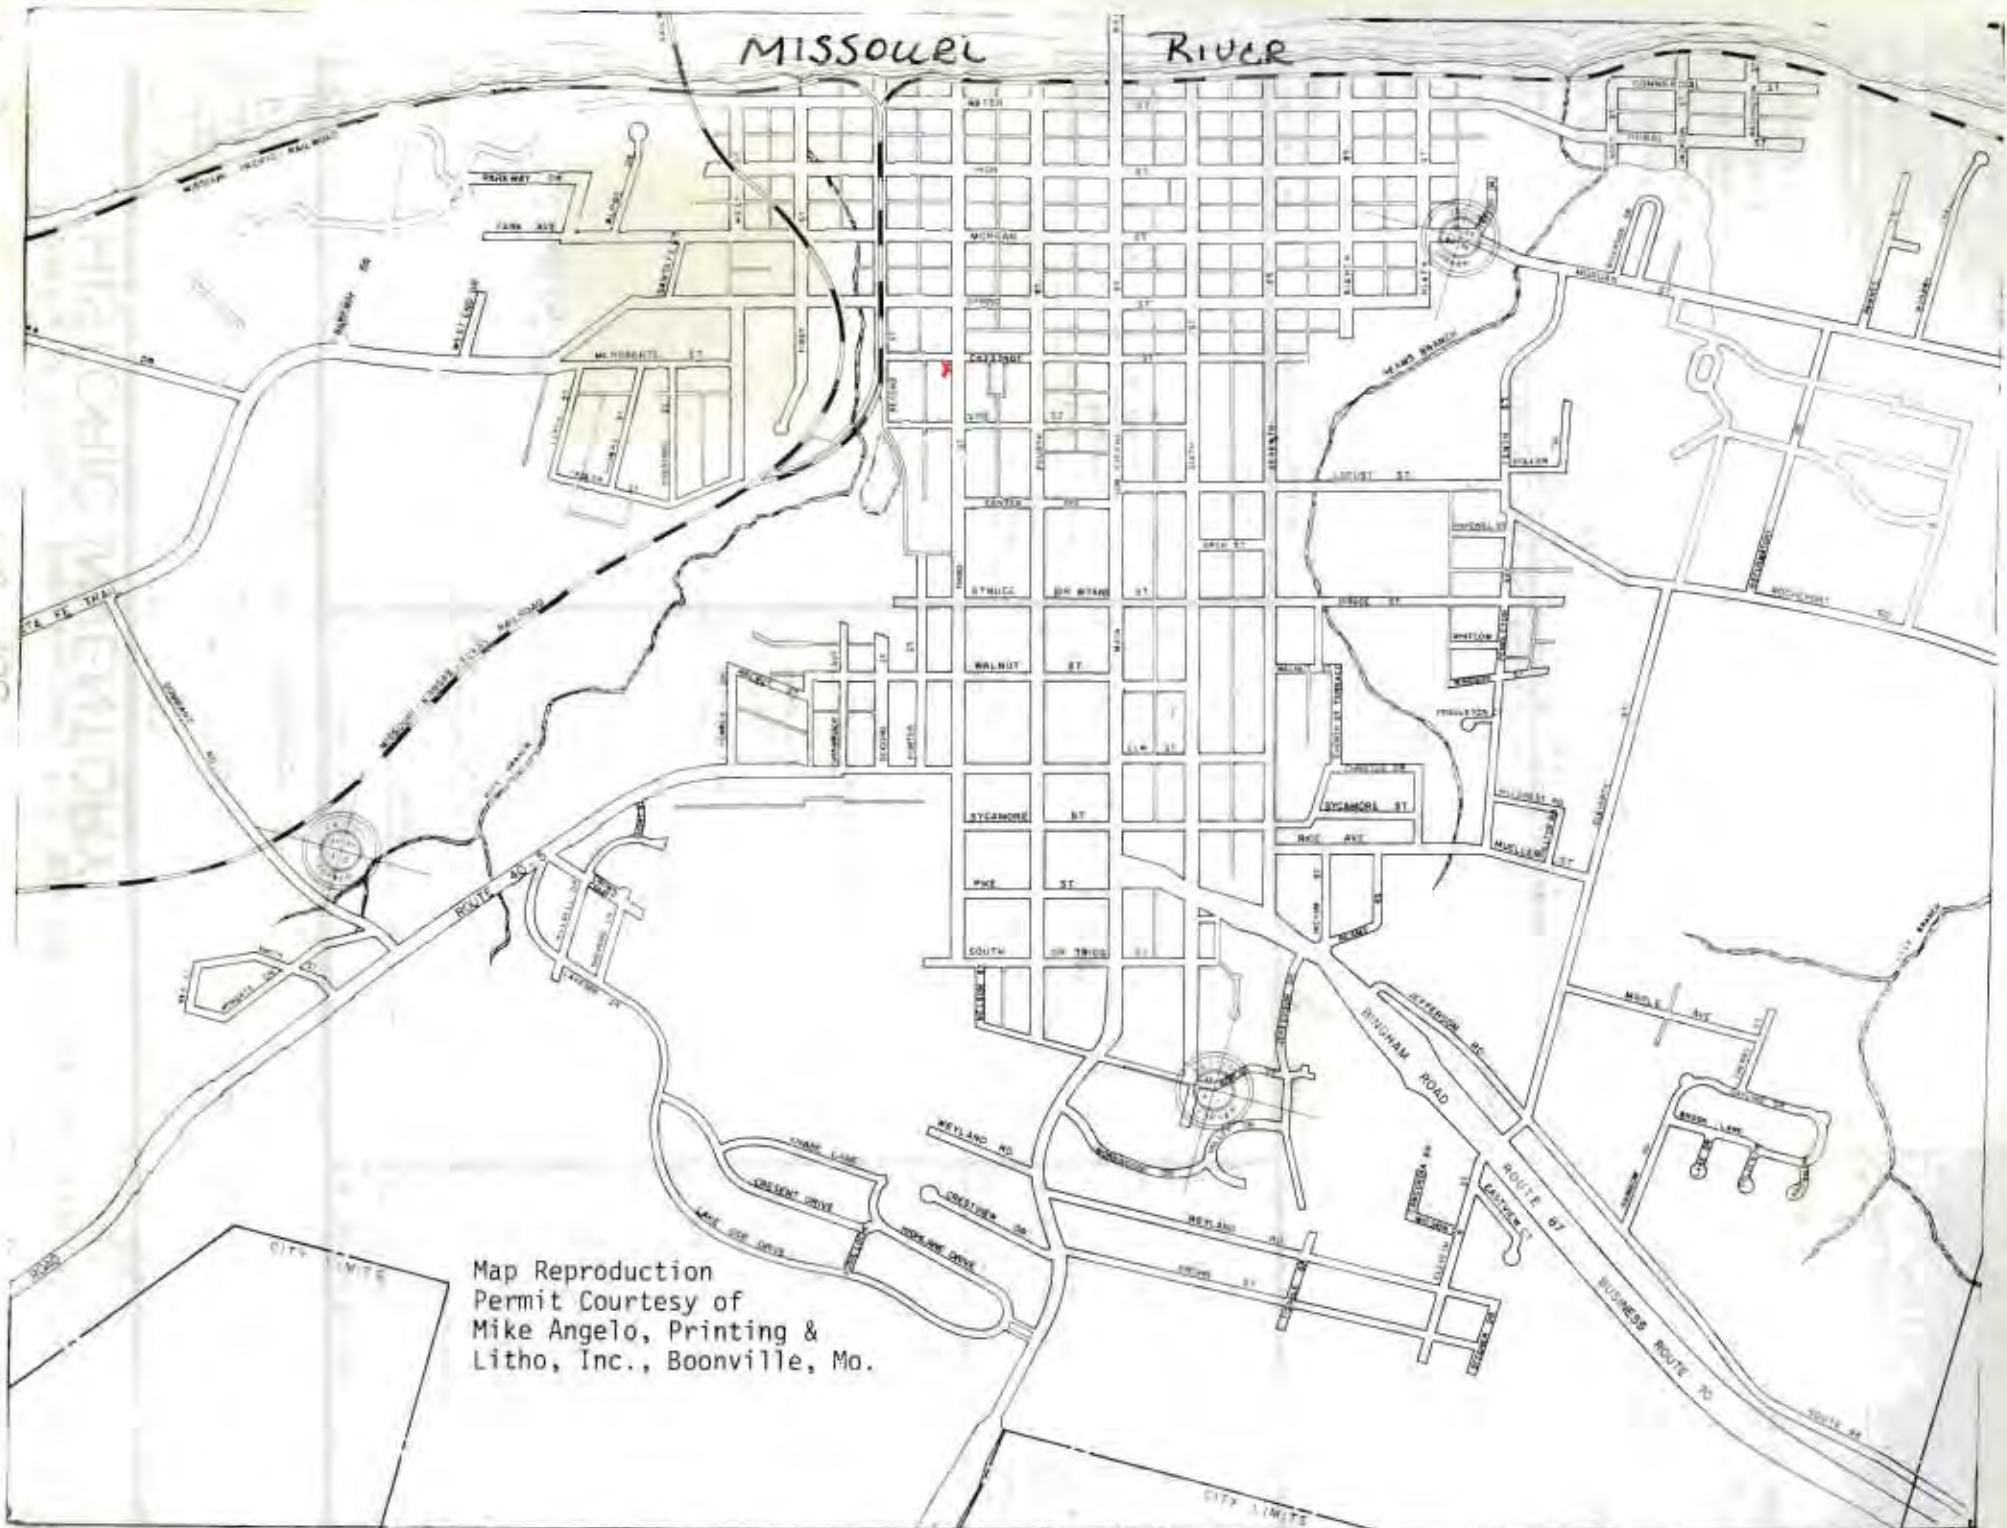

43 History and Significance Structure was the residence of C.M. Journey as of 1912. Journey, a lawyer, was elected mayor and was in office in 1919. His daughter, Bessie Journey-Buckley, next resided in the structure. A later owner was Robert E. Maddex (c. 1968), president of the Boonville Equipment Company. The present owner is employed at the area Vocational School. The rear deck dates from this ownership.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto 3rd. St. It sits at the SW corner of Chestnut and 3rd. Streets, with 2 drives off Chestnut. An irregular stone retaining wall is on the N side and across the rear. A partial fence is on N side.

42 Further Description of Important Features The roof features hip dormers, and caps a 2 story porch to the W, which has molded concrete block columns and frame balustrades. The 1st story of the primary facade has a shallow polygonal bay (N), an entrance (central), an entrance to the 2nd. story (S). Windows are 1-over-1. On the N is a shallow 2 story porch integral to the hip roof and repeating the motifs of the front porch. Encircling the structure is a string course of vertical paneling which is located between the stories.

43 History and Significance

Previous owners include the Burnt sisters, who ran a high class millinery shop uptown.

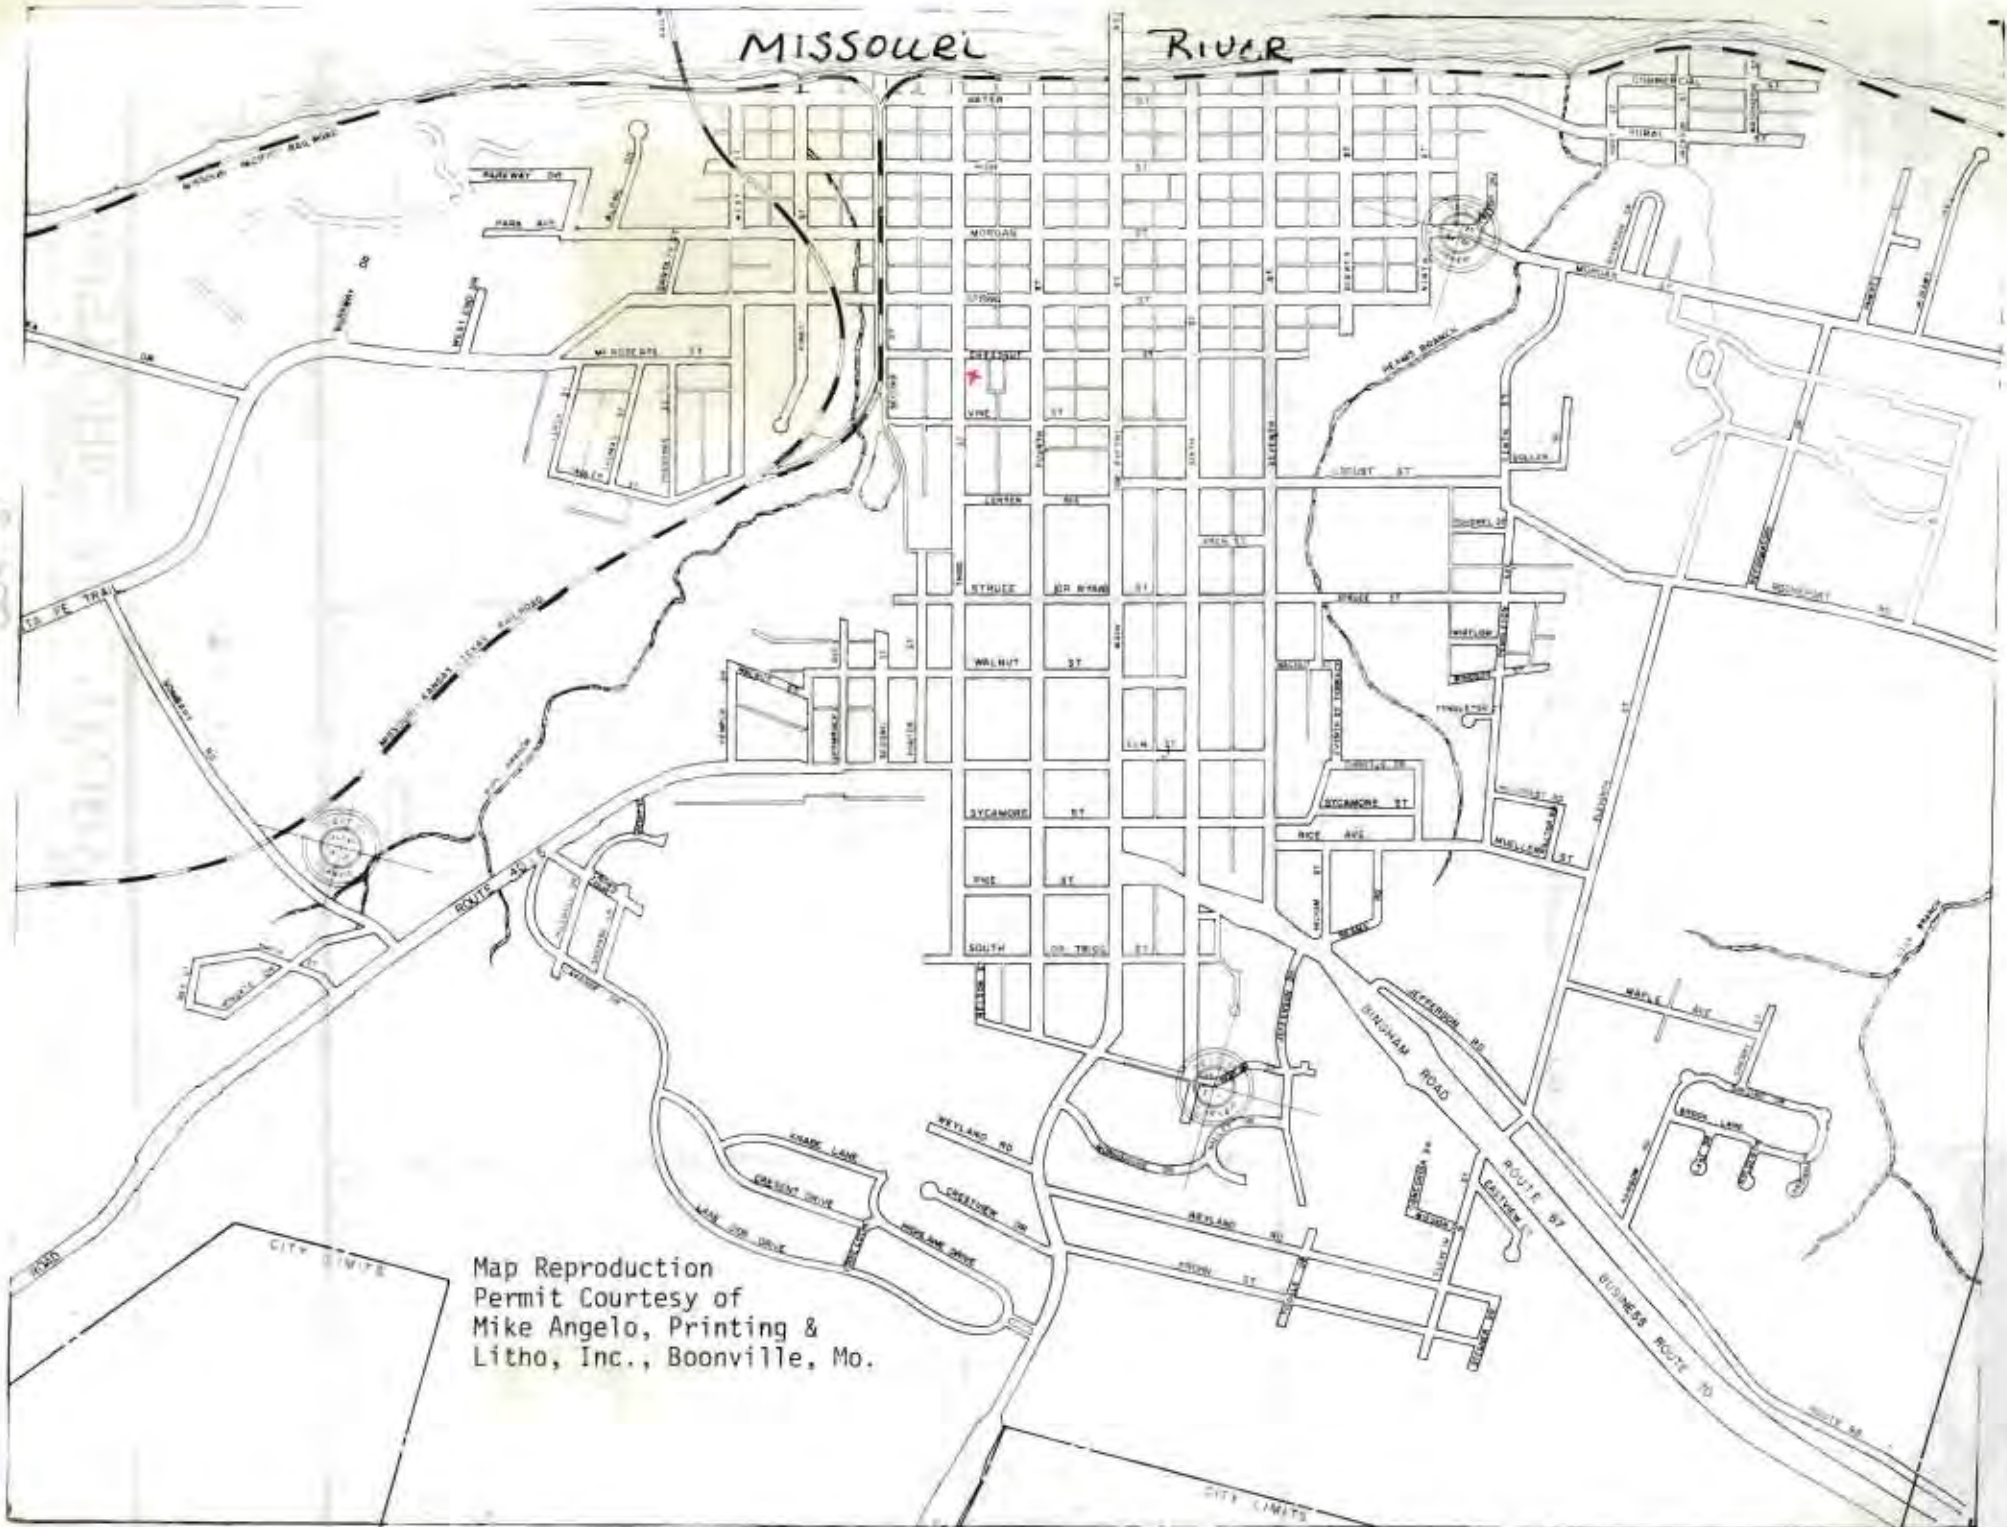

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on a high embankment facing W onto 3rd. St. There is a molded concrete block garage at street level at the NW corner of the property.

42 Further Description of Important Features Echoing the small "tudor" cottage, the structure's primary facade (W) has an arched entrance (N) which has an eyebrow canopy supported by brackets with ball pendants, a central chimney and a gabled bay (S) with a 3 part window. Windows are 3-over-1 with soldier surrounds and corbelled rowlock sills. Gable ends N & S have asbestos sheathing. A soldier course lintel course at the base-ment level forms a watertable around the structure. On the W is a garage at the basement level. On the E is a gable brick (see attached)
43 History and Significance Oral history relates that the structure was built for the residence of Mr. & Mrs. Walter Bantrup by Randolph and Quint, contractors, in 1936.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There is a frame pent roofed garage and shed along the E alley. The residence faces W onto 3rd. Street. There is a concrete drive from 3rd. which gives access to the basement garage.

The original 1845 structure is located at the SE corner of the present complex of buildings. It had a gable roof running N to S, a 5 bay primary facade with 6-over-6 shuttered windows. The 1st floor was for the family, the 2nd. story included Mr. Kemper's bedroom SW corner, a small recitation room at the SE corner and the remaining space was used as a large classroom. This 2nd. story was reached by an outside stair on the (see attached)
43 History and Significance Frederick T. Kemper a native of Virginia began his Kemper Family School in Boonville in 1844 with 5 students. From 1856-61 Kemper left the school to be a professor at Westminster College in Fulton, Mo. Returning to Boonville in 1861 he reopened the school, and continued as its president until 1881. During that time the school continued its growth and was known at various times as the "Boonville Male Boarding School, Male Collegiate Institute, and the Kemper & Taylor's School in 1862 when it also admitted (see attached sheet)		44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings This complex of buildings is in a U-shape which has its primary facade on the E facing Third Street. 42. (cont.) W. In 1851 and at an approximate cost of $3000, "B" Barracks was built as an ell extending to the W at the NW corner of the main block. It was a 2 story structure, enclosing the exterior stair and containing a hall and a large classroom at each level. In 1866 a 1 story detached school room was constructed to the N of this ell. An ornate 2 story brick section was added to the N of the main block in 1872. Built on a 2/3rds plan, it had a bracketed cornice, segmentally arched stone lintels over the attenuated, shuttered windows, and a balcony extending across the front of the 2nd story. The entrance, S bay of the 3 bay primary facade E, was inset into an ornate trabeated surround with pilasters and dentils in the entablature. It was 2 bays deep with a 1 story polygonal bay to the S. By 1885 "B" Barracks had been enlarged by 2 story and 1 story sections to the N and another 2 story ell, extending to the W from the original block and S of the 1851 addition, had been built. Growth continued, and in 1888 a new gymnasium was built to the W of the detached school room. Considerable additions and alterations were taking place, and by 1892 the front facade changed by the addition of a 3 story brick section to the N called "C" Barracks and the addition of a 3rd story over the 1872 section. The original block was also severely altered at this time by the addition of a 2 story polygonal bay at its NW corner and a 2 story circular tower, with ogie roof and finial at the SE corner. The roofline changed to a mansard roof with pressed metal block panels, iron ridge cresting, pedimented dormers, and brackets at the roofline. Windows now have segmentally arched headers. The 2 ells to the W were reworked to form a complete, integral 2 story block unit. The 1 story addition to "B" Barracks was razed. An L-shaped porch now joined the gym to "B" Barracks on the interior space formed by the now U-shaped complex. In 1897 "C" Barracks was enlarged by a new 2 story brick section extending to the W and incorporating the 1 story detached school room. This joined the 1888 gym to the W and completed the U-shaped complex to the N. In 1904 the S section of the complex was extended by the addition of a 3 story dining room and hall to the W, a 3rd story over the "B" Barracks, and a 1 story addition across the S facade of this side of the U.

A general view of the exterior of the building indicates a variety of style and periods of growth, yet the structure retains an integral coordinated appearance. This exterior features, on its primary facade, the original block as altered and discussed above and the central section as discussed with its new 3rd story which continues the motifs of the later N section which has a projecting rectangular bay which at one time had an entrance. Alterations between 1896 and 1905 changed it to a coupled window. The 1st stories of the 1872 and 1892 sections have stone segmentally arched hoodmolds. The 2nd stories have corbelled brick straight-side arched hoodmolds, and the 3rd stories have rowlock segmentally arched headers. The primary entrance is now at the 1872 original entrance, but the ornate surround is missing and a concrete name plate caps this bay. It has a concrete stoop. These 2 sections are capped by a hipped, red tile roof. The N facade (1897) section continues this hip roof and red tile motif. It has a raised 1 story, 1 bay porch with molded concrete block columns. There is a circular 2½ story tower with a concrete roof and a 2 story rectangular bay with a gable roof which has a sunburst pattern. Attenuated 1st story and small 2nd and 3rd story windows in this section have soldier course headers and stone lug sills. The 1888 Gym, now a library, is a 1 story hip roofed structure with segmentally arched windows and an entrance with transom and sidelights on its W facade.

The S facade of the S section of the complex has 3 entrances. The eastern one is a later porch with an arched vestibule, a central one now not used with a basement entrance below it, and one at the SW corner which sits at an angle and has a classical entablature and frame piers with doric columns. The 1 story section has a corbelled brick cornice and coupled windows with segmentally arched headers. The 2nd and 3rd story windows are exposed above and repeat the headers.

The interior courtyard is raised and reached by a ramp with flanking steps from the W, and from doors to all buildings on its other facades. Along the S, E, & E ½ of the N facades is a 1 story frame porch with brackets at the eaves.

The floor plans included are from the 1905 Catalogue illustrating the interior spaces at a period when the additions and alterations were complete. Second and third floor spaces remain much the same today. The 1st floor is now devoted to administrative office space with the dining room now serving as a staff lounge and alumni area, and the assembly hall and laboratory now housing the library facilities. The additional plan is taken from the outline of the 1905 plan and shows the series of additions and alterations.

43. (cont.) female students. Col. T.A. Johnston, who succeeded Kemper (1881-1928), changed the name to Kemper Military School. In 1928 Col. A.M. Hitch, son-in-law of Johnston, took over as superintendant until 1949. In 1957 the privately owned institution was re-organized on a not-for-profit basis. Continuing its long history as a family oriented military school, Kemper is the oldest boy's school west of the Mississippi. The school once again, as in 1862, is now admitting female students.

The Administration Complex is significant historically and architecturally on a local and state level as the key structure of the school and an integral part of the quadrangle of the old campus area.

42 Further Description of Important Features This large 2 story rectangular building has 1 story ell to the SW which is the pool annex, built in 1925. The primary facade faces E and is embellished by a central projecting raised portico with 6 stone, 2 story ionic columns which have an egg and dart molding in their capitals and support a heavy entablature with a dentil course. At the wall surface are 6 stone pilasters. Above the entablature is a stone balustrade with squat corner columns. The 3 central bays protected by this portico include (see attachment)
43 History and Significance See school history from Kemper Administration Complex data sheet. It was built during Col. T.A. Johnston's administration, he was known as "the builder of school".
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings This structure faces E onto 3rd. street and sits at the corner of 3rd. and Spruce streets. Porter street runs NS along the pool annex then turns E at a right angle and runs along the field house to join 3rd. street. 2. (cont.) attenuated windows with a stone sill course at the 2nd. story, and double doors & double transoms on the 1st. story. Secondary framing members divide most doors, transoms, and windows into smaller panes surrounding a larger central pane. Flanking this portico on the 2nd. story is a grouped window bay which includes 3 windows with a header course and lug sills. Above the header course are 3 semi-circular arches bricked in, but having ornate keystones. Complementing windows on the 1st. story are rectangular with no headers, but stone lug sills.

The N facade includes 2 rectangular projecting bays 1 at each end and extending through the basement and the 2 stories above. Each has a crenilated parapet wall with concrete copings. Decorative brickwork on this parapet wall forms a diamond pattern with small stone diamonds at each point. The wall surface is embellished with stone header and sill courses, brick pilasters with a decorative stone molding and brick buttresses which extend  $3/4$  up the the pilasters and have stone caps, and a corbelled brick cornice. Fenestration includes rectangular windows divided into small panes and large windows topped by semi-circular arched windows at the 2nd. story level. Located centrally is a 3 bay polygonal bay which begins at the exposed basement level and extends through the 1st. story. It repeats the decorative motives of the end bays, and contains the entrance into the basement level, which is a set of double doors with a large semi-circular transom which repeats the window motifs. A flat roof canopy supported by brackets and chains protects this entrance. At the basement level on the W bay, windows are bricked in and there is a double door with transom.

The S facade repeats the N facade with 2 exceptions: there is no central entrance or polygonal bay and the pool annex extends from the SW corner of the main structure. This annex is 1 story and repeats the architectural motifs of the field house on a smaller scale: crenilated parapets, arched windows, pilasters and buttresses, and stone belt courses. This annex extends to the S and has its entrance at the NE corner where it joins the main building. It, too, repeats the portico motif with the use of engaged ionic columns with an entablature surrounding double doors which have a transom and sidelights.

On the W facade of this structure, the basement is fully exposed. The pool annex extends slightly beyond the wall surface. Architectural motifs are repeated, but simplified: the stone belt course continues but becomes a brick soilder course with a brick stretcher course projecting above. The central section has a crenilated gabled parapet wall with copings and an ornately corbelled cornice below. Windows have lug sills but no headers except those at the arched windows. There is a 1 story rectangular projecting bay located centrally at the basement level which has an entrance to the S.

Interior spaces include a large indoor track area and shooting range in the basement level. The main floor is divided into 2 areas: a large open gym floor 2 stories in height and a smaller section at the E end which has 1 story offices, stairways, and bleachers located at the 2nd. story.

44. (cont.) An asphalt drive and parking area are immediately to the W of the structure.

Flanking this projecting bay is a parapet wall with a corbelled cornice which extends around the E and S facades as well.

On the E facade there are 5 bays with 3-over-3 double hung windows grouped in 3's at each story. These are flanked by brick pilasters which end at the ornate corbelled cornice. This cornice is capped by a concrete coping and includes both a dentil and sawtooth course. A concrete water table sets off the basement level which is only partially exposed on this facade. Its fenestration is also 5 bay, but with windows paired except in the most southern bay which has 5 windows. The basement has indented string courses.

The S facade repeats the same architectural motifs at the basement and cornice level. On the 1st. floor is a door with a transom and sidelights, which opens onto a small concrete and brick porch with a wrought iron balustrade. Above the door is paired 2nd. story windows. Flanking walls are inset and blank. At the basement level a door is protected by the brick base of the 1st story porch.

On the W facade there is no parapet wall. Brick pilasters flank the 5 bays of windows, grouped in 3's, which appear on the basement and above 2 stories.

The primary facade (W) has 3 story rectangular projecting bays N & S. The 1st story has a double rowlock segmentally arched opening with a keystone, the 2nd & 3rd. are rectangular openings, all are screened in porches. The bays are capped by gables with a half-timber effect and open rafters. The center section has the entrance which(see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance Listed on the 1929 Sanborn as "Flats". This 3 story brick and stucco structure is a duplicate of the "metropolitan style" apartment building. Modeled after a style that appears in Kansas City, it cost $25,000 to erect and contains 6 apartments with 4 rooms and a bath. Original plans included the building of garages but apparently these never materialized. Mrs. C.H. Collins, who built the building managed the apartments personally.(cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure appears to be a composite of early additions and alterations, all done before 1900. The roofline is very irregular and features a bracketed frame cornice. The primary facade has a raised 1st story with a rectangular projecting bay with a truncated hip roof with cresting to the N. The openings have segmentally arched lintels. This bay is repeated to the S except here a hip roof intersects the original gable. Between these bays is a frame porch with chamfered columns. The entrance retains (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Structure was the residence of H.R. Eagar, a downtown tinner and stove dealer, c. 1860's-1880's.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment facing W onto 3rd. St. There are no outbuildings, however there is a concrete foundation remaining on the NE corner of the property. An alley is to the E.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure appears to have been altered c 1917, when it received the Bungalow affinities and the stucco. It has pent dormers N & S and a gable dormer W; all are sheathed with pressed tin. The eaves have open rafters. A porch on the W is supported on battered columns. Windows are 2-over-2 and trabeated. The entrance has side lights. Extending to the E is a 1 story gable ell with a pent addition E & S and a pent roofed enclosed porch.
43 History and Significance Present owners have resided here since c. 1970. Prior to that the house was owned for a number of years by R.M. Strutz, president of the Phoenix-American Corn Cob Pipe Works. Mrs. Olla Key was a long time resident during Strutz's ownership. Previous to Strutz the house was owned and resided in by the Eugene Garr family (1920's-30's). Eugene Garr was a watchmaker who worked for Gmelich & Schmidt for many years.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto 3rd. Street. There is an alley and a vertical board and batten, gable roofed garage to the E.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is basically capped by a hip roof which is accented by gabled wall dormers with fan windows on each facade. The irregular (E) primary facade's N bay has an entrance with a projecting chamfered bay and wall dormer above; the S bay repeats these motifs but the chamfered bay is on the 1st story & the entrance with balcony is at the 2nd story. There is a small gable peak over this S bay. This facade has a 1 story hip roofed porch supported on paired doric columns. It has a pediment over the entrance bay. The 2nd (cont.)

43 History and Significance The original owner of this late Queen Anne style residence was Major Harris C. Johnson, manager of athletics and quartermaster at Kemper Military School. The Johnston Field House located at Kemper ½ block away was named after his father, Col. T.A. Johnston, a longtime superintendent of the school. Subsequent owners of the residence have been Herman Niemeyer, Don Wilson, O.L. Henderson, Sr. and Jr.<sup>1</sup> The present owners are in the process of restoring the house to its original condition. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto 3rd St.. A concrete drive to the S leads to a vertical board gabled garage at the rear of the lot. In the 1930's a pent addition was added to the N to form a 2 car garage. There is a gabled frame shed at the NW part of the lot. Porter St. is to the W.

42. (cont.) story balcony repeats the doric columns. The N facade's fenestration indicates interior stairs. On the S facade is a rectangular projecting bay and frame steps leading up to the 2nd story (E) entrance. The W facade has a 1st story entrance with frame steps and an exposed basement level with a gable enclosed porch over the basement entrance. Windows are generally 1/1, attenuated and trabeated. The interior features oak millwork & flooring, a fireplace in the entrance foyer, original stair & newell, 9' ceilings. Most interior doors have transoms. There are pocket doors & french doors & the entrance doors have large beveled glass panels. Alterations include modernizing bath and adding bath at basement level & converting 2nd story to apartment. The structure is now used as a single family dwelling. A 2nd story wooden exterior stairway was removed by the present owners in 1980.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has many motifs of the style prevalent in the 20's: 4-over-1 windows, a chimney with flanking windows (S), large pent dormers (E & W), bracketed gable end (N & S) & a slightly off center entrance which is accented by sidelights. On the primary facade the 1st story porch has been screened in; the 2nd story entrance has been inset to form a balcony. The SE corner features an integral porch with 2 entrances.

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure was probably built by George Boyce for rental property. An early renter was the Gowan family. It was purchased by A.F. Blanck for his residence in 1941. Blanck, who operated Blanck's Grocery from 1920-48 and served as County Assessor between 1948 and 1960. In 1971 the Blanck family heirs sold the property to the present owner, who plans to speculate on it.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment at the NE corner of 3rd and Walnut, facing W. There are concrete retaining walls to the S & W. At the SE corner of the lot is a gable roofed garage which is sheathed in composition siding. It has access from Walnut St.

42 Further Description of Important Features The 2 entrances, both with transoms are protected by a raised Eastlake porch on the NW. The S bay of this W facade is a projecting chamfered bay. Alterations to the S include a porch which has been enclosed to a room, the original brick piers are still evident, on the W side of an original gable ell. There is a S entrance. To the N is a pent porch over an entrance and transom. There is a pent addition to the E.
43 History and Significance The structure was originally built as a small hospital for Dr. C.H. van Ravenswaay and his nurse Alice Jones c. 1900. The hospital ceased operation in 1905 when it moved to the Megquire Seminary building on the corner of 7th and Locust Streets. The structure was then converted to a residence and Alice Jones and her sister Margaret resided within. The structure was later converted to a duplex. The porch on the S. was closed in after 1970.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto 3rd. Street. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure associated with the cellar has been razed leaving only a hollow basement area. The exterior sides of the entrance still retain brick for the basement walls and this outside facade measures approx. 20'. The entrance is 3'2" wide and gives way to a 5' wide stair which extends 13'9" to a 4' landing & the cellar. This stair area has a brick barrel vaulted ceiling, stone walls with side niches, and stone steps. The cellar door, which has a segmentally arched lintel , is approx. 6'9" in height and retains (cont.)
43 History and Significance The wine cellar is associated with the residence of Edward P. Swan, a horticulturist (vintner), who was in operation prior to 1869. In the 20th century it was the residence of a Melkersman family. The last owner of the property was Jerry Pulliam. The structure was razed in c. 1970. The present owner has future plans to develop the 18 acres on which the wine cellar is located.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Originally associated with a residence, the cellar now is located independently. It is reached by an alley to the N. Newer residences and trailers are to the E & N, a large garage is to the W, rolling terrain and the old city cemetery is to the S.

The double leaf entrance has concrete steps and an awning. Windows in the raised basement have segmentally arched, double rowlock headers. The S facade has 2-over-2 segmentally arched windows. A 2 car open carport built of wood post with a corrugated roof projects to the S. The N facade is obscured by the addition of a pent roofed concrete block (see attached sheet)

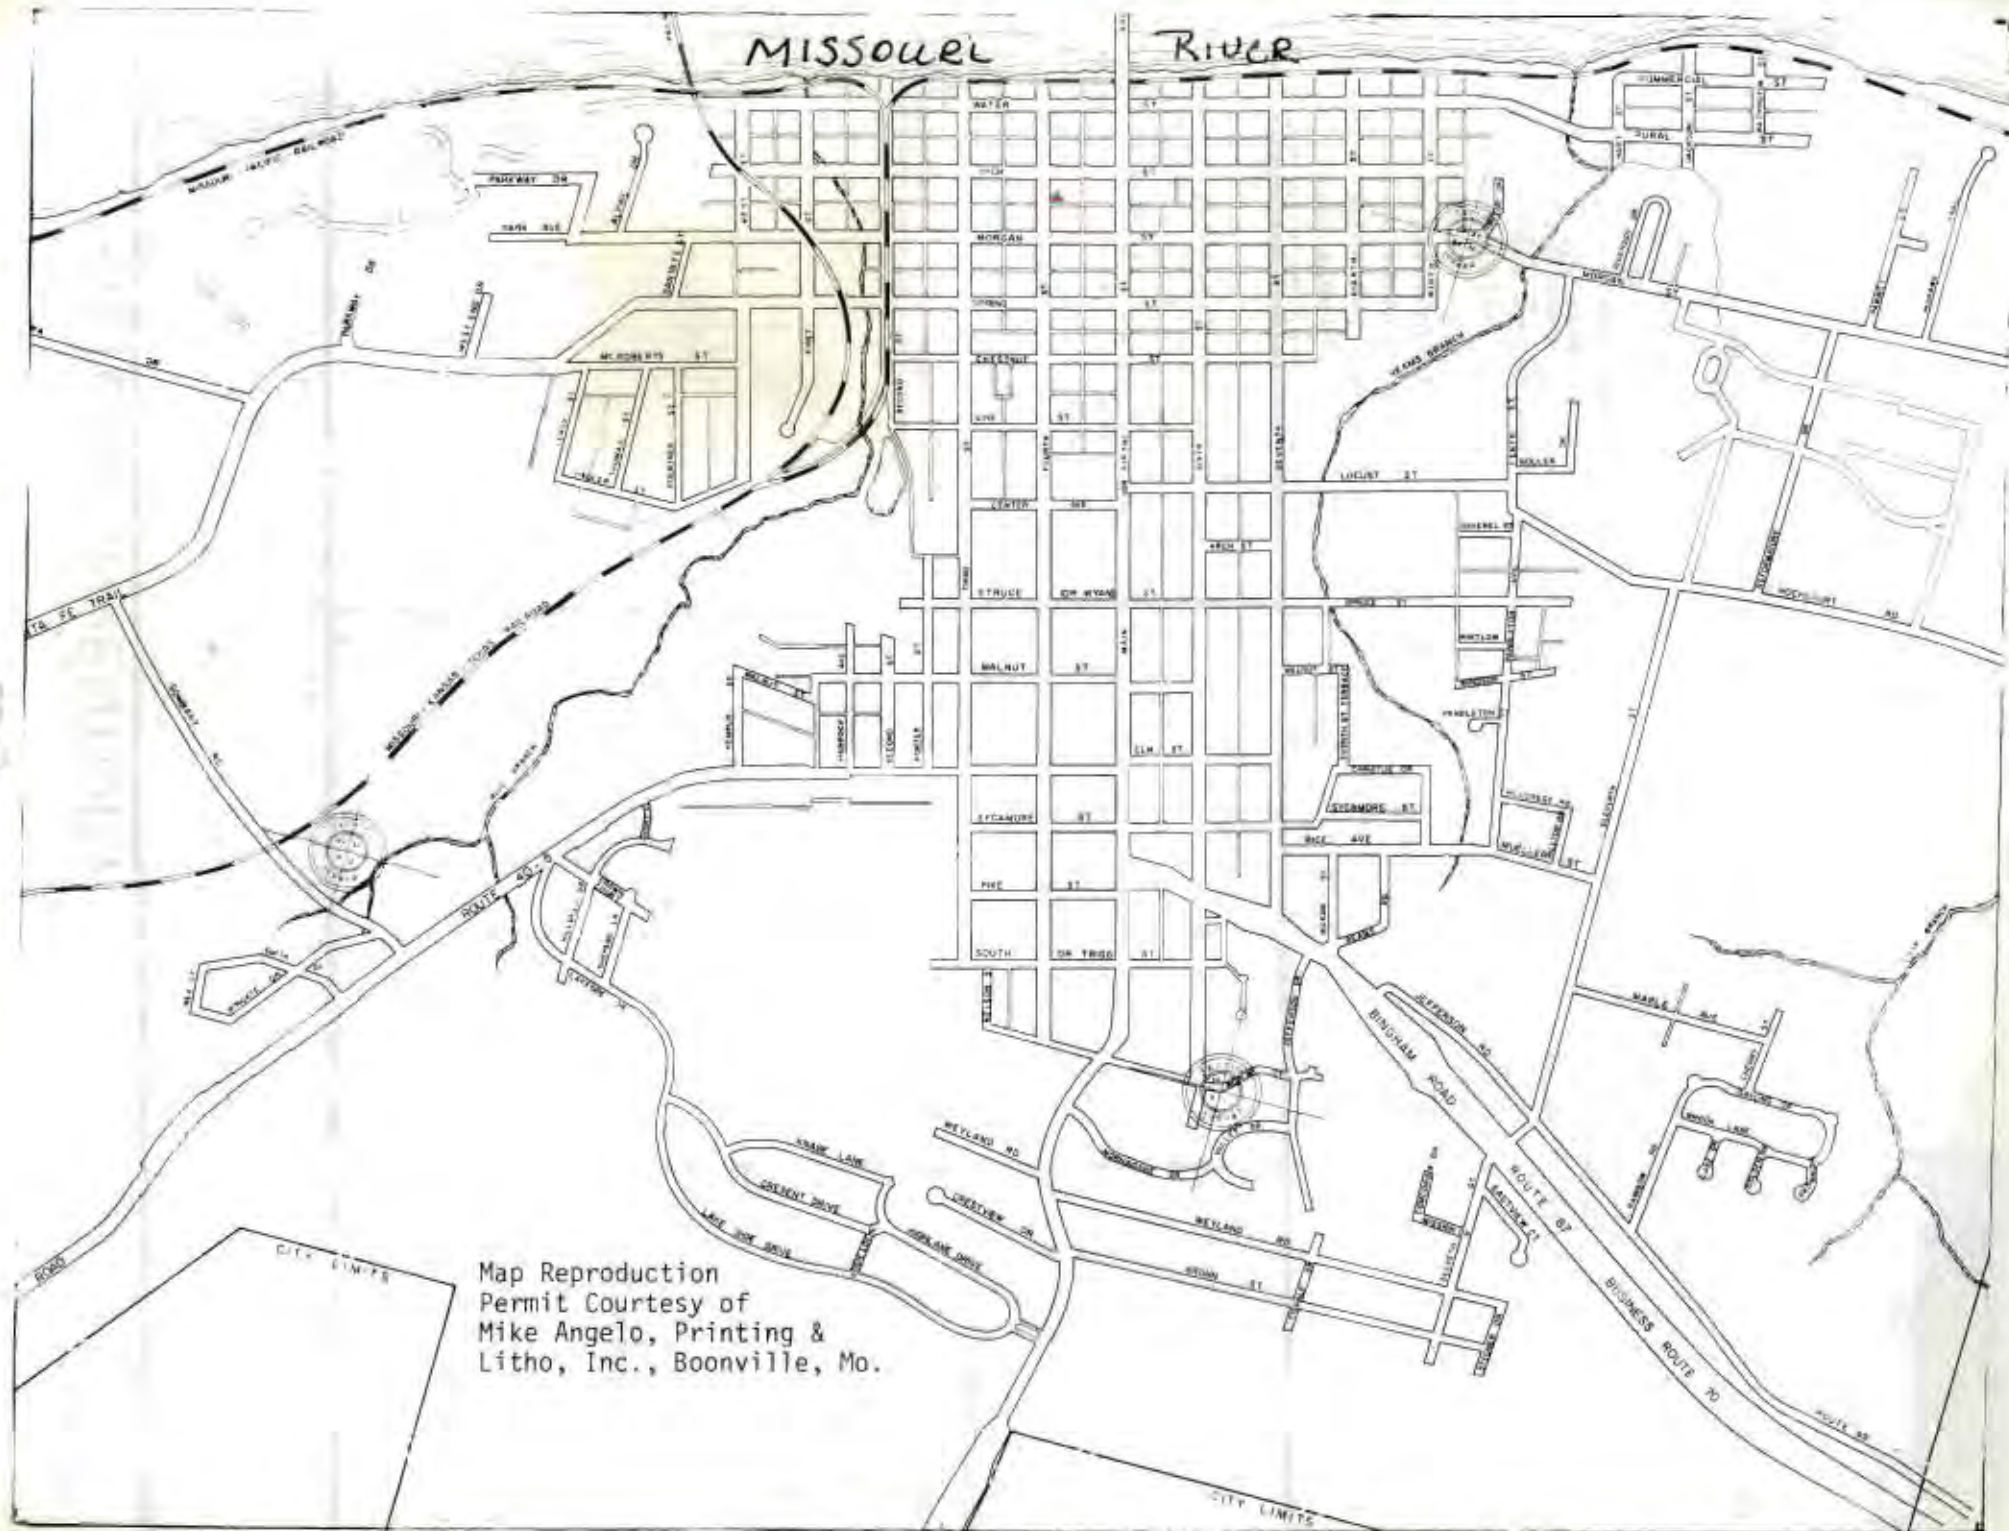

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure remained as a carpenter shop at least til 1929, and was situated at the rear of J.J. Walther's residence. J.J. Walther designed and built many storefronts in and around Boonville including the Gmelich and Schmidt Jewelry Co. stained glass canopy, 309 Main and stained glass front of the Miller's Drug Store, 309 Main, no longer in existence. The present business has been at this location for a number of years.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto 4th. Street. An alley is to the S., a concrete drive is to the N, and a gravel drive is on N, E, & S.

42 Further Description of Important Features The rear (N) section is the original gas station part. It retains wide eaves and large eave brackets. The openings are trabeated. There are entrances E & W, both have transoms. Brick covers the lower half; the top half is stuccoed. To the S of this section is a new brick addition. It has a S entrance and an entrance with a pent cap, a loading dock and garage door to the W. To the rear (N) of this building is a independent structure with a gable roof. It is part of the original (see attached sheet)		Photo
43 History and Significance In 1885 the area dropped off sharply from the street level and a livery was at this corner. It was listed as "Rogers Livery in 1900 and 1910. A new structure was built by 1917. It was a 1½ story garage with a hip roof and having a capacity of 18 cars. In 1929 the filling station with a large canopy extending S to Morgan Street was at this site. Behind it was a brick structure with Auto Sales on the 1st and auto repairs in the basement. This building is probably a reworking of the 1917 garage. From the 1950's to 1970 (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the NE corner of 4th & Morgan. Streets. Parking lots are to the E. A gravel alley is to the N. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade has classical affinities. It has a pediment supported on 2 story concrete columns with ornate capitals. The wide entablature has a panel which reads "Christian Church", and features a dentil course which forms a belt course around the cornice of the structure. There are 3 entrances with double transoms, filled with stained glass. Flanking these bays are stained glass windows on both stories. These motifs continue around the NE corner. The N facade has an exposed basement and (see attached)

43 History and Significance The church was originally organized 12-25-1887. In 1889, the congregation built a gothic revival structure on the current site for a cost of $9,000. This structure had several additions and was destroyed by fire on March 5, 1933. The new building used the rear wall of the old building. It cost $25,000 and was dedicated on 2/18/1934. In 1953, an extensive remodeling program included the installation of 25 stained glass windows, and the rebuilding of the chancel. In 1960 the Church bought the lot to the N for the (see attached)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SW corner of 4th & Morgan Streets, facing E onto 4th. Street. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The front (E) facade exhibits a variety of typical Queen Anne features. A single hip roof dormer is centered in the roof. On the south half of the facade, a two-story porch built on low brick piers with lattice between them rises to a flat roof which begins under the eaves of the main roof. The lower level is supported by plain Doric wooden columns with a plain square balustrade. The upper porch has Queen Anne supports and balusters. Two front doors with transoms (see attached sheet)

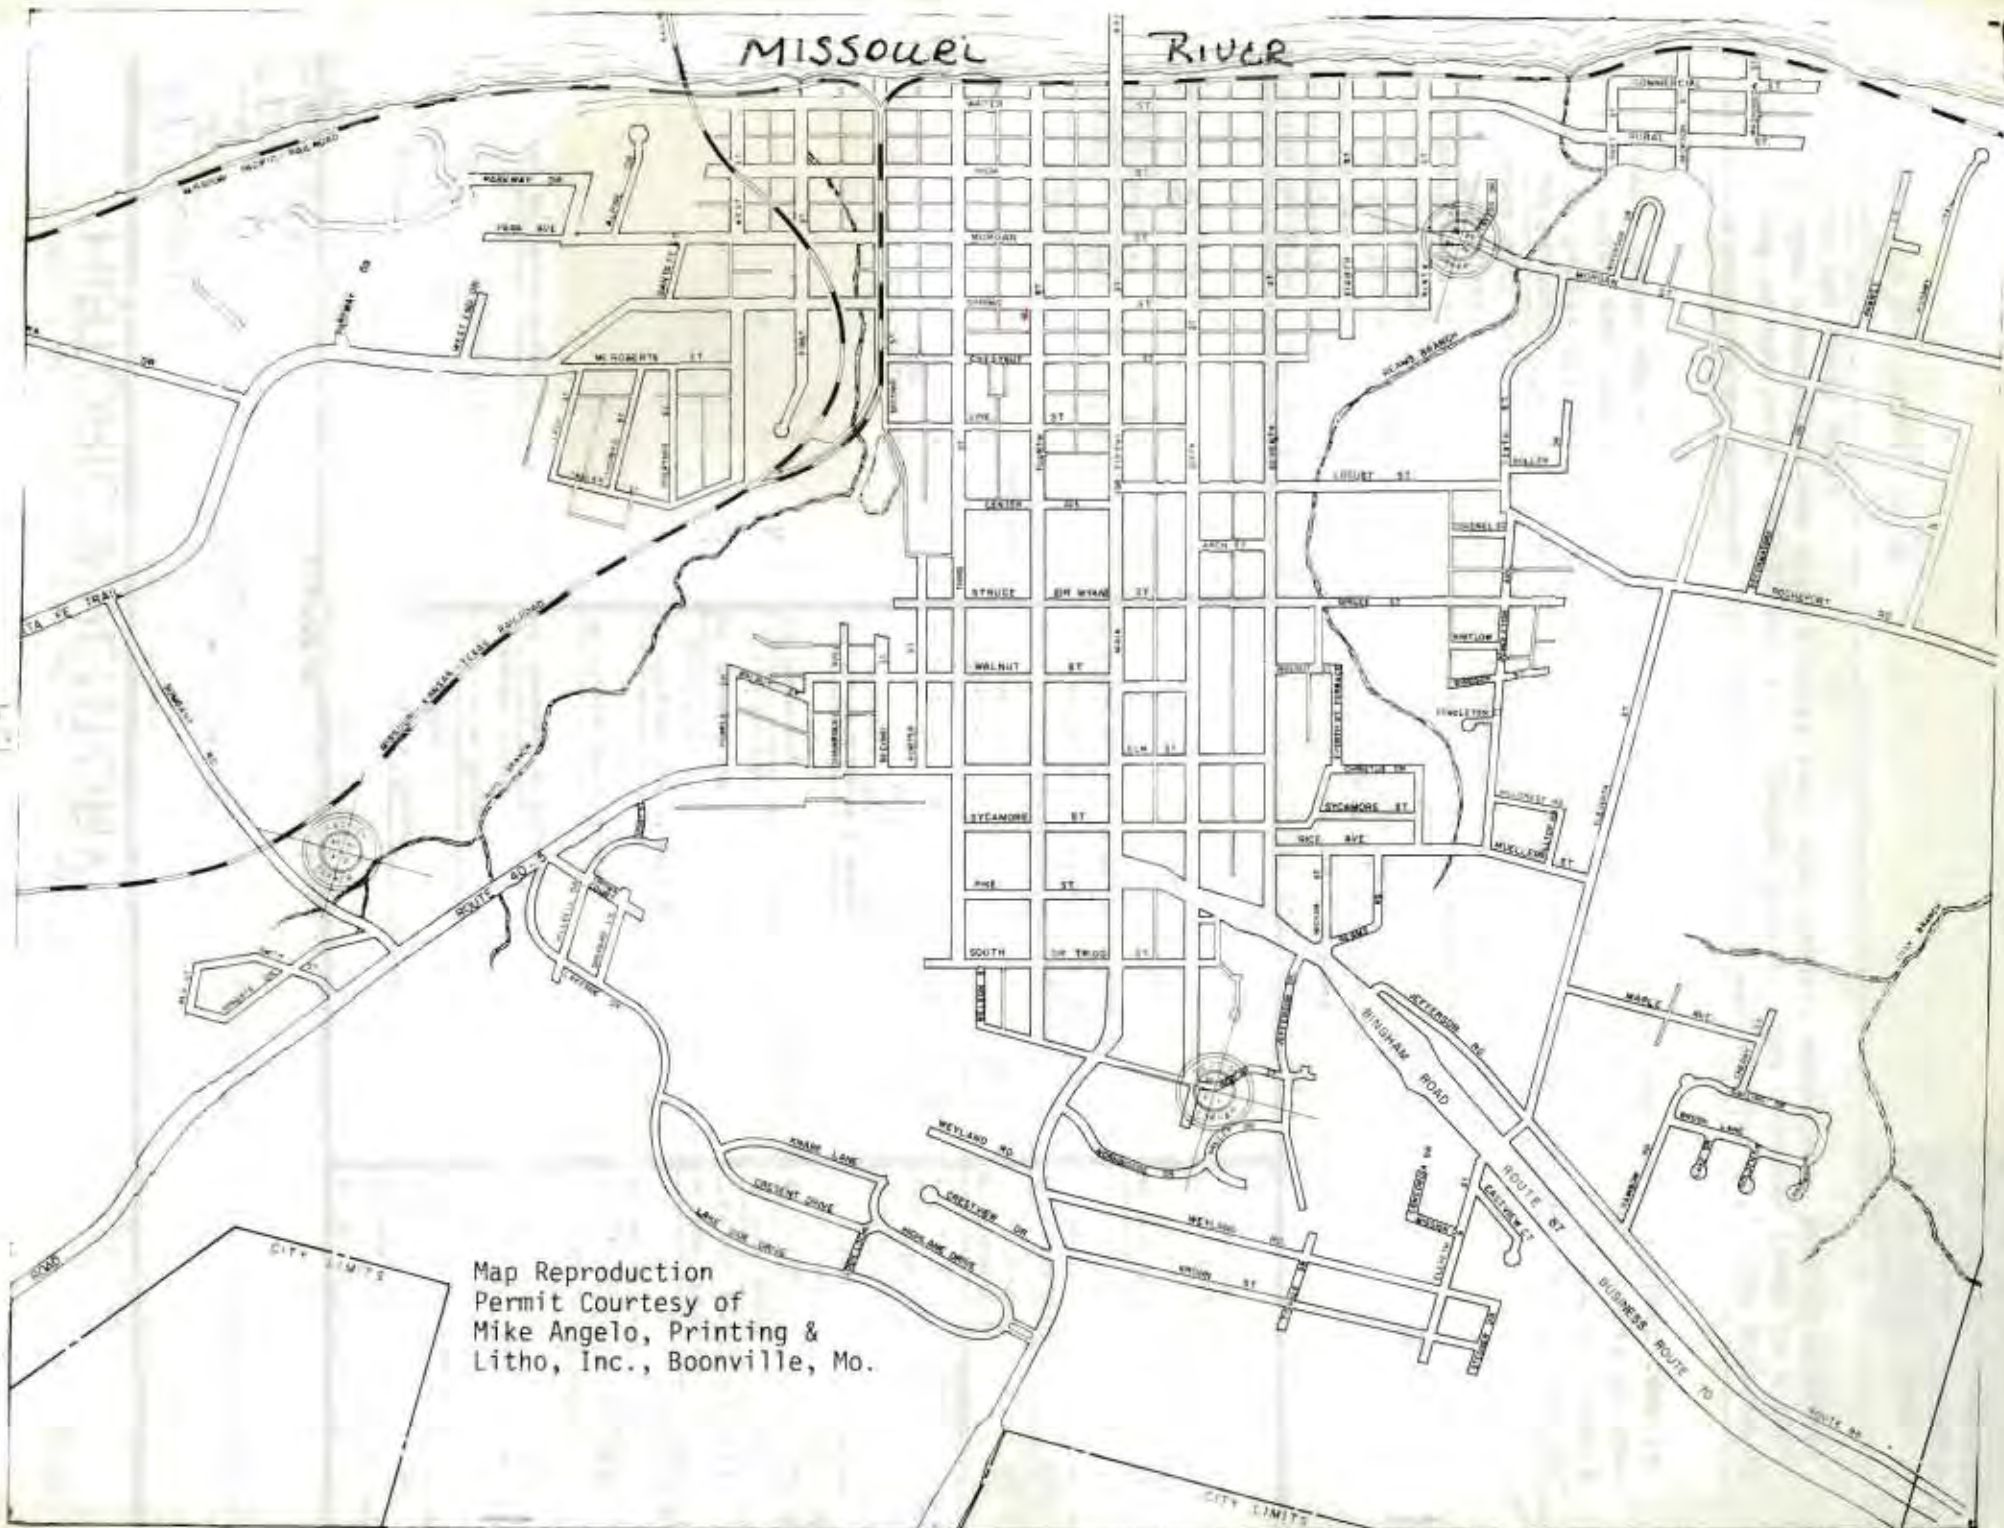

43 History and Significance Miss Hurt bought the house in 1948. Her mother was the daughter of Col. Johnston of Kemper Military School. The land upon which the house sits is a part of Hanna's addition, which ran from there to the river. This building was a duplex when owned by Margaret Hurt. Dukes operated his photography business out of the home when he first came to Boonville.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The house sits on a slightly sloping lot, with a driveway along the back of the house, giving access to Spring Street. The driveway leads to a two-car rectangular stuccoed garage with a gable roof with asphalt shingles. Asphalt shingles also decorate the north gable.

2. (cont.) open off the lower level porch, and the southernmost door was used as the entrance to the second floor apartment when the house was used as a duplex. On the upper porch, a door and a window open from a triangular bay. The northern half of the east facade is made up of a two story chamfered bay with fishscale trim dividing the stories. A one story porch with pent roof wraps around the northeast corner of the house, but the north side has been filled in to make a storage room off the front room of the house. An exterior door which opened to a little sidewalk still in existence has been closed off. A scroll bracket decorates the northeast corner under the eave, and the north facade has two more scroll brackets. A 2 story chamfered bay projects from the north facade, with fishscale trim dividing the stories. Two diamond shaped decorations with sawtooth shingles are applied to the 2nd. story wall at the northeast corner. The south facade uses the same motifs, except the diamond shape is executed in a stained glass window with a floral design. A window on the landing also has stained glass, in a seashell design, on its upper third. The fishscale trim delineates the two stories. A one story circular bay on the south facade has applied turned posts and decorative panels. At the southwest corner of the house is a square addition (now used as a bedroom) with paired windows and a belcast roof, which indicates construction soon after completion of the main house. The rear of the house has an outside stair to the basement, which has a concrete floor in the rear and dirt floor in the front portion. At the rear there are also two small one-story enclosed porches supported on brick piers with lattice. They have vertical grooved siding and plain hip roofs. The owner says that the southernmost porch opens to the landing of the backstairs to the 2nd story; he intends to remove these two porches and build one porch across the back of the house to give easier access to these stairs now that the house is a single family house again. The owner said that the house has three fireplaces: living room, dining room, and upstairs over the living room (this one closed off). The kitchen cabinets appear to be original with an old flour-bin included. The upstairs bathroom has a claw-foot tub and pedestal sink and appears to be original. Downstairs, a new tub has been installed. The house was rewired when Margaret Hurt owned it, but the plumbing is still galvanized pipe which must be replaced. The original gravity flow furnaces and some wooden duct work remain -- one heats the upstairs and one the downstairs. One gaslight remains in the basement. The owner is currently tuck-pointing the foundation. When Miss Hurt died, her heirs were not interested in her furniture or memorabilia, which passed to the Dukes with the house. The porch swing came from the Hurt residence which stood on land at the intersection of Highways 87 and 98 and which burned. Miss Hurt had a picture of that house, with the swing hanging in front of it.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built as a duplex the entrance doors are paired to the N of the E facade; interior doors are oak with dentils. Interior millwork is trabeated. There is a 1 story porch supported by 3 frame square, tapered columns with a frame balustrade on the 2nd. story. 2nd. story E facade is 3 bay with a door to the porch located centrally. On the S facade is a 1 story shallow polygonal bay. The rear W facade has 2 story wooden steps and porches. Most windows are 1-over-1. Rafters are open.
43 History and Significance This structure was built sometime between 1910 and 1917 replacing an older 1 story brick dwelling. From 1905 to 1914 this property was owned by Virginia William. From 1914 to 1941 it was owned by the Vollrath family and their heirs. A Mrs. Mary Vollrath is listed at this address in 1916. From 1941 to the present it has been a rental property owned by Benjamin F. and Lottie (Walther) Stammerjohn, who had their residence at 603 E. High St. The house sits on Lot #264 of Hannah's Addition to the City of Boonville (1840).
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There is a 2 car, brick tile, hip roofed garage to the SW of the residence. It has access to the alley to the S. There is a field stone reinforcing wall to the W along the property line. The residence faces E onto Fourth Street.

42 Further Description of Important Features The front rectangular structure has end chimneys (N&S) and small attic story windows which indicates it was probably used as a loft. The W entrance is the 3rd bay to the S and has a gable cap and shutters. Windows are generally 6-over-6 with trabeated headers and shutters. Several additions extend to the E at its N bay. There are 2 frame additions with gable roofs, a brick gabled ell which has rowlock segmentally arched headers, and a small pent frame addition. Along the S facade of these ells ( see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance The structure is significant as an early residence in its original condition and in one family for its entire existence. Oral history indicates that the structure is built of logs covered by the original clapboard. The property was purchased in 1836 by George Hain and it is believed the house was built shortly thereafter. The dates for construction of several ell additions are not known. George Hain, by 1869, was a (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits immediately on the sidewalk facing W onto 4th. Street. It also runs directly along the alley to the N. It has a large wooded, fenced lot to the S, at the NE corner of 4th. and Chestnut Streets.

42. (cont.) is a pent roofed open porch. Each frame addition has an entrance, the brick addition has 2 entrances and the last pent addition appears as enclosed porch. Some structural problems are evident in the angles of the clapboarded additions and the roof ridges. The last addition is in especially bad condition.

43. (cont.) horticulturist and since the inventory of his personal estate at the time of his death relates he owned approximately 125 gallons of wine, we may assume that he was a vintner to some degree. Deed records indicate that he owned a large tract of land east of the present day Sombart Road, transversed by the present day MKT railroad tracks. Upon his death in September 1877, his wife Sophia inherited the residence and lands; however, upon her subsequent marriage to Judge Sombart the house was given to George Hain, Jr. The structure has remained in the Hain family for its entire existence.

The structure is significant architecturally on a local level as an early log structure.

42 Further Description of Important Features Typical of the Queen Anne style, the residence has chamfered angles, an irregular roof line with gabled wall dormers to the E & W, and a 2nd. story recessed porch. On the E facade, there is a 1 story porch supported on wood doric columns; a wide entablature, and a pedimented roof over the entrance which has a transom and is inset into the N end. Windows are 1-over-1; some are paired. There is an oval stained glass window on the E facade. The W (rear) facade has a 2 story frame porch which (see attached sheet)

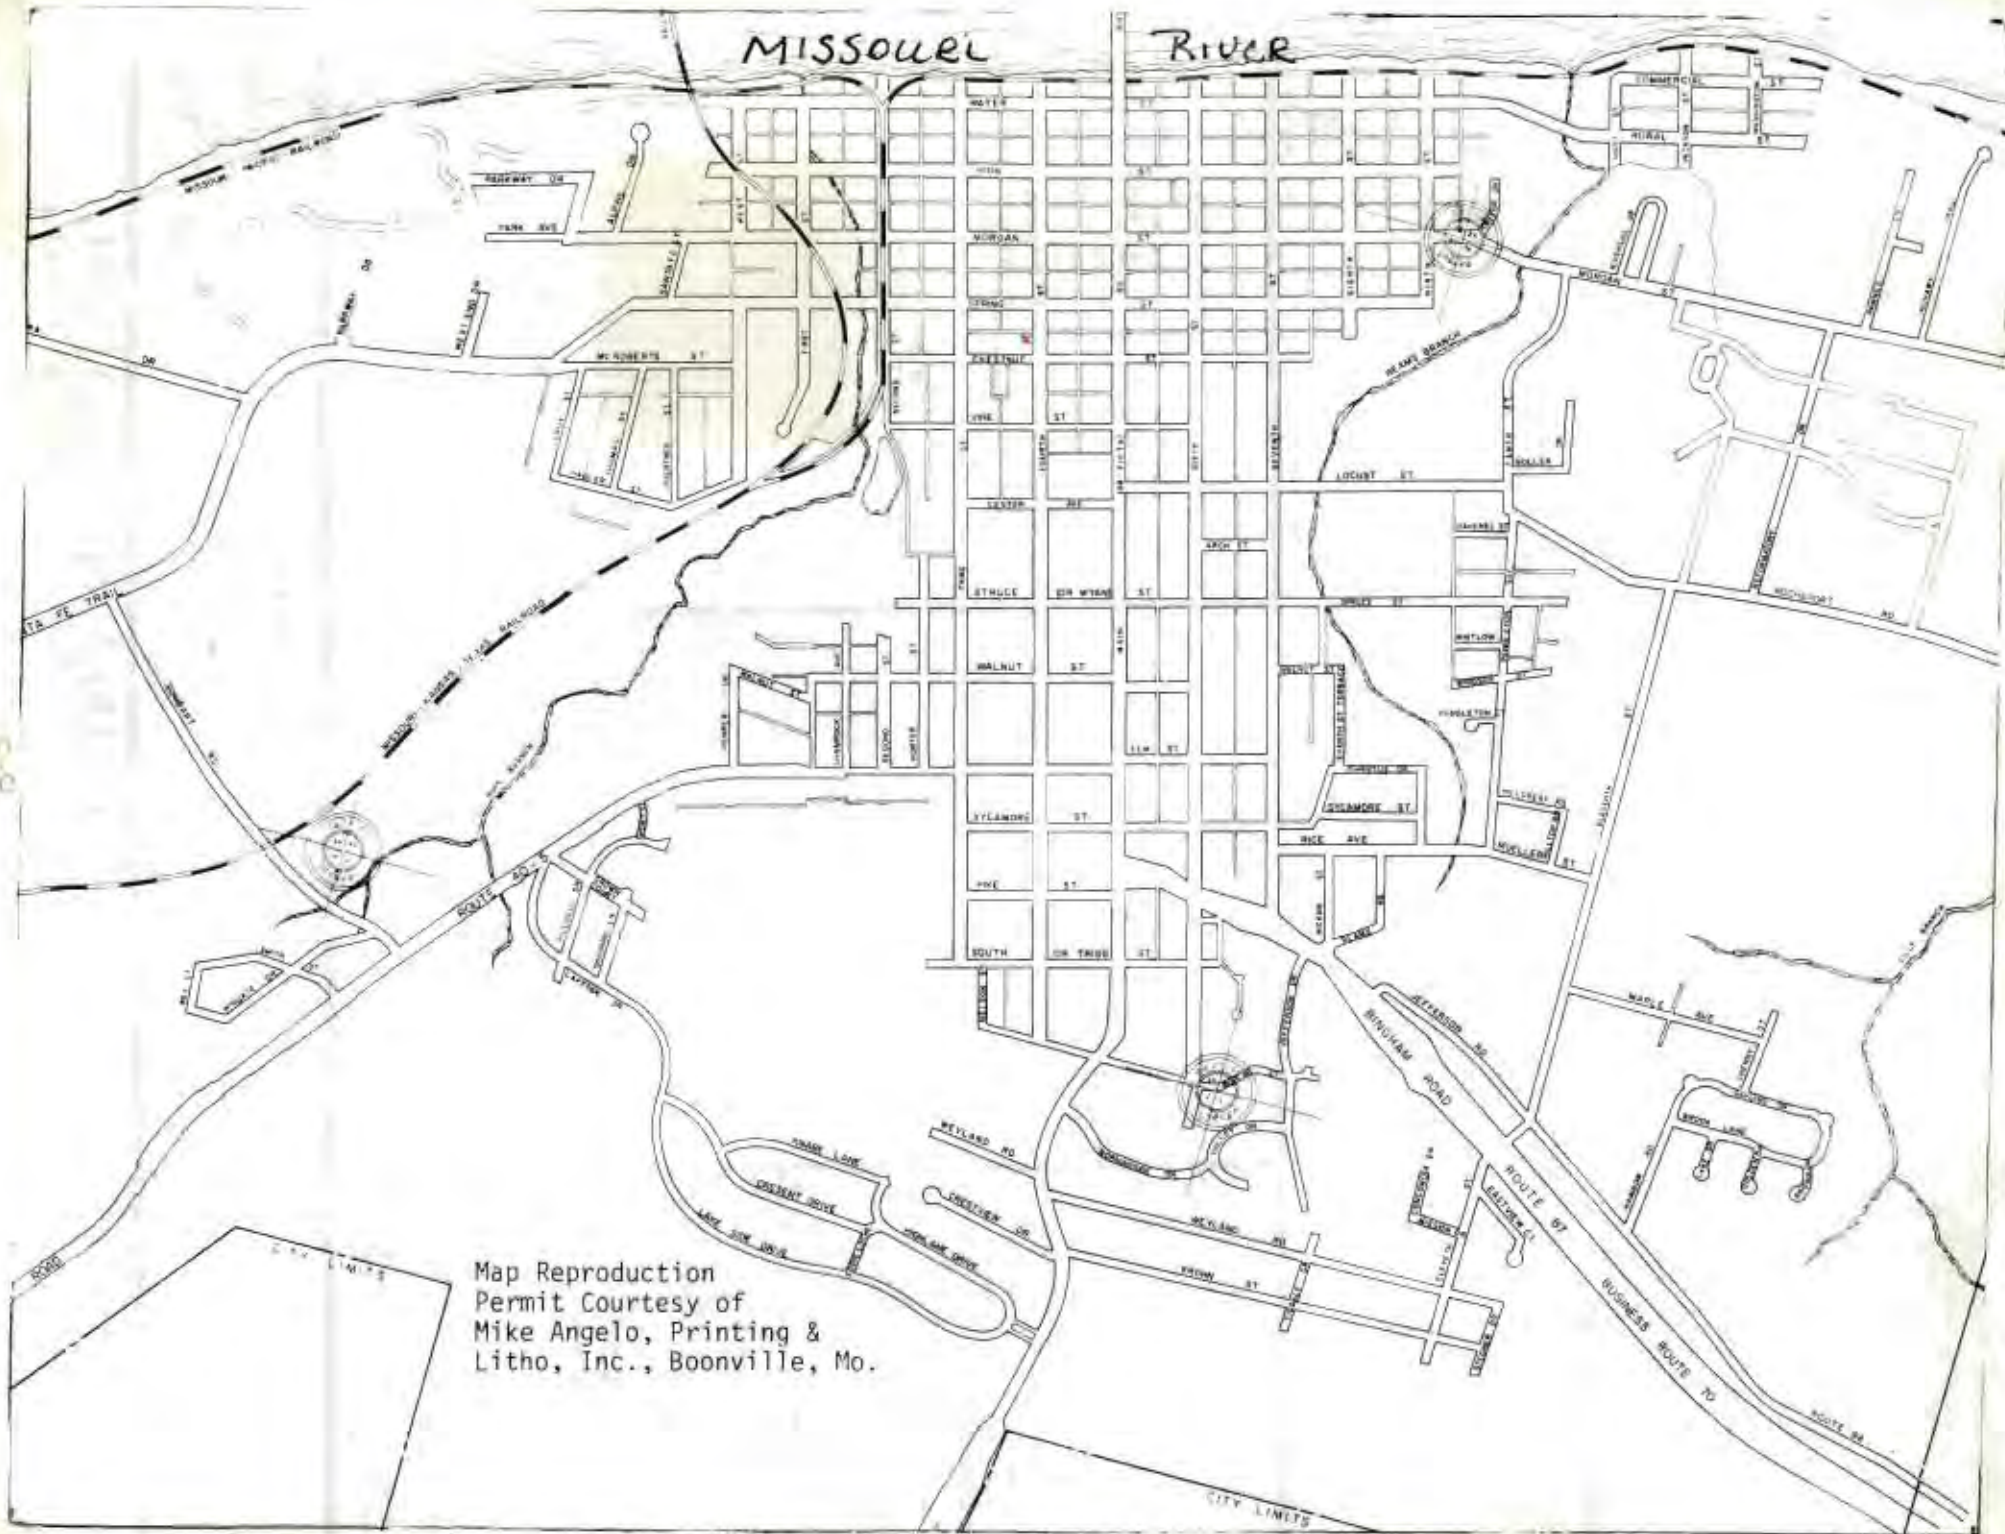

43 History and Significance Residence is one of the 1st built along that block, and was built for John A Fischer. Judge Fischer organized and was president of the Boonville Mercantile Company (1906), 501 Main Street, and was elected Cooper County Court Judge 1898-1902, presiding Judge 1914 and State Representative in 1908. His daughter Mrs. John Esser resided in the home 1915-1921. The residence was later owned by Dr. Winn, a local physician.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Faces E onto 4th. Street. Concrete drive to N with access from 4th leads to new attached hip roofed garage. To W of garage is steeply pitched hip roofed outbuilding which retains narrow clapboarding. A concrete reenforcing wall extends along the alley to the N.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade (W) and the SW corner of the structure have a series of gable peaks, a stuccoed 2nd. story with a frame half timber effect and several pointed arched openings, all lending to the tudor quality. The entrance is the northernmost bay of this facade and is placed in a stepped inset on a projecting 1 story gabled bay. The gable is exaggerated and is accented by a wide plain vergeboard. The entrance has a pointed arch header with a heavy door also with the complimenting (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance This structure sits on the site of a previous structure which was a 1½ story frame house in an L plan. Known as the "Wilken's House", it was used as the parsonage and education center for the Immanuel Lutheran Church. This frame structure is listed on the 1885 Sanborn. It has several additions to the E, but by 1929 it had been razed. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on the SE corner of 4th and Chestnut Streets. It has a wooded lot, a fenced backyard, and 1 outbuilding a small metal storage shed.

42. (cont.) pointed arch.

A small aluminum canopy caps the entrance. To the S of this bay is an exterior chimney. The gothic arch is again repeated, this time in a sawtooth patterned brickwork on the chimney face. Stones are placed randomly on the chimney as well as the 1st story area, as accents. Continuing S along this facade are 2 windows with a soldier course header course, then a projecting rectangular bay with a large gothic window opening flanked by 2 pointed arched niches. On the S of this bay the large pointed arched opening is repeated but is used as a door with transom and sidelights. This area was originally an open porch but was enclosed c 1941. Over this bay is a gabled wall dormer with a balcony to the S and a large gable dormer to the W. Both have the extended eaves and vergeboard. On the 2nd. story between this bay and the chimney is a small window with a semi-circular header and leaded glass. The 2 windows N of the chimney also have leaded glass. The other facades do not have any stuccoed surfaces. Windows are generally 6-over-1 with a corbelled brick sill, but no headers. An entrance on the N and a dormer on the E repeat the gable cap with long eaves and vergeboard. There is a hip roofed, 1 story brick ell to the E. It may be a later addition due to a change in brick texture. On the S there is a 1 story screened in porch. Rafters are open. On the interior there is 1 working fireplace which was originally wood, but has been converted to gas. There are hardwood floors throughout. The millwork is magnolia. A plaster cast ceiling detail surrounds the dining room light. Originally the stuccoed interior walls were painted with a tinted paint in various hues.

43. (cont.) The present/<sup>residence</sup>was built for George W. Sombart by Fred Haas in 1930. Otto Pleuss was the interior designer. It is believed that this house contains the first use of twin 7 inch I-beam construction in a residential dwelling in Boonville. G.W. Sombart was a prominent merchant who owned and operated the Boonville Laundry and Ice Plant, later renamed the Boonville Ice and Storage Company between 1912-1955.

42 Further Description of Important Features Typical of the style, this structure features a hip dormer to each facade, a raised basement, and a 1 story porch on the primary (E) facade. It is embellished with classical motifs. There is a modillion motif under the wide extended eaves. This is repeated or complimented by a dentil motif at the chimney cap, the dormer eaves, the frieze of the porches (E&W), the porte-cochere, and at the eaves of the garage. Openings continue this theme with lightly molded surrounds, done in a pink concrete. 43 History and Significance It is significant as a fine example of this later Box style and is 1 element of a block which comprises a cohesive neighborhood. Structure was built for Eugene A. Windsor, "The Land Man", a realtor, owned and operated Chouteau Springs Resort, 6 miles Southwest of Boonville, which he purchased in 1900. The home continues to remain within the family. The present owner is the operator of Windsor Farm Implements and is currently a candidate for State Senator.		27 Other Surveys in Which Included	39 Endangered? By What? The E entrance is large and has sidelights. It repeats the surrounds. The 1 story porch on the E has a brick balustrade and square brick columns with ornate classical capitals of pink concrete. A stone balustrade with urns caps the porch roof. These motifs are repeated in the porte-cochere to the N. The porch on the W serves both the 1st story and basement entrances. A 2nd. story porch has been altered and is now a screened in porch with a hip roof.

44. (cont.) block foundation, is sheathed of buff colored brick, and has a belcast hip roof with asphalt shingles, & a wide cornice with dentils. Three windows are on the N & S facades, the large frame garage doors are to the E. An alley is to the W.

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure has attic dormers on the S, E, & N., extend eaves and a raised basement. The primary (E) facade has a 1 story, hip roof with a wide entablature and brick balustrade and columns. The roof is tiled. The entrance is large and has side lights. Windows are generally 6-over-1 with concrete sills and soldier course headers. On the N there is a chimney with 2 chimney pots and with small flanking windows on the 1st story. On the S facade at the 2nd story E bay are french doors (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance Significant as part of a cohesive neighborhood block and example of the later Box style. Structure was built for Dr. Howard Smith who founded the Smith Hatchery in 1925. From c. 1953 to 1978 the dwelling remained unoccupied. The present owner purchased the structure for his residence and completed extensive interior renovations.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto 4th. St. To the SW is a 2 car attached garage. It has a tiled hip roof. The frame folding doors to the E have a soldier course lintel. A concrete drive leads from 4th. Street to the garage on the S side of the residence. There is an alley to the W.		46 Prepared by L. It has a soldier course header which connects with the soldier course string course which runs about the structure between floors. There is a basement entrance below this large window. There is a string course at this basement level which serves both as a water table and a header course for the basement windows. The W facade repeats all the motifs and has a projecting 1 story, 1 bay brick porch with a tiled, hip roof. It is now enclosed.

42 Further Description of Important Features Originally the house was built in a Second Empire style with a slate covered mansard roof. However after a fire in 1921 the current Prairie type extended eave, tile covered, hip roof was added. This roof has a large hip dormer to the W. A contemporary porch was also added. It is 2 stories with brick columns and balustrade on the 1st story, frame columns and balustrade on the 2nd. story. The roof and porch give a blocky quality to the residence but does not really destroy the earlier (see attached sheet)

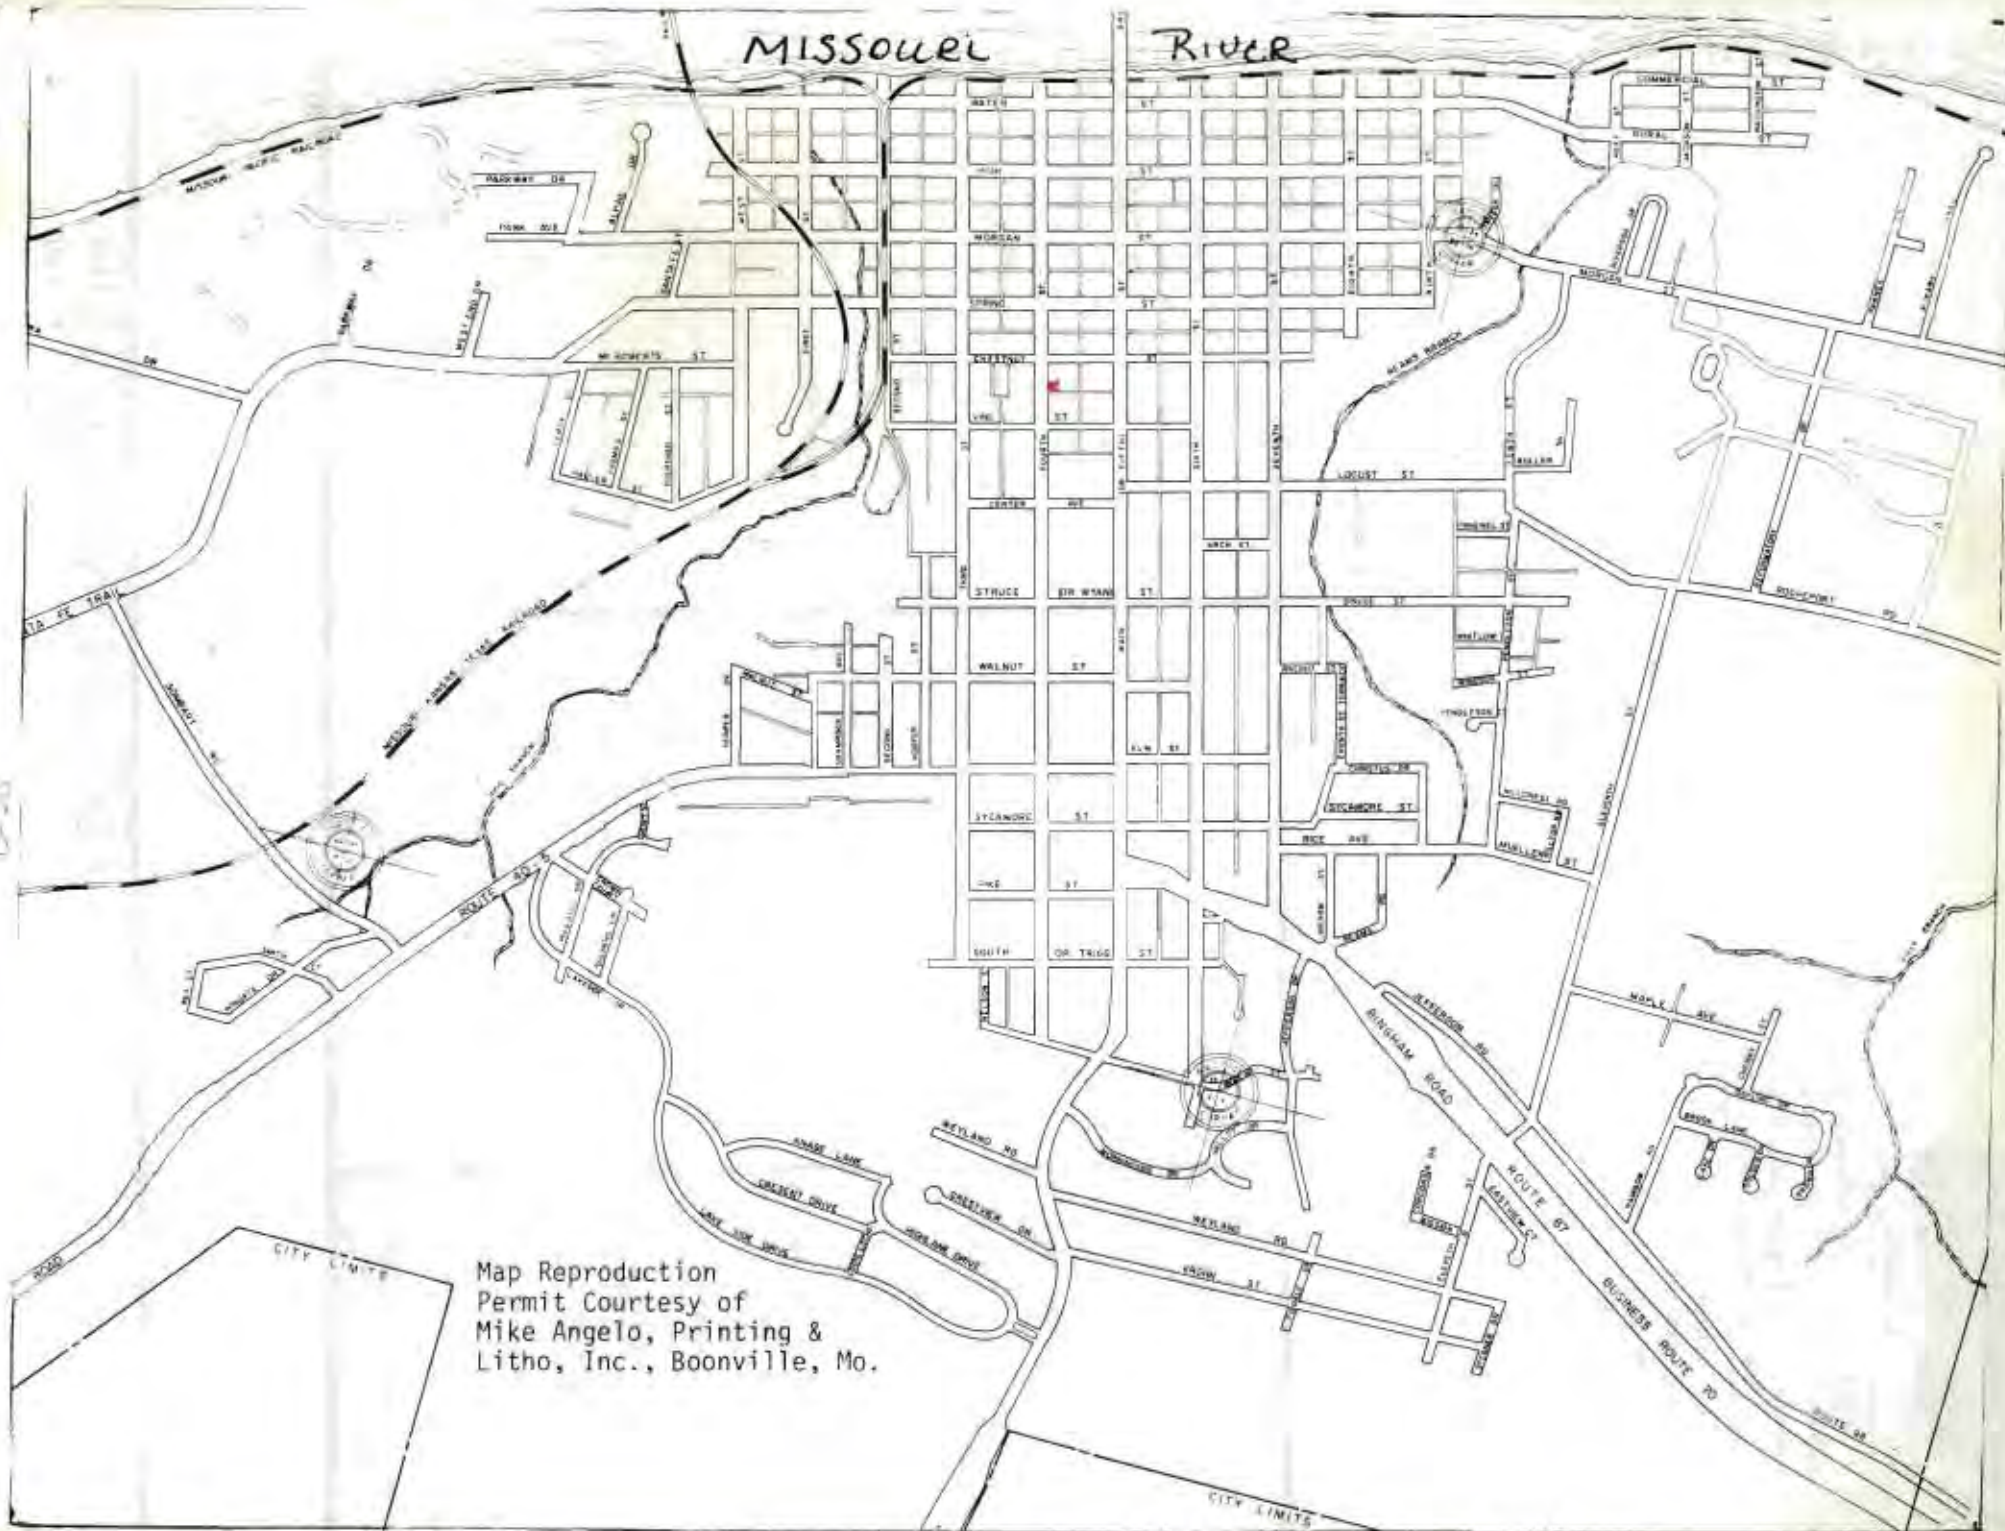

43 History and Significance Built for Henry E. & Julia Sombart in 1892. Henry Sombart (1863-1916), owned and operated the Sombart Milling Company, Directed the Farmers Bank of Boonville, founded the Citizens Trust Company and was chairman of the Boonville Water Works. The house was later inherited by his son George W. Sombart who lived within till he built his new home on the lot to the east of this house in 1930. Upon the death of G.W. Sombart the house was left in trust to Mrs. G. W. and Kathryn Sombart. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a large open lot facing W onto 4th. Street. Originally Marl Street ran to the S, however when the garage was added this street was removed. Now a concrete drive which runs along the S of the residence connects the garage to 4th. Street; a gravel drive connects it to the E alley. The garage built c. 1915 was used only as (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) historical merit of the residence.

The original structure had a 2 story chamfered bay on the S of the W facade. Around the turn of the century the roof of this bay was altered and was capped by a polygonal roof with 3 pedimented dormers and an ornate finial. The 1st story window was also altered to form a wide opening with a semi-circular header and molded, corbelled brick hood-mold. This bay has a sill course on both levels. The 2nd. story windows are like those on other facades. This general window type is 1-over-1, and has a segmentally arched soldier course header with stone keystone and extended skewes. These forms together echo the straight-sided arch typical of the style. Often these windows are paired and have a center bull's eye motif and pilaster. The central double door entrance repeats this motif and has a transom. A 2nd. story single-leaf entrance is directly above. The NW corner has a projecting rectangular 2 story bay set at an angle, which originally had a gable cap. This is indicated by the fact that the brick work extends above the roof level and now has its own hip cap.

On the N facade (NE corner) is a 2 story circular bay which originally had a frame balustrade with access from an attic dormer. On the S is a projecting 2 story rectangular bay. Before the 1921 fire, semi-circular dormers were added to the S & W.

The E facade has an original 2 story brick ell on the S. The N facade of this ell has a 1st and 2nd. story entrance with frame steps and porch to the 2nd. story. Windows generally have soldier and double rowlock course, segmentally arched headers. There is a palladian type window on the 1st story of the S facade. Several windows on the S & E facades have been altered to a 3 part window type with bungalow lights and no headers. A kitchen has been added in this area. A 1 story frame addition with a concrete foundation, pent roof, and asbestos siding is to the E of the original rectangular bay to the S.

Interior features include cherry woodwork, cherry stairway, where an entrance was originally, wide halls, 11 foot ceilings, and parquet floors on the 1st story in the 2 parlors and library. Marble slabs are under the 2nd. story radiators. The 1st story has been altered to form an apartment. The 2nd. story was altered in 1947 to an apartment. The maid's room was changed to a kitchen. It has access from the original back stairs. There were originally 3 bedrooms upstairs. The 3rd. story was used as a ballroom. It's large ornate cherry stairway has an ornate newel post light in the form of a female statue.

43. (cont.) Following a fire in 1921 the second story was converted into a separate apartment by converting the maids bedroom into a kitchen. Renters from this period to present are: J.E. & Anne Gleason. John & Mary Sanders, Minnie Talbert, Bruce Callis, and Jimmy O'Hara. Monte Coulter a son-in-law of Mrs. G.W. Sombart has resided in the first floor apartment since 1976. Significant historically on a local level as residence of a prominent merchant and important family of Boonville.

44. (cont.) a garage however it resembles a larger carriage house. Facing W it has a projecting bay 2 stories with a flemish gable to the N and a 1½ story pedimented parapet with a round window at this level on the S. Between these bays is a large garage entrance with small flanking windows. This entrance is currently closed up and the garage is entered through a new opening in a frame pent addition in the N facade. Pent dormers are centrally located E & W. The S facade has a pedimented parapet with an attenuated attic story window with a soldier course semi-circular header. 1st story windows have double rowlock segmentally arched headers. These windows are repeated on the E facade. A chimney is also on this facade. The foundation of this structure is battered concrete. A small brick outbuilding sits directly to the E of the residence. It has a belcast hip roof. Its entrance on the W has a rowlock segmentally arched header. A 1½ story Butler building (metal) sits at an angle to the NE of the residence. It has a gable roof.

42 Further Description of Important Features Probably built on a dog trot plan, the structure has end chimneys N & S. Windows are generally 1-over-1, slightly attenuated, and are trabeated. The primary entrance has a transom and a new concrete stoop. A 1920's 3 bay porch covered this entrance, however its recent removal has left the vertical studding of the structure exposed over the 3 central bays. The clapboarding remains under the current siding. The basement is slightly raised. The front facade has a boxed cornice. (see attached sheet)

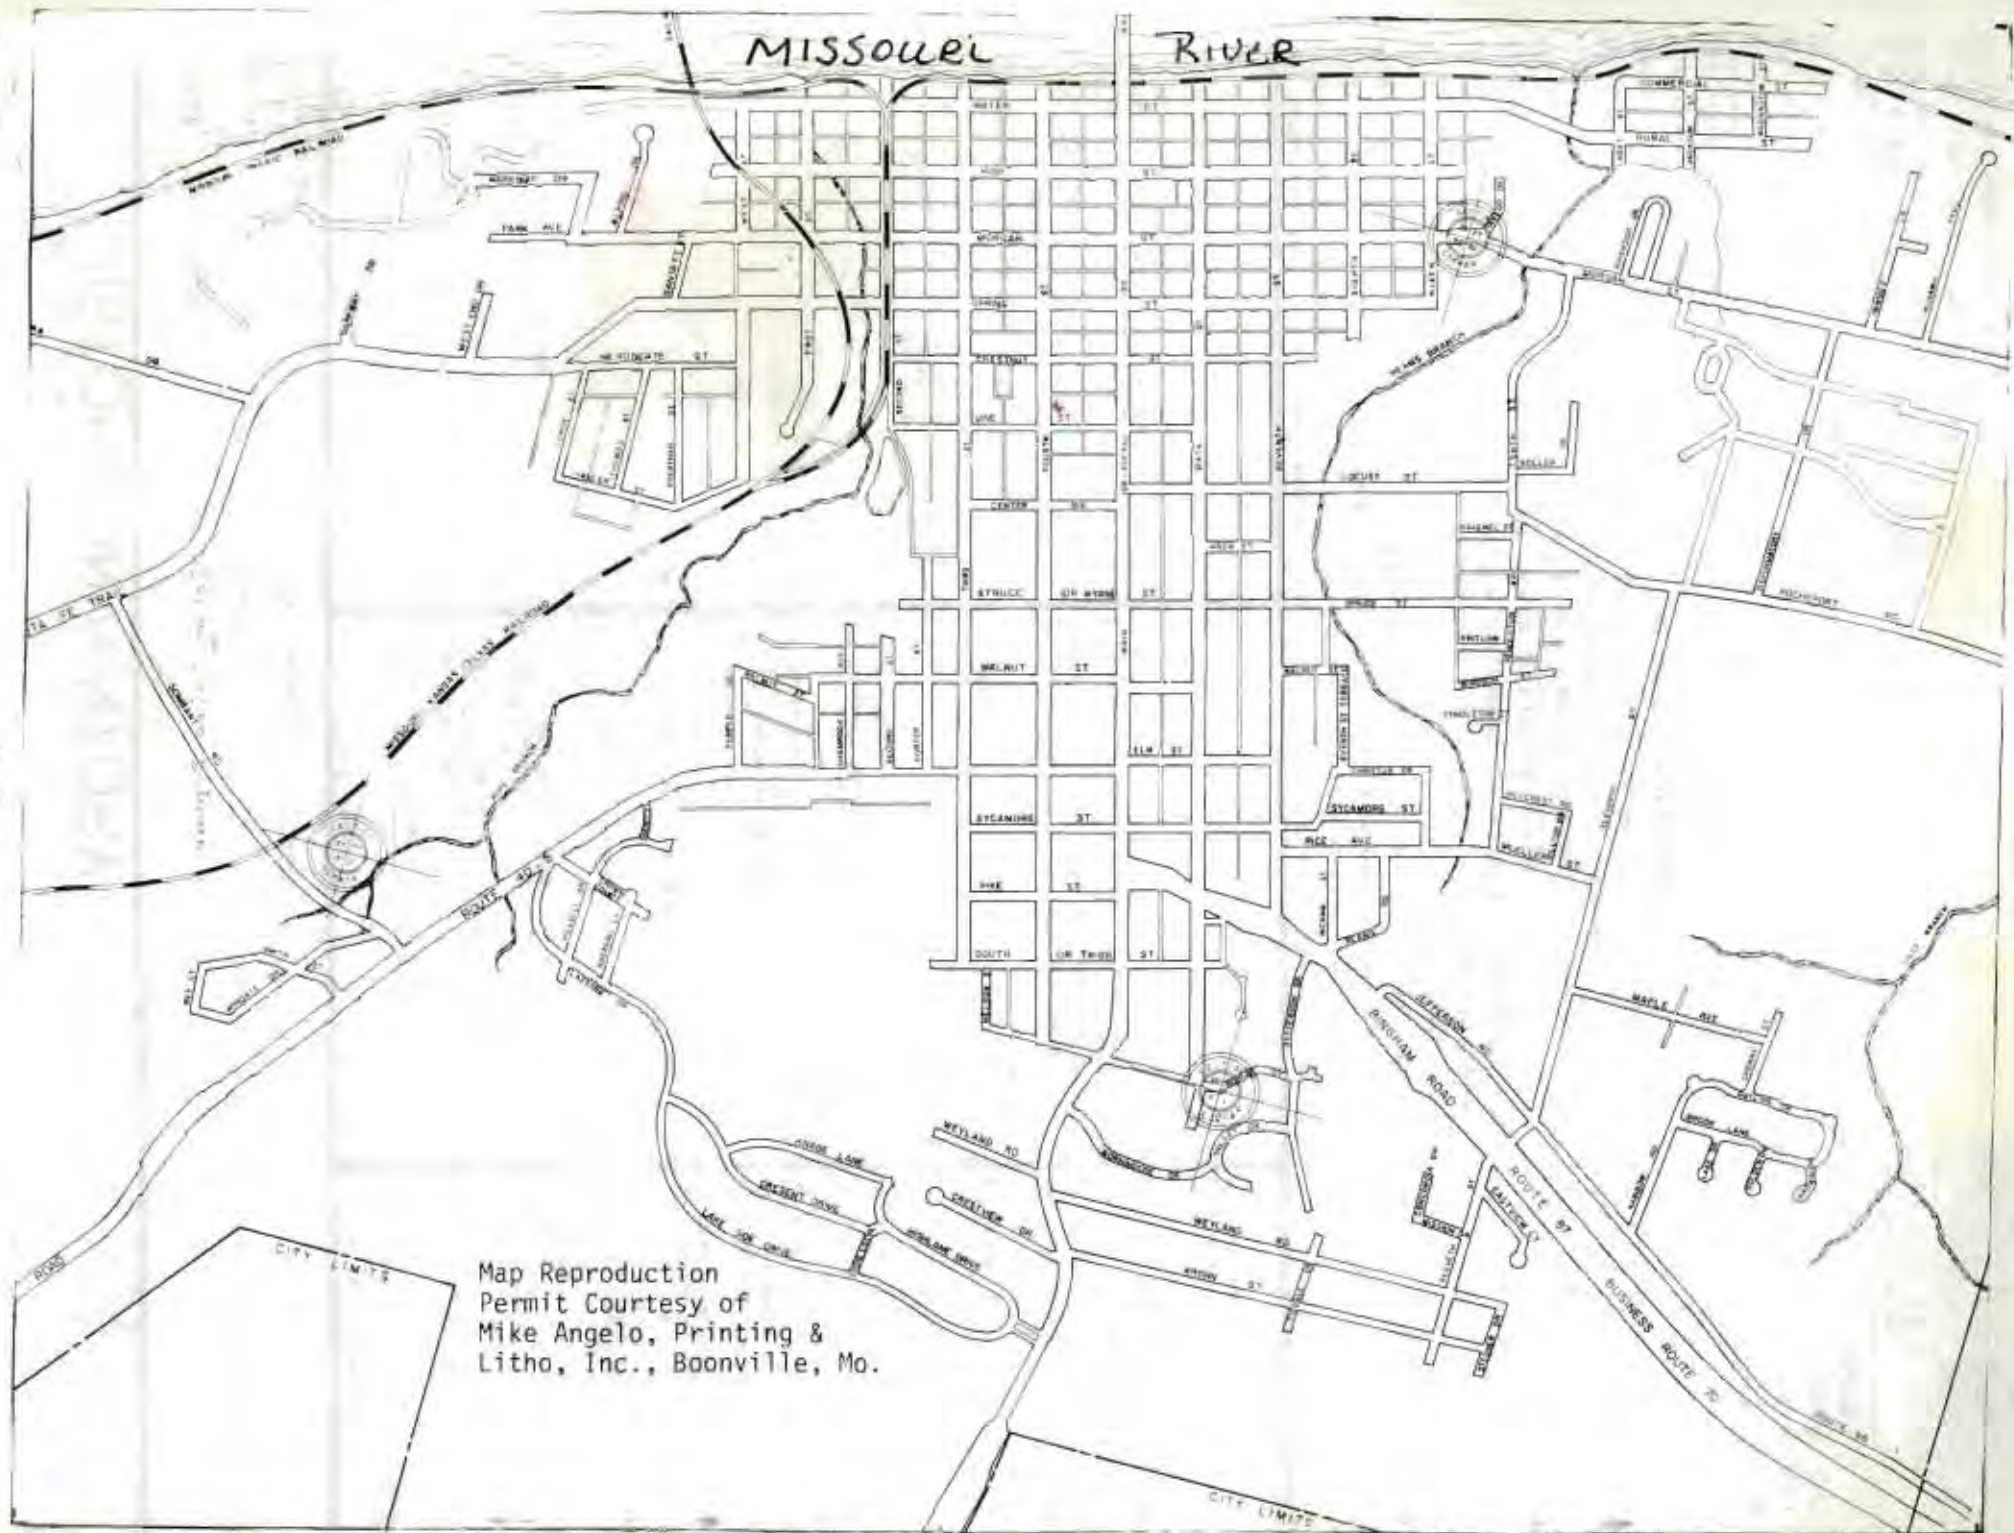

43 History and Significance Joseph Pinnell and family resided in the house c. 1900. Mrs. Pinnell organized and taught the first kindergarten class in Boonville. J.T. Hickam, a Boonville Municipal Court Judge, owned and lived in the house for many years up till his death in 1965. Between 1965-76 the house was used for rental purposes. From 1976 on it has been uninhabited and considered derelict. George Munro, a carpenter, residing there in 1912, probably changed the form of the front porch and windows. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the front of the lot (W) facing W onto 4th. Street. A partial gravel drive leads to a 1 car brick garage SE of the residence. The garage entrance faces W., the NW corner is enclosed with lattice work and the E facade has 2 windows with segmentally arched rowlock headers. There is a pent (see attached sheet)

Property Abstract

Interview with Mrs. Wayne Hickam, 4/80

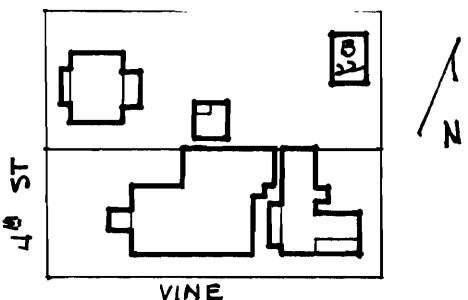

43. (cont.) Abstract information supplied at a later date indicates that the structure was built in 1848 by Dr. James Quarles, who was later killed in the first Battle of Boonville. In 1855 it was purchased by James Hood of whom nothing is known, since he had left Boonville by the late 1860's. The same holds true about the next two owners, Ben Tutt (1861) and Cathryn Leftwich (1864). The next owner was Cornelius Young, a Missouri River pilot who apparently purchased and resided in the structure in 1869, but at a later date rented it to the Pinnells.

42 Further Description of Important Features The E facade has a window with a rowlock segmentally arched header, a chimney, a single leaf entrance with a double rowlock segmentally arched header, and a large garage door entrance, S to N respectfully. The W facade echos this but leaves out the chimney. The S facade has 3 windows, plus an attic window. The gable end is shingled. The N facade repeats this, but has only 2 bays and no attic window. Windows are 1-over-1 and the watertable forms a sill course.
43 History and Significance Originally used as a carpenter's shop (1917) the structure served as a Flour Warehouse in 1927. It is now vacant.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on the W side of the alley running N & S between Chestnut and Vine Streets. It is at the rear of the 514 4th, Street property. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The entrance with sidelights and transom is the northern bay of the E facade. It is afforded protection by a 1 story porch which extends across the E facade and wraps around the SE corner to a 1 story rectangular projecting bay. This raised porch has a molded concrete block foundation, piers, and balustrade. The corinthian columns support a wide entablature and hip roof. On the N facade is a 2 story rectangular projecting bay which extends to the attic level and has a belcast hip roof. The bay is (see attached)
43 History and Significance Significant as a part of a cohesive neighborhood block and example of the later Box style. Structure sits on a lot described in depth on form relating to American Legion Post Home, 314 Chestnut. This structure was built in 1908 for Earl N. Wood and was the first home in the Wooldridge addition to the city, 1907. A restriction was placed in the Deed stating, "no barns or stables (are) to be erected on the lot". The reason for this being that the rear portion of the lot was situated in close proximity to the (see attached sheet)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto 4th. St. An alley is to the W. The rear yard has a high fence. There is a shared asphalt drive to the S.

42. (cont.) supported by brackets and forms a cap for the basement entrance below the bay. A small rectangular window on the E of the 1st floor N facade is filled with block glass. There is a 1 story projecting rectangular bay with a hip roof and a rectangular projecting frame bay on the N. The central entrance is under a flat roofed porch supported by ionic columns.

Other features include 24-over-1 windows with lightly molded frame surrounds; frame painted white, water table and string course between floor levels; modillions at cornice of the wide extended eaves and at the porch; belcast dormers on each facade; and tile copings along the belcast roof line.

43. (cont.) developer, Mrs. E.O. Wooldridge. Subsequent ownership is as follows: John M. Adams-1911; Emma Holmes - 1936; Ted Timberlake - 1961; Robert Fales - 1968; Thomas O. Combs - 1974; K.W. Dudenhoeffer - 1975; Thomas Short - 1977.

As evidenced from a documentary photograph the structure originally had a simple cement porch with a pent roof, and an absence of a projecting bay on N side. Additional renovations include the closing in of the W. 2nd. story sun porch into a dressing room, and the finishing of the basement into a recreation room.

42 Further Description of Important Features The Queen Anne arch is a common motif, especially on the E facade. The attic dormer with 3 windows is capped by this arch. The primary entrance has this motif though topped by a rectangular transom, sidelights, and corner lights. The floor plan of the front porch also echos this motif. This 1 story porch has a brick foundation, large frame ionic columns. This extends to the S as a porté-cochere with a flat roof, brick piers, and fluted ionic columns. This E facade has a slightly projecting frame (see attached sheet)		26 Local Contact Person or Organization Friends of Historic Boonville
43 History and Significance The structure was built in 1909-10 as a residence for Maximilian E. Schmidt. It was designed by the Mildner and Eisen Architectural firm of Detroit, Michigan, and the plans remain in the possession of William Wood. M. Schmidt married the daughter of Lt. Govenor J.F. Gmelich and owner of the Gmelich Jewelry Store and entered the business in 1895. The firm has been known as Gmelich and Schmidt from that date to the present. The structure remained in the Schmidt family till 1952 when it was purchased by the (see attached sheet)		27 Other Surveys in Which Included

42. (cont.) rectangular 1 story bay to the N. The central entrance has a polygonal bay window over it on the 2nd floor. To the S is a 2 story polygonal bay. The S facade has a chimney with flanking lead glass windows, and a polygonal 1 story bay which has asbestos shingles. A small hip dormer is on this facade. On the N facade, there are 2 basement entrances under a slightly projecting rectangular bay supported by brackets and sheathed with asbestos shingles. This bay is used as a staircase and has a 3 part window at the  $1\frac{1}{2}$  story level and a hip roof dormer with a palladian window at the  $2\frac{1}{2}$  story level. To the W of this bay is a 1 story bow window which has a flat roof. Its ashlar brickwork may indicate that it is a later addition. The windows are 1-over-1, attenuated, and have a sill course and a wide entabular buff brick  $3\frac{1}{2}$  story bay which houses an elevator, is centrally located with an entrance on the W that obscures the hip dormer, and a pent frame addition along the S bay. Windows are generally 1-over-1 with soldier lintels and concrete sills. There is a soldier course belt course between the floors.
43. (cont.) Goodman-Boller Funeral Service and converted into a funeral home. Alterations at that time included first floor wall alterations, a basement to top  $\frac{1}{2}$  story elevator, conversion of 2nd floor into an apartment, and conversion of top floor into casket display area. Also at that time a 6 stall garage with storage area was built. In 1964, W. Wood bought out Boller-Goodman and it became known as William Wood Funeral Home. In 1965, the firm was incorporated as Thatcher-Wood Inc.

42 Further Description of Important Features The E facade has a raised 1 story porch, which has molded concrete block foundation, balustrade, piers and columns which support a wide entablature with dentils. The entrance has etched glass sidelights. On the N is an attached hip roof garage with overhead door and single leaf entrance to the E. On the main block is a small etched glass window and a projecting bay at the stair-landing level which extends upward to form a hip roof wall dormer. (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance This house was the residence, from c. 1915 to the 1940's, of Robert Burge, a vice-president of the Boonville Mercantile Co. in charge of plumbing and electrical work. Upon his death it passed to his daughter, Alma, and her husband R. Taylor Smith. After Mr. Smith's death it was the residence of Mrs. Smith until her death in 1978. The house is presently for sale.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on a small lot with a low concrete wall to the S. It sits on the NW corner of Vine and 4th Sts., facing E onto 4th St. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) The S facade has a 1 story polygonal bay with a hip roof and dentils. The W facade has an original 1 story brick bay on the SW. An enclosed porch with an entrance is to the NW. This addition has a pent roofed, clapboarded addition which has a basement entrance. Over the brick ell is a 2nd. story entrance. There are hip dormers to each facade. Windows are 1-over-1 with heavy concrete lintels. There is a slight flair where the 2nd. story frame section meets the brick 1st. story.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has been changed and added to through the years. Currently it has a 3 story projecting rectangular tower centrally located on the W. The corners have buttresses set at an angle. The double leaf entrance has a molded brick gothic hood with stone labels. There is a molded brick sill course at the base of the 2nd. story, pointed arched openings which have rowlock headers and are now louvered. The 3rd. story repeats the sill course and pointed arch opening which now appear (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The congregation was founded in 1835 and the building lot purchased in 1841. Construction began in 1844 and the building was dedicated in 1846. The church is credited with being both the "second oldest Episcopal church west of the Mississippi River", and "The Oldest Episcopal church building in continuous use west of the Mississippi". A reference notes that the church design may be a copy of a church in rural England. An 1854 newspaper account which appears in the Historical Sketch of the church relates: (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. The church sits on a slight embankment at the NE corner of 4th & Vine Streets, facing W onto 4th. The additions to the rear (E) extend the church so that it has virtually no rear yard and sits in close proximity to a residence facing Vine Street.

42. (cont.) on each side. This is capped by a crenelated parapet and a cross. Flanking this tower are large gothic windows with stained glass and tracery. Buttresses are at the corners and end with a molded brick string course. The 3 bays of the N & S facades echo the window, buttress and string course motifs of the W. On the N is a 1 story brick addition, built c 1925, which has a parapet, an entrance on the W., and large windows with corbelled sills, but no headers. Its N facade has 7 bays and extends to the E beyond the original structure and the 1 story gambriel brick ell to the E. This N addition was added c 1925. The brick ell to the E has small buttresses, rowlock segmentally arched window headers, an entrance to the E, and hipped roof skylight at the roof ridge. A small pent roofed frame addition is to the NE of this ell.

It is approximately 30' to the eaves of the Church. The tower is approximately 45' high.

43. (cont.) "It is constructed of brick...eight large windows... the glass is tastily painted. The interior finish is exceedingly neat and appropriate, and near the front entrance on the left, is an organ. It is encased in richly wrought walnut, corresponding well with the architecture of the building. There are fifty-four pews, plainly but neatly made".

In 1847, a bell was installed in the bellfry with the inscription "Hooper Bell Co. - I Sing for the Living, I cry for the dead". In 1854 the first of four pipe organs was installed and was credited as being the largest west of St. Louis. The present organ utilizes the 1901 Pfeffer organ pipes.

In 1867 the church grounds were graded and enclosed with a new fence. Renovations at that date include window remodeling and installation of stained glass, a center aisle and gothic tracery in the chancel - A small cellar was excavated.

An 1876 fire damaged the vestry room. In 1885 sanctuary changes included the removal of the choir gallery, erection of an organ chamber on the north side, vestry room transformed into a recessed chancel, a new vestry room added to the south of the altar and a choir room built on the north wall.

In 1929 a large parish room was added as a north extension. Since 1970 minor redecorations were undertaken and the exterior brick walls were sandblasted and tuckpointed.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has a projecting gable ell on the N bay of the W facade. It has a raking cornice and an entrance to the S. This entrance and one on the W facade are under a raised porch which has a pent roof and turned posts. Windows are lightly trabeated and are 1-over-1. The front (W) facade is covered by an extremely narrow clapboarding. On the E is a projecting gable ell to the N bay which has a pent porch on its S facade.
43 History and Significance Noble Geiger, who operated Geiger Plumbing Company, resided in the house during the 1920's.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on a slight embankment, facing W onto 4th. Street. An asphalt drive to the S of the structure leads from 4th to the 1 outbuilding located at the SE corner of the residence. It is a frame, gable roofed garage with its door to the W. Covered with clapboarding, the gable end to the street is done in a pedimented raking pattern.

The E facade has an integral porch on the SE which is screened-in. The S facade is 3 bays deep, the N is 2 bays. Windows are 6-over-6 and have lightly molded frame surrounds. To the NW there is a pent ell with a pent screened-in porch along its S facade. This porch sits on brick piers with lattice work between.
43. History and Significance Originally large outbuildings in the SW corner of the property were used as "Wagon Sheds." By 1929 this had been converted to a residence and listed as 617½. This structure has been razed. The structure was probably built for Sam Holland as his residence. Holland owned and operated a "luggage delivery" business and the sheds were used to house his horses and wagons. The present lot is comprised of lots 17 and rear "L" shaped portion (cont.)
44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. The residence sits below the street level facing E onto 4th. An ornate iron fence is along this facade and a picket fence is to the N & S. The yard continues to stoop to the W alley and allows for a walk out type basement.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has a brick and tile 1st story and is of frame construction on the 1/2 story, where the gable ends (N&S) are covered in asbestos siding. On the W facade is a gable dormer and a pent porch on a molded concrete block foundation with brick columns and balustrade and stuccoed cantilevered brackets. The entrance is the S bay of this W facade. A chimney with small flanking windows is to the N. To the S at the basement level is a garage entrance. A gable dormer and an enclosed pent roofed, 1 story frame porch is to the E.

43 History and Significance Home was built for F.M. Phelps, owner of Phelps Pharmacy (1920's-1940's) located at 422 Main Street.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. The garage is reached by an asphalt drive from 4th. Street which runs along the S side of the structure. The house sits on a high embankment facing W onto 4th. Street.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has a hip dormer on each facade. The 2nd. story openings are 1-over-1 with concrete sills, but no headers; 1st story are the same except for a header course of variegated brick laid in a cross hatch pattern. There is a concrete water table. On the E, the 2 central entrances have transoms and are under a 1 story hip roofed porch which has a concrete slab, brick piers and balustrade and chamfered battered wood columns. Across the W facade is a frame addition which is enclosed (see attached sheet)

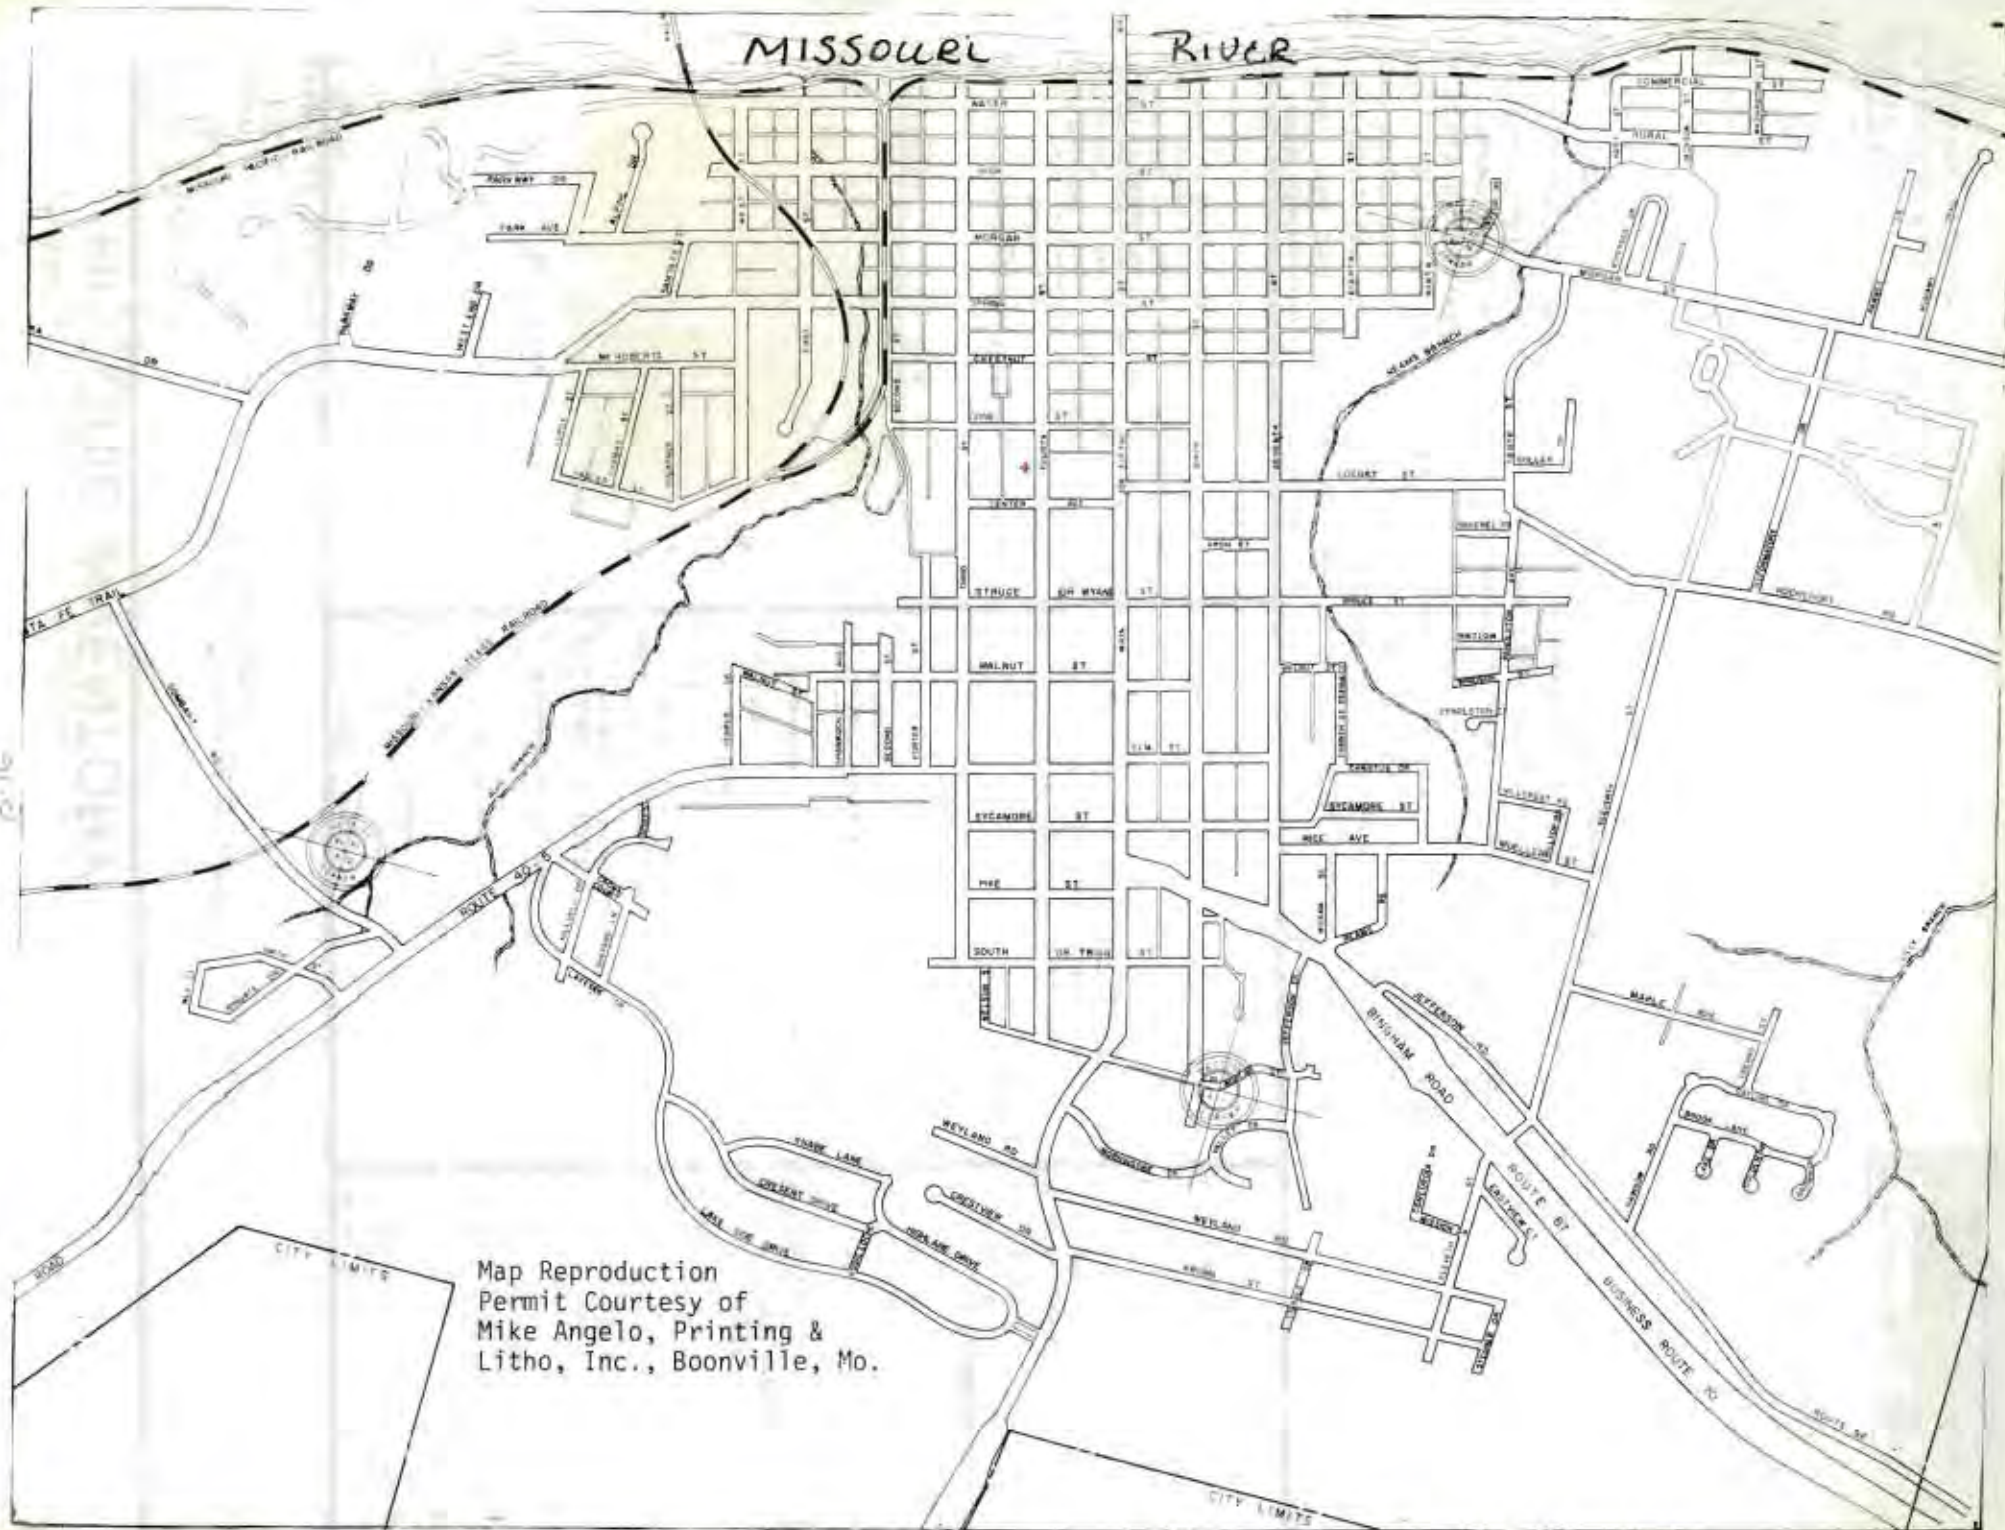

43 History and Significance Oral history indicates that the house was probably built by Mrs. Jackson's father, and the Jackson family has lived in the house continuously since that time.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The yard slopes off to the rear. There is a gravel drive to the N which leads to the W alley and a 4 car brick garage on the SW corner of the lot. It has a hip roof, a molded concrete block foundation, folding doors to the N. The residence faces E onto 4th. Street.

42 Further Description of Important Features The symmetric structure had a chimney at the gable end (N&S), however the N one has been removed. Gable ends also have returns. The primary (E) facade has a central entrance which is inset, and has a stained glass transom and sidelights, and a slightly pedimented stone lintel. This lintel has block labels and is similar to those on the Walter Williams House. The 2nd. story entrance has a flat arch header and a frame and wrought iron balcony. The cornice is boxed. Windows are generally (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance The original portion of the structure is retained as the rear NW 2 rooms. The basement of this section served as the kitchen. The property abstract indicates that this original section was built for approximately $300. The structure was purchased in 1843 by Bennett C. Clark. Clark, the son of R.P. Clark, was possibly the first white child born in Cooper County after its organization, served the county in many capacities: Circuit (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits close to the front of the lot facing E onto 4th. Street. A concrete drive leads from 4th to the attached garage on the N. There are no outbuildings. The yard slopes down to the alley on the W.

6-over-6, shuttered, and have soldier course, flat arch headers and frame sills. The S facade has small stained glass windows flanking the chimney. There is a 1 story gable ell on the S bay of the W facade. It has 3 bays plus an attic dormer to the S and a pent roofed enclosed porch on the N. On the N facade is a new, concrete block, gabled addition which has a garage and a single leaf entrance to the E., and wraps around the NW corner to form a pent addition on the W.

43. (cont.) Clerk, 1841-53; Secretary of the Cooper County Delegation at the 1855 Lexington, Mo. pro-slavery convention; County Court Judge, 1858-62; and Probate Judge, 1878-86. In 1848 the structure was purchased by Christian Keill as his residence. Keill, served as County Treasurer, 1865-70, Justice of the Peace, and Agent of the Boonville Wine Co. Keill is credited with erecting the front addition of the structure which was built 6" beyond the S property boundary sometime before 1871 when it was sold to John L. O'Bryan, a local realtor. In 1881, Fannie Stephens, a recent widow of Boonville financier J.L. Stephens, purchased the house as her residence. In 1906 it sold at a Sheriff's sale to John Cosgrove, a U.S. Senator. Under Cosgrove's ownership the structure became rental property and was the residence of a Varney and an Oerly. In 1946 the present owner, Lawrence (Mike) Angelo purchased the structure and during his ownership many alterations were completed including the frame addition (1950), lowering of ceilings (1965), and the installation of the stained glass windows flanking the living room fireplace, which were retrieved from the "old Whitlow home on Main St." Mr. Angelo is the owner of Mike Angelo Printing and Litho. Inc., Boonville.

43 History and Significance The Structure sits on portion of 10 acre pasture land once owned by David Barton between 1830-33. Nathaniel W. Mack purchased the pasture and developed it into Mack's addition to the city of Boonville in 1842. Mack retained ownership of this structures property lot 20 till his death in 1876. Executors of his estate sold the lot in 1878 to William C. Scott, "an early freighter of merchandise from Boonville to Southwestern Missouri in the days of the steamboat" in 1878. Additional owners have been: James O. Rangland - (see attached)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto 4th. St. The rear yard drops off to the W alley creating a walk out basement level. There are no outbuildings.

43 History and Significance Structure is believed to have been built by C.W. Nixon, a local realtor, for his granddaughter, Mary Turner. In 1926 the structure sold to Oscar J. Schlottzhauser. A subsequent owner was John Youst, 1929. The present owners obtained their residence in 1936 and during their ownership have added a new kitchen, renovated bathroom, added siding and constructed a new front porch (c. 1965), and a garage (1978). 710 and 712 4th St. are nearly identical in plan and date.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto 4th. Street. There is a frame 1 car garage with a gable roof to the NE of the property.

42 Further Description of Important Features One bay (N) of the pent porch which extends along the W facade has been closed in to form a room. The porch has turned wood posts and a spindle balustrade. Windows are generally 2-over-2 in the original section, which has a central chimney. To the E is a pent addition under the extended slope of the roof and a small vertical board addition, also with a pent roof.
43 History and Significance This house has been owned by Henry Wassman, a house painter, from c. 1950 to the present. He lived in the house from c. 1950 to c. 1960. For a short time afterward his son lived in the house and since that time it has been rental property. A fire several years ago damaged the interior, but it has been repaired.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the NE corner of 4th & Walnut Streets, facing W. There is an embankment to the W where a concrete block garage is built at street level.

42. Further Description of Important Features The primary facade (E) is embellished by a projecting rectangular bay (N) which has a gable cap with skews and fishscale and jigsaw shingles, and a circular corner tower (S). The central entrance has an ornate surround with fluted pilasters and wide entablature. Windows are generally 1/1, attenuated and shuttered. Some are paired. The S facade has a 1 story pent roofed, rectangular bay window and a basement level garage entrance. Extending (cont.)

43. History and Significance Abstract indicates that the structure was built by Alfred D. Howard as his residence in 1891 but was lost by mortgage default in 1905. In 1907 it was purchased by Martha E. Varnum and remained in the Varnum family till 1937 when it was purchased by Ben Smith Sr., an abstractor and realtor, as his residence. During this ownership "modernization" took place and the structure lost much of its architectural integrity. In 1978, Mark Van Patten bought the residence and because of a vocational transfer sold it to Gary Schroeder (cont.)

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on the NW corner of 4th and Walnut Sts., facing E onto 4th. There is an alley to the W and a ground level garage to the S. No outbuildings are associated with the property.

42. (cont.) to the W is a 1 story pent roofed addition (N bay) and a pent roofed enclosed porch (S bay). The front facade has recently been painted and restored. Interior features include hardwood floors,  $9\frac{1}{2}$  foot ceilings, and a mahogany newel-balustrade at the staircase. Mahogany is also used to accent the fireplace mantle. The rear addition is a master bedroom added c. 1937.
43. (cont.) in 1979. The Schroeders are currently restoring the structure's exterior. The Schroeder residence sits on the site of a previous dwelling that was in existence from 1847 to 1891.

42 Further Description of Important Features Originally the primary facade faced N and had an ornate Eastlake porch at the 1st story level. The basement level is covered with stucco and exposed to the E, W & N. There are 3 entrances at this level on the N. The primary 1st entrance with a rectangular transom remains, but there is no porch currently. A pent addition extends the full length of the S facade. The entrance is centrally located and protected by a 1 bay frame porch. Windows (cont.)		26 Local Contact Person or Organization Friends of Historic Boonville
43 History and Significance The structure was constructed by Richard R. Thompson, a carpenter, as his residence in 1855 or shortly thereafter. Thompson remained in the carpenter trade until 1864 when he opened an undertaking business in a building on the East side of Main St. west of the Court House. In 1889 the house and 3 lots sold to Charles Hofmeister, a saloon keeper who operated the Phoenix Saloon and later built the Queen Anne structure on lot 84 (611 E. High St.) in 1896. In that year it sold to John Brokmeyer, son of merchant-builder, C.H. Brokmeyer. (cont.)		27 Other Surveys in Which Included
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits to the E of 6th St. where it dead ends N of High St.. The yard drops off to the N and the structure has a grand view of the river. There are no outbuildings.		28 No. of Stories 1

43. (cont.) In 1900 the structure was sold to Frank Swap, a painter and photographer who was associated for many years with the Tanner photography studio. Swap had an interest in recording the architecture of Boonville and many of his original photographs survive and are part of the Boonville collection at the Missouri Historical Society with copies in the Friends of Historic Boonville's Archives. In 1920 Angus Swap, Frank's son, purchased the residence and built his carpenter shop on the west end of the property. This has since become a duplex (also listed as 104 6th St.). Swap lost his home in 1934 by default and it was then purchased by Arthur and Hazel Swap. Subsequent owners have been Frank Fable (1943), William Paine (1949), Warren L. Moore (1953), Lewis Ross (1964) and James Dey (1969). The present owner, who purchased the residence in 1977, arrived in Boonville in 1976 and purchased the Toennes Photography studio. He is a professional photographer located at 601 Main St.

42. (cont.) The structure is almost a piano nobile style. The brick foundation on the NW corner indicates that this part of the pent ell, which now extends across the full length of the N facade, was the original section. A walk-out basement entrance on this facade gives access to the basement apartment. The structure is accented by a boxed cornice on the S and an ornately corbelled chimney cap. There are no current fireplaces. Clapboarding remains under the siding. Interior ceilings are 10 feet. The structure in 1885 did not have the W bay yet, however it was added by 1892.

43 History and Significance Abstract indicates structure was built in 1896 by W.F. & Ida Howard who subdivided their original town lot number 85 and built this structure in the northern 60 ft. and 85 ft. section. The Howards resided in the lot's southern portion 603 E. High at the time. Subsequent ownership is as follows William J. Hirlinger (owner-operator of "Boss" Hirlingers confectionary on Main Street) - 1905; Frances L. Hirlinger - 1947; Carl Grigsby - 1974; Truman Schler - 1978.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment facing W onto 6th. St. A herringbone brick walk is along the front (W) property line. A gravel drive (alley) on the N leads to the 1 outbuilding, a pent roof, vertical board and batten garage to the NE of the residence.

Each has a gable cap supported by knee braces, and raised frame stoops. A boxed gutter is along this facade. A flue type chimney is on the N. To the E is a pent addition which was originally a porch, c. 1933 it was changed to the kitchen and a new pent porch was added. It is enclosed by clapboarding. The structure is attached to 216 on the S. Alterations include partitioning the large N room into 2 rooms, (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance The property has changed owners numerous times: 1833-Heirs of Morgan and Lucas to Daniel McKinzie for $537.00. 1858-Marcus Williams and Wesley Wyan.. 1858 Wyan to Williams. 1866-Williams to C.W. Sombart as part of sheriff's sale resulting from judgement for William Trigg against Williams price $2,310.00. The 1892 Sanborn lists the property as tenements. The 1900 listing is again a single dwelling, however by 1910 it was listed as a duplex. (210 & 212). In 1923 Sombart sold the property to Monte Coulter (see attached sheet)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits immediately at the sidewalk, facing W onto 6th. Street. There is a structure to the rear, which was built as rental property and is under a separate listing, 608 6th. Street.

The interior floor plan was changed in 1969 to 4 rooms and a bath, and a back porch was added. Renovation was done by Elmer Gerhart. The living room ceiling was lowered to 10'. Doorways have wide doors (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance Ownership of property was the same as 212 6th. Street till 1921 when it was sold to Sarah Kesterson (1853-1935) a dressmaker who had rented the house for many years. In 1925 her daughter, Martha (1873-1950), Boonville's first telephone operator purchased the property and gave it to the First Christian Church in 1944. In 1950 it sold to John Schieberl who willed it to Mayme & Ida Stretz. In 1966, it was again sold to John Stegner who sold it to Charles and Avis Eagon.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. A fence divides the properties to the E. An alley is to the S. The residence sits immediately on the sidewalk and faces W onto 6th. Street. A 4 room house behind this structure was razed 1967.

42. (cont.) which has a 1 bay pent addition on its E, and a open pent roofed porch on its S facade. The S bay of the main block has a pent addition. Structurally the house has square nails. Rafters of unfinished white pine use a mortise and tendon construction. Some of the framing and clapboarding on the rear ell may be walnut. The house was rewired in 1970-71. In 1977 a new roof which covered the original wood shingles and insulation were added.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built on a 2/3rds plan, the entrance and the hall are the S bay of the W facade. The entrance has a transom. Windows are 1-over-1 and are attenuated. Openings are trabeated. The gutters are boxed and the cornice rakes on the gable ends. An East-lake porch extends across the W facade. It is raised on brick piers, has a pent roof, wrought iron now forms the balustrade. There is an ell on the N bay of the E. facade which was added by 1900. A pent porch with a concrete foundation is to the S of this ell. (see attached sheet)		26 Local Contact Person or Organization Friends of Historic Boonville
43 History and Significance The house sits on the site of the Mansion House Tavern in operation in 1845 and built between 1838-42 existing perhaps as late as 1868. The house was built by Charles W. Sombart to fit on a 1/3 lot, as speculation and not as his own residence. The 1885 Sanborn Map notes its existence and present floor plan. In 1898 Charles W. Sombart purchased the house from the estate of his father. In 1906 Raphael Overshiner gained possession for one year, and sold it back to Charles Sombart. 42. (cont.) In 1964 part of this was enclosed to form a bedroom. There is a basement under the ell; the original block has only a crawl space. On the interior there are no fireplaces and millwork is of pine with Eastlake motifs including a bull's eye detail. The baseboards are wide. Interior doors have transoms. The entrance hall does not lead to the rear ell, but dead ends.

43. (cont.) In 1923 Sombart gave the home to his daughter and son-in-law, Monte Coulter who sold the house later that year to Charles and Clara Rider. Clara Rider continued to reside in the house till she sold it to the present owners in 1956.

42 Further Description of Important Features The building has an entrance into the showroom on its SE corner. Large plate glass windows wrap around this area. Black glass tile accents the area below these windows. The entrance has a metal canopy. To the W of this entrance on the S facade are other single leaf entrances and a centrally located garage door. Block glass and aluminum siding embellish this area. The E facade has large multipane windows and a centrally located overhead door. The S & E facades are capped by a stepped parapet with a tile (Attachment)		Photo
43 History and Significance In 1900 this lot was open and was used as a mule yard By 1910 The Star Dome Summer Theatre was on the lot. A large stage ran N&S on the W side of the lot, a ticket office was at the SE corner, the picture machine was along the E facade, and a high fence was along the N side. The present building appeared by 1917 and had a capacity for 25 cars. It was listed as a garage having cement floors, iron columns with 22' foot centers. Alterations occurred by 1929 which allowed for 50 cars (see attached sheet)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building sits at the NW corner of 6th and Morgan. It is along the sidewalk and consumes the whole corner. Other buildings associated with the company at NW of it along Court Street, and on 6th Street. These are both under individual listings. There are no outbuildings as such. A gravel parking lot is to the N.

42. (cont ) coping. Below this is a 2 level belt course. The top level is a soldier course sawtooth-patterned brickwork; the lower level is a rowlock sawtooth course. This follows the line of the parapet. Blue and white plastic signs including "Burkle," "Service" and several rectangular panels are located in this parapet area. There are no openings on the N facade. There are large skylights on the roof.

43 (cont.) and tile walls divided the SE corner into an auto sales area. The present gravel lot on the NE had buildings as early as 1892 which were used as a wagon and carriage builders shop and dwelling. In 1910 they were altered to a machine shop and in 1929 as an auto repair center.

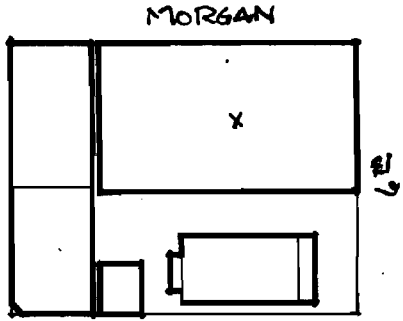

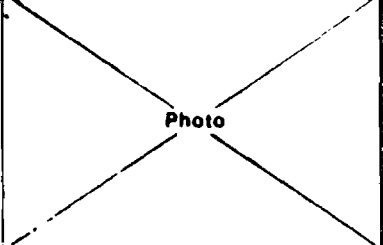

The building was constructed by the W.J. Cochran Construction Co. in 1916 for Mr. Brownfield to use as Brownfield's Garage (car sales and repairs and also partial assembly of Model T's shipped in crates by rail to Boonville). Brownfield sold the building to Jacob Meyer, who also used it for auto sales and repairs. A.E. Burkle bought the building in 1942 and used it for Ford Sales and Service. He made various structural changes in the 1940's which included raising the ceiling and enlarging the windows in the showroom.

43 History and Significance
Built as an armory in 1928, the building served this purpose until 1949 when the new armory was built. Clem Lauer operated a Pontiac dealership and garage here from 1949 to 1954. From 1954 to 1955, Clark's Recapping and Tire Co. used the building as part of their business (office was across the street at 6th &amp; Morgan). From 1955 to 1963, Scott Buick/Cadillac/ Pontiac was there. The City of Boonville began using the building in 1964 as the Central Garage. The present owner purchased the building from Earl Brownfield in 1979.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings		The structure sits close to the street at the SW corner of Morgan and Sixth Street. It has a common wall with G & W Supply to the W.

16 Further Description of Important Features This structure appears currently as a series (3) of buildings, however there is evidence that they were originally interconnected. The corner (N) structure has a stepped parapet on the N & NW and a high parapet on the W. This has a 2 course cornice: A top dentil course with a sawtooth pattern below. Windows are attenuated, 2-over-2 with most having a 3 rowlock course ashlar brick, segmentally arched header and frame lug sills. On the (W) primary facade 1st floor from N to S, is a single leaf (attached sheet)		27 Other Surveys in Which Included
43 History and Significance The large building presently containing the businesses of 308,310, and 312 Sixth Street was originally built as a three sectioned livery stable for a United States Calvary Unit. Oral history indicated that 308 Sixth Street contained Pat Fitzpatrick's Livery Stable, c 1929; F. Fredrick Implement, c 1930's; Marshall-Boonville-Moberly (MBM) Bus Line, F. Fredrick proprietor, 1942-43; Dub Clark's General Tire and Service 1950's-1960's; Rex Rains' Worm Farm. At present it contains storage area for Cecil (see attached sheet)		Photo
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The 3 structures sit close to the street and face W onto 6th. The N building is at the corner of 6th and Morgan. An alley is to the S. There are no outbuildings. A large metal and plastic "General Tire" sign remains at the NW corner of the building.

42. (cont.) entrance with a transom, a newer rectangular window, an semi-circular arched double wide entrance, a window, and a semi-circular fan light window, which was originally a entrance as indicated by altered brick work beneath it and a drive leading up to it from 6th. Street. On the N facade 1st. floor from W to E is a large new rectangular window, a window, a semi-circular double entrance, a window and a arched entrance which has diagonal panels, and is capped by a segmentally arched header which springs from the impost level. The E facade indicates a link between this stone and the one immediately to the S. The E facade extends across both structures without a break. Windows on both levels are small square ones with segmentally arched headers. The rowlock brick is not ashlar type. Each section has 4 bays.

The W facade of this center section is on newer brick and has 3 bays composed of large windows and a large overhead door on the 1st. story. Windows have corbelled brick sill, but no headers. The parapet is continued, but at a lower level and with a rowlock coping. The Southernmost structure repeats the older brick construction and a stepped parapet with a stretcher coping. The 1st floor has a large 6 part window with a concrete sill, but no header, a single leaf entrance with flanking window panels and a transom, and a single leaf entrance with a segmentally arched header and which leads to the 2nd. floor. The second story has 1-over-1 windows with rowlock sills and a rowlock course, segmentally arched header. The S facade has 6-over-6 windows immediately under the eaves which have a rowlock segmentally arched headers and rowlock sills. An addition to the E is of tile and has a garage door entrance to the S. On the E it has 5 1st. story windows which are 6-over-6 and have frame lintels and sills.

This S section is currently used as a furniture display room and has an interior entrance into the center section, used as a warehouse. The common walls indicate large arched 1st floor openings and several bricked-in windows. This may indicate that the original structure was linked to this area in some ways.

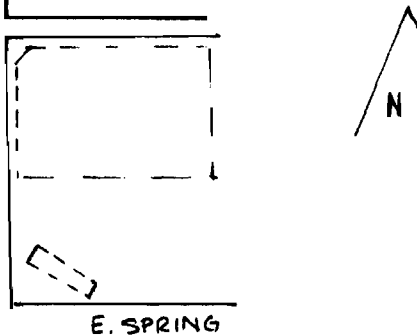

The N structure is now vacant, but has been sand blasted during 1979.

43. (cont.) Johnston's Tree Service, and Lammers Vending Company, Charles Lammers proprietor. 310 Sixth Street was renovated in 1948 by the addition of a new front and steel trusses. Presently it is rented by George Derindinger as a warehouse for Outlet Furniture. 312 Sixth Street remained a U.S. Calvary Stable till 1929 at which time it was used as an armory garage. 1900-1930's Otto Aehle operated a small business manufacturing buggy tops and later roadster tops on the second floor. During the early 1940's to 1948 it was rented by Leo Brummel for his Willies Agency. Between 1948-1954 Kenneth Esser owned and operated the Esser Motor Company, a dealership of Willies and Hudson Automobiles. In 1954 the Outlet Furniture Co. developed under the ownership of Judd Wasco. George Derindinger purchased the business in 1970 and continues to operate it.

42 Further Description of Important Features A large gable dormer is on the E, as well as a front porch which is 1 story and extends across this primary facade. It has square brick columns, a brick balustrade, cantilevered brackets and affords protection for the entrance which has a transom, and side and corner lights. Windows are paired or grouped, have soldier course headers, rowlock sills, and have vertically divided top sashes which are horizontally divided at the top third. The large W extension has pent dormers N & S. (see attachment)
43 History and Significance The structure was originally built in the bungalow style as an apartment house with 4 apartments.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence is the only one in this block. It has an alley to the S with a concrete retaining wall, a large open side yard to the N, and faces E onto 6th. Street. To the W along the S alley is a brick garage. It has a stepped parapet, and an entrance and window with double rowlock, segmentally arched headers on the E. (See Attachment)

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure consists of a series of buildings. On the N is a hip roofed square frame structure which has an entrance set at an angle at its NW corner. A gabled central section is sheathed in metal but appears to be an older section, as indicated by window treatment. The S end appears to be new. It too is sheathed in metal. It has large glass display windows on the W & S and an entrance to the W.
43 History and Significance Extending along this block from about 1900-1929 was Bill Burgers Concrete Block Factory and Cement Warehouse. The N section of this building was listed as an office. By 1929 the angled entrance appeared and the structure became the office of the Davis Construction Company founded in 1922. From 1974-1978 the building was vacant. In 1979 alterations took place, and the building now contains a drug store.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the street on the SE corner of 6th & Spring. The section used as the drugstore faces W onto 6th. A clinic is to the S. and an asphalt parking area is to the E. There are no outbuildings.

43. (cont.) G.J. Stoelting, general superintendent. The company, founded by Wade Davis, was involved in grading, graveling and construction of concrete highways and bridges in Missouri, Arkansas and Illinois. In 1936 it employed 700 men and for many years ranked "third or fourth among Missouri road construction firms in the amount of contracts fulfilled." In 1936, the Company was sold to Colonel R.A. Johnson, with the company name being retained. Recent alterations (1978) completed by the Boonville Medical Group for offices and examining rooms has destroyed the integrity of the buildings previous style and function.

42 Further Description of Important Features The central section running E & W has a gable roof and a raised frame parapet to the W. This was originally a drive through area. There are small attic windows along the N & S facades. Also along these areas are 1 story pent roofed additions. These are divided into several sections, originally used for different types of lumber and materials. Rafters are open. Windows are 1-over-1 or 6-over-6. On the E facade is an office area with a single leaf door and flanking windows toward the N, a large (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance This area was a deep ravine without any buildings until c 1910 when a small frame Carpenter's Shop and a "Crusher's HD" were built along 6th. Street in this area. Between 1917 and 1929 the present structure was built along 6th. Street to house Heying and Sons Lumber Co. Oral history indicates that the building was next owned by Lon Wendleton and was utilized as a lumber yard and heavy equipment dealership. Next it was owned by Olie Johnson and became the Brady Feed Store. Johnston's widow inherited (see attached sheet)

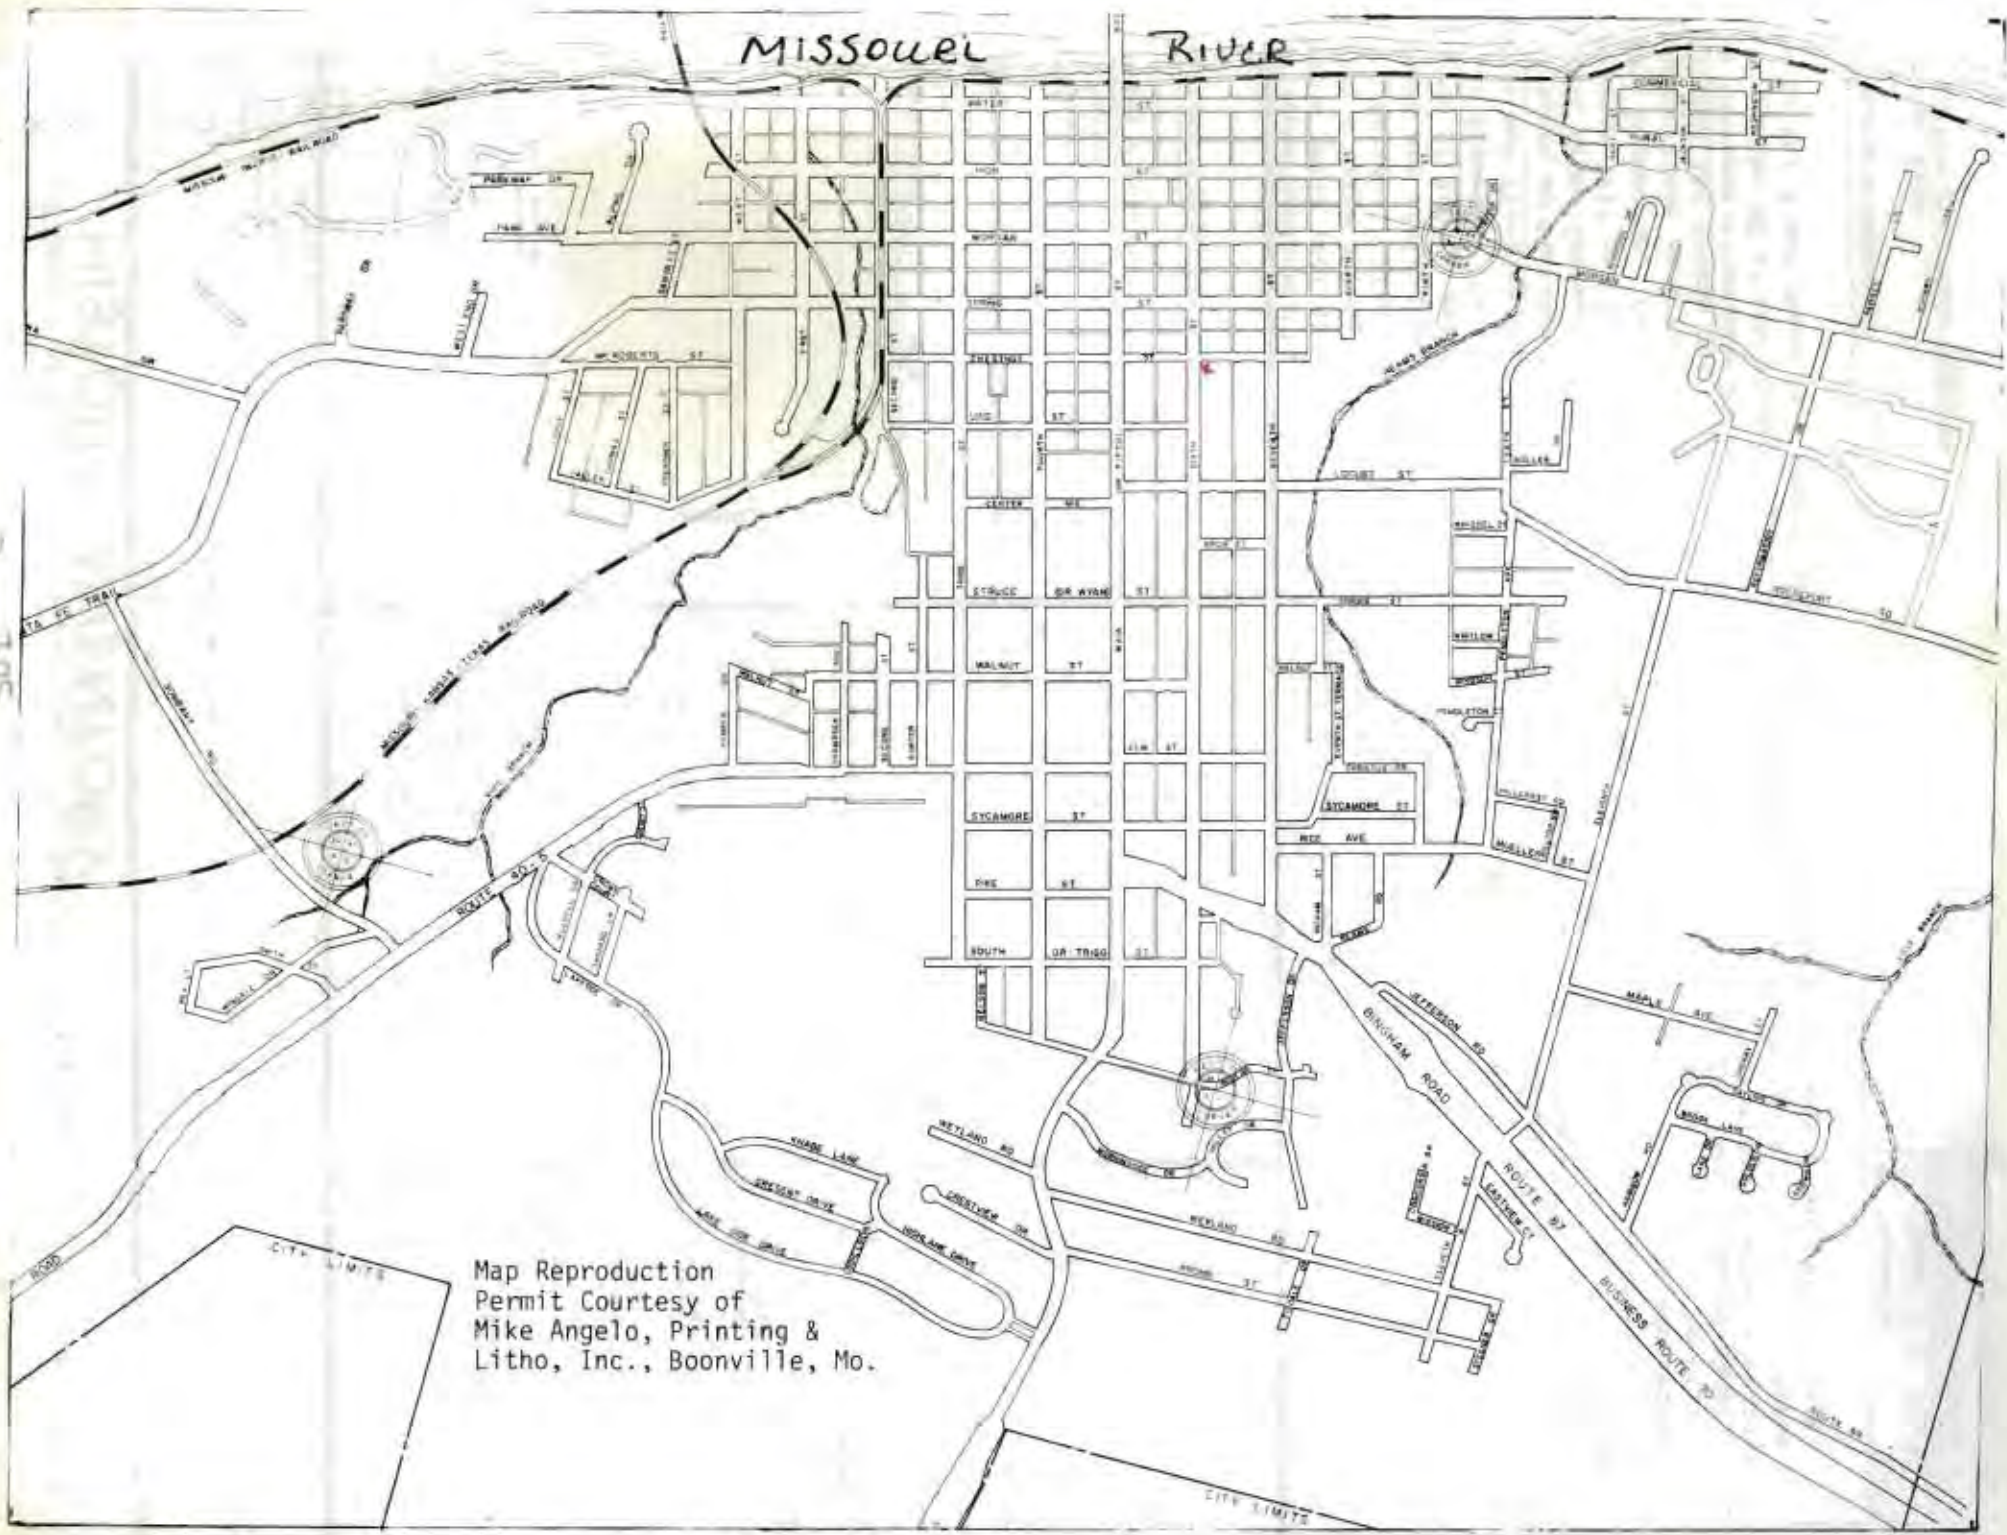

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings, however small metal elevators are to the NE of the structure, but listed separately. Powell Court is to the E, Chestnut is to the N and there is a gravel drive to the S. The structure faces W onto 6th. Street.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is the Butler building type. The front facade (W) has vertical board and batten metal; the sides and roof are corrugated metal. The W facade has a single leaf entrance and 2 windows with a metal awning. There are no openings to the N. The S has louvered windows and 2 sliding doors. The section to the E has a pent roof and is at a lower level.
43 History and Significance The structure sits on the site of a black church, 6th St. Baptist Church. This church appears on the 1885 Sanborn. In 1892, the church appears again with a school house immediately to the N. The school had been altered to a dwelling and both it and the church appear on the 1900 Map. The structures were razed to make way for a mule barn listed on the site in 1910. Another change took place prior to 1929, for at that time the structure was listed as a Flour Warehouse. This building was later razed. Zeitlow Mfg. Co. is involved (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features Built on a L plan, the structure has 2 entrances set in angles and several large overhead doors. Windows are grouped with large transoms above. On the N, the openings have a rowlock course, filled with a cross-hatch pattern, topped by a single long panel which repeats the motifs. A corbelled dentil course is along the cornice. Along the E facade the facade echos these embellishments, but omits the individual panels over each bay. There is no header, however there is a rowlock sill. Over the entrance is an (attachment)

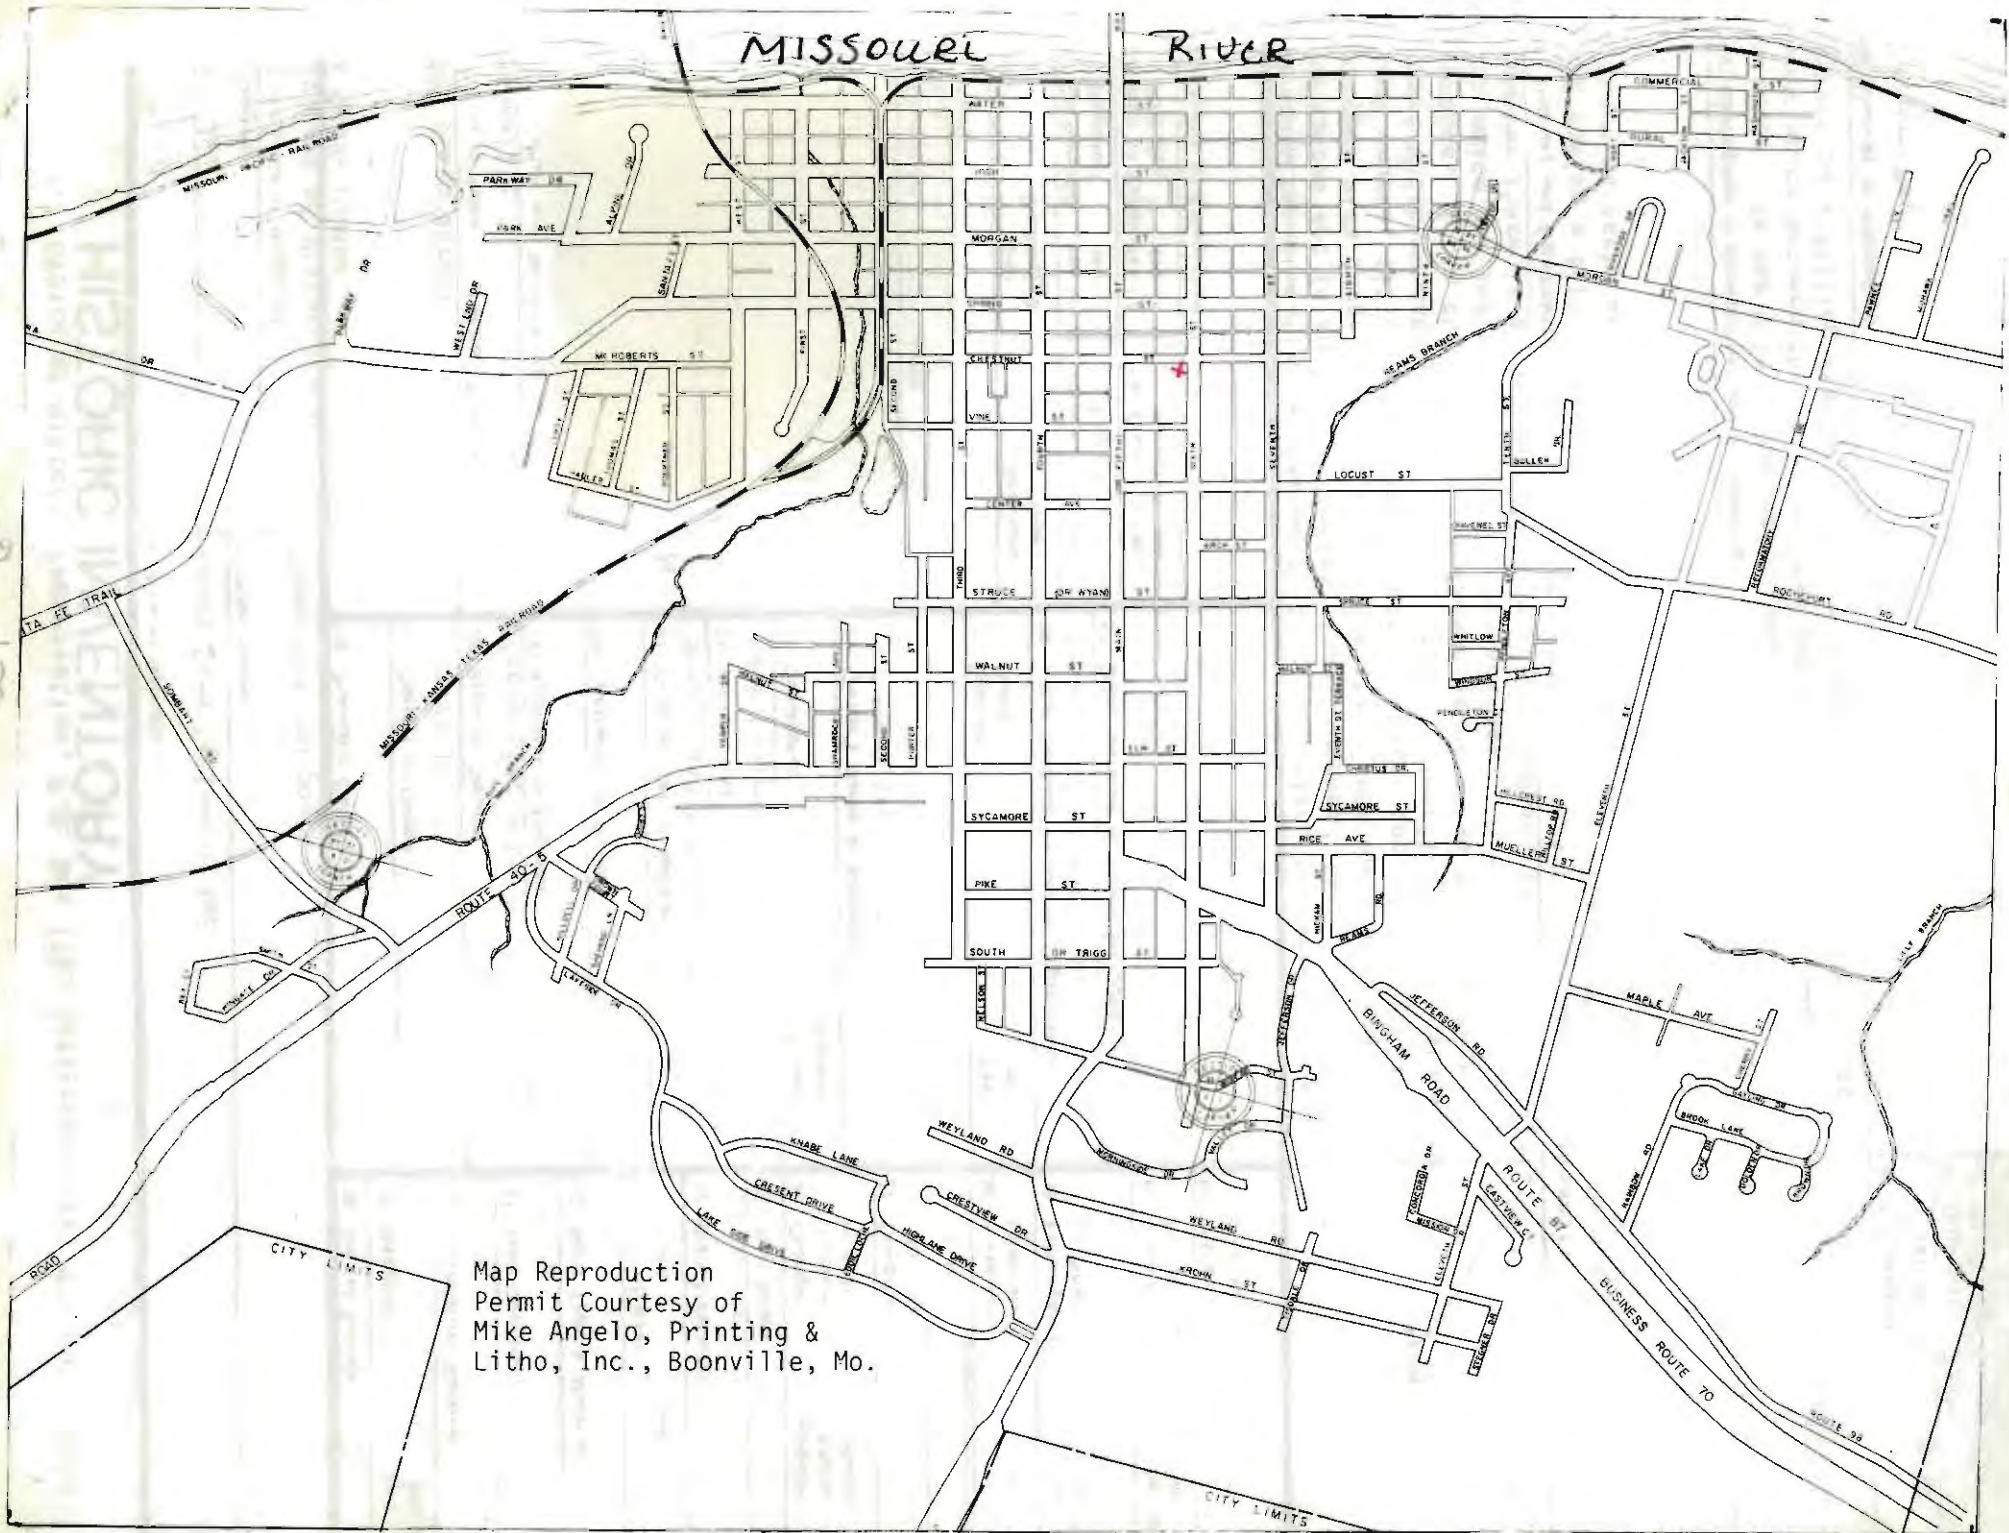

43 History and Significance Built as a Car Garage and Repair Shop, having a capacity of 125 cars, and having a filling station at the NE corner. On site of City Livery, Feed & Sale Co. (There as early as 1869-70, 1892 - J. Wm. Bell, Livery, Feed and Sales Co.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on the SW corner of Chestnut & Sixth streets. To the W is a parking lot and alley; to the S is a drive which leads to the open work space between the brick and the concrete block structures. The area which originally served as a filling station is now open and is used as a display area.

43 History and Significance In 1917 a structure on this site, was listed as a Tin Shop, however by 1929 alterations had made it into the current structure, a dwelling. The present owner purchased the structure from Charles Hirlinger, Jr. In 1977 alterations again took place that converted the four bedrooms into three on the 2nd. floor, removal of rear balcony, installation of dropped ceilings, paneling, and window removal were done on first story. During this alteration, Leonard Imhoff resided within. The present renter is Mrs. Beatrice Friedrich.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits close to the sidewalk, facing E onto 6th. Street. It sits close to 525-27 on the S. The rear yard is small and has a patio and palisade fence. There are no outbuildings.

43 History and Significance This property was owned from at least the 1860's until 1970 by the Hirlinger family. Previous to their ownership it had been owned by a Durringer or Derringer. The first Hirlinger to own the property was Erhardt Hirlinger who established a wagon factory there which operated from the 1860's until the 1890's. The property then passed to Erhardt's son, Charles E. Hirlinger, and then to his son, Frank Hirlinger, who added a painting shop and later a tin shop to the business. About 1910 the building was remodeled into apartments. (cont.)		27 Other Surveys in Which Included

42 Further Description of Important Features The original structure was built with Gothic motifs, however the new W facade gives a vernacular feeling to it. The original structure had a wooden tower 15' above the 18' eaves. By 1892 it had an addition to the rear which has been removed. The alteration lines are still evident on this facade, however the original rear wall still retains a large circular window at the attic level. It is set off by a rowlock course. Several basement windows have been bricked in. There are 2 rear chimneys. On the N (see attached sheet)		26 Local Contact Person or Organization Friends of Historic Boonville
43 History and Significance The structure was built by the German Methodist Church in 1852 as their church building at a cost of $1,200. The church remained in existence until c. 1915 when it was purchased by Prof. C.H. Dunkle and renovated to become Dunkle Business School. It received local notoriety as the place where many of Cooper County's businessmen received their education. In 1945 it was purchased by the Foursquare Gospel Church. 42. (cont.) facade there is a walk out basement entrance and several windows; all have segmentally arched double rowlock headers. Windows are 6-over-6. On the 1st story there are 4 gothic windows with raised brick hoodmolds. Tracery accents the stained glass windows. The 2nd. story also has 4 windows, but with segmentally arched, double rowlock headers. The parapet is stepped and has tile copings; buttresses are at the corners. The S. facade echoes the N. Several basement windows are bricked in. The W primary facade is on a concrete foundation which has a buff brick veneer. The frame 1 & 2nd stories are covered with asbestos shingles, and angles out at the top.

43. (cont.) Between 1934 and 1939 they leased 518 Vine St. and between 1939 and 1945 they worshiped in a house located in the 900 block of 7th St. In 1956 the Church removed the frame addition to the rear of the church which had been used as an apartment house and built the front addition which is composed of the pastor's office, nursery, Sunday School and rest-rooms.

42 Further Description of Important Features A dentil brick work cornice on the W facade is obscured by a later 1 story porch which has wide eaves and molded concrete clock foundation, piers, columns and balustrade. The central entrance has a 5 light transom, pilasters and sidelights. Windows are generally 6-over-6 with wood sills and soldier course lintels. There is a gable ell on the N bay of the E facade and a pent addition, which may be original on the S bay. This pent area has another pent addition and a flat roofed (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The property was owned from 1861-66 by Joseph Stephens who resided at the adjoining property at 612 6th. Street. An owner prior to the present was the Sherby family. The present owner hopes to sell the house that is currently vacant.

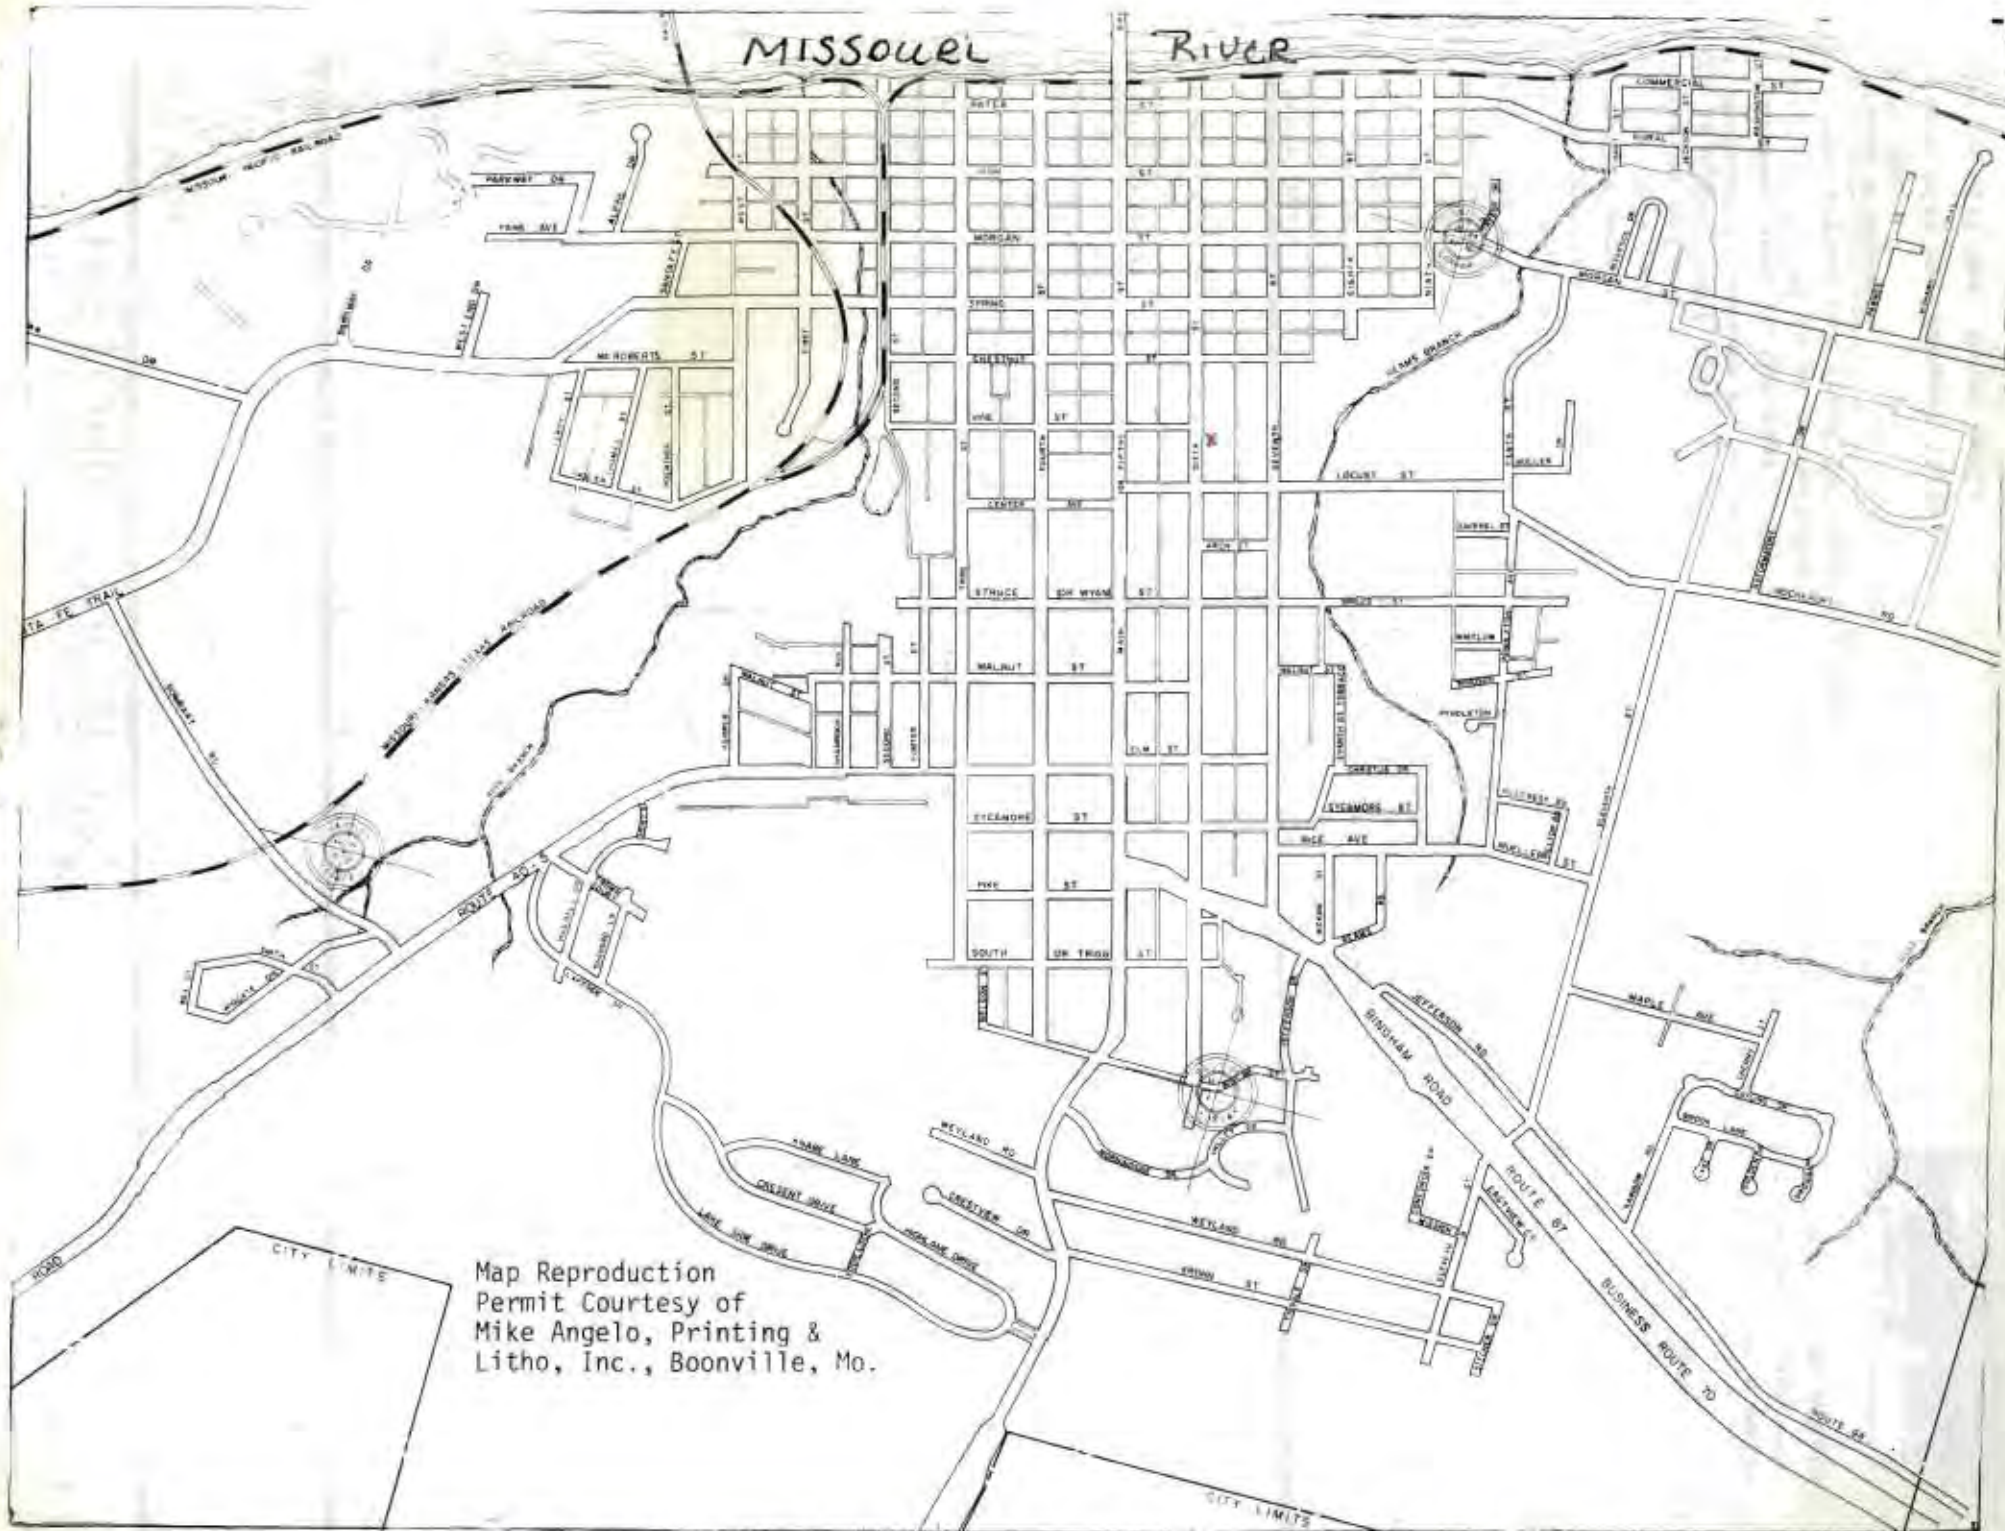

This residence is part of 3 homes which all reflect the strong brick construction tradition and the 1860's streetscape. This one is a fine example of the Missouri German style and is significant architecturally on the local level.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The yard slopes down to the E alley allowing for a walk-out basement area to the rear. The structure sits at the front of the lot facing W onto 6th. Street. To the NE is an outbuilding, a pent roofed, vertical board shed. There is an ornate iron fence across the front (W) property line.

43 History and Significance Oral history relates that house may have been built for or by a Mr. Ames, a merchant who operated a store on NE corner of Main and Spring during the 1890's. The original frame porch was remodeled to the present cement porch between 1905-10 under the ownership of "Miss Lizzie and Anna Viertel". In 1936, the house was sold to George Viertel and his daughter Vance, who converted the house into 3 apartments. Upon the death of Mr. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an embankment with a concrete wall and faces E onto 6th. St. A gabled, board and batten outbuilding is immediately to the W of the structure. On the alley to the W is a brick 1½ story hip roofed structure, "cowstable" built c. 1892. Its W facade has 2 stall type openings with segmentally (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) the chamfered bay to the circular bay. There is a pediment over the entrance. Molded concrete block forms the foundation, piers, balustrade, and newels with ball finials at the base of the steps. Porch columns are chamfered wood posts. On this primary facade openings have straight side arched hoodmolds of smooth brick texture. Openings on the other facades have soldier or double rowlock segmentally arched headers. Windows are 1-over-1, some are shuttered and some appear to have the original sliding louvered interior shutters. There are pent and hip dormers on the S & N facades. A projecting rectangular bay is on N. There are several brick additions to the rear, the 1st one added c. 1910. These give an elongated form to the structure.

43. (cont.) Viertel, Vance bought her father's  $\frac{1}{2}$  interest from the estate. Mrs. Vance Viertel-Davis remains the owner. Present renters are Mary Young and Juanita Tuttle.

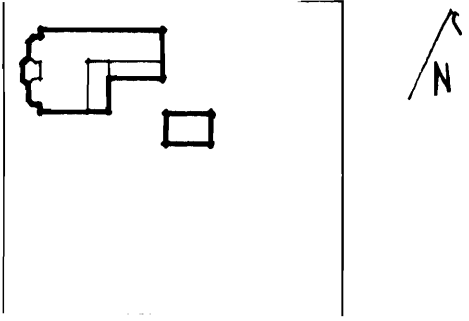

44. (cont.) arched headers and an attic opening. To the S. are wood folding garage doors and a gable roofed open carport.

42 Further Description of Important Features The original house was Greek Revival style with 3 rooms and a large hall way on each floor-ground level and main level and an open porch on the south and east on the main level. An open outside stairway sheltered by the porch roof provided the only access from the lower to the upper level, except for the steps leading to the front entrance. The lower level opened on the brick paved patio at the rear. The original kitchen was the front northwest room on ground level. A cistern was near the outside door (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Previous owners of the property include: Absalom Ream, Marcus Williams, Messers. Holman and Ormrod, W.E. Thompson Andrew Adams. Joseph L. Stephens, Julius Sombart, (founder of Sombart Mills Co. - c. 1869.) Sombart heirs, Earl and Amber Powell. Inez & Wilbur Stewart and John & Margaret England. Lon V. Stephens, 30th. governor of Missouri (1896-1900) was born in this house in 1856 while it was owned by his father Joseph. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence, facing East, sits close to the North border of lot 11. Behind and to the S is a 2 bay, 1 story brick structure built at the same time as the house as a slave quarters or summer kitchen (probably the former).

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is built on a 2/3rds. plan with the entrance as its N bay, E facade. This entrance which is inset appears to have paneled exterior doors which fold back into the inset. Pilasters with a wide ornate entablature with brackets surround the door. Ornate cast iron hoodmolds with a scroll pattern and shell keystones, and brackets at the eaves accent the front facade. The raised basement windows have soldier course flat arch headers. A brick section added to the W extends to the N 1 bay. (see attachment)

43 History and Significance House was built in 1853 by Jacob S McFaddin, allegedly by slave labor with bricks made on the lot. Original owner formed partnership in clothing and tailoring business known as McFadden and Griffin which was in operation during 1850's-1870's period. It is believed that after the original structure was built those additional rooms were built singly as need and accounts for the elongated design. The current owners have raised a roof in rear portion developing an upstairs bedroom. Conversions have been made to (attachment)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto 6th. Street. At the alley to the W is a pole barn used as a double car port. A gravel parking area is also along the alley.

43 History and Significance This house was built by Louis Roeder in 1905 as his residence. Louis Roeder, son of George Roeder who established a wagon making business in Boonville in 1860 at the SW corner of 6th and Spring Sts., worked in the family business, Roeder & Son, up to 1906 when his father died at which time he entered into partnership with George Weyland under the name Roeder and Weyland. Roeder's daughter, Lola, married Gillis Windsor who entered into partnership with Weyland following Roeder's death in 1940. The firm then became Weyland and (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment with molded concrete block wall and faces E onto 6th. Street. Along the W alley is a board and batten pent roofed shed to the N and a 2 car brick pent roofed garage to the S. This last structure has a stepped parapet, a rowlock segmentally arched opening to the N and garage doors to the W.

42. Further Description of Important Features The main block of the structure has a raised basement with windows that have flat arch headers. The 1st story has end chimneys, a raking frame cornice on the gable ends, and has 6-over-6 windows with stone sills and segmentally arched soldier course headers. The central (W) entrance has a 6 light transom and sidelights. The front porch, which has a brick foundation square chamfered post a turned balustrade, and a wide entablature, as well as (see attached sheet)
43. History and Significance In 1861, J.L. Stephens sold part of lot 12 to Obadiah Edwards for $602. At that time he had already built a brick house on the lot. The structure originally contained cresting around a 8'x11' flat rectangular platform on roof. In the 1940's, upon the ownership of Dr. R.W. and Marion Miller the basement was finished into rooms and garage, the living room was enlarged by removing the central Hallway, and the fireplaces in the dining room, south side, and basement were closed in. (cont.)
44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. The residence sits on the NE corner of 6th & Locust St. facing W onto 6th. St. The yard slopes downward to the E and allows for a walkout basement to the E and a basement garage to the S. It is reached from Locust St.

42. (cont.) the stick work detail in the gable ends were added c 1890's. The porch is capped by a pediment with skews and has lattice arches which act as a frieze. By 1885 a brick ell had been added to the N bay of the W facade, which has segmentally arched openings with a rowlock header, and a 1 bay brick pent addition to the S bay of this facade. Extending to the E from this bay is another addition which has a brick foundation with garage entrance to the S and a frame, pent roof enclosed porch on the 1st story. There is an entrance to the E which is reached by double steps with lattice skirting. The present owner states that present roof is not original but that the original roof and rafters are separate from the present with a crawl space in between.

NOTE to Item #43: Architecturally significant on a local level, the structure reflects the Missouri German style, a 1860's streetscape, and the strong brick construction tradition.

42. Further Description of Important Features The mansard roof is accented by a polygonal tower at the NW corner and pedimented dormers. A later 1920's 1 story hip roof porch extends the full length of the W facade and shields the primary entrance which has a 6 light arched transom and sidelights. The back section of the structure projects beyond the main block by 1 bay both N & S. A 1 story addition is on the NW and sits on an original brick porch foundation. On the SW is a new addition on a new foundation. This brick addition extends to the W 1 bay and has a N entrance, (cont.)

43. History and Significance The structure was built in an area of Boonville for which there is a history of educational institutions--Missouri Female Seminary, Cooper Institute, Dunkles Business College. Prior to the present structure's erection the site contained a rectangular brick house with a frame rear porch which was in existence in 1885 and remained till 1892. It is possible that this dwelling was incorporated into the Megquire Seminary building. The Megquire Seminary building was built or reworked in 1892 and the first classes were offered in 1893, Julia Megquire (cont.)

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SE corner of 6th and Locust, facing W onto 6th. The yard slopes down to the rear where there is a gravel parking area. There are no outbuildings.

Windows in the main block are 2/2 with segmentally arched brick headers. The rear (E) basement level is exposed and there are 2 entrances. Several windows on this E facade are coupled; all have segmentally arched headers.
43. (cont.) principal. The Seminary was "recognized as unsurpassable in its class for its salutary influence and accomplished results" in the education of women. Self proclaimed as a "Home and Day School for Girls," it was the first private school in Missouri to create a department of social economics. Instruction encompassed the following subjects: deportment, morality, English, mathematics, languages, government, art, history, ancient history, geography, physical and natural sciences, psychology, and music. The Seminary was non-sectarian but a "healthful religious sentiment is fostered." During the 1898-99 school year there were 8 teachers, 65 pupils and the school property was valued at $1500 with $500 worth of scientific equipment and a "well selected and maintained library." In 1896 the building was enlarged to meet a growing student body. In 1902 the founder and principal, Julia Megquire died and from then on till its closing in 1905 the Seminary was headed by Mrs. Roller. On June 12, 1905, the building was reopened as the St. Joseph's Sanitarium under the direction of Dr. C.H. van Ravenswaay and the Benedictine Sisters. Dr. van Ravenswaay donated $100.00 in cash, assumed payments of rent, provided operating room supplies, and donated most of the furnishings from his original clinic on 3rd St. The Sisters furnished the other necessities, mostly on credit from Boonville merchants. The Sanitarium remained operating till it moved in 1918 to the St. Joseph's Hospital. In 1917 it was also listed as "Sisters Dwelling" although they may have resided within since its inception. In 1918 the building was converted into apartments and was known as the Maplewood Apartments. Previous owners were Dale and Phyliss Reeseman.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade (E) features a gable brick pediment over the central bay, a frame porch which has a central polygonal bay, and an centered entrance which is now enclosed in a frame polygonal bay. The porch has chamfered wood posts with capitals, brackets, a sawtooth frieze and an enclosed 2nd story. On the S facade is a 1 story flat roofed polygonal bay, on the N is a basement entrance at the street level. Extending to the W is an original gambriel roofed 1½ story ell. There is a pent roof, vertical board (see attached sheet).

43 History and Significance The structure was the residence of journalist/author Elston J. Melton. Melton worked as "printer, reporter, editor, partner, or owner and publisher at Pilot Grove, Sedalia, and Caruthersville and Boonville" throughout a long and illustrious career. In 1929 he developed the Boonville Republican, which operated 4 years as a weekly, and nearly 1 year as a daily before merging with the Boonville Daily News and serving as its editor. Melton's last newspaper enterprise was spent serving as president and editor of the Cooper County (cont.)

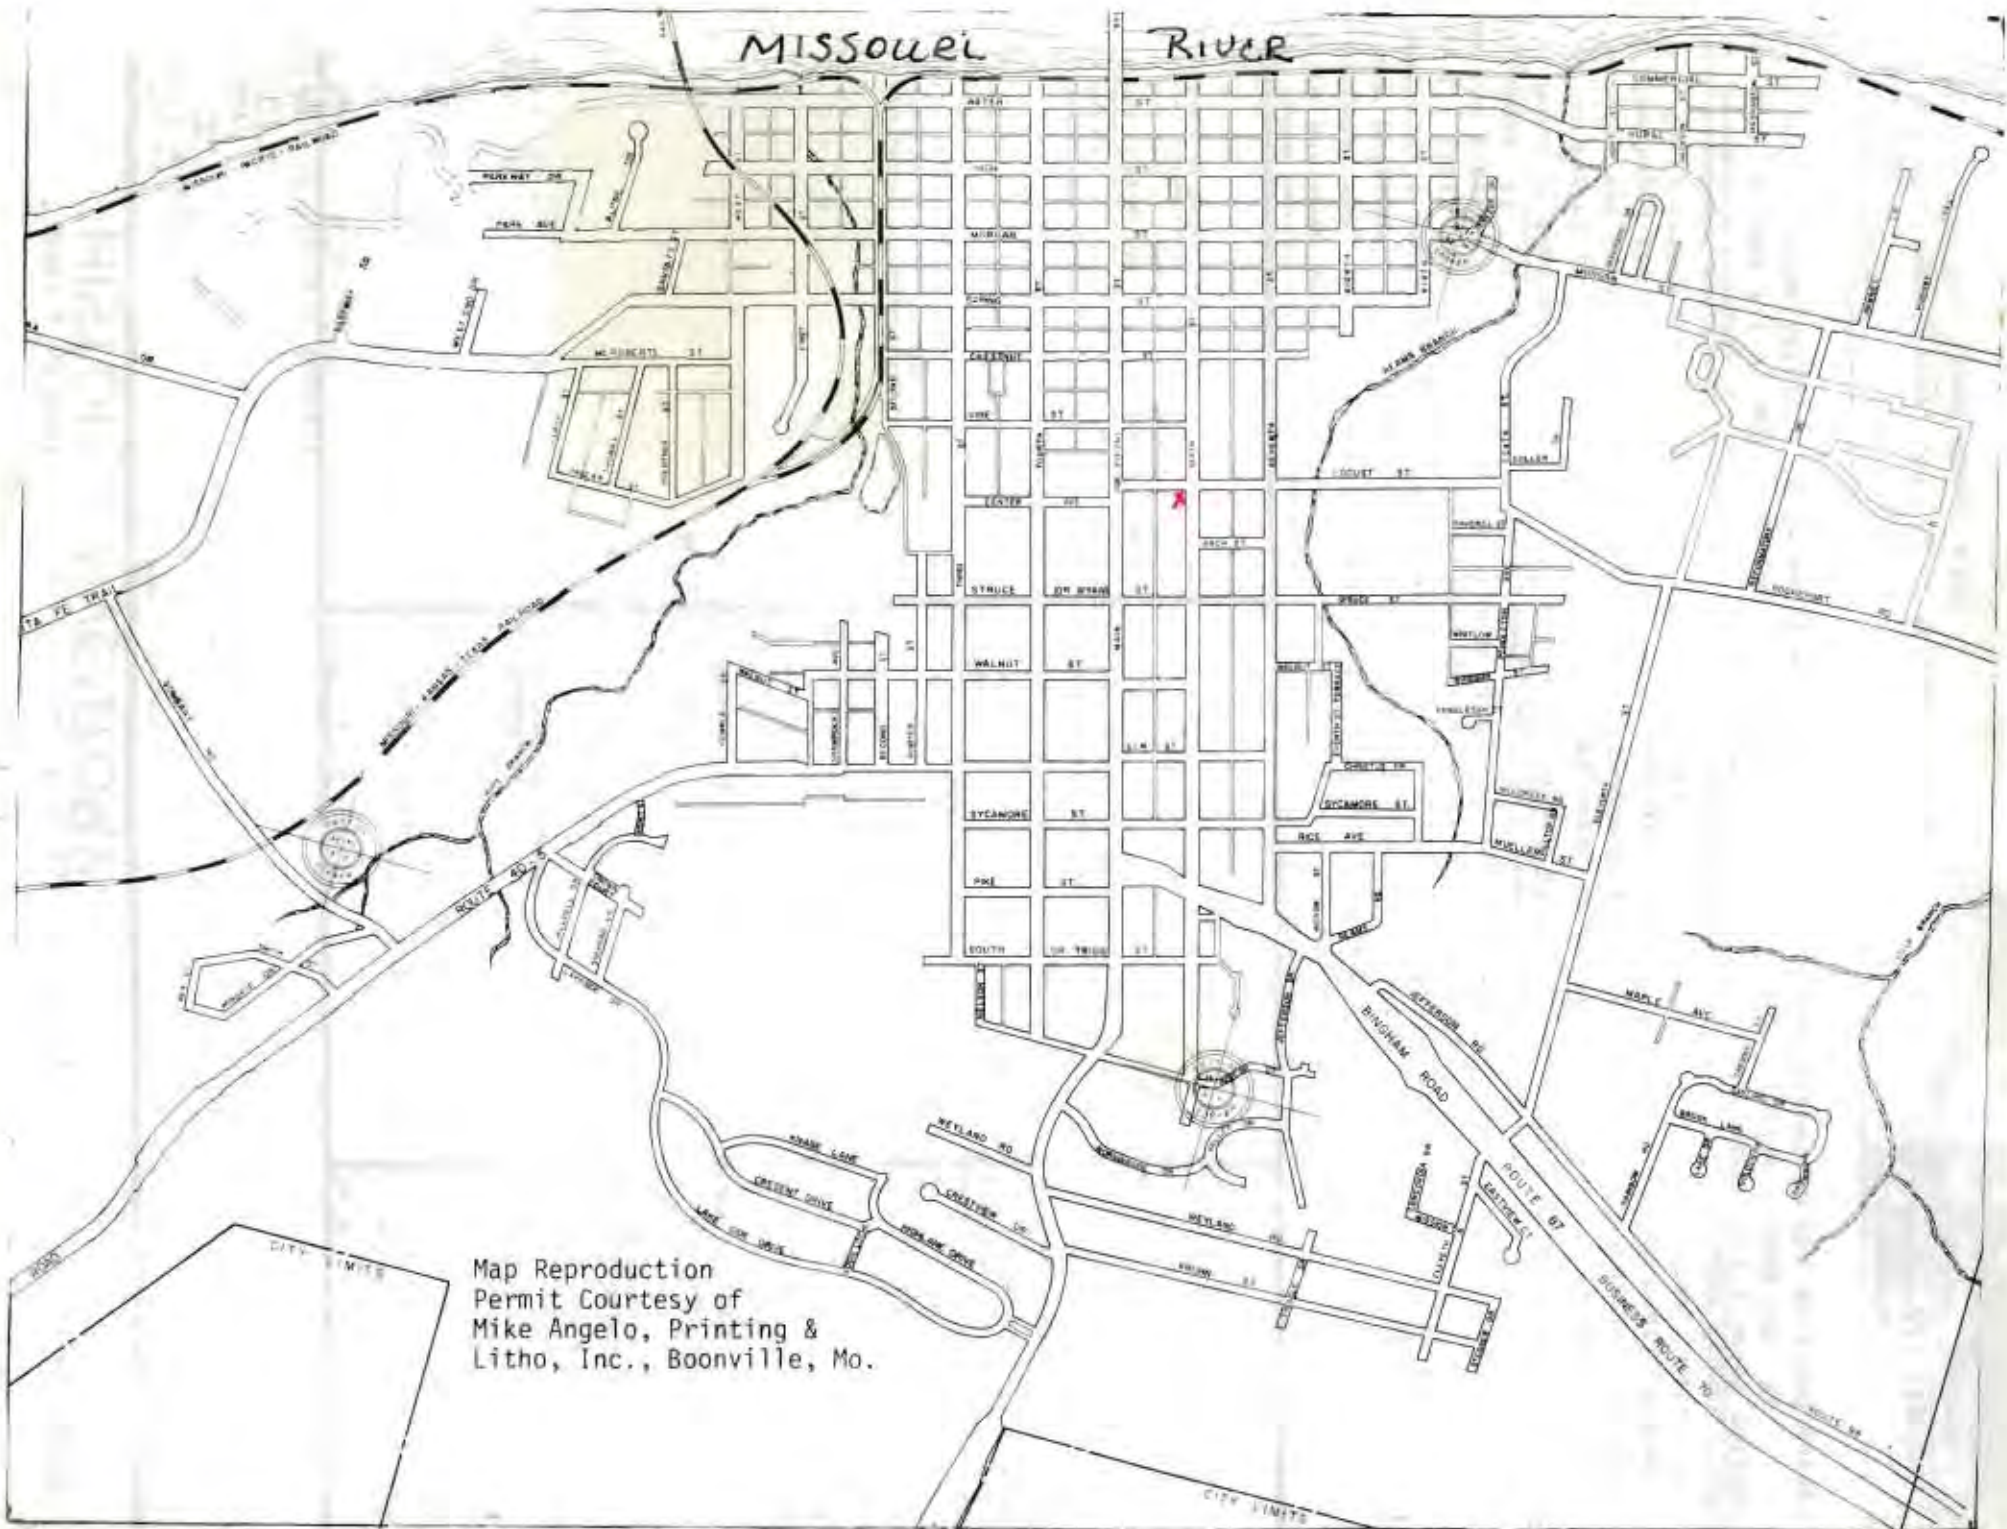

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits back from the street, has a brick retaining wall on the E & N, and is at the SW corner of 6th and Locust, facing E onto 6th. St. There are no outbuildings. A drive from the alley on the W give access to the attached garage.

43. (cont.) Record, a weekly newspaper. Among the books he has written and published are the History of Cooper County (1937) and The First Hundred Years (1957), a history of Thespian Hall. In 1930 Melton ran an unsuccessful bid as the Republican nominee for Congressional Representative in the Eighth District of Missouri.

An unsubstantiated oral history relates that prior to Melton's ownership the structure served as the residence of Rylie Redd, president of the defunct Farmers State Bank.

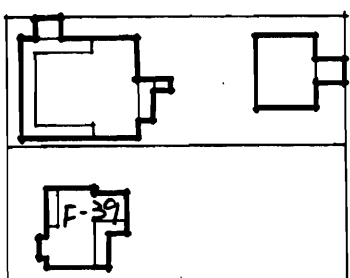

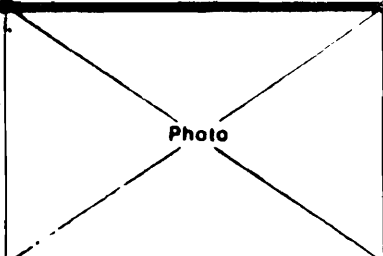

This residence is both historically and architecturally significant and is a pivotal point in the streetscape of this district.

43 History and Significance Unsubstantiated interview information indicates that the structure was built by William H. Trigg for his daughter Annie M. Lionberger as her dowry, the present owner relates that it was built for a Dr. Harlon. A member of the family committed suicide in the 2nd. story bath. The residence remained in the Harlon family till 1963 when it was purchased by R.E. Casanoca. Colonel Max Rigney, was the owner as of 1973. The present owners, of Ross Interiors, Spring St., obtained the house in 1976. (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) arched soldier course headers, projecting lug sills with small brackets, and are shuttered. On the W facade is a 1 story gable ell to the N which has a walk out basement entrance. The 1st story windows repeat those of the main block, but without the bracketed sill. The basement openings have segmentally arched rowlock headers. A frame porch on brick piers with an extended frame deck is the S bay of this facade. Brick ell added c 1920, present front porch added c. 1950, storage room basement level added c 1964, and wood deck built c 1978.

On the interior is a central entry hall with staircase. The rooms to the S 1st story are divided by sliding doors. The original basement area has a dirt floor. Under the dirt floor is "some sort of a tunnel with a brick ceiling" which is probably the remains of a wine cellar.

43. (cont.) Structure sits on the site of the Missouri Female Academy which was destroyed by fire, ca. 1870's.

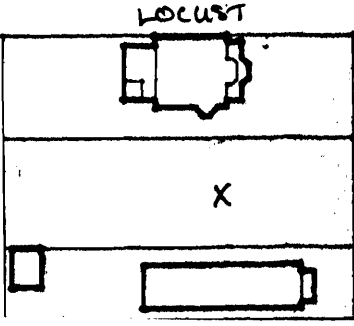

Buildings along both sides of this block form a cohesive quality due to site and the many large residences built in the Italianate and Queen Anne styles. They form one facet of the wealthy residential areas which were located in Boonville. This structure has local significance due to the fact that it is an integral part of this block and a pivotal point in the district.

43 History and Significance The site is now an open gravel parking lot used by the Laura Speed Elliot School. By 1892 a 1 story brick Missouri German dwelling was in existence on this site and was associated with the Cooper Institute, Anthony Haynes, principal. By 1900, with the demise of the Institute, the building became a private residence and remained until approx. 1976 when it was razed.

42 Further Description of Important Features The elongated structure is built on a 2/3rd plan with the entrance on the N bay of the E facade. Because of the slope of the lot the 1st story is raised and there is a walkout basement on this facade. The 2nd. story has projecting straight-side arched hoodmolds and corbel labels over the 2/2 windows. The N & S facades echo each other: 1st and 2nd. stories have the ornate hood molds, basement level has segmentally arched soldier course headers. Change in brickwork indicates several alterations in (see attached)

43 History and Significance The Cooper Institute, a seminary, was founded in 1863 by Rev. X.X. Buckner, a minister of the Baptist Church. In 1865, it was sold to Q.W. Marston who had charge of it till 1868. It ceased operation till 1870 when Professor Anthony Haynes became owner and headmaster and moved its operation to a suite of rooms above the Stephens Opera House (Thespian Hall). In 1871 Haynes had the Cooper Institute building constructed, to which he moved the school in 1873. It remained in operation till at least 1896 (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the front of the property, which rises to an alley on the W. On the SW corner of the lot is a large gabled barn shared with 715 6th. St. At the rear, along the alley is an independent structure. It faces E, has a gable roof and is a 1 story brick structure. There is a chimney (see attached sheet)

42 Further Description of Important Features The roofline is accented by a wide frieze with block modillions and an ornately corbelled chimney cap. On the primary (W) facade is a projecting 2 bay, 2 story rectangular bay to the N and a 1 story porch with paired chamfered columns, a panelled entablature with brackets and a cut out balustrade on the S bay. Windows in this main block are attenuated 1-over-1 or 2-over-2, have soldier course flat arched headers, and some have transoms which may be a later alteration. The projecting frame sills (see attached sheet)

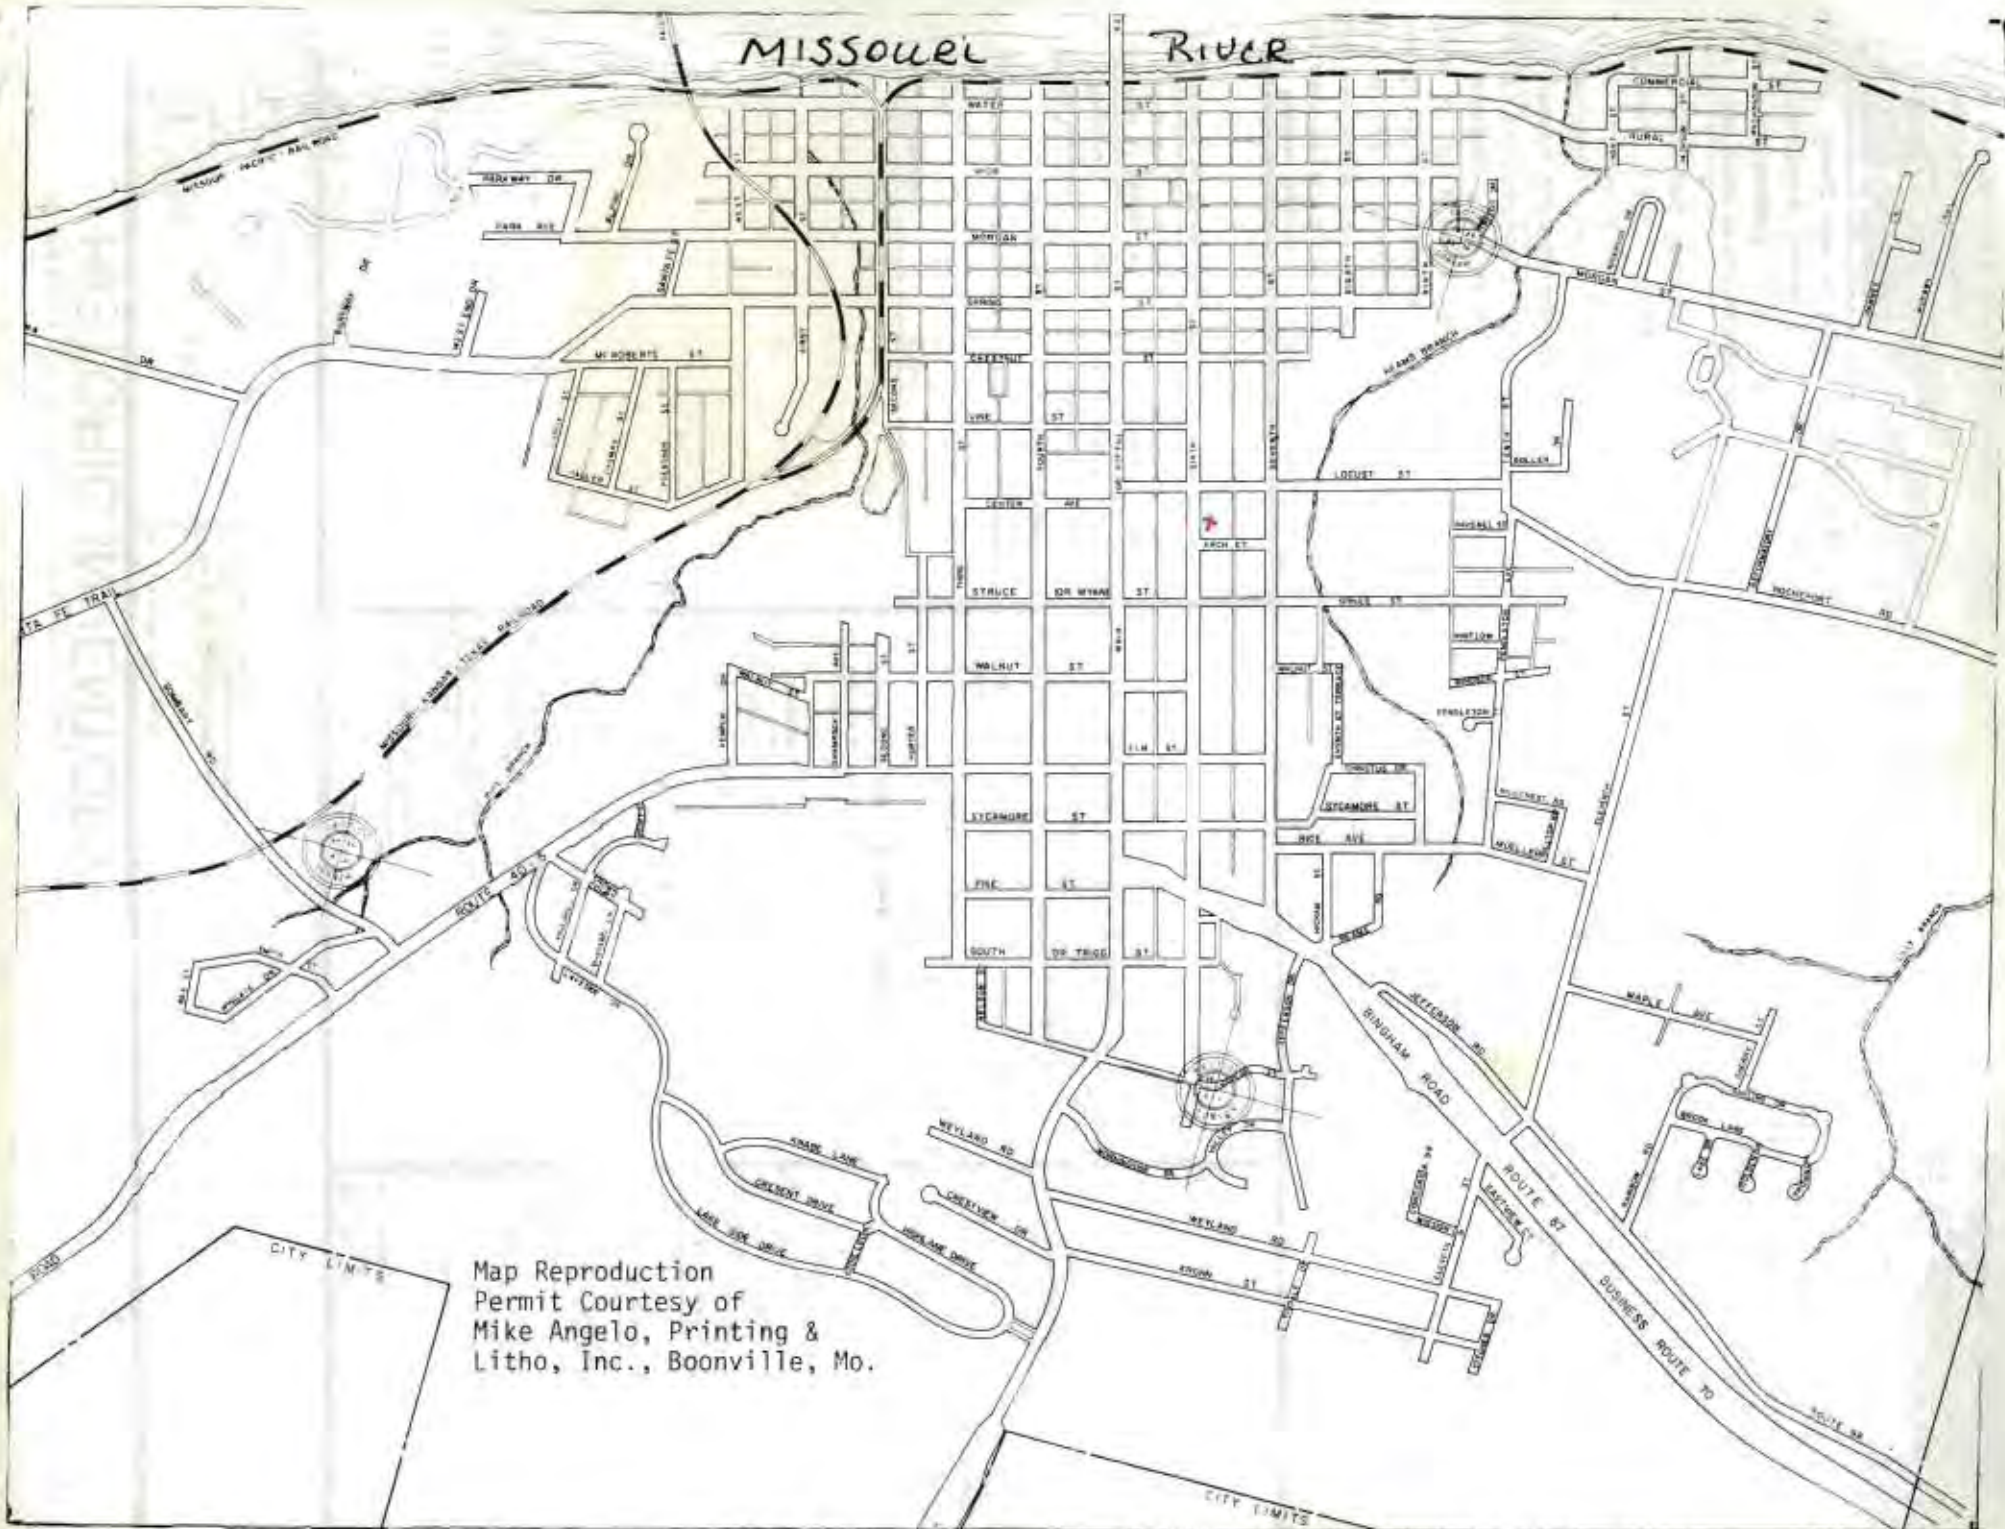

43 History and Significance Abstract information indicates that in 1882 Frank and Emma Lionberger expanded their existing lot by the addition of a 20 by 187½ foot lot. The present residence is situated on this expanded lot. Subsequent owners have been: John F. Robers, 1893; Andrew Fluke, 1911; George J. Weitz, 1912; Albert H. Meyer, 1916; Kelly A. Simmons, 1919; Arthur J. Arnold and Thomas Turner, who probably converted the residence into apartments, 1922; (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto 6th. Street. The rear yard tapers downward to the alley on the E and allows for a walk out basement. A drive to the S of the structure leads to a gravel parking area and a 4 car hollow tile and brick, pent roofed garage along the alley. The garage doors are on the W facade.

42. (cont.) have block type brackets which echos the motif at the eaves. On the S is a 1 story polygonal bay which also repeats the modillions at the eaves of its flat roof. It sits on a brick foundation where windows with segmentally arched, rowlock headers appear. To the rear (E) and extending the full length of that facade is a 2 story plus basement brick, pent roofed addition, which has small windows with segmentally arched double rowlock headers and a corbelled brick sills.

There is a 1 story pent frame porch at the basement level, S. bay.

The 4 utility meters and the garage indicate the structure was at one time used as apartments however, recent repair work indicates it is being returned to a single family dwelling. The present owner has lowered a number of the first story ceilings to 10' and is in the process of replacing the original windows with "thermogard" windows.

43. (cont.) Sam A. Phillips, 1924; R.A. Johnston, 1932; Clay Glover, 1943; Earl Powell, State Representative (1955-56) and City Mayor (1962-67), who did not live in the premises, 1946; Robert Gensler, 1960; T. Richard Mitchell, 1965; Ruben Linneman, 1972; John Buffalow, 1973; Loretta Meyers, 1976. The residence sits on the site of a large Greek Revival brick building known at various times as Missouri Female Seminary, Pleasant Retreat Female Seminary, and Union Female College. Developed by Reverend Peter C. Rea, Cumberland Presbyterian minister and other Boonville notables of the era. It was one of the larger private schools that flourished in Boonville before and after the Civil War. Between 1871-73, the building was used by Anthony Haynes, president of the Cooper Institute, prior to the construction of that institute's building across the street. The exact date of razing is not known.

Buildings along both sides of this block form a cohesive quality due to site and the many large residences built in the Italianate and Queen Anne styles. They form one facet of the wealthy residential areas which were located in Boonville. This structure has local significance due to the fact that it is an integral part of this block and a pivotal point in the district.

42 Further Description of Important Features The E facade has a 2 story projecting bay to the N, to the S are 3 bays including an entrance with a transom. These 3 bays are covered by an ornate 2 story porch. Raised on brick piers, the porch has chamfered wood posts, ornate caps and scroll brackets. A frame balustrade above forms a porch for the 2nd. story entrance which also has a transom. All openings have soldier course segmentally arched headers. Windows are attenuated 2-over-2 and have bracketed sills, on the E facade only. (see attached sheet)

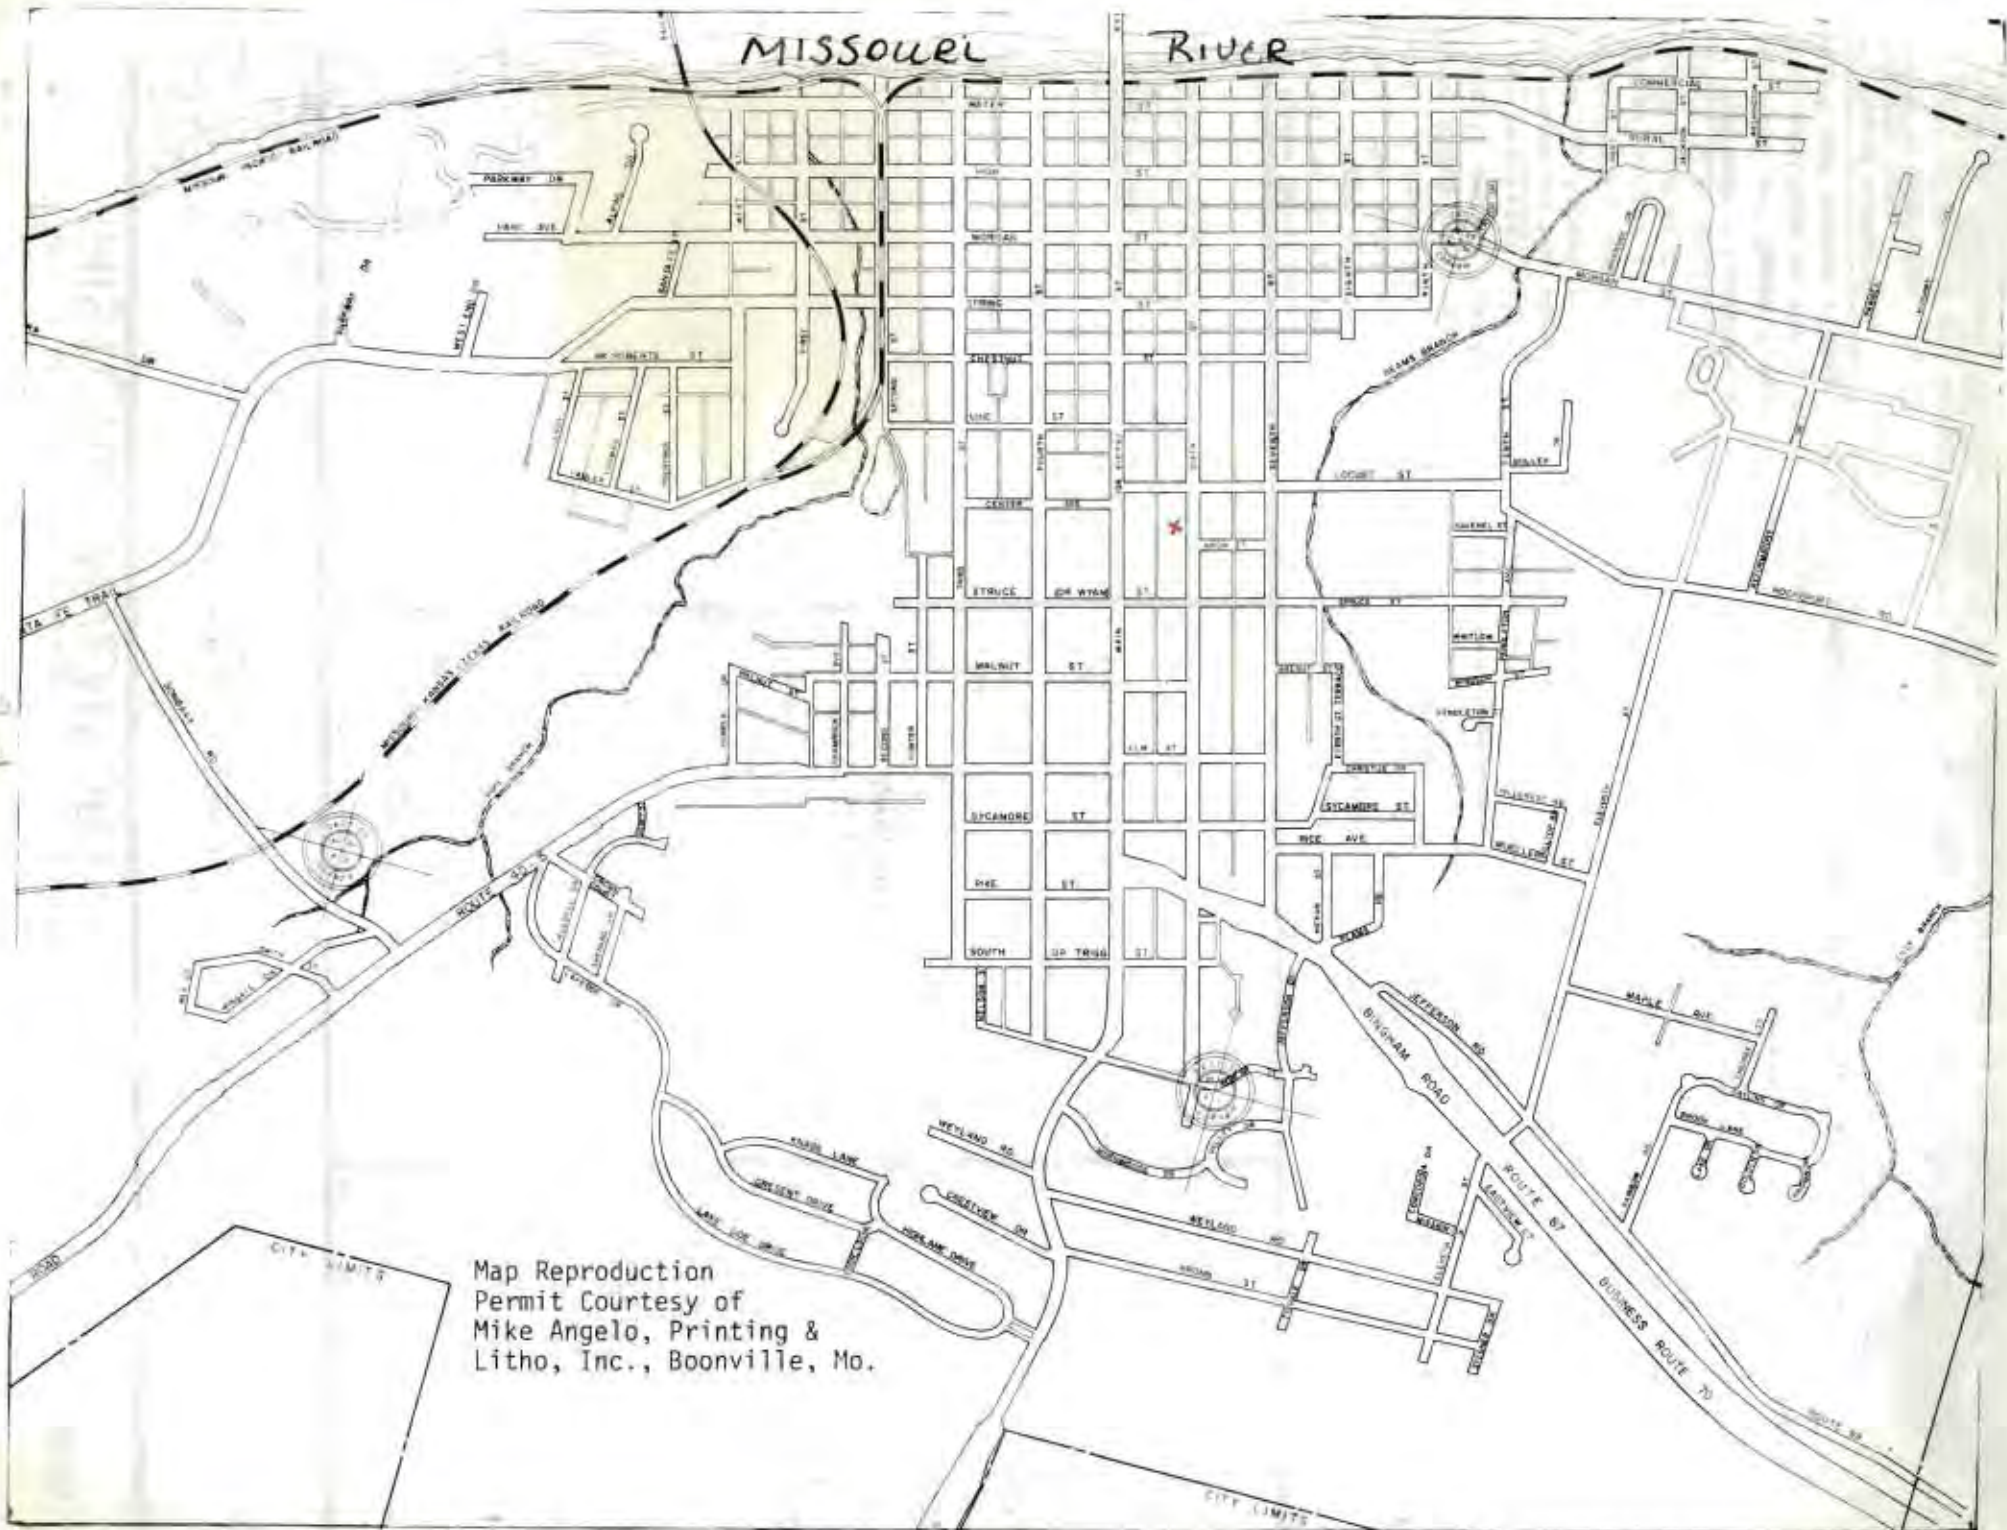

43 History and Significance The house may have been built by or for its first owner Wm. R. Baker, an elected Boonville Public Administrator (1876-80). In 1889 it served as a town house to Capt. Charles E. Leonard, the wealthy and successful pedigree stock raiser and owner of Ravenswood Farm located 10 miles south east of Boonville. Leonard's young son, Nelson, "attended school next door at Tony Haynes School" (Haynes Institute). Additional owners include: W.E. Evans, 1892; W.C. Knight, 1897; Wm. Knight, 1907; Isham Alexander, 1908; Trustees of the Baptist

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment with a concrete retaining wall and faces E onto 6th. St. At the NW corner of the property is a large barn with a pent addition to the S which is shared with 711 6th. St. It has a gable roof and vertical board and batten siding.

42. (cont.) On the W is a hip roofed, 1 story brick ell which appears to be original. Along its N facade is a frame vertical board and batten addition. A 1 story pent roofed brick addition extends along its S facade. The main block has ornately corbelled chimney caps.

After 1929 a commercial structure was built on the side walk and utilized as a "Mom and Pop" type of general store serving the needs of the neighborhood. Between 1960 and 1975 it was rented as the office for the Missouri Angus Association. At present it is vacant.

Significant on a local level as part of a cohesive neighborhood and streetscape and for its association with the Leonard family.

42 Further Description of Important Features The eaves with large paired cornice brackets with smaller one between repeats exactly those of 708 6th. St. The (W) primary facade has a 2 story polygonal bay to the N and to the S is a 2 story rectangular stepped bay, which has an ornately panelled inset entrance at its 1st step and windows at its 2nd. The entrance has a panelled frame surround and is afforded protection by a 1 story frame porch with classical motifs. It sits on a new brick foundation and has paired, fluted doric columns and a wide entablature (see attached sheet).
43 History and Significance The 720 6th. Street lot contained a structure that predates this Italianate structure and it is possible that a portion is incorporated into it. Earlier structure was existant before 1852 because in that year Gilson Harrison purchased "the same ground upon which the undersigned and family are now living," at a price of $1,500. This evaluation for a single lot would also indicate the existance of a structure. In 1855 it was bought by a William Johnson for $1,750. Ownership was retained for 13 years and then sold to (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) with a dentil frieze. There is a 2 story rectangular bay on the S. Windows on this main block (N,S, & W) are shuttered and are attenuated 1-over-1, and have segmentally arched soldier course headers. On the W only are scroll type bracketed sills. The E facade of this block has rowlock headers segmentally arched on the 2nd. story, as lintels on the 1st story and a soldier course flat arch header on the walkout basement level. There has been some alteration of the brickwork on this level. Also on this E facade at the N bay are 2 brick additions with flat roofs and a rowlock course at the parapet. These project slightly to the N. Along their S facade and across the E facade is a frame porch supported on square wood columns.

43. (cont.) Charles Farringer, a music teacher in 1868. for $4,000. Farringer is noted as living at that location in 1869. It then was sold to William H. Trigg in 1873, who sold it and other lands to his daughter Juliet and her husband William M. Johnson, in 1883. The Johnsons, a prominent merchant family, resided there till Juliet, a widow sold it in 1919 to Ray Bassett, owner of Bassett-Grocery Store, 328 Main Street. In 1922 it was sold to Catherine Smith, a school teacher. In 1959 Ernest Lammers of the City Tire and Electric Store bought the structure which had at some previous date been converted into 5 apartments.

Renovations by the present owners include: complete renovation of the interior; installation of rear staircase; removal of two of 6 fireplaces; installation of central furnace, air conditioning, wiring and plumbing; removal of original wrap-around front porch with replacement porch designed by architect Winn Brady; addition of front facade panelling; construction of rear deck; removal of rear carriage house.

43 History and Significance The building helps to form a cohesive district and streetscape and is therefore significant on a local level. The structure was built for Frank George, the senior partner in the George and Goodman Furniture and Undertaking business. George sold his farm in Cooper County and moved to Boonville in 1899 and opened an implement and grocery business. In 1911 he sold out and founded the firm of George and Goodman, which was located at 321 Main St. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto 6th, St. sits on an embankment, and has a concrete retaining wall. To the S is an open lot where a c 1910 structure was razed. Front steps remain. In its place is a gable roofed brick garage which has a drive from the alley to the W. At the SW corner of this lot is a vertical board, pent roofed shed.

42. (cont.) soldier course, segmentally arched headers. The S facade has an extra window at the stair landing level. All gable ends are embellished with fishscale shingles, stickwork, and skews. On the W is a gabled ell with a 1 story pent addition on its N facade and a pent porch on the S with an entrance to the S.

43. (cont.) George also served as Cooper county Sheriff between 1902-1906 and mayor in 1914. In 1945 the structure became the residence of S.F. Biesmeyer and in 1962, William Arnold.

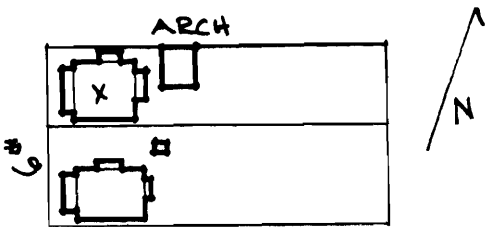

Located to the E of the structure was a structure probably built in the 1850's. By 1869 it was the residence of Johann Herick Rickmeyer, a tobacconist. Following this it was the residence of John Otten, and in 1892 of Claus Otten, a carpenter. The structure was removed, possibly by fire, sometime between 1917 and 1929.

42 Further Description of Important Features The residence has bungaloid affinities such as a gable end to street which is stuccoed, a chimney (to the N) with small flanking windows, and an entrance which is slightly off center. It has a 1 story hip roofed porch which is supported by brick piers and frame square columns extending across the W facade. However the openings echo the Italianate structures to the N. The 1st floor has ornate straight sided arched hoodmolds. The basement level and the S facade have double rowlock, segmentally (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance A past owner was the Zag family. The present owners have modernized the interior.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SE corner of 6th and Arch Streets, facing W onto 6th. Street. The yard slopes off to the E alley and a 2 car vertical board and batten, gable roofed garage. It has a ribbed tin roof.

43 History and Significance Significant on a local level as part of a cohesive neighborhood. Mrs. Niemeyer has owned and resided in this house from 1942 to the present. The previous owner was Vernon H. Streight (1934-42). Prior to Streight it was the residence of Ida C. Pendleton (1926-33). From 1903 to 1924 it was the residence of John W. Cunningham (whose heirs sold it to Mrs. Pendleton), and from 1881 to 1903 it was owned by Sallie L. Rogers. The house was built in the 1860's for the Wettendorf family, who owned it from 1859 to 1881.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto 6th. St. It sits on an embankment and has a concrete retaining wall which ends at a concrete, partially underground garage at street level on the NE corner of the property. On the NW corner is a pent roofed vertical board shed.

42 Further Description of Important Features The front (E) has a stepped facade. Its N bay has a gable roof filled with 4 bands of fishscale shingles, stickwork detailing and a circular window. The central bay has a shallow polygonal bay with a polygonal roof on the 2nd story and the primary entrance which has a transom is covered by a 1 story pent roofed porch. It has doric columns on new brick piers. Bull's eye motifs, scrollwork and an inset fan pattern at the roof end embellish the porch. On the S facade is a projecting (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance Lot is portion of 10 acres of land owned by Payton R. Hayden, noted early Boonville and Missouri Lawyer. The Hayden house was situated on S.E. corner of 5th and Locust streets. Between 1884 and 1887 a frame dwelling was built on the 731 6th. street lot by Frank Meierhoffer. This structure was probably destroyed by fire because in 1897 Robert Sombart built the present brick structure. The history of ownership is as follows: A.J. Flicke - 1900; Bettie Lionberger - 1903; Nannie Lionberger and Carrie (see attached sheet)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an embankment with a concrete retaining wall and faces E onto 6th. Street. There is a garage on the alley to the W. It has a concrete block foundation and is sheathed in corrugated metal.

42. (cont.) rectangular bay which repeats the gable end motifs of the NE bay. There is a chimney to the N. The W facade has a 1 story pent roofed clapboard addition which extends the full length of the facade. Generally windows are 1-over-1 and have soldier course, segmentally arched headers.

43. (cont.) Brick (daughters of Bettie) - 1918; Emile B. Turner - 1918; Ida Gentry - 1925; John Molan - 1933; Leo Kempf - 1943; J.W. Farris - 1955; Othal O. McCoy - 1955; Margaret C. Hurt - 1960; Edwin R. Weed - 1962.

Present owner relates that he had the ceilings in both the kitchen and living room lowered around 1969. Original frame porch was replaced during the Margaret Hurt ownership. Original wood work two "pocket" door and walnut staircase remain in natural finish. There is one gas fireplace in existence. The structure helps to form an architectural unity along this block.

It has local significance.

42 Further Description of Important Features The original structure had 3 bays to the W, a frame cornice which rakes at the gable ends (N & S) and had a gable ell to the E, S bay, which formed an "L-shaped" structure. Windows on this original part have segmentally arched headers, soldier course on the 1st floor, rowlock at the basement level. Additions include a gable, brick ell on the N which has an entrance to the W and a later porch on the W which has a brick balustrade and square brick columns. It is now enclosed with vinyl (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance Present owner has owned structure since 1973 and has made renovations that include the installation of new plumbing, furnace, storm windows, panelling and dropped ceilings.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto 6th. St. It sits close to 728 6th. on the N and 734 6th. on the S. A concrete walk and wall to the S give access to the rear yard which slopes off to the E alley and allows for a walk out basement. The 1 outbuilding, a metal storage shed, is to the E.

42 Further Description of Important Features This buff brick structure is accented by a central entrance (W) with sandstone quoin surrounds and a flat arch header with a projecting keystone. It has a semi-circular arched canopy with scalloped braces. Windows are generally 6-over-6 with a soldier course lintel and a corbelled brick sill, except on the 1st story W facade, and a window E. 1st story facade which are large multipane windows. The S facade has a chimney with flanking circular windows set off by rowlock surrounds. (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance The structure was built for Roland Stegner's residence by contractors Wilbur Stretz and Frank Zeller.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto 6th. Street and has a large open side lot to the S. Along the S facade are steps which lead down to the walk out basement on the E. The yard slopes to the alley on the E where there is a public utility metal outbuilding. There are no outbuildings associated directly with this property.

42 Further Description of Important Features Scroll brackets at the eaves on the N, S, & E facades have small pendants. These are echoed in the brackets on the polygonal 1 story bay with a flat roof on the S facade. The primary (E) facade has a projecting ell on its S bay which has an entrance with transom. Its N bay has a 2 story polygonal bay. Judging from the brickwork this may have been a later addition but was there by 1900. Windows generally are attenuated 2-over-2 and have soldier course, segmentally arched headers. Additions include a 1 story (see attachment)

43 History and Significance Typical of style and site this residence is significant on a local level as a part of the whole essence of this block. Present owners bought this house in 1976 from Dub Leach, New Franklin. The apartments have been in the house from the late 30's or early 40's. From at least 1912 until his death in the early 1930's, R.M. "Dick" Harrison, a painter of some note, owned and lived in this house with his two aunts, Linna and Eliza Howard. Dick Harrison, born in Boonville in 1859, spent his early years as a clerk and later as an (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto 6th. Street and sits on an embankment. There is a concrete block, pent roofed garage on the alley to the W.

A pent 2 story brick addition with segmentally arched rowlock window headers is on the S bay of the W facade. Onto this section is another pent roofed addition which is frame 1st story with asbestos siding, and an open porch 2nd. story. On the NW is a 2 story frame section sheathed in asbestos siding.

43. (cont.) engineer under Capt. Henry McPherson, an old river boat captain who developed an extensive construction business. On one of his jobs building a railroad in Monterey, Mexico, Harrison got a case of swamp fever which partially incapacitated him for the rest of his life and eventually led to his blindness in 1908. Before he went blind he took up painting and studied under F.H. Morse, a well-known portrait artist of his day, in St. Louis. Here his success was so great that he soon became a partner in the firm. He then went to New York in 1898 to continue his studies and returned to St. Louis to practice his art. Before he went blind he painted numerous portraits of state notables such as Gov. Lon V. Stephens, Senator Harry B. Hawes, and several Missouri State Supreme Court Justices. He also did a number of portraits of prominent Boonville citizens such as Dr. John Hall, R.W. Whitlow, J.F. Gmelich, Judge W.M. Williams, C.H. Briggs, Mrs. H.L. Harlan and others.

Following Harrison's death in the 1930's the building was purchased by Dr. K.L. Frasier and remodeled into apartments. It has been rental property since that time with numerous owners.

42 Further Description of Important Features The W facade has a central entrance with transom, sidelights, and flanking pilasters. Openings have double soldier course, segmentally arched headers. Windows are 2-over-1 and have narrow frame sills. A later porch covers the center 3 bays. It is raised and has brick columns and balustrade, and a pent roof. There is an original ell on the N bay of the W facade. It is gabled and has rowlock headers over the segmentally arched windows. Additions include a pent roofed brick addition on the NW corner (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Present owners had added greenhouse passage connecting 743 to 747. Buildings along both sides of this block from a cohesive quality due to site and the many large residences built in the Italianate and Queen Anne styles. They form one facet of the wealthy residential areas which were located in Boonville. This structure has local significance due to the fact that it is an integral part of this block and a pivotal point in the district.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a high embankment facing E onto 6th Street. The front steps have been removed. The yard rises to an alley on the W. The 1 outbuilding is a partially underground concrete garage at the street level on the E.

43 History and Significance This home, known locally as the "Mittelbach house," was built in three different phases. The rear first floor and cellar consisted as a farm home around 1850. About 1870 the middle section, bay windows, and second floor were added. At that time the front door faced north. In 1906 the front of the house, turret, and third floor were added and the entrance moved to Sixth Street. Additions and final improvements were made by Dr. William Mittelbach in 1906. (The original Mittelbach home was located (see attached sheet))
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the NE corner of 6th & Spruce, facing E onto 6th. The rear yard rises to an alley on the W. At the SW corner of the structure is a hip roofed, lattice covered gazebo. It has a scalloped cornice and side braces. A concrete patio and steps up to the yard are off the rear porch. which may form a balcony above. Windows have soldier course, straight side hoods and concrete lug sills. On the SE is a circular projecting 3 story tower. It is to be of a different brick, but continues the window motifs, except that the concrete forms a sill course and there is a soldier course connecting the hoods.

At the 3rd. story there are no openings. This top area is embellished with 2 projecting stretcher courses; 2 frame entablatures, painted white; and a projecting cornice with scroll brackets. These brackets differ from those which are at the eaves of the main structure. The N facade has 4 bays with a gable wall dormer which repeats that on the front and a hipped dormer. The S facade has 3 hipped dormers. A polygonal bay with ridge cresting, and some windows have only a soldier course, segmentally arched header. The W facade has a gable wall dormer, is 2 bays wide and has 2 story frame porch which has chamfered post, brackets, and lattice work. The majority of the 1905 interior millwork is intact.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built on a 2/3rds plan, the building features ornate iron cresting on the truncated ridge of the roof and a bracketed eave. The primary entrance has a decoratively etched glass in its transom and was originally capped by a 2 bay frame Victorian porch. A new porch (c. 1930's) now extends across all 3 bays. It has a hip roof supported by panelled, battered columns and a molded concrete block foundation. All of the 1-over-1 windows have segmentally arched headers. On the S of the central 2 story section is an inset (cont.)		26 Local Contact Person or Organization Friends of Historic Boonville
43 History and Significance The structure was built by Charles Wassman of Wassman and Brothers Brickyard, possibly as his residence. In 1881 it was purchased by August and William Dengolesky, employees of Gantner and Co. brickyard which was located in close proximity to the structure on Spruce Street. An assumption is made that the structure was by this time a duplex and both brothers and their families probably resided there. The brothers during this era also entered into the saloon business on Main St.. In 1884, however, August Dengolesky sold his half (cont.)		27 Other Surveys in Which Included

43. (cont.) interest to his brother. The structure was next purchased in 1889 by Andrew Summers. In 1892 it sold to C.H. Brokmeyer, a merchant who resided at 810 6th St. and the structure was used as rental property. In 1902 it sold to Sophia Page who resided there with her retired husband C.H. Page. In 1912, however, it was sold to Frank Brokmeyer, the son of C.H. Brokmeyer, who resided in their family dwelling. Following Brokmeyer's death in 1919, the structure sold to W.G. Gilbreath. Between 1923 and 1955 it was owned by Roger D. Grigsby, in which time the back eastern portion of the lot was sold off. The structure was owned briefly in 1955 by Earl and Amber Powell, and sold later that year to Morton Craig. In 1962 it sold to Barbara Eidman, a teacher at Central Elementary School, who resided there with her husband and rented the other apartment to Clay Morris. In 1976 the duplex was purchased by Paul and Harry Mark Wooldridge, of the Wooldridge Brothers law firm, for rental property.

42 Further Description of Important Features The outstanding feature of this structure is the double parapet chimney on the N facade. Several windows on this facade are 6-over-6 and all have segmentally arched windows. The roofline ends in returns. On the primary (W) facade the cornice is boxed and there is a later 3 bay porch with molded concrete block foundation piers, doric wood columns, wide entablature, and a pent roof. The 1-over-1 windows repeat the segmentally arched headers except on the 2 gable dormers. The entrance has transom and sidelights. (cont.)
43 History and Significance Structure is believed to have been built by George Roeder, a carriage maker. Roeder built a number of houses in town but apparently had this house built along the lines of an earlier German style. Subsequent owners are: F.M. Rooks, 1885; Frederick P. Willman, 1893 (resided elsewhere); Joseph S. Henry, 1919 (known as the founder of the Gilbreath-Henry Foundation and a temperance leader), who rented the structure prior to purchase; Chambers sisters, 1940; Georgia Taylor, 1948; Vinita Taylor, 1949; Gerald C. Wilkerson, 1978.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the front of the lot facing W onto 6th. There is a rock retaining wall to the front and a molded concrete block wall to the N. A metal shed is along the E alley.

43 History and Significance C.H. Brokmeyer resided here from at least the 1890's until his death in 1902. Brokmeyer (1845-1902) came to America from Germany c. 1865. He lived in St. Louis, Jefferson City and Bunceton for a short time and moved to Boonville c. 1870 where he engaged in the general merchandise business with C.H. Heim, then A. Schnedler, and then became sole owner of the business at 318-320 Main St. During his residence in Boonville he built more than 60 dwellings, though apparently not this residence.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Facing W onto 6th St., the building has an ornate concrete stair and walk leading up the embankment to the entrance. Along the rear (E) alley is a gable roofed, board and batten garage.

Also on this facade are 2 entrances capped by a new pent porch with square wood columns in the central bay, and a projecting rectangular bay; both sections are under a new gable roof with the gable end to the street and extending E over a 4 bay ell. The ell has a pent dormer N and a polygonal bay S. Windows are 1-over-1 on the front and 6-over-6 on the sides. All have segmentally arched headers. There are 2 entrances and porches on the E facade. It should be noted that (cont.)
43 History and Significance The structure may have been originally designed as a one family residence. Evidence of possible alteration from single entrance to double is visible to the left of the front entrance. Current owner relates that the structure was a duplex before 1915, and was maintained as such during her continued ownership of 46 years. The 1929 Sanborn map indicates that the lot's extreme rear N & S corners had frame outbuildings. The rear portion of the (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto 6th St. and sits on a slight embankment. Concrete steps and walk lead up to the entrance. Along the E alley is a large frame 2 car garage and attached residence (814 rear apartment). It has a hip roof with open rafters and sits on a concrete foundation. It is sheathed with car siding..

42. (cont.) there is some alteration to the brickwork on the primary facade.

43. (cont.) structure was severely damaged by fire in c. 1935. In 1936 J. Miller rebuilt the rear portion and changed the floor plan in that area somewhat.

The property evaluations as gained from the Abstract indicate that the structure could have been built between 1872-75. The lot at that time (No. 17 of Rice's Addition) along with the adjoining 3 N lots were owned by Christian Ludwig. In 1872 he received a $1600 loan. However, a default took place in 1875 and lot No. 17 sold to G.W. Sombart for $1500. This evaluation indicates a structure was present and future evaluation increases seem too reasonable to assume the structure was built thereafter. History of transfer is as follows: W.A. Sombart- 1881, Mildred J. Monroe- 1884, Francis Taliaferro- 1909, Harry Taliaferro- 1932, Jonathan and Lavina Miller- 1934.

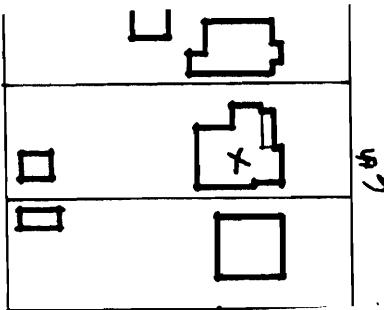

The SE part of addition may be the 1 story outbuilding that appears in 1929 on the Sanborn Map. "Before 1950 Dr. Miller added on a 2 car garage and used the structure for his veterinary office." In 1960 the structure was converted into residence rental property.

Above the porch on this W facade is a later pent dormer. Extending to the E is a frame, gabled ell which has been covered by vinyl siding. It has 2-over-2 windows a pent dormer S, and a gable (cont.)
43. History and Significance The structure has been the property of J. E. Taliaferro, and the residence of William Johnson, Wilbur McFarland, and Harold Whitehurse.
44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the front of the lot on an embankment. A retaining wall of huge sandstone blocks which are cut and vermiculated is along the front property line. Center steps which split and form 2 half flights of steps lead up to the front entrance. There is 1 outbuilding, a pent roofed frame garage, to the E along the alley.

43 History and Significance The structure was built for speculation by lawyer/realtor, W.G. Pendleton and sold to his brother, G.T. Pendleton, also a lawyer. In 1904, Hunter Mills, a Saline township farmer, purchased the structure for his retirement residence. Subsequent owners have included Ensley Humphreville (1919), William and Gladys Griesbach (1941), and Franklin Bergquist (1969). The present owner purchased the building in 1979, and has rehabilitated it for speculation.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Sitting on a low embankment with a molded concrete block wall, the residence faces West. A drive to the South gives access to a 1 car gabled garage to the SouthEast. It has diagonal wood siding. An alley is to the East.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary (E) facade is accented by 1-over-1 windows which have flat arch headers and shutters. A concrete slab runs across the length of the facade and a 3 bay, screened in, flat roofed porch affords protection to the central entrance. The transom has been enclosed. An original pent roofed section extends across the W facade. Side windows are segmentally arched. The yard slopes away to allow for a walk-out basement on the W. Additions include a concrete block basement level section with a small frame room (cont.)
43 History and Significance This residence is a typical example of the common man's residence in the local Missouri German style. Its location and relationship to the surrounding structures still exemplifies the early streetscape. The structure was built in the early 1860's by Charles Weyrich for his residence. Weyrich developed a pottery on the land to the rear of his residence and the earlier structure at 516 Sycamore was associated with this business. Both properties (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto 6th St. It sits on a well landscaped lot at the SW corner of Sycamore and 6th Sts. There are no outbuildings.

43. (cont.) situated on a 75' x 180' lot were sold in 1899 to Patric Darby for his retirement home. Darby immigrated from Ireland in 1856, enlisted in the First New York Veteran Cavalry of Volunteers, and was imprisoned in Andersonville Prison and arrived in Cooper County in 1868. In 1912 the residence was sold to Otto J. Timm, an assistant farmer at the Missouri Training School, but sold again later that year to Margaret Maxwell as the residence for both herself and her son, John, a painter. During Mrs. Maxwell's ownership the structure at 516 Sycamore was sold and its association with 1103 6th St. was broken. In 1924 the residence sold to F.J. Warnoff, a partner in the Theissen-Warnoff Clothing Store and later the Dur-Warnoff Hardware Co., which was located at 415 Main St. in 1937. In 1928 F.J. sold the residence to his son, Paul Warnoff, a liquor store merchant. Between 1939 and 1942 it was the residence of Florence Ramstetter, followed by a one year ownership by Vernon Quint. The present owners, Frank and Eva Shore, purchased the residence in 1942 and have conducted many renovations which include the addition of the rear "sun porch-sleeping room" around 1960. Mr. Shore, a retired employee of the Missouri Power and Light Company, served on the Boonville City Council 1973-1976.

Its S facade repeats the dormer and has (see attached)
43 History and Significance The house was built ca. 1857-60 by Dr. William H. Trigg, Boonville financier and merchant, as a residence for his daughter Josephine Trigg Pigott upon her marriage. In style and detail it is the same as 1304 Main Street, which was built for Josephine's twin sister, Juliet, except that the 1st story floor plans are reversed. The structure is significant in that it was built by Boonville's wealthiest citizen of the era and is one of a pair of houses that represent the earliest example of residential (see attached)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto 6th. Street. It sits on an embankment and has an excellent view of the downtown area. A drive from 6th., S of the residence, leads to the attached garage on the W. There are no outbuildings. The original size of the lot has been retained and the grounds are well landscaped.

The S facade of the main block repeats the frame polygonal bay. A brick, pent roofed garage is attached to the W of the ell. On the interior, 2 of the fireplaces have panelled piers and an entablature with consoles. The fireplace in the dining room has ornate panels. There is a built in cupboard in this room. Baseboards are wide and the millwork is heavily molded. The bay windows are set into panelled openings. The interior of the house is completely original except for the addition of a small bathroom on the 2nd story staircase landing, and the removal of plaster ceiling moldings and center medallions. The louver door at the south veranda entrance is original.

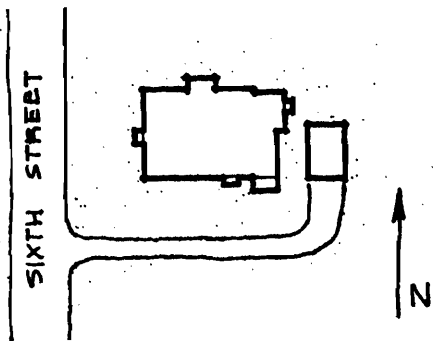

43. (cont.) gothic architecture in near original condition in Boonville. The use of segmentally arched window and door openings are among the earliest examples in Boonville. Josephine and her husband, John Pigott, a Boonville merchant, resided in the house till after 1869. The following owner was James Q. Ragland, a partner in the Smith and Ragland Livery. In 1883 the residence was purchased by William C. Scott, an early freighter of goods to SW Missouri. A longtime owner of the structure was Helen Stegner-Whitlow. In 1977 the house was inherited by her sister Margaret Stegner.

42 Further Description of Important Features The original U-shaped structure now forms a rectangle by the closing in of the central bay, N facade. On the W facade is an entrance with a pent cap, Windows are 6-over-6, and there are end chimneys N & S. The S facade has a large fireplace and an entrance with a pent cap and a concrete patio. A pent frame addition on a concrete block foundation and a frame porch are along the E facade. The stone structure is built of various sizes and shapes, however the openings are accented by large rectangular stone (see attached sheet)

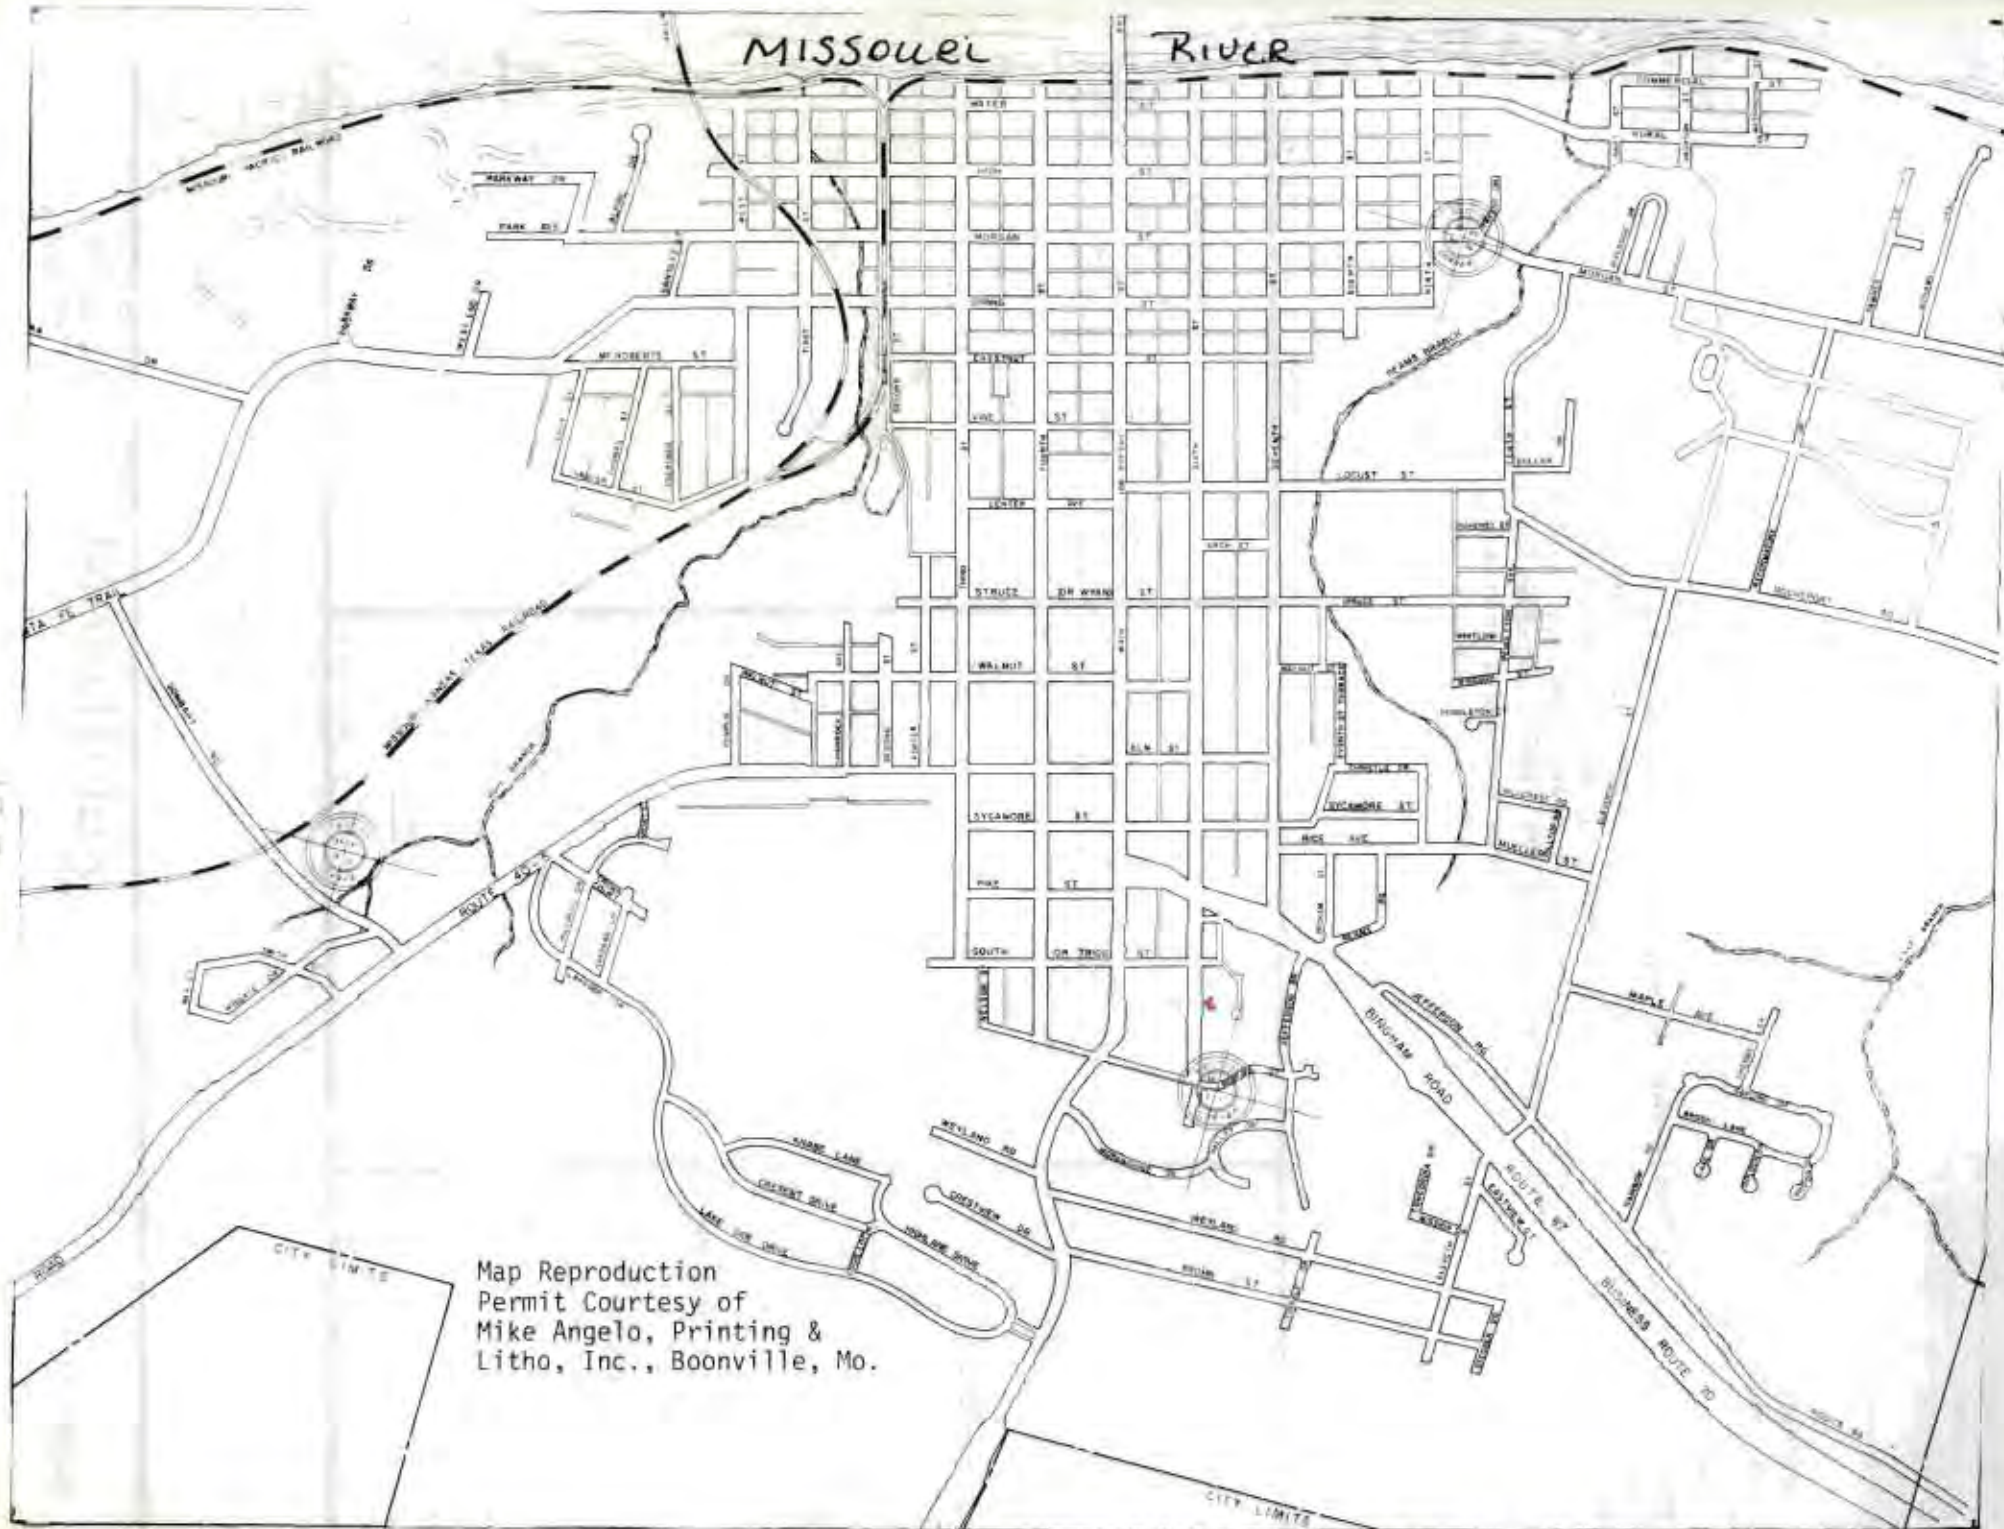

43 History and Significance This structure, the only early stone residence of its type in Boonville was built by Andrew Gantner on the eastern slope of "Trigg's Hill." Leonard Stretz, the son of a man who formed a masonry partnership with Andrew Gantner states the structure was built in 1856, That conforms with the date cited by Melton and the Weekly Advertiser. The 3.62 acres was not purchased from Dr. W.H. Trigg however until 1862. A possibility remains that the land may have been leased at the earlier date (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto 6th. Street. A drive from 6th, S of the residence, leads to a frame gable roofed garage E of the house. It has a S entrance.

42. (cont.) lintels. On the interior a Missouri German mantel shelf with a scalloped edge.

43. (cont.) The City directory of 1869 indicates Gantner resided at this location in that year. Gantner, a highly skilled stone mason, and early German immigrant used sandstone quarried and cut to size in blocks from the hillside behind the house. Due to the quality of his craft it may be assumed that Gantner was involved in the erection of the other stone structures completed in his era - most notably the Cooper County Jail, Haas Brewery and Vineyard cellars, the Shoemaker house (SE of Boonville), and various wine cellars in and around Boonville. He is credited with building many buildings on Main Street, Kemper Military School, and numerous residences. Oral history indicates that a brick manufactory was operated in the rear yard. Remains of many broken and misfired brick still remain in a hollow approximately 75 yards east of the house.

In 1899, Ewing Roberts purchased the residence from Gantner's widow Rosa. During this ownership a family suicide was committed and the house was vacated leaving it to ruin and disrepair. By 1926 it was bought by Professor Curtis and Irmah Chrane despite rumors of its haunting. The Chranes added a kitchen addition and made numerous minor alterations to the interior.

Subsequent owners include William Pieper, who resided elsewhere, 1940; Stanley Kramer, 1943; Jean Rigsby, 1958; Paul Schmitthausen, 1962; Walter Hoecker, 1962; Perry & Paul Taylor, 1976.

In 1976 the present owner added an extension to the kitchen, closed in the north porch to form a closet and conducted interior remodeling.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built of Ozark rock the structure has varigated brick at the window and door surrounds including a soldier course lintel, square porch columns, and balustrade cap. These brick also appear around the small circular, louvered window at the attic. Windows are 1-over-1, and have concrete sills. The plan of the structure is actually 2 individual houses with a 1 story raised porch which connects the 2. It has twin gables which face the street. The gable end over 216 is filled with a pebbled (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance Stonework veneer was added around 1935. Around this time the two individual houses may have been connected to form a duplex. Each section is privately owned. The Hains purchased their residence in 1948.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Ozark Rock forms a retaining wall to the primary facade (W) and ends in tall planters at the corners. An alley to the N gives access to a frame 3 car garage. Doors face N. An asphalt shingled, gable roof tops the structure.

43 History and Significance Ground breaking ceremonies for the construction of this church were held in June, 1972. The structure was completed in August, 1973, under the pastorate of Father William Savage. The church is on the site of the old C.H. van Ravenswaay home (also known as the Brant House), 714 E. Morgan Street, which was razed for the construction of the church.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The large building sits at an angle on the double lot and has a circular drive in front. On the SW is a concrete walk and tunnel to the basement entrance. A large asphalt parking area and the recent rectory and office building is to the S.

43 History and Significance On the site of the present church the Boonville Evangelical Church built its first church building in 1853 which served as the worship center till June 1887. At that time the present church's foundation was laid. The completion and dedication of the new church took place in January 1885. On the adjoining lot to the E the original parsonage was built serving until 1903 when the present parsonage was built. In 1892 the church was incorporated under the name "The German Evangelical Congregation with later (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The church sits on the SE corner of 7th and Spring facing N onto Spring. The rear yard is in combination with the parsonage to the E and has a decorative iron fence. An alley and the office and Educational building is to the South.

42. (cont.) eaves, raking at the gable ends, under the tower's cornice and across the gable ends as a horizontal belt course, there are 2 alternating dentil courses of brick. The primary facade's gable has tile coping. The gothic arch is accented by a soldier course and a keystone, painted white. Lug sills are stone with scroll brackets. The windows of the raised basement are paired and have a soldier course segmentally arched header. Basement entrances are segmentally arched with a double rowlock header. In 1908 the church was renovated. In 1915, the brick school to the S of the church was razed to make way for a new addition to the church. It is 2 bays deep, projecting 1 bay to the W, and echos the motifs of the original structure. In 1941 a complete redecoration of the entire church was accomplished, including a formal chancel arrangement with the rebuilding and relocation of the organ (entire cost $17,000). In 1953, the church was again redecorated and the basement was completely renovated. There is a concrete addition to the S at the basement level.

43. (cont.) changes to the "Evangelical Church of Boonville" and finally "The United Church of Christ". Redecorations of the church took place in 1908, 1941, and 1953. In 1915 the church was enlarged by the addition of several Sunday School rooms. The same year a pipe organ was presented by Doris Gmelich. The congregations Educational Building was built in 1953-54, at a cost of $95,673.

Historically important on a local level, the church is significant for the service it rendered to the large German segment of this community.

The entrance which gives way to a small square foyer is the base of a small rectangular tower with a pyramid roof. On the W is an enclosed porch along the S bays, and an enclosed pent roofed basement entrance on the NW. Both are frame construction. The central section is an original brick bay, built and used as a panty.

The interior is ornate with Eastlake bullseyes molding, several original lighting fixtures and 2 wood mantels. Three flues have been closed up including the 1 in the NE room (this mantel is now in the upstairs hall). Several interior doors have transoms. There is also an arched doorway, and a wide doorway the the NE room which now has french doors. An original brick pantry is to the W off of the kitchen. The upstairs is now divided into a long hall, 1 big room, and a small room now made into a bath.

42 Further Description of Important Features Diamond-shaped shingles and raised copings accent the roof line, including a large gable dormer on the N facade, which has open rafters and paired windows. Windows are 1-over-1 and 2-over-2 and are attenuated. The N bay of the W facade has a 3-part window. The S 2 bays are inset into porch which integral to the roof line. It has a square brick column and pier concrete floor and 2 entrances to the structure, one to the S and 1, with a transom on the W.		26 Local Contact Person or Organization Friends of Historic Boonville
43 History and Significance Originally, the house was square with four large rooms and a small back porch in the rear center with a trap door giving access to the basement. The first change was the addition of a pent-roof kitchen on the SE. The cistern in the basement was removed and the pump removed. The patch where it came through can still be seen in the former kitchen, now the dining room. When the kitchen was added, steps giving outdoor access to the basement were added. The back porch with trap door was enclosed and a bathroom added over the coal (cont.)		27 Other Surveys in Which Included

43. (cont.) cellar. The exterior window which opened onto the original porch was never covered, but remains in the NE room of the house.

Moldings around interior doors match those in the Hitch House. The doors separating the two parlors are French style and the twin front doors have etched glass panels and original doorbells.

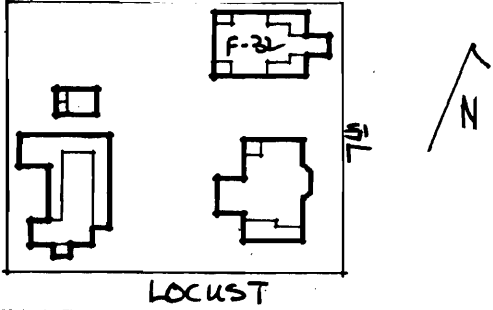

This home was the boyhood home of banker Robert O. Herfurth. His mother was very meticulous housekeeper and Bob's friends were not allowed in the "best parlor," which was the front room with the triple window. Bob and his sister slept in the upstairs rooms, and the room, which runs the length of the upstairs, was a playroom. Bob kept the house as long as his mother was alive and made a number of improvements through the years for the benefit of his renters. The house was redecorated in the late 1960's and the ceilings sprayed to cover cracks.

The main facade features a central entrance with flanking polygonal bays. These have flat roofs and may have been a later addition. The porch has a concrete stoop, wrought iron columns and a gable filled with fishscale shingles. The roof is accented by a boxed cornice and frame frieze which rakes on the gable ends and by an end chimney on the N facade. Extending to the E is an (cont.)
43 History and Significance Structure is believed to have been built in 1868 or shortly before for Nicholas Lauer, a potter at the Vollrath pottery, which was located on the south side of Locust Street, east of 7th Street. It was sold to F.X. Blanck in the early 1890's and was obtained by Eugene Blanck in 1899. F.X. Blanck also purchased the Vollrath Pottery in 1892. In 1901, Gerhard Beha purchased the structure for his residence, but sold it to Genevieve Beha in 1912 for her residence. Subsequent owners have been: Gerhard Beha, 1901; Genevieve Beha, for (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W and sits at the NE corner of 7th and Locust Sts. The yard slopes off to the E to expose the basement level. A large concrete drive leads from Locust to a concrete block, hip roofed garage at the NE corner of the lot.

A pent roofed addition has been added to the S of the primary facade (W) and a pent roofed porch on square frame post to the N. Under the NE addition is a basement garage. There are 2 pent additions on the SE. The gable ends retain a raking cornice. Windows are 2-over-2. In 1978 under HUD project the following work was done: insulation, plumbing, electrical work and new hot tar on part of roof.		Photo
43 History and Significance This house was probably built c. 1900 for Jack and Fannie Wilson, who lived there into the early 1950's, when it was purchased as a rental property by Alma Flowers (who at that time resided at 732 7th St.). She retained ownership until 1977 when it was taken over by the Quinlan Real Estate Agency. They sold it to the present owner.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings A brick drive is to the W, and a shared drive is to the N, which leads to a pent roofed attached frame garage. There is 1 gable roofed frame outbuilding to the E where the yard drops off to Reams Branch. The residence faces W onto Seventh Street.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built on a dog trot plan, the residence may be of half timber construction. It has brick rubble nogging between the vertical studding. The asbestos siding covers clapboarding. There are end chimneys and small attic windows at the gable ends. These windows, plus the low ceilings of the 1st floor may indicate that this area was used as a loft. The structure is especially elongated and has some structural problems along the roof ridge. There is a raking cornice at the gable ends. Windows are (see attached sheet)		26 Local Contact Person or Organization Friends of Historic Boonville		41 Distance from and Frontage on Road
43 History and Significance This house is significant as an early structure with unique construction technique. The structure sits on Lot #8 of O.D. Edwards Addition (1868) to the original City of Boonville. O.D. Edwards was an early day Boonville photographer and city developer. The first specific mention of Lot #8 of this Addition in the Property Abstract is in 1875 when it was sold by O.D. Edwards to William and Amanda Carter for $175. William Carter died in 1885 (cont.)		27 Other Surveys in Which Included		Photo
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There is a gravel drive to the S. and a small pent roofed, vertical board outbuilding to the SE. 43. (cont.) and the lot passed to his heirs who maintained ownership until 1936 when the property passed to Annie B. Smiley after default in payment by Henry B. Carter on a $500 note. Annie Smiley sold the property to Andrew and Rhoda Williams for $620 in 1940 and it remained in their hands until 1954 when it was sold to W.O. and Alma Flowers for $2200. The Flowers, who lived at 732 7th St., rented the property to Harold Boehm who resided there about 9 years. W.O. Flowers died in 1961 and in 1978 Alma Flowers sold the property to James and Mildred Gates. According to the Gates, the house is at least 100 years old and the present wiring and plumbing date from about 1940. Interior walls were panelled in the fall of 1979 by Estil Young.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built on the piano nobile plan the basement entrance is on the E facade of the NE projecting ell. Also on this facade is a polygonal 2 story bay. Windows are 2-over-2, segmentally arched, and are attenuated. On the basement level the windows are soldier course; on the 1st. story they are rowlock. There is a pent roof L shaped porch on the SE. It has square columns, stickwork brackets and a cut-out balustrade. The double entrances have transoms, side lights with square flanking pilasters. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance This lot is the site of the "Rice and Lapsley" tannery which was established as early as 1820. After the dissolution of their partnership on June 20th, 1822, Jeremiah Rice operated the tannery independently. A newspaper ad of 1825 stated that the Rice tannery "has developed a new method of curing skins" under the direction of John F. Thompson, foremen. Jeremiah Rice went on to become a Cooper County Judge between the years 1850-54. (see attached sheet).

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the rear of the lot which rises to the W. It is a double lot-vacant to the S., except for 3 sheds. A small cow shed built of wide vertical boards and having a pent roof is along the W. alley. A gable roofed building is to the SW. It has a brick foundation and is clapboard over frame. 42. (cont.) This porch is a later addition. On the W is a gable dormer and a pent porch.

43. (cont.) In 1868 John Stephen Dauwalter purchased four city lots containing the tanyard and original residence from the Jerimiah Rice estate. Reopening the tanyard in 1869, the business became known as "Dauwalter and Doerner-Tanners, Curriers and Dealers in Hides and Leather" with an office on the west side of 7th. street between Spruce and Elm. Dauwalter remained in business till 1913, also under the name "Dauwalter and Son." This firm expanded their business to include harness manufacturing and became "the leading concern of its kind in Boonville for many years."

The present house was built in 1869 and appears as the residence of J.S. Dauwalter in the first Boonville City Directory, 1869-70.

42 Further Description of Important Features A 1 story porch with paired doric columns and an entablature with dentils and metopis and triglyphs caps the primary (W) entrance with transom and sidelights. The 1st story balustrade extends across the full length of the facade. There is a small balustrade at the 2nd. story level where there are french doors with an ornate semi-circular lintel. This bay is capped by a gable. The roof-line is accented by consoles. There is a hip dormer and paired hip dormers E, and a gable wall dormer N. On the S (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance The structure was built between 1914-15 by the W.J. Cochran and Sons Construction Co., with masonry work subcontracted by J.H. Stretz Co. for Emile Mueller, owner of the Mueller Saloon. The structure remains in the Mueller family, presently owned by a granddaughter, and rented to Pete Christus III. The rear garage was incorporated into an early brick structure which was the residence Benjamin Beha, a stone cutter in 1869. This house and lot were purchased by Mueller from Beha in 1901 and served as Mueller's (see attached sheet)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the NE corner of 7th. St. Terrace which forms its E boundary. There is 1 outbuilding. It pre-dates the residence and is directly behind (E) of the house. Its gable roof runs E & W and has corrugated metal sheathing. This 1½ story brick structure has 2 entrances and a pent porch along its S facade. Windows have

A 1st story hip roofed, tile porch caps a 1st. story entrance to the E. There is also a basement entrance on the E. Windows are generally 6-over-6 or 8-over-1 and have both flat arch and segmentally arched lintels.

42 Further Description of Important Features The blocky quality of this structure is softened by the 1 story polygonal bays to the N and to the W, and by the 1 story porch on the W, N section, which retains its chamfered columns, fan brackets and scallop frieze. This porch caps an entrance with transom and segmentally arched header. The windows are attenuated and 1-over-1, have ornate pedimented lintels with skews and label stops, and have bracketed sills. Several of these lintels are missing. To the E is a 2 story hip roofed brick ell which (see attached sheet)		Photo
43 History and Significance Abstract information indicates that the structure was built between 1855 and 1860 by James Quarles. In 1860 "a parcel of land (13.27 acres) together with all and singular appurtenances" was purchased by Dr. William M. Quarles. Quarles was killed during the first Battle of Boonville on June 17, 1861. In 1876 Quarles heirs sold the structure to T.M. Rice, a Circuit Judge (1869-75). It would appear that during Rice's ownership the structure was altered and the rear ell addition was completed. In 1905 Rice's widow, Catharine, sold (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits back from the street on a large lot at the SE corner of 7th & Rice Streets. A drive and gravel parking area is to the N. No outbuildings are currently associated with the property, however 2 buildings in this block reportedly are part of the residence's outbuildings; both have been (see attached sheet)		46 Prepared by L. 42. (cont.) has 1-over-1 windows with segmentally arched headers. A 1 story screened porch with entrance is along its N facade, and a frame porch across the S bay, E facade.

The structure retains an impressive, finely carved walnut front entrance door, and walnut newell post and stairway.

43. (cont.) the residence to William D. Adams who was in residence at this location in 1912. In 1916 Adams' trustees sold the structure to Tillie Stegner, who in turn sold it to Edward Stegner, a longtime Boonville grocer in 1919. The next year it was purchased by Samuel L. Hickam, a retired farmer, and used as his residence. Hickam's biography in Johnson's History of Cooper County states that "surrounding this house Mr. Hickam has 63 acres of land, 28 acres of which are in the city limits. The house in which the Hickam's live has 20 rooms, and stands right on the city corporation line, the house being divided so that the family takes their meals in the city but sleep in the suburbs. The house was erected in the thirties or early forties by the original owner, Mr. Morton, and was constructed from bricks burned on the place. The next owner was Mr. Isaac Lionberger, who built an addition to the house extending it to its present capacious dimensions." Inaccuracies exist in the above in so far that the name Morton never appears on the Property Abstract. Although Isaac Lionberger owned the land between 1853 and 1855, property evaluations would indicate that the structure was built during the next owners tenure, James Quarles. Furthermore, during Hickam's ownership the structure's property was comprised of 13.27 acres, however this does not preclude the fact that additional land was indeed owned but recorded on a separate deed(s). A paradox also exists in that the abstract relates that Hickam did not own his residence until 1920, while Johnson's History was published in 1919.

In 1929 the property was purchased by T.S. Simrall who developed the land into the East-view Addition to the City of Boonville, and probably converted the structure into apartments.

Subsequent owners have been Frank A. Mayer, 1929; Ben Smith, Sr., 1947; Fred Oerly, 1948; Jesephine Floyd, 1952; Elizabeth G. Moore, 1959, Elinor Usher Powers, 1963; Claude Hurst, 1976; and Don Duello, 1976.

In 1933 the structure was damaged by fire and may have remained in poor condition until remodeled in 1947. The present superintendent of the apartment/residence relates that the structure has undergone numerous alterations and now contains 6 apartments. In 1978 the exterior was tuckpointed, painted white and gutters were installed.

42 Further Description of Important Features This rectangular city lot has been leveled. Along the property lines are molded concrete block retaining walls. At the SW corner are steps leading up to the flat park area. Etched into the concrete is C.C. Bell's motto: "Get busy, stay busy. Avoid waste, vice, tobacco, and booze. And you will have Health, Honor, and Plenty." At the NW corner of the park is a concrete patio area and railing which forms a lookout point where one can view the Missouri River and the rich farmland beyond.
43 History and Significance C.C. Bell, Boonville mayor and prominent business man (Bell's Orchard), had this park built as a memorial to his sister, Mrs. Manger. It is located just NE of the Bell residence and is now also an everlasting monument to the public spirit and philanthropy which typified the life of C.C. Bell. (see 724 High St. form for complete history of Mr. Bell)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The park is at the NE corner of 8th and High St. It is in a residential area. The alley and lots to the N are considerably lower so as to give a grand view from the park.

43 History and Significance Oral tradition in the Bell family relates that the structure is at least 120 years old, and internal evidence from the Property Abstract points to a date of 1857 as the probable date of construction. In May 1857 the property was purchased by John Zimmerman for $550 and in November 1857 he sold it to Caspar Manger and Lorenz Vollrath, a butcher, for $1345. Caspar Manger (and his wife Wilhelmina, nee Bell) maintained possession of the property (cont.)

43. (cont.) until 1865 when it was sold to George Stober, a Boonville plasterer, for $800. Stober defaulted to Julia Sombart in May 1872 and the property was sold to Catharina Winkelmeyer, the widow of Henry Winkelmeyer (1827-1871), a noted Boonville furniture maker mentioned in van Ravenswaay's The Arts and Architecture of German Settlements in Missouri as working in Boonville by 1858. The Winkelmeyer family owned the property from 1872 to 1943 when it was sold by Henry W. Winkelmeyer to the present owner Marvin R. Bishop. Bell family tradition relates that at the time the property passed out of the Winkelmeyer family, several original pieces of furniture made by Henry Winkelmeyer were still in the house.

The entrance has a transom. Windows are attenuated, 1-over-1, and have scroll bracket under the sills on the main facade only. Windows have soldier course headers 1st. story, double rowlock basement, all segmentally arched. On this W facade there is a raised porch on concrete blocks. It has a flat roof which is supported by wrought iron columns and a balustrade.
43 History and Significance The structure was built about 1899, probably by W.J. Cochran for Patrick Darby (1838-1917), a native of Ireland who came to Missouri in 1868 and purchased a farm near Billingsville where he engaged in farming and stockraising. Darby was noted as an intensely patriotic man of high ideals and strong character. During the Civil War he served in the First New York Veteran Cavalry of Volunteers and was confined for 10 months in Andersonville Prison. (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There is a gable roofed frame outbuilding at the E end of the property. The structure sits close to the sidewalk and faces W onto 8th.

42 Further Description of Important Features Double gables, each with fishscale shingles and ornately cut vergeboards face the W. Windows are attenuated, have a soldier course segmentally arched header, and are 1-over-1; the entrance has a transom and retains its Eastlake interior door. A raised concrete porch with turned post, brackets, and spindle frieze is on the NW corner. The foundation is field stone, except on the primary (W) facade which is dressed stone. There are basement entrances on the S & E. A gable dormer is to the S.

43 History and Significance George Weyland resided here around the turn of the century. Weyland was a member of the firm of Roeder & Weyland, dealers in agricultural implements, wagons and carriages. His father, Louis, was born in Germany and left that country because of participation in the Revolution of 1846 for which he was exiled. Louis located in Boonville in 1848 and began the carriage building business in a shop south of the old court house on Court St., later (cont.)

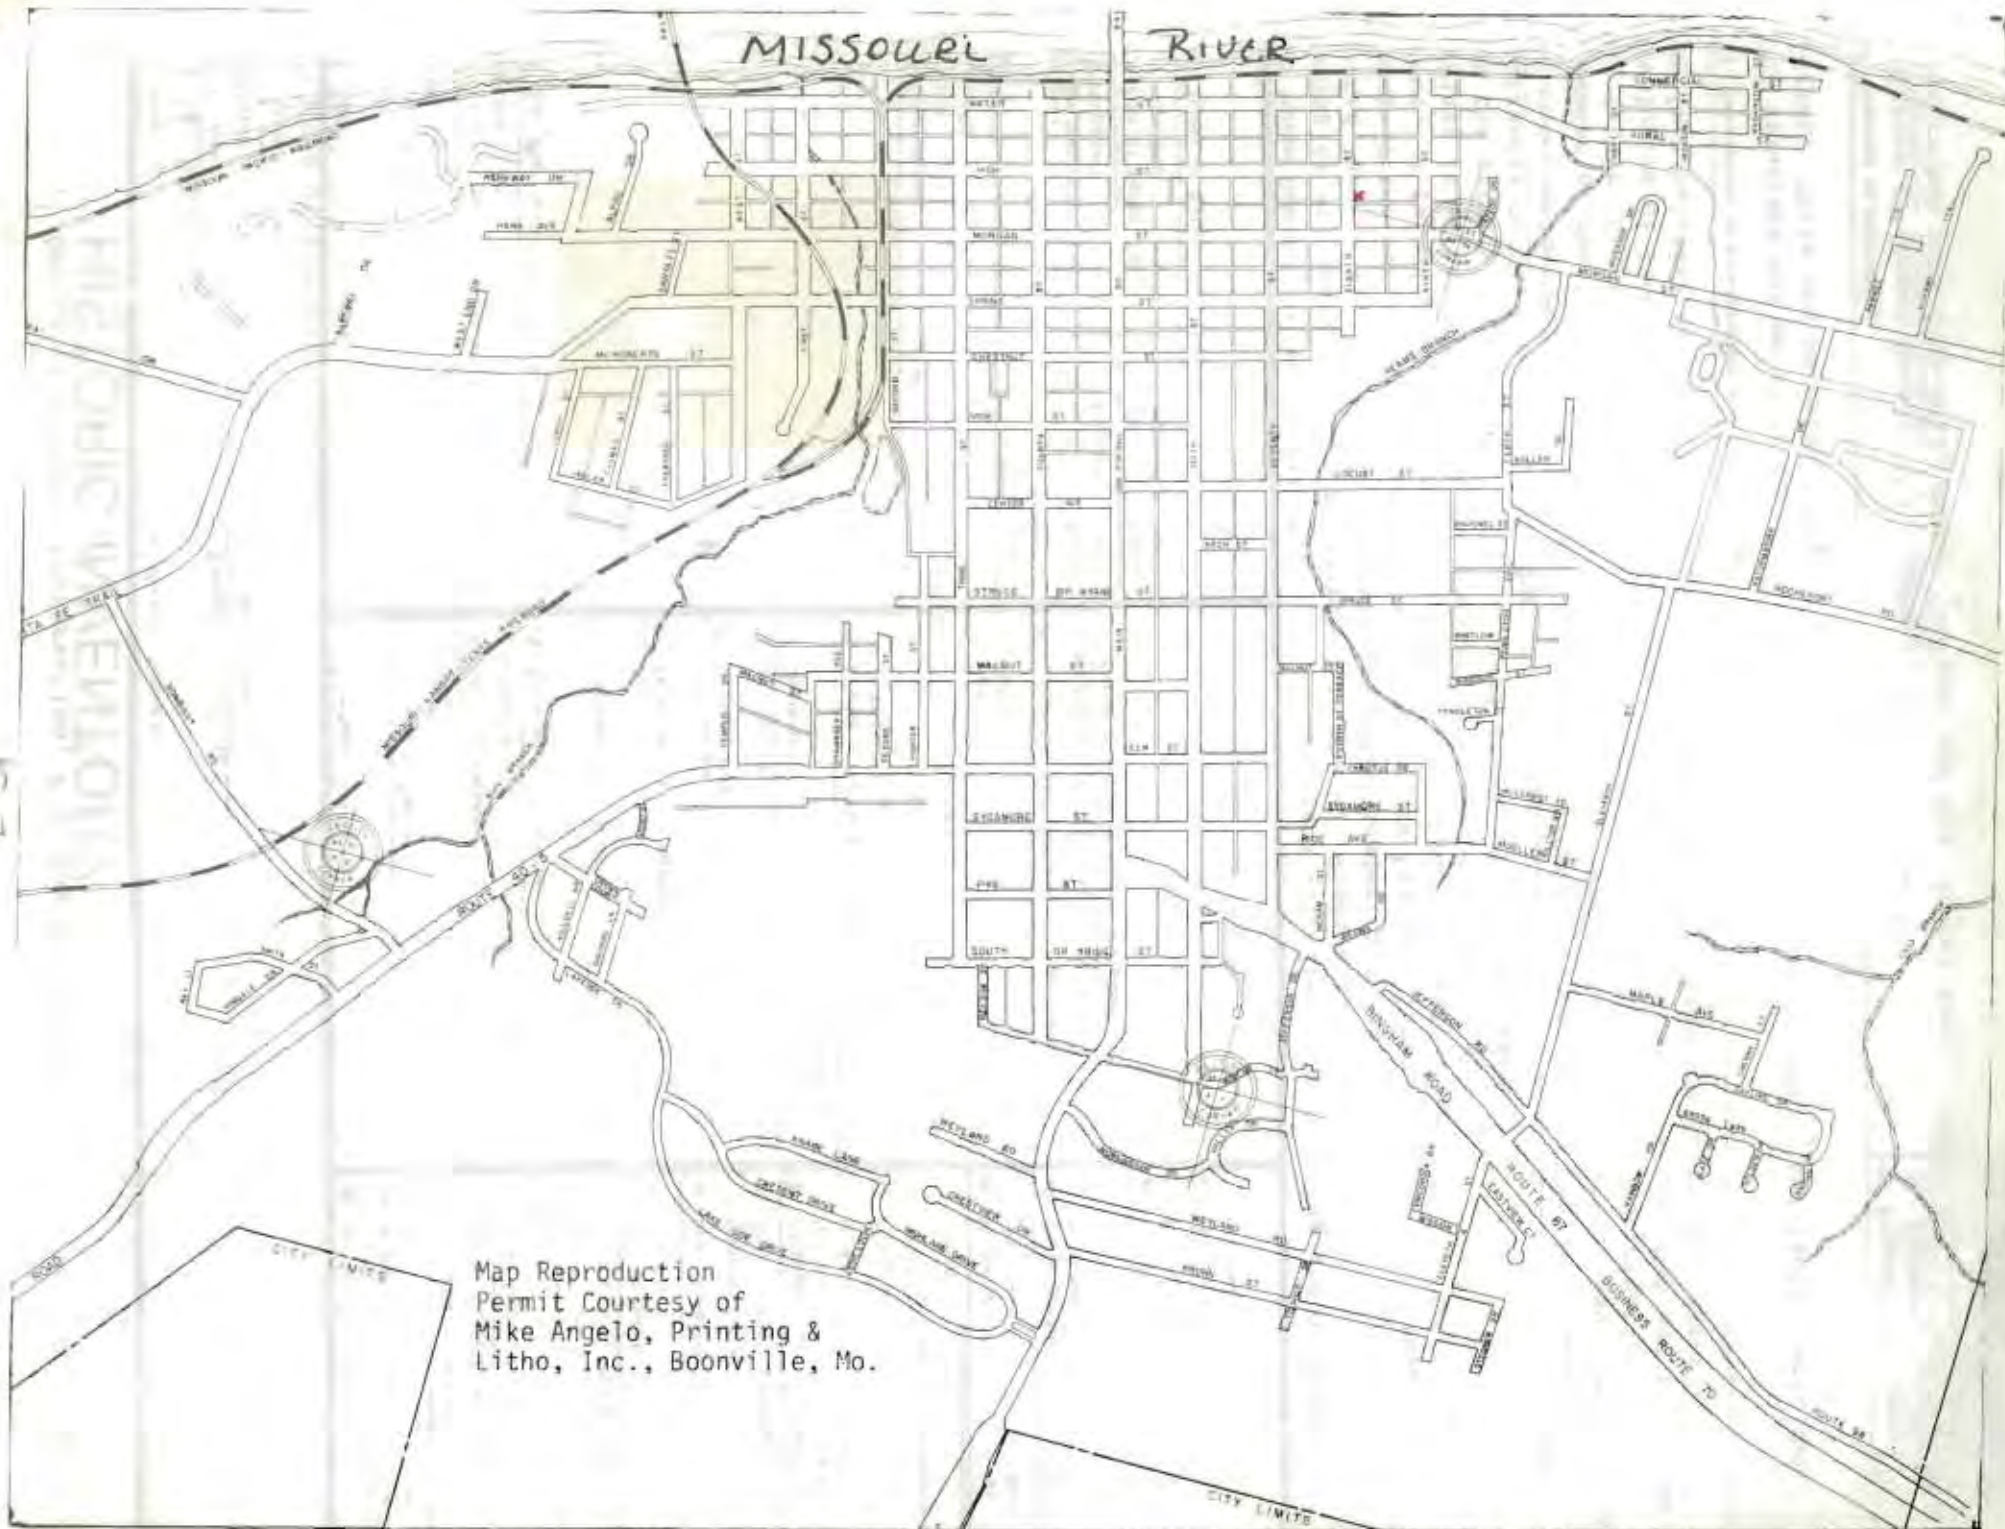

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings

The structure has an alley to the S, sits close to the house on the N, and faces W onto 8th. Street. There are no outbuildings.

There is a gable roofed addition to the N which has an entrance to the W and a pent roofed ell to the E.
43 History and Significance The rear part of this house was built in the 1870's by Frank H. Smith and originally sat on the present site of the Evangelical and Reformed Church Educational Building, 416 7th St. Between 1900 and 1910 the front section in a Queen Anne style was built. When the Church constructed its new building in 1954, this house was moved to its present location. At its original location it was the residence of Frank H. Smith and the Wade Davis family (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings  A gable roofed frame garage to the S of the residence is the only outbuilding. The residence and garage face W onto a gravel cul-de-sac where 8th. street dead ends.

42 Further Description of Important Features There is a 1 story concrete slab porch with a pent roof which is supported by turned post and brackets on the primary (W) facade. Window and door surrounds are wide but plain. The raking cornice at the gable ends is still evident. The main structure is on the I-house form. Additions include a gable ell to the NE, which has a pent addition to the S., a pent roofed room to the E, and an enclosed porch and room to the E & NE.

42 Further Description of Important Features The original orientation of this structure was to the N with a 1½ story ell to the S, E bay. The primary facade has 5 bays, the center one an entrance. Presently this is not used and there is no porch to this opening. The basement is partially exposed on this facade. There are end chimneys E & W and a boxed gutter N. Windows are 6-over-6 with segmentally arched lintels. Currently the main entrance faces W and is into the ell. This entrance has a transom and is afforded protection (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure is significant as a pure form of Missouri German architecture. Abstract indicates that in 1869 a William and Margaret Clark purchased from William H. Trigg 3.40 acres of land on which the structure is located. In 1874 default was made and it was sold to Harvey Bunce who combined it with a previously purchased 1.5 acres of adjoining land. Bunce, who did not reside in the dwelling, held numerous elected state and county posts (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on a bluff which drops off sharply to the N and Reams Branch. Its original orientation would have given it a grand view of the river. It now faces W onto 10th. Street. One outbuilding, a gable roofed frame structure, is associated with the property.

43. (cont.) laid out the town of Bunceton, Mo., and was Vice President of the Central National Bank. In 1899 it was sold to Henry Sombart and then to Robert Elliot in 1913. In 1931 Henry Fuser purchased the house and allowed the Boy Scouts to build a cabin and improve the lands as they saw fit. In 1945 it was sold to William Sartain who gave rights of easement to the City of Boonville for the extension of 10th St. The present owner purchased the structure for its acreage and plans no restoration or improvements.

42 Further Description of Important Features The original L plan was altered to a T shape by the addition of 1 story wings N & S (1946). The original block has end chimneys N & S. Openings on the primary (W) facade have pedimented stone lintels; windows are 6/6 & shuttered. The 1 story entrance has transom side lights. The two 2nd story entrances have only transoms. Accenting this facade is a 2 story pedimented porch, reportedly built approx. 10 years after the original structure. It covers 3 bays (cont.)
43 History and Significance "Forest Hill", the residence of merchant Thomas Nelson, was built in 1843. In ca. 1853 the 2 story front porch with 4 doric columns and iron railing were added. George Caleb Bingham, famous Missouri artist, was often a summer guest of Nelson's between 1862 and 1877, and it was there that many of his Boonville portraits were completed. A Bingham landscape entitled "Forest Hill--The Nelson Homestead", presently in the possession of Mrs. Fulton Stephens, (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto 10th St. Locust St. dead-ends into this lot. A stone wall is along the W. A drive to the garage is to the N. There are no outbuildings on the large spacious lot.

42. (cont.) and is supported on 2 story brick doric columns. The E facade and the 1 story brick ell with its exposed basement have soldier course flat arched headers. A pent porch is over a N entrance to the ell. On its S facade is a frame 1st story screened-in porch (1946) over an arched basement level patio area. The 2 brick wings repeat the window treatment and blend with the original block. The N wing is a 2 car garage with large doors to the N. The interior of the structure contains ornate molded millwork and Greek Revival mantels, probably not original. The large central hall has a fine walnut newel and balustrade. An efficiency apartment is presently at the basement level.
43. (cont.) Esparto, California, shows the house ca. 1877. Subsequent owners are Kate Nelson Imboden, 1884; Walter Schackleford, 1889; Edwin Schackleford, 1893; O.D. Edwards, local photographer, 1893; George Roeder, 1898; Steinmetz family; 1910; Theodore Spieler, 1924; Gus Boller, 1942; Kenneth Winklemeyer, an owner of Thespian Hall, 1963; Dean Weiker, 1974; William Wilcox, 1979. At some point after 1900 the structure was converted to apartments. In 1946 the north and south additions appeared and the structure was restored and much of the original integrity was maintained. The Forest Hill grounds were the scene of the murder of Mrs. Weiker by her husband in 1977.

42 Further Description of Important Features Originally built as a 2/3rds house, the structure later recieved not only the completed 1st story section, but also an attic 1/2 story level. The original section (N) contained a hall and 2 rooms on the 1st story, and 2 rooms in the partial exposed basement level. Each room had a large fireplace. It retains the original entrance with transom and sidelights (now filled with stained glass), and 9-over-6 windows with soldier course flat arched headers. Currently
(cont. on attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The original 2/3rds structure is believed to have been built by George W. Morton in the 1850's. Morton purchased a number of tracts of land adjacent to the present house and lands and developed an extensive orchard. The 1869 Boonville Directory relates that he was residing at this location and employed as a "gardener". In 1893 the Myers heirs sold the house and present 23.34 acres to Frank Lionberger who resided there until 1917. In that year it sold
(cont. on attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a large lot facing W onto 11th St. Its location on a small knoll allows a good view in most directions. A circle drive is to the W. To the E are 2 outbuildings; a small brick hip roofed structure and a 1920's brick gable roofed garage. There are other outbuildings but they lie outside the boundaries of the site.

42. (cont.) the headers are generally obscured by the later, 1 bay, pedimented porch and a wide plain wood frieze. The S 2 bays (without a basement) and the attic area have segmentally arched 6-over-6 windows. An ell which extends to the E has a gable rib tin roof with pent roofed porches on its N and E facades and a brick pent addition on its S. facade.

The interior millwork in the original part is heavily molded and the mantels are the heartier Greek Revival type, however the walnut newel and hand rail are delicately shaped and reflect an earlier date. Several plank and 4 panel doors remain as well as the wide plank floors. The kitchen has been modernized, several ceilings have been lowered, and several brick walls have been stripped of their plaster covering to expose the brick. The downstairs bath was added in the late 1940's. In the attic crawl space the original section's roof can be seen. It retains its shake shingles. The basement of this section has been opened up, the fireplaces covered over and a new concrete floor laid.

On the N side of the residence and reached from the basement room is a large, barrel vaulted, cut stone cellar. It has the typical square niches and ceiling vents and oculi, and measures approx. 15' x 20'.

43. (cont.) to George Efinger who sold it to the present owner in 1946. During the 1970's the house and lands were leased to the Missouri Division of Youth Services for use as a Group Home for boys. Davis's daughter and son-in-law, a pharmacist, currently reside in the structure , and have rehabilitated it with sympathy.

42 Further Description of Important Features Soldier course brick forms straight-side arched hoodmolds over the windows and primary entrance. Windows have stone lug sills. The irregular plan is accented by 2½ story chamfered bays on the N, E, and W. The E bay retains brackets under the gable and terracotta panels under the windows. The attic level dormers are filled with fishscale shingles. Originally the structure had an Eastlake, 1 story porch extending across the N facade and wrapping around the NW corner. The brickwork still shows (see attached sheet)

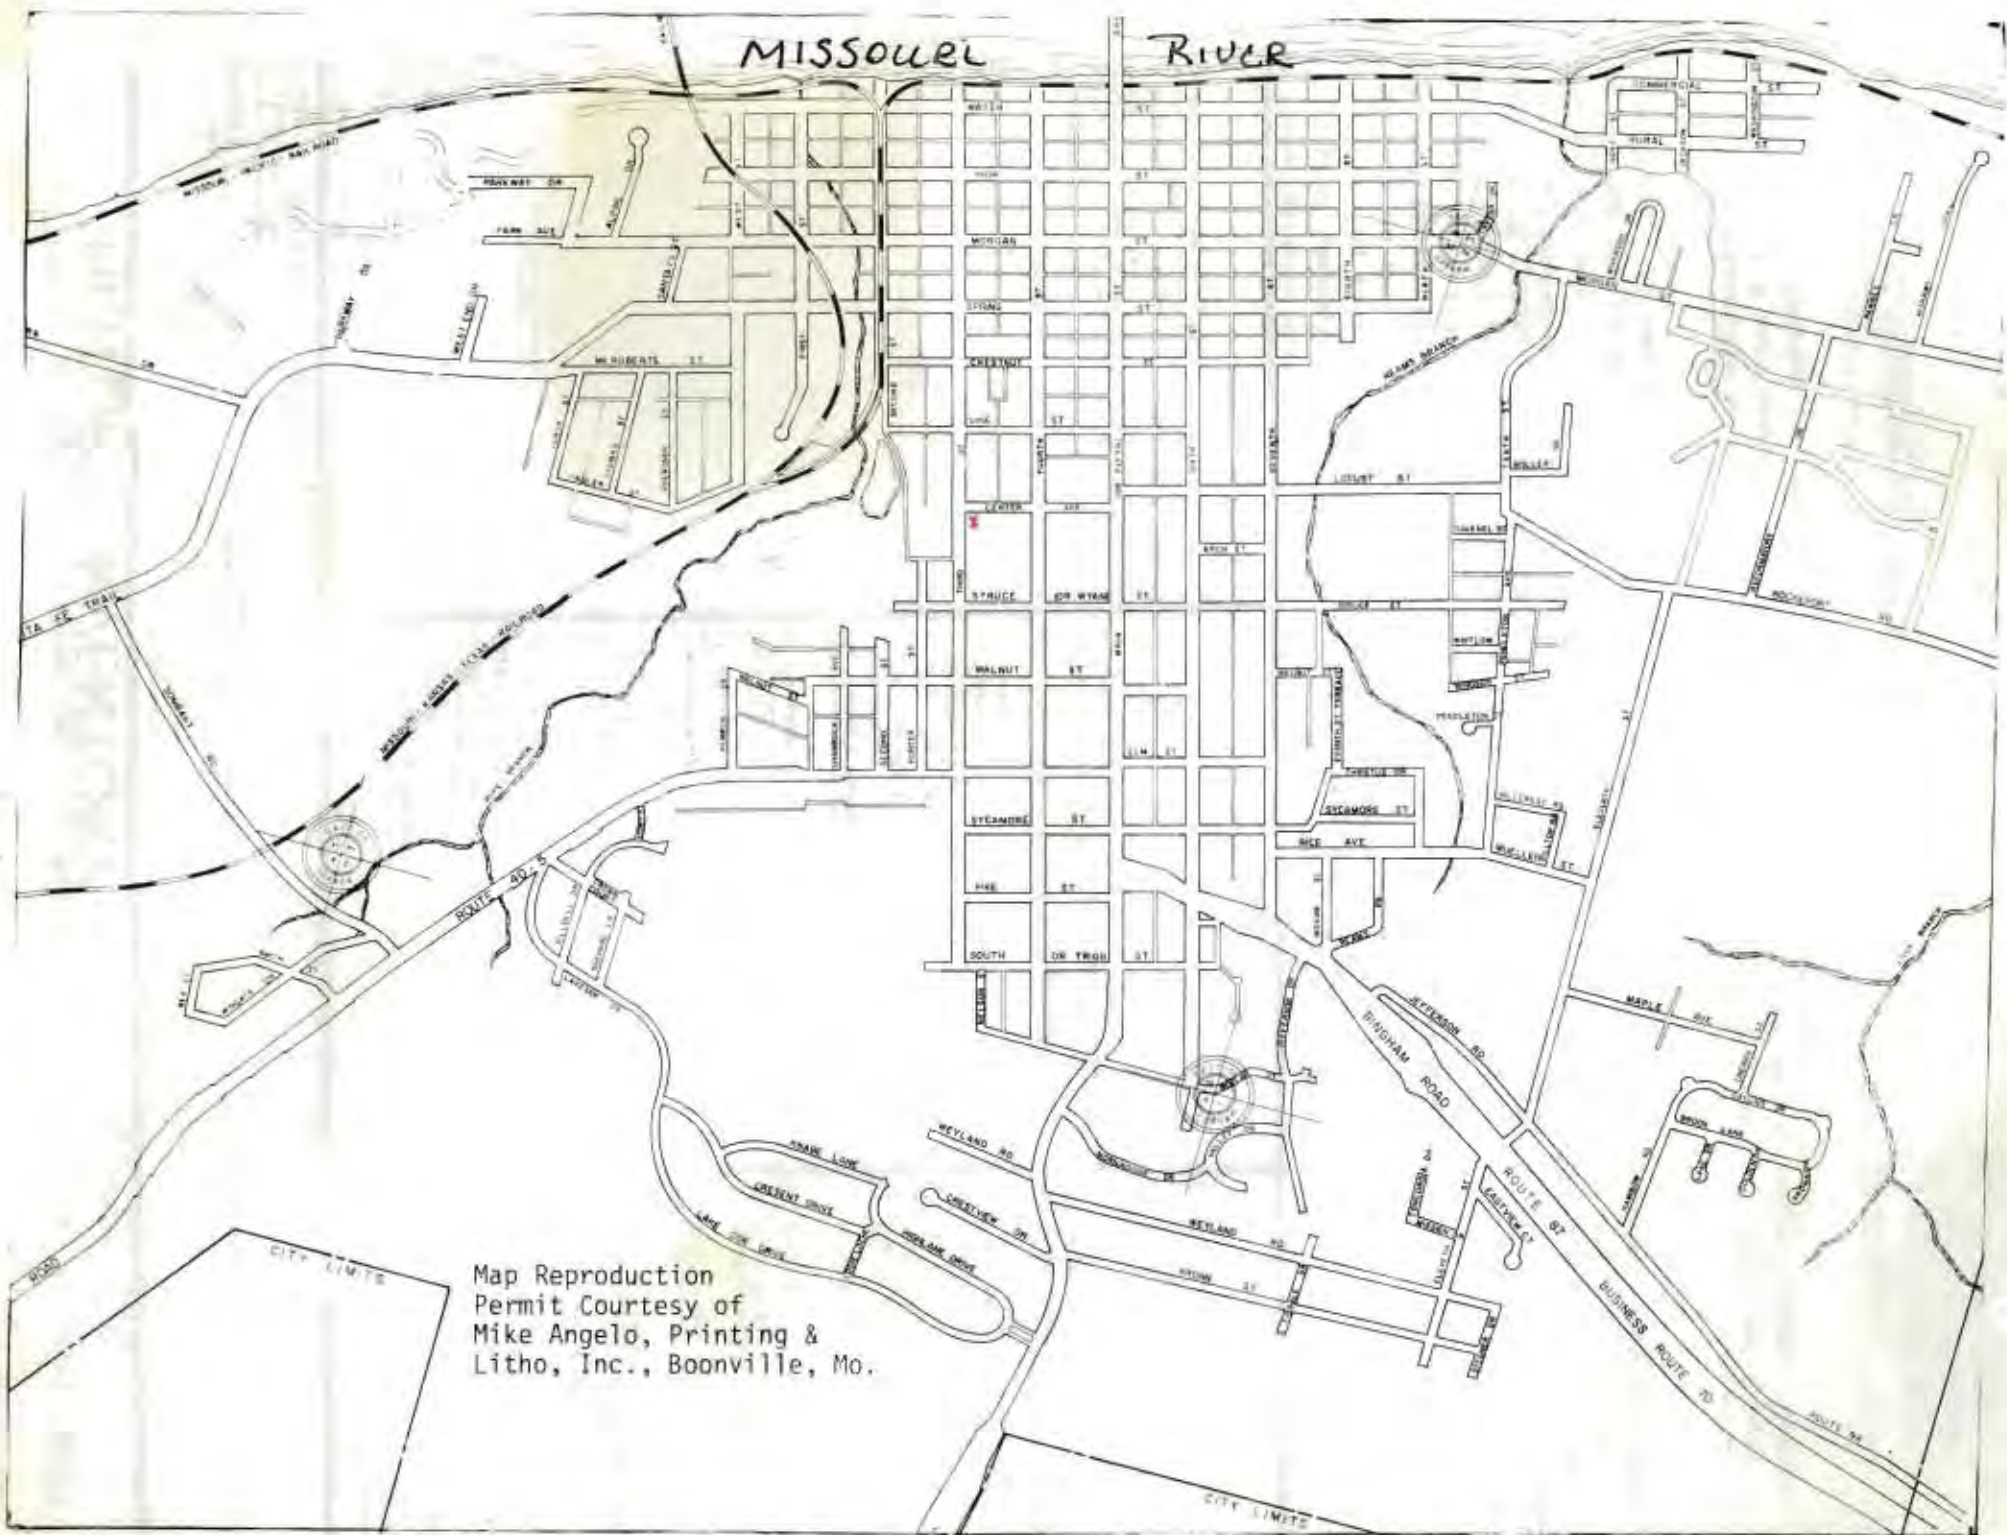

43 History and Significance Originally built as a private residence for Mr. F. Dauwalter, an insurance man. It was altered in 1902 to a dormitory, "F" Barracks, for Kemper Military School. John Windsor was cadet in charge of this dorm during his years at Kemper. 1917 Sanborn lists as dormitory. It has now been returned to a single family dwelling.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the SE corner of Third and Center Streets, facing N onto Center. It sits on an embankment. There are no outbuildings. Kemper Military School Complex is immediately to the W across Third Street.

42. (cont.) evidence of its outline. Currently the inset entrance with ornate metal exterior doors is capped by a simple 1 bay, 1 story frame porch supported on turned columns. A frame porch addition to the rear has been enclosed.

Eastlake millwork remains in tact on the interior. The entrance foyer is accented by an ornate panelled stairway with a richly textured square oak newel. The interior was altered for dormitory space, but has been changed back to its original condition. The present kitchen was formerly a large communal bath. The rear porch is now a utility room.

43 History and Significance The structure was built by J.N. Gott as his residence. From 1868 to 1887 Gott resided at 305 Center. Gott, who had been a First Lieut., Regimental Quartermaster, during the Civil War, arrived in Boonville in 1866 and engaged himself manufacturing brick with Constantine Heim. By 1869 he was appointed to the posts of Deputy County Clerk and Receiver in the United States Land Office. In 1881 he was the School Director of the Boonville Public (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on the NE corner of Center and 3rd. Streets, facing S onto Center. It is to the E of Kemper Military School. There is a low concrete reinforcing wall on the W & S property lines, and a frame fence on the N & W.

42. (cont.) primary facade (S). Rectangular panels embellish this inset. A 1 bay, 1 story gable roofed porch supported on square brick columns protects the entrance. This concrete stoop extends to the W across the main facade. On the N facade is an original 2 story ell which has brackets and segmentally arched window headers. Attached to this is a 1 story brick addition on the NW corner. These have bracketed eaves, corbelled brick window sills and rowlock headers. Windows are grouped. The entrance on the W has a small canopy supported by brackets above it.

43. (cont.) Schools. In 1883 he purchased the business of Brewster and Hilliard Tobacco Manufactures of which he served as bookkeeper, and renamed it John N. Gott, and later John N. Gott & Son. In 1911, one year short of his death, he sold the residence to Charles Oscar Strutz.

C.O. Strutz arrived in Boonville in that year to develop the Phoenix-American Pipe Factory, the building of which was constructed in 1912. The Factory soon became the largest employer of Boonville workers and gave the city the reputation of being "The Corn Cop Pipe Capital of the World." The residence remained in the Strutz family, both directly and indirectly, until 1970 when it was sold to Walter J. Potter. The next year it was foreclosed upon and purchased by William L. Holmes for speculation. In 1973, Gordon G. Burns, Director of the Boonslick Area Vocational Technical School, purchased the structure as his residence. During this ownership a partial restoration was done. In 1978 the residence became the property of the present owners. At the present writing there is a contract out for a future sale.

43 History and Significance The structure had for many years a close association with the newer neighboring structure located at 303 Center. In 1858 two sisters, Nancy W. and Martha T. Moss, purchased the 45 by 100 foot partial lot the structure is located upon. In 1868 Martha Moss Patton and her husband, James, along with Sally J. Bone, heir to the Nancy Moss estate, sold the land and a structure to John N. Gott. The house, therefore, was built before 1869 and is believed (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Structure sits on a narrow lot between 2 large residences, facing S onto Center Street. There is a low reinforcing wall along the S facade which is horizontal and compensates for the angle of the street. There are no outbuildings.

43. (cont.) to have been built between 1858 and 1860. John Gott, at the time of his residence in the structure, was appointed to the posts of Deputy County Clerk and Receiver in the United States Land Office. Also during this time he became the School Director of the Boonville Public Schools. In 1883 he became the owner of the John N. Gott Tobacco Co.

Gott then constructed and moved to the residence at 303 Center, but in 1911 sold both properties (303 and 305 Center) to C.O. Strutz, developer of the Phoenix-American Pipe Works. The close association of the two residences continued with C.O. Strutz residing in 303 and his brother Julius O. Strutz residing in 305. In 1926 it was sold to Frederick M. Strutz who granted a half interest to his son, Reginald, in 1944. In 1953 the structure was granted to Marion Strutz Spizzy. By 1968 the structure was the residence of C.E. Hawkes, a Kemper Military School professor, with an apartment rented to Mrs. Betty Ravensway. The present owner is a teacher in the Boonville Public School System.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure was enlarged and received its Queen Anne affinities by John Cosgrove in 1879-1910. By 1910 it appeared as it does today with the exception of a family room addition in 1966. The structure features a projecting rectangular 2 story bay W with a gable roof, which is intersected by a hip roof and has fishscale shingles and stickwork. At the SW corner is another rectangular bay which is set at an angle. It repeats the embellishments in the gable. The primary (S) entrance is double leaf with a transom, wherein is etched the name (see attached)		Photo
43 History and Significance Lot is a part of 10 acre tract bought by David Barton in 1830. Milo Blair owned and resided in the structure between 1868 and 1879. He established the newspaper, "Boonville Eagle" in 1865 and was mayor in 1869-70. Between 1879 and 1925, John Cosgrove, US Senator, 1883-1885, and prominent area attorney resided in the house. Cosgrove was also active in civic projects and was instrumental in the securing of the toll-free road (see attached)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces S onto Center Ave. and has a sandstone retaining wall along the S property line. An alley to the E gives access to a 2 car brick garage which has 6-over-6 windows, stepped parapets N & S, and a garage entrance E.

42. "John Cosgrove." A circular tower with conical roof sits at the SE corner. On the E facade is a gable peak and a 2 story chamfered bay with a gable cap, both have ornate shingles and stickwork. Windows in this main block are 1-over-1, shuttered, and have soldier course segmentally arched lintels and stone sills. Extending to the N is a later (1900-1910) 2½ story brick ell which has 2-over-2 windows with double rowlock segmentally arched headers. The W facade of this ell has a 2 story frame porch, the top level of which is screened in. Extending to the E is the 1 story gabled 1966 addition. It has vertical siding, sits on a concrete foundation, and has an E end chimney and a S entrance with a pent porch. The basement under the front section was transformed into living/bedroom area, 1972, with a totally new 14' sq. excavation for bathroom/dressing room area for the apartment space. Furnished almost entirely in antiques, the interior has been extensively renovated in 1957 & 1966. No walls were changed in this process.

43. bridge across the Missouri River in 1924. The present owners are Paul Darby, certified public accountant, civic affairs leader, and 1st president of the Friends of Historic Boonville, and Gladys Darby, president of the Friends, 1976 to present.

The structure is significant historically on a state and local level as the home of U.S. Congressman, John Cosgrove.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure uses several bungalow features including 3-over-1 windows with soldier course lintels and concrete sills, a chimney (W) with flanking windows, and a 1 story front porch with a flat roof, wide frame entablature, and square brick columns. However the structure reaches back to a strong German tradition and places gable parapets with corbelled end splays at the N, E and W gable ends. The primary facade has an entrance with flanking windows, coupled with 2nd story windows and a hipped dormer. (see attached sheet)				Photo
43 History and Significance The structure was built by a local contractor for Col. Rea Johnston of Kemper Military School and former mayor. Later, it was the residence of his son, Rea Johnston. The next owner was Dr. G.L. Chamberlain. The present owner was a minister of the Foursquare Gospel Church and is currently the pastor at the Missouri Training School.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces S onto Center. There is an alley to the W. No outbuildings are associated with this property.

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure combines several styles into 1 structure. Segmentally arched, double rowlock headers on openings represent the Mo. German influence. Windows are 1-over-1, and have concrete sills. Queen Anne affinities are evident in the chamfered angles of the SW and SE corners, the wrap around porch, and the irregular plan. The roof line - a single gable roof facing the street - looks to the newer Bungalow style. The porch on the SE is raised on MCB on molded concrete piers, columns and balustrade, and (attachment)

43 History and Significance The present structure was originally built as a 2 1/2 story brick residence. Built on a 2/3rd. plan over a raised basement. It possessed double end chimneys with the entrance with sidelights in the westernmost bay. Slightly pedimented lintels accented the 2-over-2 attenuated windows. A Greek Revival 1 story, 1 bay frame porch containing doric columns, a wide entablature with dentilwork and a flat roof, and six steps graced the structure's entrance bay area. An attached one story frame structure (see attached sheet)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a slight embankment as Chestnut drops off to the W. It faces N onto Chestnut. There is a asphalt drive to the E and a gravel parking lot to the S. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) addition on the E facade has a basement pent roofed entrance on the S. small rectangular windows - N & S and a circular window on the E. There is a chimney on the E facade. On the primary (N) facade corner stones read "Organized 1916; Dedicated 1921 - Remodeled 1938."

43. (cont.) predates the brick structure and was attached on the west side. Built around 1831 by Charles H. Smith the frame structure contained a pent roof veranda across the north facade.

Oral history indicates that the brick structure was built for Judge Washington Adams, noted Missouri Supreme Court Justice (1871-74), framer of the 1875 Missouri Constitution and Boonville attorney. Documentation shows that Adams was residing at that location in 1860. Adams widow continued her residence till 1891. It was then sold to James Henry Wooldridge, a one time professor at Kemper Military School, and bank director. In 1907 Wooldridge's widow, Eliza developed her large residence lot into the Wooldridge Addition to the City of Boonville. She continued to reside in the house till 1921.

In 1921 the "Wooldridge Estate" was purchased by Herman Schnack (a saloon operator) and later sold to the Immanuel Lutheran Church Congregation. The main floor was used for Church services with Sunday School and Social gatherings on the second floor. The older frame structure containing five rooms and a bath were arranged as living quarters for the pastor.

A 1938 remodeling razed the dwelling, removed the upper stories of the brick structure and added additional area on the first floor level. The full basement was divided into a recreation hall, Sunday School room, kitchen, restrooms and furnace room. A projecting central bay entrance and steeple was added. A residence on 4th and Chestnut was purchased as a parsonage. In the later years before its sale in 1966 the building was used as the Church's Education Center.

In 1966 the American Legion-Thoma-Tuttle Post No. 52, purchased the building for their meeting hall and slightly altered the first floor and removed the steeple to meet their needs.

42 Further Description of Important Features The 1st. story is brick and has segmental arched openings with rowlock headers. The entrance is the easternmost bay. There is an overhead door on this facade. Windows are 6-over-6. The 2nd. story has composition siding and is 5 bays, the central one being an entrance. Windows are boarded up. The roofline on the S has a boxed cornice; it is a stepped parapet along the W. This W facade is concrete block. The pent roofed, 1½ story addition to the rear (N) has vinyl siding and 1 large opening at the attic level.

43 History and Significance
 In 1885, a 1 story brick structure was there but was standing Vacant. Between c 1890. and 1900 it was used as a blacksmith shop.<sup>1</sup> Between 1900 and 1910 the frame 2nd story was added and it served both as a blacksmith shop<sup>2</sup> and tin shop. The tin shop (operated by Frank Bechtold and later by his son) remained in business until at least 1929. In the 1940's a pool room was in the building.<sup>3</sup> In the 1960's and 70's it was the site of John Popp's Upholstery Shop, (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
 There are no outbuildings. The structure sits at the sidewalk. An alley is to the W, as well as a parking lot.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has an entrance on the W, 1 window on the E, and a 4 part window on the S, which has a corbelled rowlock sill. The N facade is made of concrete block.
43 History and Significance Scales were located here as early as 1892 and may have been associated with other city buildings located on lot, such as tool shed, and "Calaboose and Rock Pile." Later, the lot was developed into Esser Automobile Sales lot. Gil Lammers, owner of Lammers Elevator, currently owns the scales but not the lot. The lot was recently agreed upon as the site of a proposed new combined county/city jail building. A bond issue for construction was voted down on 4/1/80.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Located at NW corner at 6th and Chestnut Streets. A parking lot is an L around the building.

Photo
43 History and Significance This area was used for Wagon Sheds and Dwellings as early as 1885. The current building appears on the 1929 Sanborn as a garage with the office in the NE corner and having a capacity of 40 cars. It has concrete floors and a steel truss roof. During the 1960's and 1970's the building was leased by J. Kenneth Esser and Leslie Chamberlin for their Court St. consignment auctions.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building sits close to the street and faces N onto Court Street. An alley is to the W. A partial alley is to the S, however the building appears to be attached to the Morgan Street building at a point along this S facade. A gravel parking lot is to the E.

43 History and Significance This area of Main, Spring, and Grand has had several bakeries located in various storefronts at different times. This area facing Grand was originally a feed Warehouse area. A bakery and ovens were located here c 1915 and by 1929 a walk connected them to 322 Main. At this time they were used as bake shop and shipping room. Flour storage was behind 513 & 515 Spring Street. Trouts Bakery was here 1923 to 1944 and moved to the old Harriman's Garage which had been converted for them by the W.J. Cochran Construction Co. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto Grand Street which is now used as an alley. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is reached by a set of steps leading downward at about a 40° angle and measuring approximately 20' in length. This area is barrel vaulted. The cellar's ceiling springs from an impost level of about 4' and reaches about 8½' high. There is a central oculus. The stone is randomly cut in varying sizes ranging from 12" x 7" to 24" x 9". The 4 central courses in the arch are all long narrow stones approximately 18" x 6". The 6' high x 4' wide entrance is vermiculated similarly to those used in the (cont.)		26 Local Contact Person or Organization Friends of Historic Boonville	38 Preservation Underway? Yes No X
43 History and Significance The cellar was probably associated with a structure, such as a residence or beer garden and is on land owned by either William Harley or M.J. Wertheimer in the 1860's. Both men had residences in town so probably did not reside on the land. However, both were associated with the Boonville Wine Co. William Harley, an Irish immigrant, born 1796, was also Postmaster in Franklin in 1839 and was involved with the Santa Fe Trade and in banking. He donated his land in 1888 to Boonville as a city park. For history on Wertheimer see 713-15 E. High St. form.		27 Other Surveys in Which Included	39 Endangered? By What? neglect Yes X No
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The cellar is now located in Harley Park and is immediately to the W of the Water Treatment Pools. A deep ravine is to the N. 43 History and Significance Area was originally used as T.R. Peyton & Sons Nursery and the Boonville Nursery. Small residences (12) were built here at the same time, all on the same style and plan, by T.R. Peyton in 1915. Oral history indicates that the dwellings were perhaps the first pre-fab structures in the city.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits close to the street facing N. To the S. is a pent roof shed.

43 History and Significance The present block from 201 High to 213 High is listed as the Boonville Coal and Wood Yard on the 1885 and 1892 Sanborn Maps. A small, 1 story frame dwelling is shown on the site of the present 209 High St. up to 1900. By 1910 the present house is on the site, built by Joe Haley. The present owner bought the house in 1963 from Frank Robinson (who never resided there) and he bought it from the Bowmer sisters in 1961. Other previous residents have been Frank Rentschler and Mrs. O.B. Kline.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built on a dog trot plan with a central hall and end chimneys, the structure has a 1 story, 3 bay porch with doric engaged columns and 4 square wood columns and a wide entrance. There is a pediment with fish scale shingles over the centrally located entrance, which has a transom. There is a 1 story gable roofed ell to the NW and a pent roof addition to the E of the ell. The basement entrance is to the N.		Photo
43 History and Significance The present dwelling was probably built sometime between 1885 and 1892, replacing an earlier frame dwelling, although the present owner feels that it may have incorporated the earlier structure. This house, from early in the 20th century was the residence of C.H. Dunkle who founded the Dunkle Business School in 1906 in one room in the 2nd story of 328 Main. Later Dunkle purchased and renovated a church on the corner of 6th and Vine. (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings  There are no outbuildings. The residence faces S onto High Street with an alley to the N & W.

42 Further Description of Important Features Irregular plan and roof line is typical of style, as are the chamfered SW ell which has ornate corner brackets, the entrance with transom set into the angle at the SE, and gable end wall dormers embellished with fishscale shingles and stick-work verge boards. This last motif is repeated in the gabled dormer over the entrance bay. Windows are 1-over-1 attenuated with segmentally arched soldier course headers, stone lug sills and medallions in the frame surround. (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance Built by J.J. Walther, local contractor, who also built steamboats, sometime between 1892 and 1900. Present owner bought the house in 1978 from Mrs. Beulah Hornerbrink who had owned it since 1960.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There is a 1920's brick, hip roofed, single car garage to the NW corner of the lot. A concrete and gravel drive leads from High Street along the W property line to the garage. The residence is on the NW corner of High and Third Streets. Reinforcing walls are to the S and E.

42. (cont.) There is 1 semi-circular window on the E which has a soldier course surround and stained glass. Also on the E is a shallow polygonal bay and a stained glass attenuated window at the stair landing level. On the S & E bays are 2 rows of nailhead terra cotta applied below the 2nd. story windows. The N ell is brick at the 1st. story; 2nd. story is frame with a gabled roof. There is also an inset balcony where this ell joins the main structure. A frame Eastlake porch is on the NE corner. On the W facade is an entrance to the 1st floor and an enclosed entrance to the basement. Alterations include a new geometric 1 story brick porch to the front, SE corner.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built as a duplex, the 2 entrance doors are located centrally with the E & W sections repeating like motifs. On the S facade is a 1 story hip roofed porch supported by square brick columns which wraps around the E & W facades. There is an open work brick balustrade. On the E & W facades, there is a 2 story rectangular bay with a 1st floor entrance to the S. porch, and which extends to the N as a 1 story brick and frame porch on the NE and NW corners. To the N are frame steps (see attached sheet)

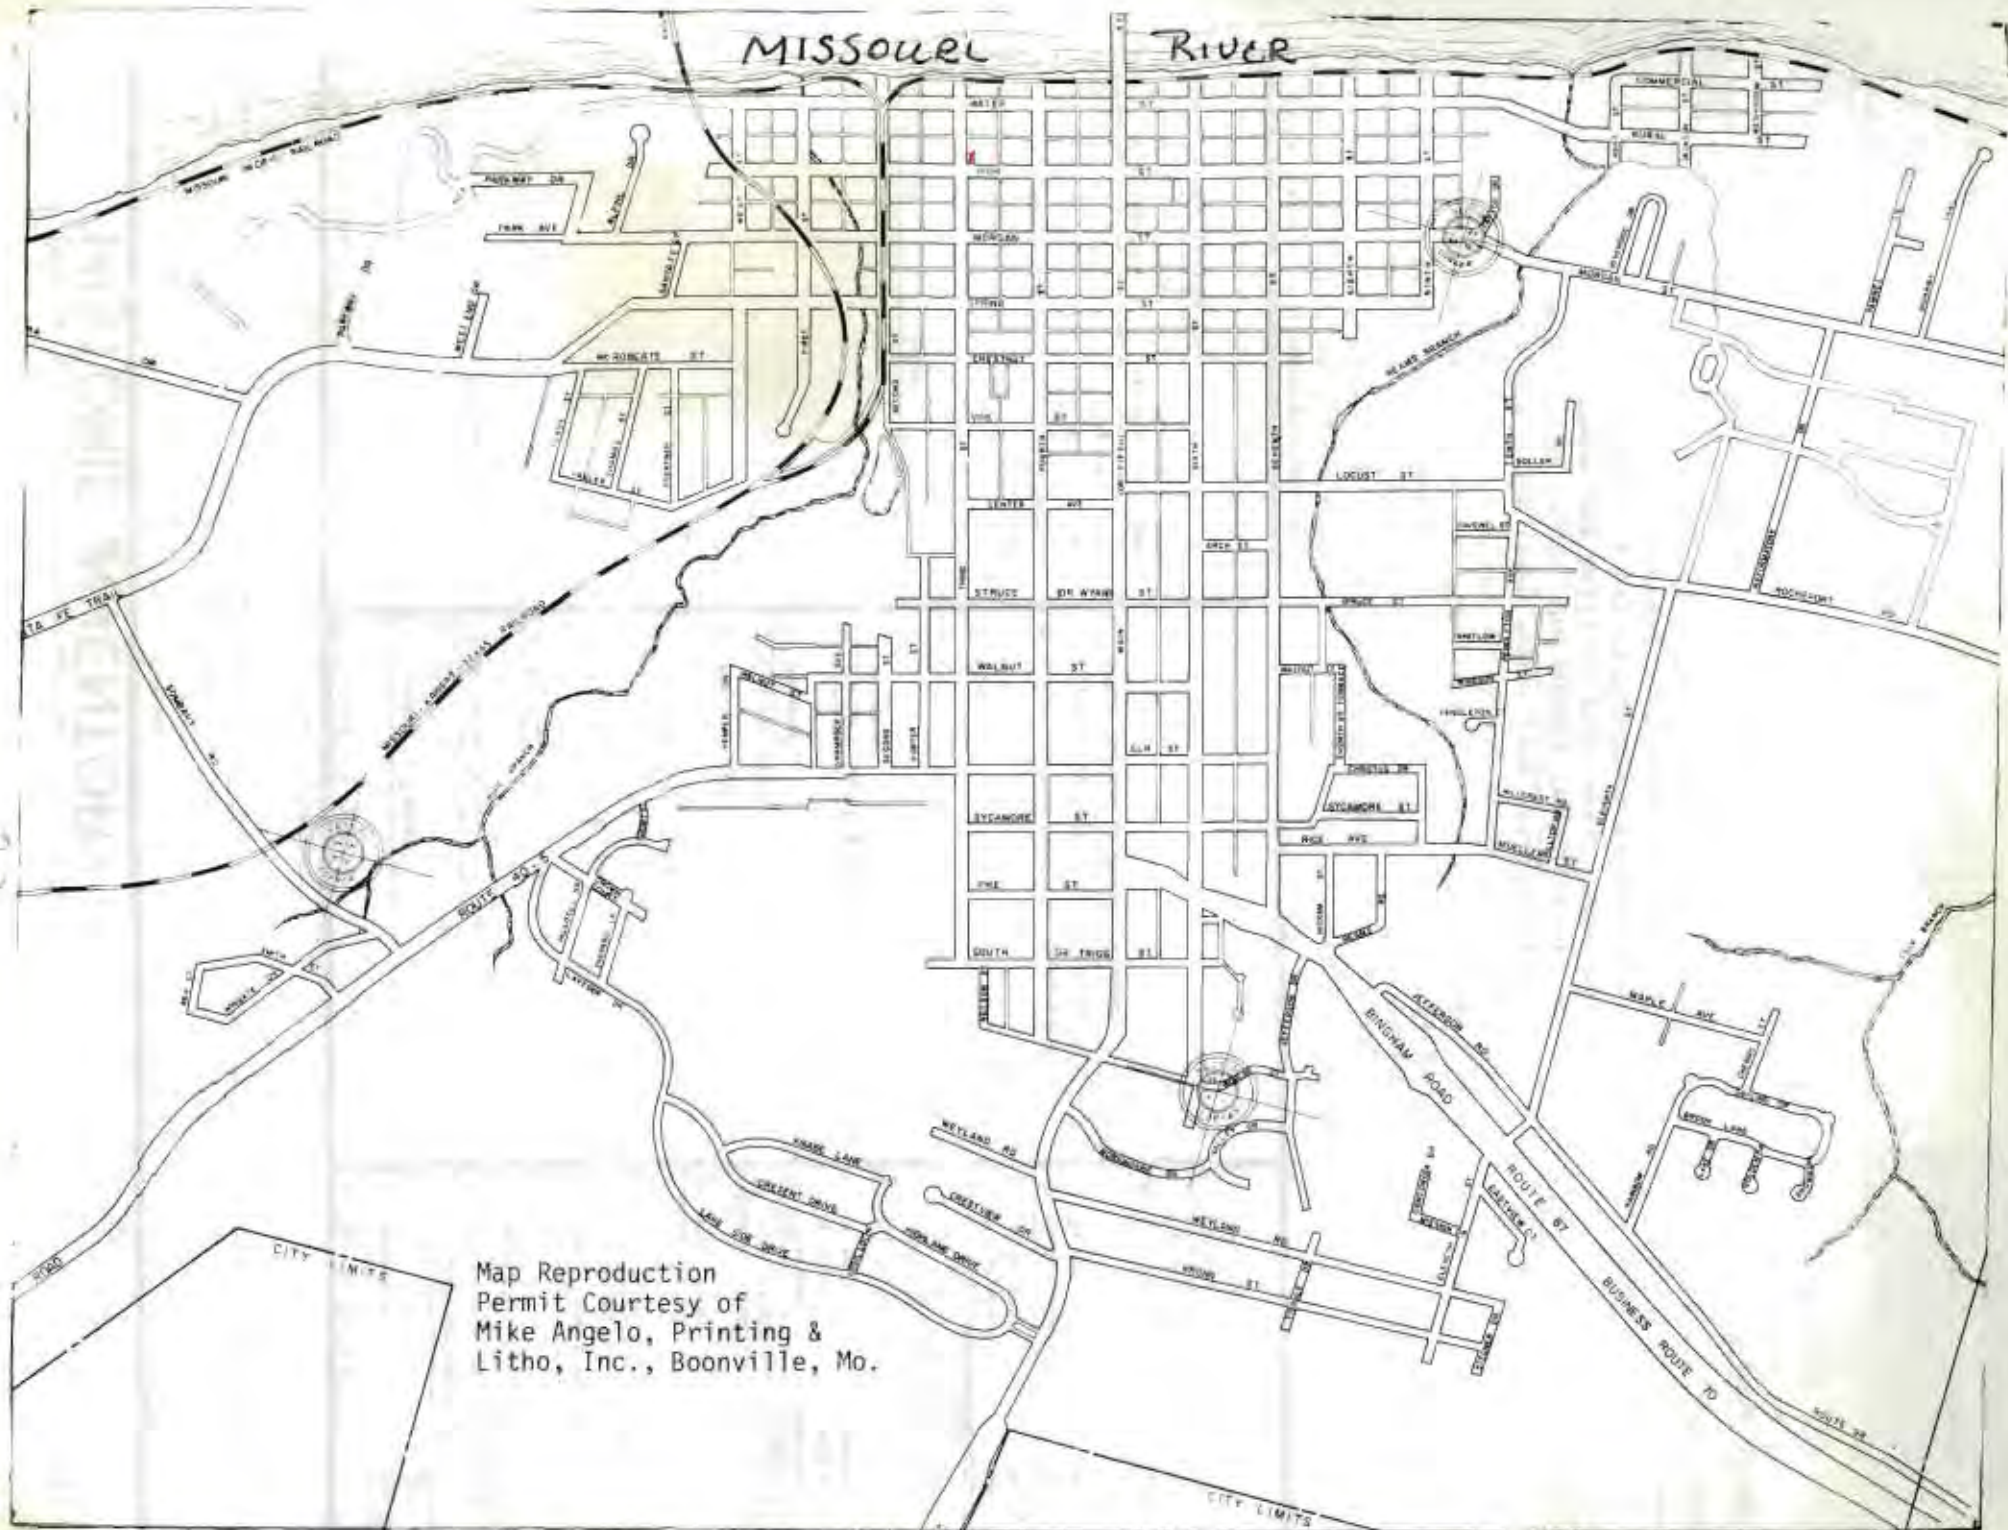

43 History and Significance The 1929 Sanborn map relates that the structural drawing was made from plans and we assume the house was built in that year. The property, with an existing house, was obtained in 1928 from Cal Hagar, a pre-Prohibition saloon keeper, by John & Edward Salzman. In 1942 John Salzman sold his half interest to his brother. In 1944 Winters Martin, a lawyer, purchased the duplex for rental property. The current owner, also a lawyer, obtained the structure in 1977 for the same purpose.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings A concrete drive from High to a garage to the NE runs along the E side of the residence which is on the NE corner of High and Third. The garage is 2 car of brick with a hip roof and folding wood doors. There is a low concrete reinforcing wall to the S.

43 History and Significance Main block built by H. Kingsbury in 1869. In 1883 Mrs. Meierhoffer of Meierhoffer's Cooperage Business added dining room, kitchen and bath. Bath is reportedly 1st interior bath in community. Dr. H.D. Quigg remodeled the house after he purchased it in 1915. Mrs. Quigg resided in the house till 1973. Between 1974 and 1976 the house remained vacant till Lance Carlson purchased it and began interior restoration and redecoration. 42. (cont.) Gable ends have a raking cornice with returns. Several small scroll brackets remain under the eaves. The 1 story ell to the SW is original.

The interior is generally of an Eastlake quality. The central hall has a square newel post with a console type top. The spindle balustrade follows the U-shape of the stairs which flairs at the base. Millwork is a combination of carved intaglio patterns and the bullseye motif. Another outstanding feature in regards to the millwork is the use of different woods. The 2 N rooms are pine, attenuated windows have wood panels below, and each has a pine Eastlake mantel. Originally stoves were used, as evident from the remaining flue openings. Mantelpieces now serve gas stoves. The firebox has glazed ceramic tile and a brass fire screen. Several pocketdoors are used; single leaf doors have rectangular transoms. Most of the hardware is still intact. The 2 S rooms have a trabeated molding with an egg and dart course. There are no panels below the attenuated windows. On the SW the millwork facing onto this room is oak; in the SE it, as well as the floor covering, is birds-eye maple. A pantry with built-in cabinets connects the SE room to the kitchen. A small room used as a closet and hall connect the kitchen to the bath and enclosed frame porch. The bath has arched stained glass windows, ornate ceramic tiles, and a marble sink set onto brass legs. Marble also forms the back splash and the mirror frame. The original shower and tub fixtures remain. Decorating the walls of this room were murals painted by a local artist. Over the sink was painted a large deer head; the remaining walls illustrated the canals of Venice, all done in a bluish tint. Due to severe flaking, the murals have been covered with wall paper. On the 2nd. story, there are 2 rooms, a bath and the hall which gives access to the porch. The bath was made from space taken from the W room. New closets have been added. A corner post in the stair landing was added to conceal plumbing pipes. The majority of the lighting fixtures, a combination of gas and electric, remain except in dining room where a tiffany has been added.

When recent work was done in the SW room, a flue was found on the S wall and a window opening on the E wall, indicating that the room was original and that later rooms were added to the E & S.

Roofs over the rear additions use hip, gable and pent forms.

43. (cont.) purchased the home as his country home in 1979.

44. (cont.) This barn may have been used as a livery stable. Meierhoffer was noted for his fine matched horses.

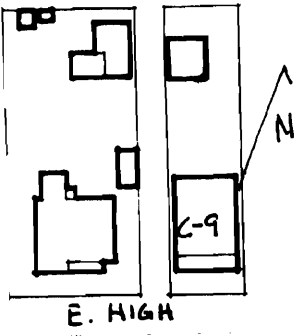

NOTE to Item #43: Historically significant, the structure is associated with 2 prominent Boonville families: the Mierhoffers, a businessman, and the Quiggs, a local doctor. Architecturally, the significance lies in the retention of exterior motifs and the unique use of woods in the interior millwork. The structure is significant on the local level.

Windows are 1-over-1, some are paired, no headers. There are concrete sills. There is a rowlock course just under the eaves and a soldier course divides the 2 stories. There is a 1 story pent roofed screened porch on the S.
43 History and Significance The house was built by William Johnmeyer in the late teens or early 1920's. Paul Wooldridge, lawyer and former City Prosecutor, is the present owner and resident. He purchased the house in 1968 from the 1st Christian Church, which used the house as a parsonage from 1959 to 1968. Prior to this it was the William Bushmeyer residence. The Bushmeyer's bought it from the Johnmeyers in 1924 and sold it following the death of Mrs. Bushmeyer in 1959. (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Structure faces S onto High Street. 42 Further Description of Important Features Typical of style, structure has wide overhanging eaves and brackets. A large belcast dormer sits centrally on the S,E,W facades. Windows are generally 8-over-1; the main entrance has sidelights. There is a 1 story polygonal bay to the E, as well as an end chimney. On the S facade is a 1 story, raised porch supported by square brick columns and with a brick balustrade. On the W facade is an end chimney and a large window at the stair landing level which has a semi-circular transom with stained glass. (see attached)

43 History and Significance Jacob Frederick Gmelich was born 1839 in Germany, arriving in the U.S. in 1851 and settling in Boonville in 1861, when he married Doris Miller and purchased a small jewelry business. He was a member of the Mo. State Guard and participated in the Battle of Boonville. He served as president of the Boonville Commercial Bank and owned considerable real estate in Boonville and Kansas City. Active in both local and state politics, (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Facing S onto High, structure sits on the NW corner of 4th and High. There is a low concrete reinforcing wall to the S, & E. A 1 car garage of brick with a hip roof is at the E of the structure, access is a concrete drive from 4th.

42. (cont.) Windows have concrete lug sills and a concrete header course at the 2nd. story level. A 2 story frame porch is on the NE corner of the N facade. Owner has blueprints. Original cost at $11,000.

43. (cont.) He was elected to the post of Lieutenant Governor under the Herbert Hadley administration in 1909. This structure was under construction when Gmelich died in 1914. His widow lived in the House for several years, it remains in the family today.

Judge Roy Williams, and wife rented this house 1920's-30's until they purchased their own home at 703 E. High Street. Judge Roy was a Missouri Appellate Court Judge, Local Historian and Co-founder of the Boonslick Historical Society.

Significant on a local level both historically as the home of a prominent merchant family and architecturally as an example of the influence of the Prairie Style in this rural Midwest community.

42 Further Description of Important Features The building is accented by a projecting chamfered bay as the W bay of the N facade. A gable roof caps the bay and has returns and fish-scale shingles. Its central window 1st and 2nd story has a stained glass top pane. A 1 story porch runs from the bay to the E over an entrance with transom and 1 window. Molded concrete block forms the balustrade and piers. Wood doric columns support a wide entablature and a pediment filled with fishscale shingles over the entrance. Concrete forms the lintels. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure was built by local contractor and steamboat builder, J.J. Walther, as his residence. Walther was known as the builder of the last steam ferry to travel from Boonville to Howard County. The dwelling remained in the Walther family until c. 1947 or 1948 when it sold to Clifford E. "Slim" Buford, an employee at Holsum Bakery, for his residence. In 1976 it was purchased by the present owner who uses it as rental property. A structure at the rear of this property, now 210 4th St., was once Walther's workshop.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Sitting at the SE corner of E. High and 4th Streets, the residence faces N onto E. High. There are no outbuildings. Originally 210 4th Street was associated with the property.

Concrete also forms the sills and the watertable. Windows have segmentally arched headers, soldiers on the 1st, and rowlock on the 2nd. The S facade has a 1 story pent porch with lattice ends and divider. It caps the 4 small windows and 2 entrances of the 1st story.

43 History and Significance The structure replaced a duplex which set on this site as early as 1885. J.J. Walther, a local contractor and steamboat builder, constructed the present duplex as rental property. In 1968 the owner was Elizabeth Walther, a granddaughter, who continues to reside here at the present time as a renter.

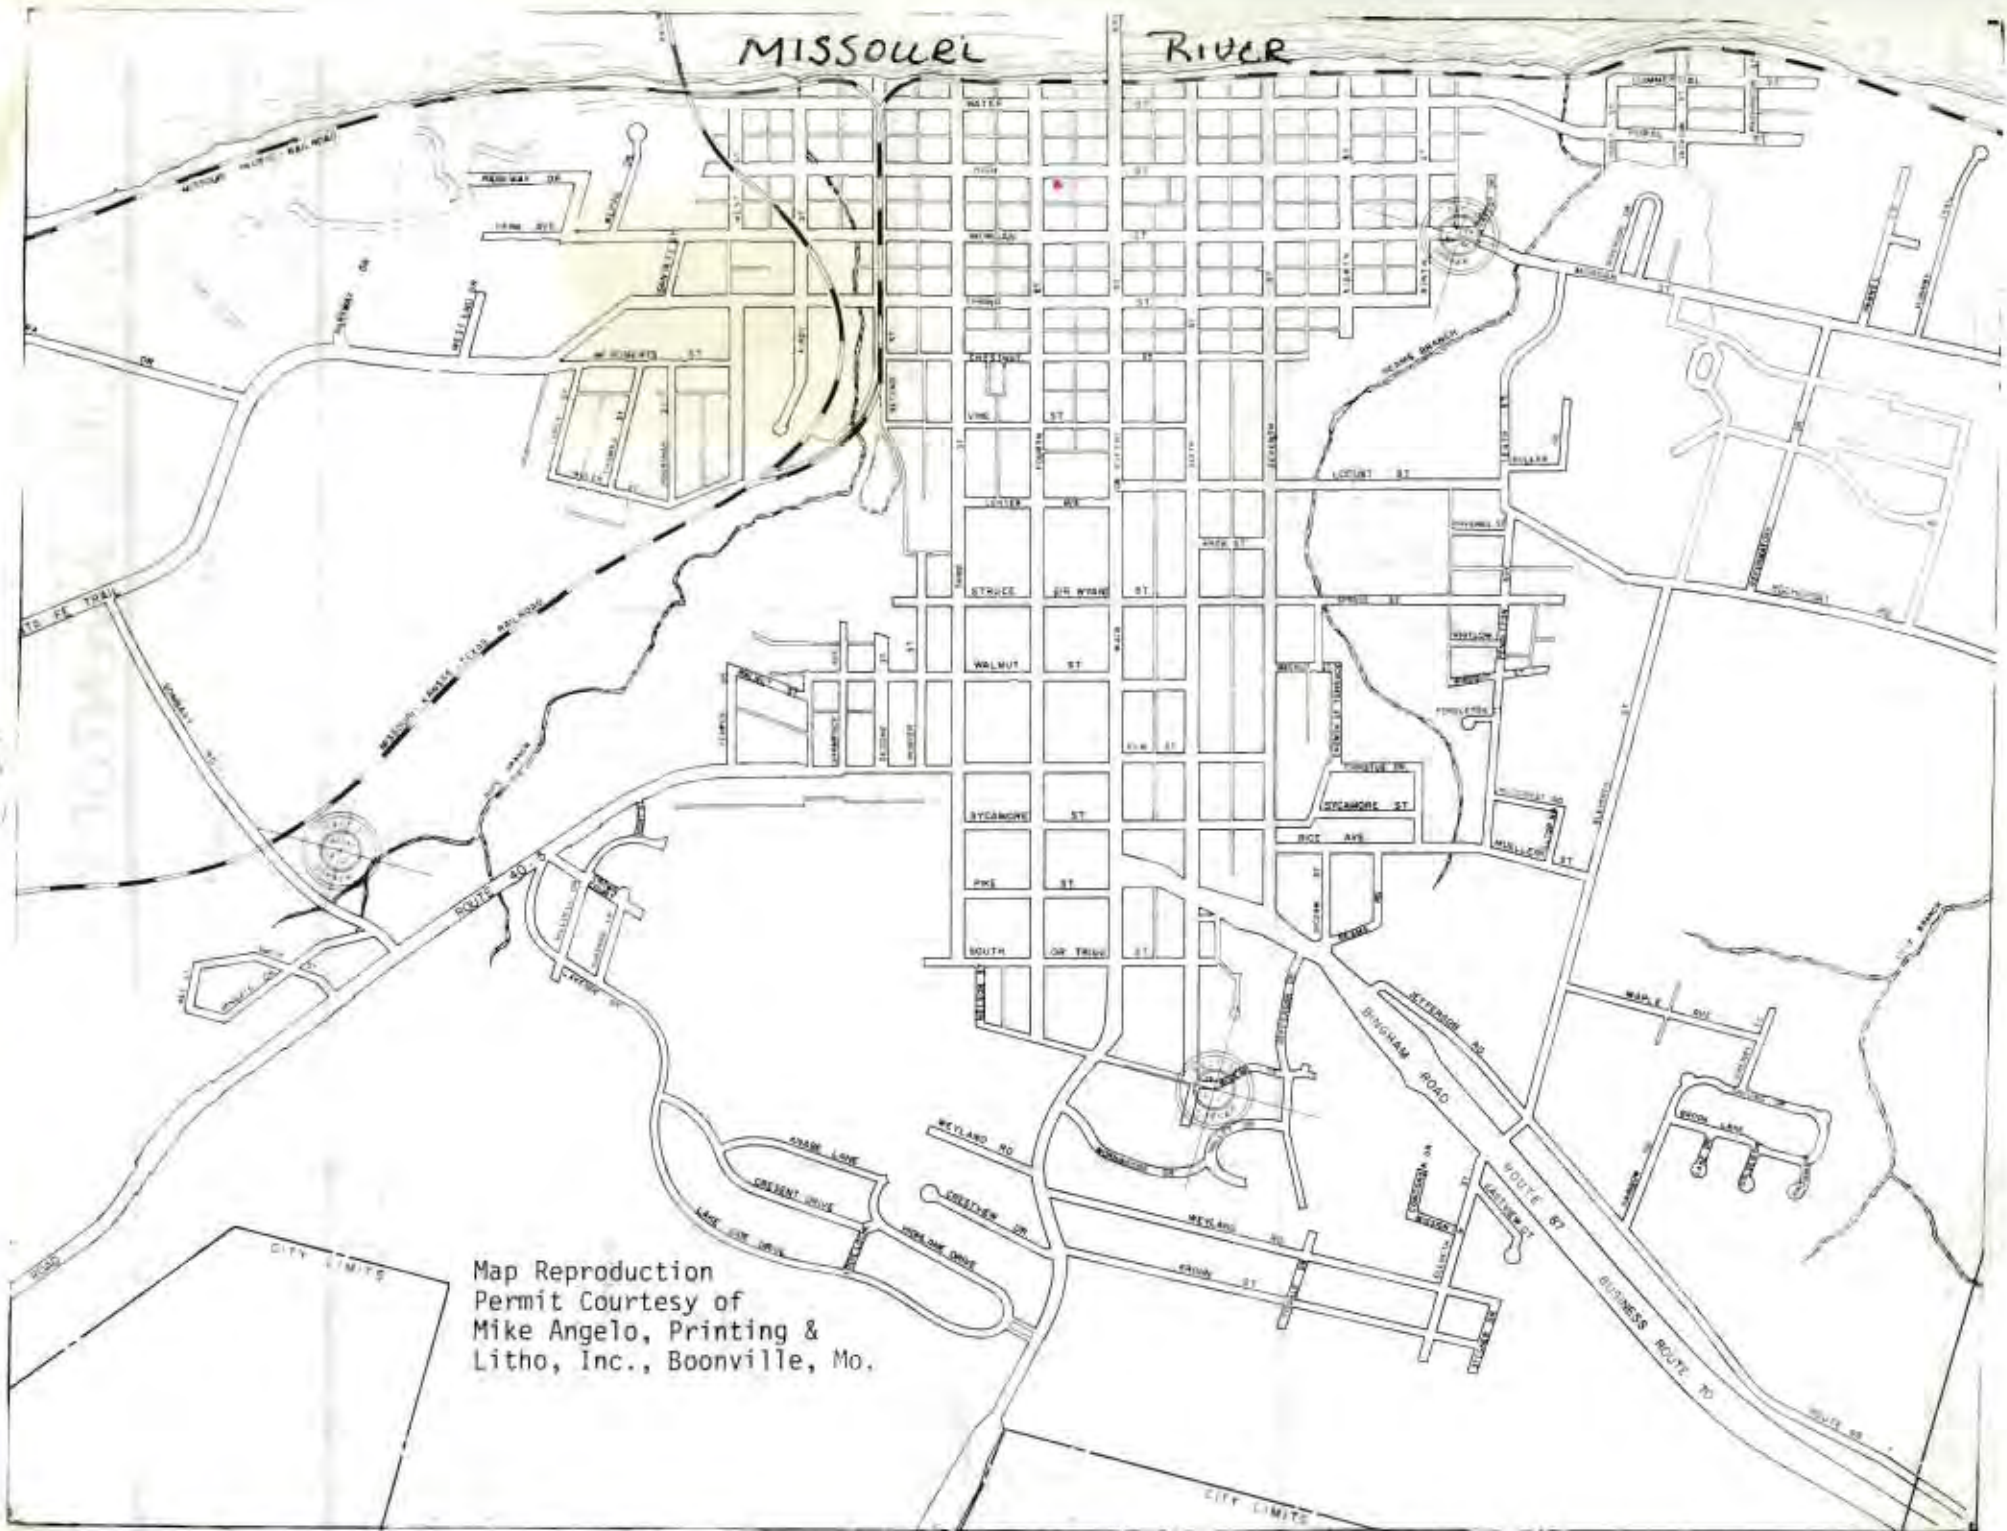

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Facing N onto E. High Street, the structure has a low concrete wall to the N. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built in several sections, the structure's primary facade indicates the evolution of styles. The original 3 bay, 2 story section has flat arched windows with brick headers and 9-over-6 lights, and a central entrance. To its E is a tall 3½ story section built on a 2/3rds plan with pedimented lintels over 6-over-6 windows and an inset entrance with Greek Revival surround. This section is capped by a boxed cornice and frame frieze (N&S) and gable parapets (E&W). Gable dormers N & S, centrally located, are a later (cont.)		Photo
43 History and Significance Known for many years as the "Commercial Hotel", the building, which has 55 rooms, was apparently constructed in 3 or 4 major stages. The earliest section of the building is the 2 story, 3 bay section immediately adjacent to the west of the large 3½ story central section. No exact date of construction can be determined for this original section, but it almost certainly dates to the period 1822-1826. (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The large structure faces S onto High St.; Bridge St. is to the N. It sits close to the street. No outbuildings are associated with the property.

42. (cont.) addition. The end wings reflect the Missouri German influence in their segmentally arched 2-over-2 windows. This motif is repeated in the 2 brick ells extending to the N. Brickwork indicates they too were also built in stages.

There are 3 entrances on the S and several on the E & W facade. Many of the windows retain their louvered wood shutters.

On the interior, the original section has been gutted to the brick walls. On the basement level there is a large fireplace and beehive bake oven. No stairs remain in this section, however there is evidence in the 2nd story floor of their existence. In the 3 story section the large hall is punctuated by an ornate turning stairway. The 2 large 18' x 18' rooms on the 1st and 2nd floors have massive fireplaces. Millwork is heavily molded; baseboards are approximately 16" deep. The basement level has 1 large fireplace and a herringbone brick floor, possibly indicating a kitchen area. The E & W end sections do not have fireplaces but have interior door transoms, as do the rooms of the ells which are reached off narrow halls.

43. (cont.) The 3 story central section appears to date to the mid 1830's or 1840's at which time it was known as "Bailey's Mansion House".

The extreme E and W wings date from the 1870's-80's. The Boonville City Directory, 1869-70, lists a John Fessler as operating a restaurant and residing at what appears to be this location. The Sanborn Map of 1885 lists the building as "Mansion House." In 1892 and 1900 it is listed as "Commercial Hotel." During this period it was operated by the Million family who later went on to operate the Frederick Hotel. In 1910 it is listed as "Courtney Hotel." In 1917 it is listed as "Santa Fe Hotel." In 1929 it again appears as "Commercial Hotel." The building was operated as a hotel up until about 1970. In 1972 it was purchased by Chris Shaler, the present owner, who began restoration work (abandoned by 1976) and leased a portion of the 1976 and since then the building has been vacant and in a steadily deteriorating condition. A minor fire damaged the rear portion of the building on 2/3/80. The building is significant historically and architecturally on a local and state level as one of the earliest operating hotels in the Boonville area.

42. Further Description of Important Features The S facade has a new (c. 1903) brick facade. The 2nd story windows were altered to 3-over-1 with corbelled sills and rowlock lintels. The large entrance with flanking windows of the original 1st story changed to 3 multipane windows with an entrance. Its E facade has a stepped parapet and a 1 story brick addition extending to the E. Its S facade has 4 bays with rowlock, segmental headers. The entrance has a transom. Windows and a double garage opening (cont.)
43. History and Significance This building was probably built to house the Boonville Foundry. Cast iron lintels reading "Boonville Foundry - 1859" may still be found on Main Street. The 1885 Sanborn map shows this building as a 2 story Carriage Shop. By 1892 the Robert Kerner Foundry and Machine Shop was here using the 2 story front section as a machine shop and a rear 1 story section as a foundry. P.P. 42. (cont.) are boarded up. The top of the addition was used as a porch. It has a pent frame enclosed area with composition siding. Additions to the N include a 2 story brick addition built in several sections. Fenestration has changed along the W facade. At the NE corner is a large door cut into the structure. The NW corner has a loading dock and large door set at an angle into the building. The E facade is obscured by other buildings.
43. (cont.) the building and a 1 story addition to the E in 1910. A tin clad building at the NE corner of the lot was a "Buggy Repository". In 1917 the 2 story front section was a garage, the rear addition was a Blacksmith and Machine shop, and the E addition with an earth floor was a monument shop. By 1929 the garage was listed as a machine shop. The other business remained the same. A tornado during the late 1890's caused considerable damage to the front facade and probably accounts for the facade changes.

42 Further Description of Important Features A 1 story brick section with a large arched opening and a sawtooth brickwork cornice links 203 Main and the 2 story main section of Cochran's building. The basement level has segmentally arched windows which become larger as the street slopes downward to the W to expose the basement level. The fenestration of the N facade has had some alterations; the original openings were segmentally arched. Two entrances remain: a large semi-circular arched double entrance at street level and a raised single leaf (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance A large livery business, Smith & Ragland, facing Main, had a building which extended into this lot in 1885 and 1892. By 1910, the present building housed carpenter shop area 1st floor; lumber, paint and glass to the rear; and a private stables and blacksmith in the basement. (Cochran was noted for fine horses) By 1929 the Planing Mill was listed on the 1st story with the office in the NE corner. The W.J. Cochran Co. has been in continued (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features The SE corner of the building has large glass windows and an entrance to the E. The N bays of the E facade have 2 large overhead garage doors. On the S facade is a rectangular projecting bay with entrance to the E which appears to be the restrooms. Typical of the style, the structure is embellished with a large "Standard" sign, 2 red strips, and blue tile. Associated with the structure is a gable roofed, Butler building on a concrete foundation. It sits to the N of the station and has garage (see attached)

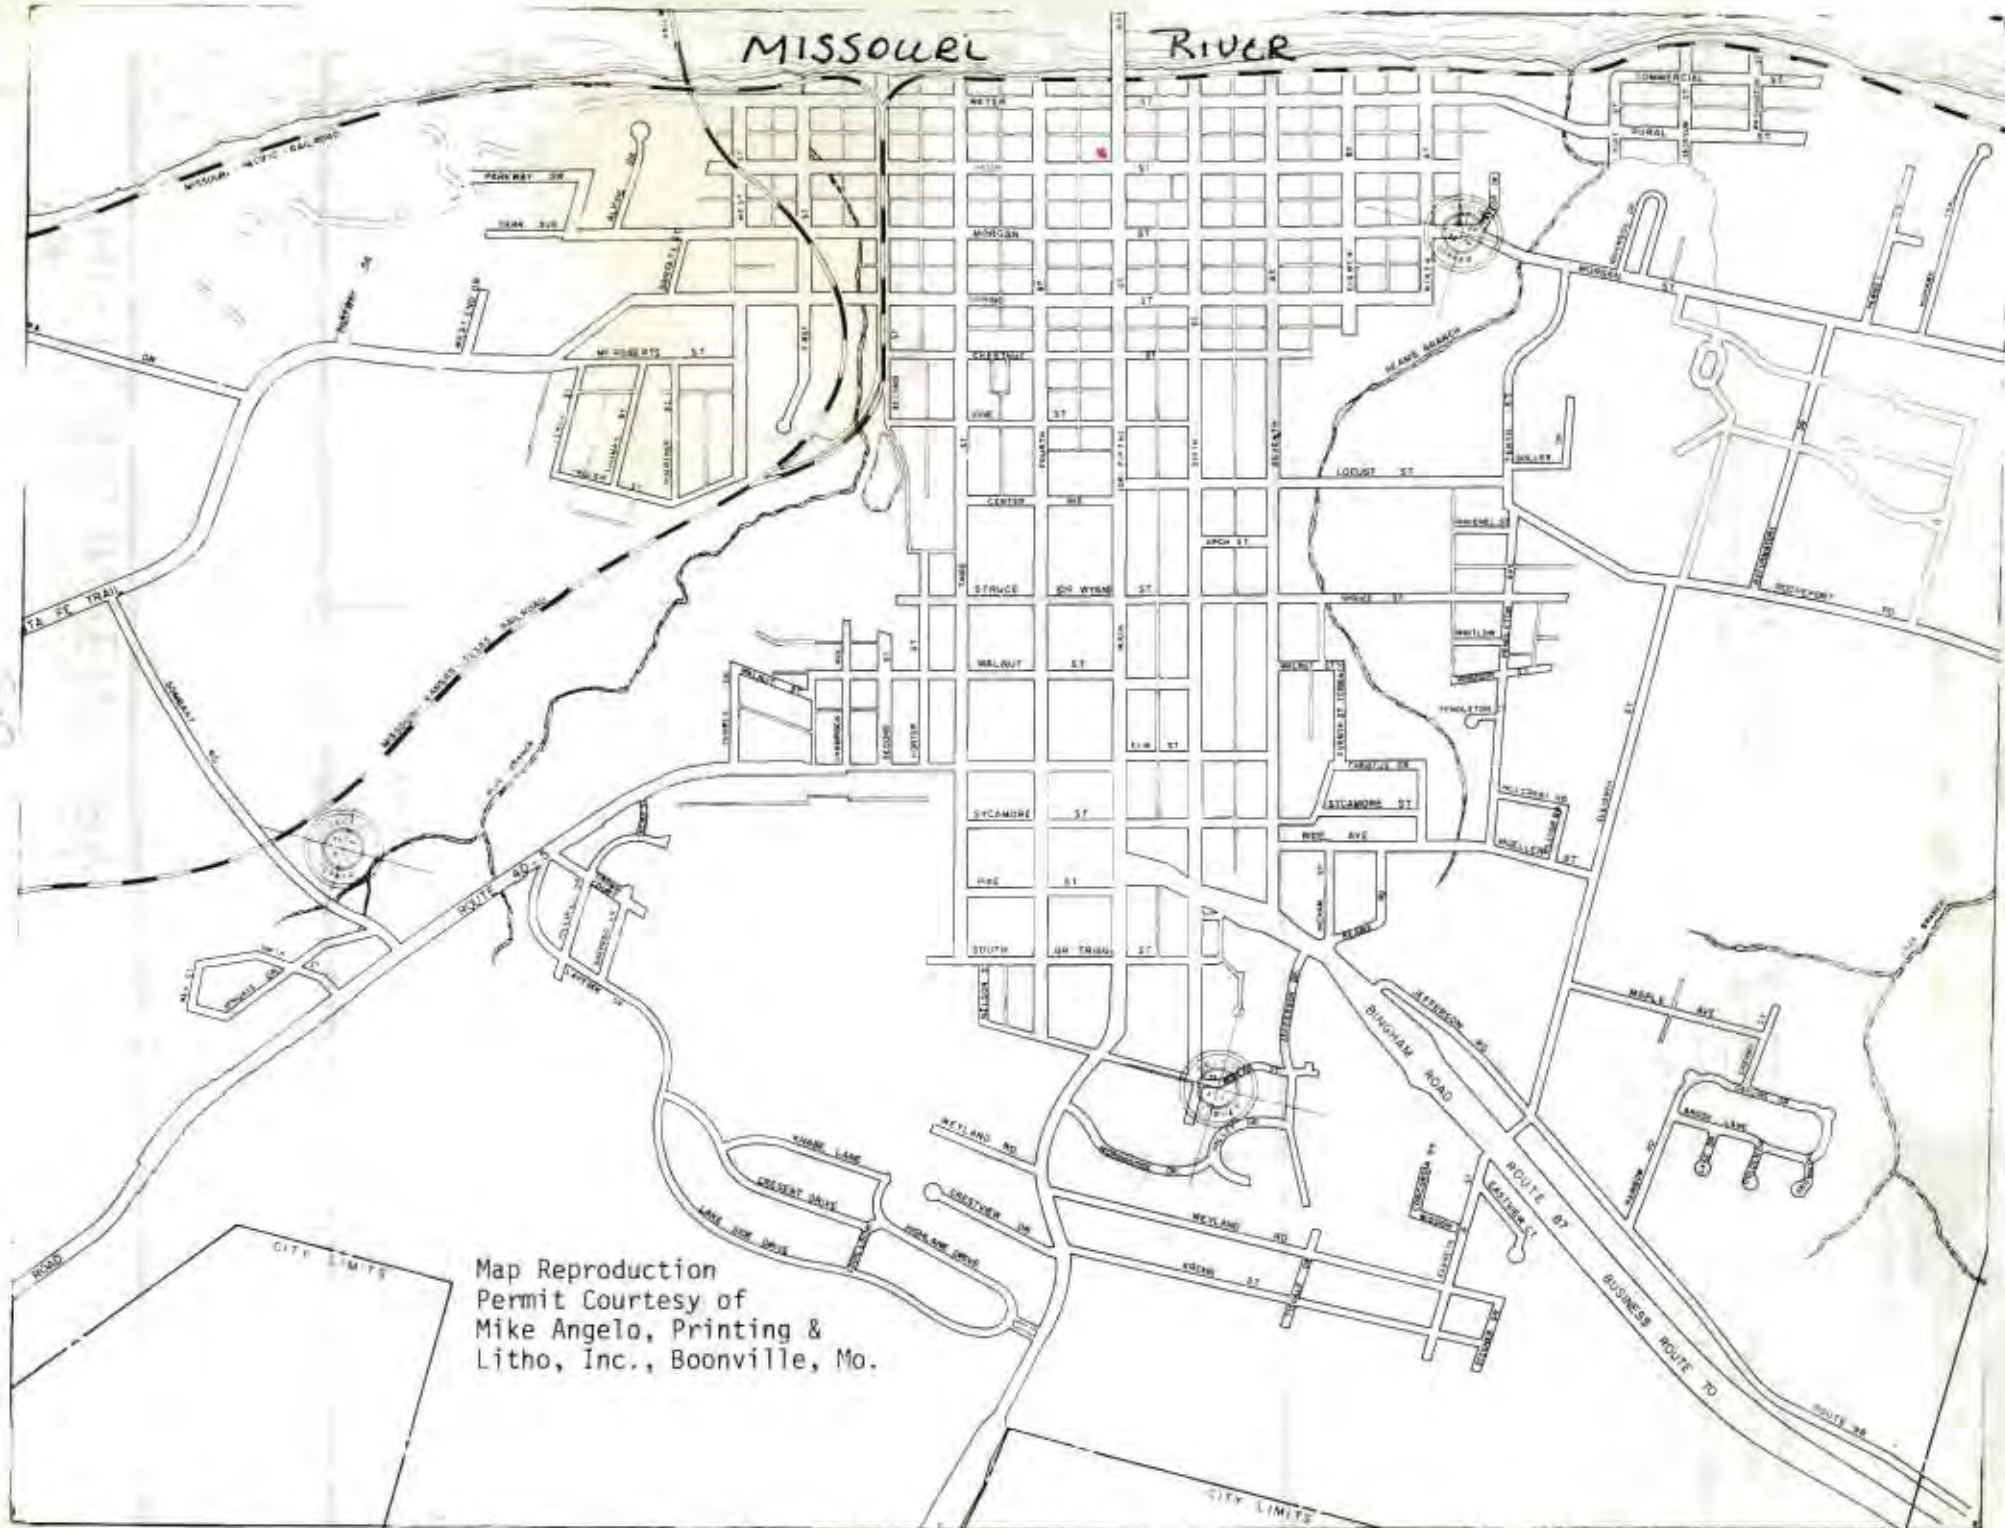

43 History and Significance This service station was formerly known as Cleary's Standard Service from the time it was built in 1927 to 1964. Cleary managed the station for the Standard Oil Co. until 1936 when he leased the station from Standard. A second building was added to the 1927 building in c. 1930. These service station buildings replaced older structures occupied by Weyland's carriage shop and a building used in the 1920's as a Buick dealership (Ralph Whitehurse and Harold Stretz, proprietors.) (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The buildings sit at the NW corner of High and Main Street at the entrance to the bridge. An alley is to the N. The SE corner of the lot is a concrete drive, gas pumps and a large sign.

42. (cont.) door entrances to the S & E,

43. (cont.) Louis Weyland was born in Germany and left his native land because of participation in the Revolution of 1846 and was exiled. He came to this country and located in Boonville in 1848. He had learned the trade of carriage builder. This he followed in Boonville. Mr. Weyland established a shop south of the old court house on Court Street where he plied his trade until 1871. He then located at the NW corner of High and Main Streets (site of present Clark's Service Center) and built up an extensive business. He made carriages and wagons and in later days operated a repair shop until 1908, remaining in business in Boonville for 60 years. After his death the business was run by his son, Charles Weyland until his death in 1923, at which time the building was leased to Stretz and Whitehorse until c. 1925 (Buick Agency). From 1925 to 1927 it was an Oldsmobile agency run by Bernard Weyland, and then it was sold to Standard Oil.

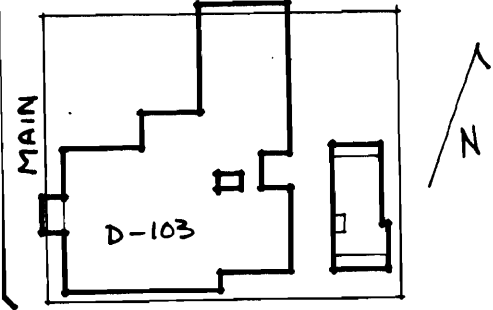

The present owner of the property, Dub Clark, purchased the property from his brother, Billy K. Clark, in 1973, and Billy K. Clark purchased it from the Standard Oil Co. in 1971, at which time Morris Johnmeyer was managing the station.

42 Further Description of Important Features The building is accented by a stone arched inset porch S facade, 1st story. The 1-over-1 windows are capped by a straight-sided arch and a connecting belt course at all 3 stories. This formed of 3 courses of ashlar brick laid in rowlock pattern. Ashlar brick also forms rectangular panels below the corbelled brick cornice. A basement entrance is to the S. The W facade has a flat roofed 1 story porch supported on doric columns and protecting a double leaf entrance. This raised (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance The Frederick Hotel is significant as a local and state landmark and as the best example of Romanesque Revival Architecture in the area. The Hotel was built for Charles A. Sombart by the W.J. Cochran and Sons Construction Company in 1905 at a cost of $40,000. Sombart a miller and banker, built the building to answer the need for a modern hotel. Upon the arrival of the Highway 40 Boonville Road Bridge in 1924 the Hotel became well known as a hotel with exceptional accommodations and quality dining. (see attached sheet)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the NE corner of High & Main Streets, facing S. It is at the entrance to the Bridge. There are no outbuildings. A gravel drive from High Street runs N along the E side of the building to a gravel parking area to the N. The property drops off sharply to the N and affords a grand view of the river.

42. (cont.) porch is on concrete piers. The frame open porch and balustrade extend around the NW corner of the structure. The inset E section has an entrance to the E and now serves as the bus station. Projecting to the N, E section is a later addition. Windows are 3-over-3 with concrete sills, but no headers. W.W. Walther & Geiger Heating & Plumbing were the contractors for this additions. On the interior the lobby retains the black & white marble floors and an Eastlake stair and newel. The desk has been removed and a ladies restroom added. A partition to the E now blocks off the kitchen and brass lined elevator, which is still in operable condition. The ladies powder room was converted to a small bar and a stained glass window from an upper floor was moved to this area. The large dining room with pressed ceiling and ornate cast iron columns with corinthian capitals remains intact. The original 44 rooms are spacious and there is a suite on the SW corner of the 2nd. story. The later addition had 36 rooms total, 22 of which had private baths. A large banquet room was in the basement. All rooms have a louvered summer door.

43. (cont.) From its inception in 1905 till 1964, it was leased by the Million family. Ownership of the Hotel was retained by the Sombart family till 1973 when it was sold and operated by Joe Rodgers. Default occurred and in 1974 it was purchased by the current owners. They have conducted some interior renovations and operate a week end restaurant.

The Hotel Frederick lot is the site of the Jacob Wyan store and the home once known as Arlington Heights, residence of J.C. Macurdy, photographer 1875-1886. Between 1886-1890 it was owned by Governor Lon V. Stephens. In approximately 1866 Jacob Zimmer also built a blacksmith shop on the lot which later became the George Hirsch "Horseshoeing and General Blacksmithing Shop". All existing structures including alleged brick kilns were razed for the construction of the hotel.

43 History and Significance E.J. Melton, in his History of Cooper County (1937), says that Jacob Wyan, prominent pioneer businessman in Boonville, built the dwelling at 513 E. High St., and that the brick used in its construction was imported from England (p.315). This would appear, however, to be erroneous information since the Property Abstract shows that Wyan never owned the property on which the house stands (east half of Lot #88). He did, however, own the property (cont.)		26 Local Contact Person or Organization Friends of Historic Boonville

43. (cont.) immediately to the west (on which a house known as "Arlington Heights" once stood), but only for a short time prior to his death in 1849. The earliest mentioned owner for the east half of Lot #88 (present 513 High) was Henry (and Rosalie) von Phul, a distinguished pioneer businessman of St. Louis who apparently never lived in Boonville. He owned the property from 1823 to 1842 when he sold it to William H. (and Sarah) Trigg. Trigg, a medical doctor and early Boonville merchandiser and banker, was a partner with Jacob Wyan and in 1835 married Wyan's daughter, Sarah. Trigg's mercantile business was one of the largest retail establishments in central Missouri and he was also extensively engaged in the handling of real estate. He owned the property from 1842 to 1869 when it passed to Juliet A. (Trigg) Johnson, his daughter and the wife of William M. Johnson, one of Trigg's business associates. It does not appear, however, that either the Triggs or the Johnsons ever resided on the property. In an unpublished document entitled "Four Corners of Boonville" (1934) by Mary Littlepage Williams (F.O.H.B. Archives) it is mentioned that the whole area on the north side of High from present Main St. to the Stammerjohn property at 603 High, was a brickyard from 1856 to 1866. This brickyard, which had three kilns for burning lime, was run by Louis Houch. If this information is accurate it would seem to indicate that there was no house on the east half of lot #88 until after 1866. In 1870, Juliet A. Johnson sold the property to Marcus Williams Jr., an early Boonville contractor and builder, for $500. Some 8 months later Williams sold the property to Horace S. (and Anne M.) Windsor for $2800. This would seem to indicate that the present house was built during Williams' ownership (May to December 1870) and probably by Williams himself. Horace S. Windsor, who came to Cooper County in 1838 from Virginia where he had been a neighbor of George Washington (his wife's father had been associated with Washington in the management of Mt. Vernon), did extensive farming in Cooper County. He died in February 1880 and the property passed to his only child, John H. Windsor, who was involved in a large farming operation in Clarks Fork Township, Cooper County. The house apparently functioned as his town house during the 1880's and 90's. John Windsor died in 1906 and the property passed to his sons and daughters (Walter B., Horace G., Eugene A., Norman H., and Alma) who maintained ownership until 1926 when the property was sold to Frederick Sombart. The Sombart family was one of the most prominent and substantial families in Boonville. Frederick was a son of Charles A. Sombart, who had a large milling operation in Boonville and who built the Frederick Hotel which lies immediately adjacent to 513 High on the west. The house passed from Frederick Sombart to Paul (and Bernice) Sombart in 1958. Paul Sombart converted the house from a single family residence to a duplex by making an addition on the east facade and altering the front facade (S) so that the central entrance door became a window and the two flanking windows became doors. He also closed in the back porch and added a concrete patio immediately to the rear of the house. In 1974 the Sombarts sold the house to James (and Debby) Bornhauser. They sold it to Judy Eatherton in 1977 and she sold it to Robert L. (and Becky Moodie) Dyer in 1979.

43 History and Significance Built on same plan and like construction as 519 & 527. Similar to 523 which is frame. Previous owners have been Mrs. Hedy Smith and George Morris. The original house was a 3 room structure. The kitchen, bath, and back bedroom were added by present owners. This building has local significance architecturally as part of a cohesive neighborhood. It forms part of a streetscape which exemplifies those of Boonville at the turn of the century.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings It sits on an embankment, facing S onto High. An alley is to the W & N which gives access to a gabled garage. It has corrugated metal sheathing and an entrance to the S.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built originally as a 1 story structure, the 2nd story was added c. 1900-1910. The house is accented by a polygonal 2 story bay with a gable wall dormer embellished with fishscale shingles, brackets and a spindle frieze; a 1 story Eastlake porch with scroll brackets and a plain balustrade above; and a gable attic dormer with fishscale shingles all in the S facade. Openings have segmentally arched lintels. The 1st story entrance originally had a Bohemian red glass transom. The E facade has a jerkin head gable filled (cont.)		26 Local Contact Person or Organization Friends of Historic Boonville
43 History and Significance The house sits on the E half of lot 87 (original town of Boonville). The 1st story, consisting of 3 rooms, was built between 1880 and 1885 by Charles Vollrath. Subsequent additions were in 1885, 1900 and 1910. Charles Vollrath, secretary and treasurer of Sombart Milling Co., which had originally been owned by his father; president of the City Council for many years; and married to Pauline Kratz; died in 1935. 42. (cont.) with fishscale shingles. A pent frame 2 story section on the N connects to the rear ells.

The interior of the house contains 6 rooms downstairs and 4 bedrooms upstairs. The fireplaces, one in the library and one in the parlor, were probably constructed to be used with iron stoves. Gas/electric combination light fixtures are present in 4 rooms. An L shaped hallway downstairs houses an oak 2 cornered stairway with a stained glass window on the landing.

43. (cont.) willed to Bertha Vollrath, daughter of Charles, and was maintained as her residence until her death in 1964. In July 1965, the property was sold by the county court to settle the Vollrath estate, and became the property of John and Josephine Stegner. They used the house as rental property until October 1965 when it was purchased by Volney and Martha Hildreth. The Hildreths used the house as the "Red Door Restaurant", so named for the beautiful red glass panes in the main entrance door and transom, and the arched windows of the balcony and its transom. In 1973 the house was sold to Robert and Evelyn Wingate and used as their residence. During their ownership the red glass was removed from the front entrances. In 1977 Brent and Sharon Bozarth bought the house and lived there one year. In 1978 it was purchased by the present owners.

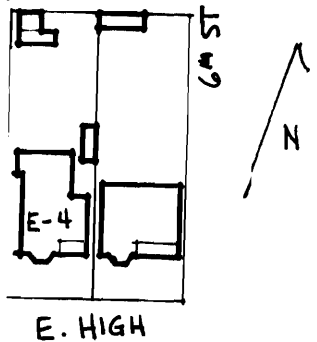

44. (cont.) parking area to the rear. The residence has a grand view of the river to the N.

43 History and Significance Residence until 1970-Law office there after. Alike in style and construction to 515 & 519 High Street. In its original condition the structure is similar to 523 High Street. Due to its architectural motifs, the structure fits into the streetscape and helps to build a cohesive neighborhood quality. For this reason and the fact that it has been rehabilitated, it has architectural significance on a local level.		Photo

42. (cont.) Most windows are 1-over-1 with stone lug sills and flat arched soldier course brick headers on the 1st story, and a rowlock string course at the header level of the 2nd. story. On the W facade, there is a 2 story rectangular bay with a gabled wall dormer. It repeats the gable end decoration of the N facade. In this bay is a grouped 3 - part window which has an ornate header with stone scewbacks and a raised keystone. This window motif is repeated on the E facade.

A small porch on the SW corner is a 1 story and echos the (N) front porch. Across the rear facade (S) is a 1 story addition with an entrance. It is frame and forms a porch for the 2nd. story door and small flanking windows.

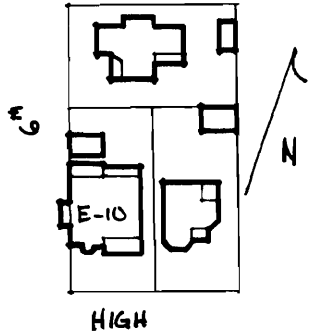

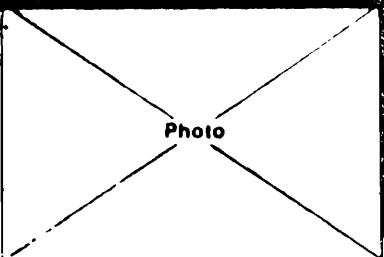

On the interior there is rich oak millwork, an L-shaped stairway, 3 large sliding doors ornate mantels with columns and beveled glass, and several stained glass windows. In the staircase is a pressed wainscoting which resembles Lincristo Walton. The present owners have the original blueprints to the structure.

43 History and Significance Referred to in Levens & Drake history of the County as one of the oldest houses in Boonville: The structure was built by R P. Clark, 1st. circuit clerk of Cooper County. Originally the front facade faced Sixth Street. In the 1840's the property included a two-story brick house and a smaller frame house, which sold for $600. Mr. & Mrs. B.J. Stammerjohn bought the house in 1920 and Mrs. Stammerjohn still resides (See Attachment)

42. (cont.) the 1st story is brick, 2nd. is frame. The structure was reportedly built in a classic Revival style but is now severely modified.

43. (cont.) in the west apartment. Her daughter, Mrs. E.W. Cline resides in the east wing, a later addition. During the Stammerjohn's ownership a two-story wooden porch with railing was removed and the brick porch constructed. Recent information from abstract indicates the following history of ownership: R.P. Clark purchased the west  $\frac{1}{2}$  of lot 85 from the county commissioners in 1825 for \$50.00. The structure sits up on this  $\frac{1}{2}$  lot. In 1826 the east  $\frac{1}{2}$  lot sold to Nathaniel Mitchell for \$50.00 who in turn sold it to R.P. Clark in 1832 for \$100.00; James H. Melone - 1836; Ann S. Jefferson - 1845; William H. Trigg, for speculation - 1864; W.E. and Joseph M. Williams, a carpenter who built "a little cabin of a shop on the High Street side of their lot", - 1870; Margaret and John Boehm, Boots and Shoe Dealer - 1877; W.F. Howard, druggist of R.H. Howard and Son, 1877. The frame structure which made its appearance in the 1840's was razed by 1890.

There is a pent roofed frame addition to the SE.		Photo
43 History and Significance The house was built in the early 1900's by the W.L. Koenig family who resided there until the mid-1930's. It then passed through several owners who used it as rental property until 1947 when it was purchased by the present owners. W.L. Koenig (b. 1886) was proprietor of Koenig Auto Sales Co., Main and Chestnut, in Boonville, est. 1918. He was County Collector of Cooper County from 1909 to 1915. His wife, Emma (Schnack) was a daughter of Herman Schnack who operated a well-known saloon in Boonville.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings On the SW corner of the lot is a frame, board and batten garage which has a hip roof and open eaves. The residence faces N onto High Street.

42 Further Description of Important Features Characteristic of Queen Anne style in plan, most decorative architectural motifs have been eliminated, except turned porch post. The 1 story porch is pedimented. Windows are 1-over-1, attenuated, and have segmentally arched frame headers. A 2 story polygonal bay projects from the SW corner. It is gable roofed with returns. A gable roofed dormer is located centrally on the S facade. A 2 story chamfered bay is on the SE corner, its 1st story central window is original wide and stained (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance Home was originally built for Charles Hoffmeister, a local saloon owner and operator. This area of High St. is locally significant as an early residential area. It retains a turn of the century streetscape of large trees, spacious lots, and a pleasant mix of large and small homes. This residence is an integral part of this cohesive neighborhood quality.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Faces S onto High. Structure has low concrete reinforcing wall to the S and a concrete drive to the E. A gable roof, single car frame garage is to the E of the residence.

43 History and Significance The house was built c. 1905 by the Hirsch family and then passed down to Mrs. Hirsch's daughter, Mrs. Glen Draper, and her husband. It remained in the Draper family until c. 1960 when it was purchased by Ernestine Barlow and her mother, Mrs. Ernest Barlow. They renovated the interior of the house, and, in 1965, it was sold to the present owners.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings An alley is to the S & E of the residence which faces N onto High Street. There is 1 outbuilding, a frame, gable roofed garage with access from the E alley. It too is covered with asbestos shingles.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built as 2/3rds. house, the structure was enlarged to the E to create a central hall plan. The structure is 2 rooms deep with 2 chimneys at each end. Windows are 2-over-2 and have shutters. Sills have small brackets. On the primary facade (N) is a 1 bay, 1 story flat roof porch. The 2nd. story has an entrance, but the current porch has no balustrade. (see attached sheet)		Photo
43 History and Significance Clark arrived in Boonville 1818, and was appointed Circuit Court Clerk of Cooper County by Judge David Todd, 3/1/1819. In 1820 he was elected county representative of Mo. State Convention. About this time he built the residence at 616 E. High, and held the 1st. County Court on January 8, 1821 at his residence. He continued active in politics and was known as "The Father of the County" because of his knowledge of statute laws and advising thereof. About 1825 he built a new house at 603 E. High (see attached sheet)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Residence sits close to the street and faces N onto High Street. Alleys run to the W & S of the structure. There are 2 outbuildings to the S of the residence. One vertical board and batten, gable roofed shed is along the W alley. It has a standing rib tin roof and a raking (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) The porch is supported by paired square frame columns at the house and 3 columns at the outer corners. Carpenter Gothic cut-out motifs appear between columns and at the balustrade. The entrance has a 4 light transom and is flanked by square pilasters and 3 side lights. Windows to the rear are 6-over-6. 1st story are 2-over-2. To the SW is a 1 story, gable, tin roofed ell. To the S of that was a breezeway, now enclosed with vertical board and batten siding and having a single leaf door with a 3 light transom. This breezeway connected the Main Structure to a 1 story clapboard addition which has 6-over-6 windows and was probably used as the summer kitchen. On the SE is a pent roofed 2 story porch with square columns. Central Hall is now used as office space.

43. (cont.) Subsequent owners are Conrad Lawton, 1835; Adam Eckhard, a butcher, 1868; Susie Christman, 1920. The present owner is a semi-retired Osteopath operating out of her home.

44. (cont.) cornice at the gable ends. At the corner of the alley to the S is a 1½ story brick, rectangular structure. It has a standing rib, tin gable roof. Doors and windows have rowlock, segmentally arched headers. S-shaped reinforcing rods run E & W through the building. Structure is now vine-clad and may have been used as slave quarters.

NOTE for Item #43: The structure is part of a cohesive neighborhood and is significant on a local level for its historical association with R.P. Clark.

43 History and Significance Information in the property abstracts strongly suggests the existence of buildings on lot 83 since 1822 (p.4). It is of interest to note the properties of lots 59 and 83 were grouped together with lots 10 and 11 in 1832 (p.8). Lots 10 and 11 contained a saw mill and grist mill and milling machinery. In 1834 (p.9) a transaction involving these 4 lots carried a consideration of $18,000. In 1850 Sarah Williams bought lots 58, 59, and 83 for (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Residential neighborhood. Street lined with hewn stone curbing. Brick paving covered over. Hard maple trees along curbs produce colorful fall display. Utility poles and wires fortuitously were installed along the alleys rather than along High St. thus permitting a canopy of attractive foliage. No original outbuildings survive. (cont.)

43. (cont.) $1000 (p.16). In 1852 she moved to California state and gave her brother, John Porter, the power of attorney to manage her real estate, collect rents and sell the properties. This fact suggests buildings and tenants were on the properties at that time. Jesse Homan purchased the three lots from Sarah Williams in July 1855 for $1200 (p.18). In 1863 Homan borrowed $1397.50 (p.20) placing his properties in trust to secure the promissory note. The Homans lived on lot 58 (p.21). They sold lot 83 to Julia P. Weber on Oct. 18, 1881 (p.21) "with appurtenances" for $450. It appears a house already existed on lot 83 at that time. The Webers transferred lot 83 to Julius A. Weber on Nov. 1883 for $3000. And Julius transferred it back to John S. Weber in the same month for $3500 (p. 24). In Oct. 1885, lot 83 was sold by John S. Weber and Julia P. Weber to David Andrews for $3725 (p.26). These facts would suggest the house on the lot in 1881 was improved between 1881-1883 by the Webers. There are three floor levels in the present house's first story and evidences in the brick walls of additions. The rear (N) section possibly retains some fabric of the ca. 1822-1881 building(s). The front (S) portion may then date from the 1881-1883 jump in value under the Weber ownership. There are keys in the house with 1870's patents. If constructed in the early 1880's, it is conservative for that time, containing interior millwork, stairway balusters and newel found in other Missouri examples dating from the 1860's and 1870's. The house is not featured in the 1900 publication, Boonville the Vine Clad City. This booklet shows the new homes of that time. The deletion indicates this house was considered old by 1900. The west side is partially visible in the photograph illustrating the neighboring house to the west, now known as the Charles Verts residence. The Webers sold lot 83 to David Andrews in 1885 for $3725 (p.26). The Andrews bought lots 58 in 1889 and lot 59 in 1891 and retained ownership of all three lots until 1930 when they were sold to Sadie Howard Chilton for $6,350. Mrs. Chilton lived to be 102. She died in 1968. William and M. Patricia Holmes purchased the property in 1970 from Mrs. Chilton's estate. Levens and Drake's A History of Cooper County, 1876, mentions a 4th of July celebration in 1820 in which a canon was fired from the Indian mound in the front yard of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Homan "north and northwest of the courthouse." This mound is extant today immediately north of the house on Lot 83 (617 E. High St.). A root cellar has been dug into the southeast corner of the mound. This cellar appears to date from the 1880's period. The only surviving building on the property now is the Holmes house, but many evidences of earlier buildings are to be found in the rear yard. While digging holes for fruit trees in 1976 we noted a straight foundation wall of brick east of the Indian mound and northeast of the house. The present garden area at the north edge of lot 83 and the south edge of lots 58 and 59 is full of cinders, brick bats, stones, glass fragments, old bottles, dish fragments, etc. As the bluff is wind deposited loess soil, any stones or other such matter have been introduced into the property. The topsoil is extremely deep. Rectangular foundation outlines are visible and there is a basin which was possibly a watering trough. The Andrews were tanners and supposedly were quite wealthy. (conversation with the late Judge Roy D. Williams) They had gold flatware at their table. (Williams) Three generations of Andrews owned the property 1885-1930. This family has a prominent obelisque monument at Walnut Grove Cemetery in Boonville. The Chiltons were local jewelers. They had lived in a fine large house on Main Street until moving here in 1930. The Main Street property was needed for a filling station to serve the then bustling U.S. Highway 40 traffic. Mrs. Chilton was 64 when she moved here. Her husband died 4 years later. She was known as an industrious, enterprising, business woman who was well respected. She remodeled the house putting in hardwood floors, moving the kitchen into the back stair hall and taking out the back stairs. She enclosed the rear first story porch to make a summer bedroom for herself and put in bathrooms. She also had a two-story stairhall added to the southwest corner of the house. This addition was done quite sympathetically to the original architecture. She was then able to rent out a three-room apartment on the west side of the upstairs and the eastern bedroom and bathroom upstairs. Mrs. Chilton had quarters for a live-in servant in a back room north of her kitchen. She apparently removed the speaking tubes from the house. During the depression she allowed a man of European birth named "John" to live in a make-shift shack in the north of the property. A skillful gardner, this man raised vegetables in the rich soil of the back yard and sold his produce up and down the streets of Boonville for his livelihood. Mrs. Chilton would not allow him inside her house, however, because he had "bedbugs." Mrs. Chilton loaned (cont.)

- '43. (cont.) money to negro persons. They would come to the rear door of her summer bedroom-- a room she also used as her office, to do business with her. She helped people in these ways. (interviews with Judge Roy D. Williams, Mrs. S.E. Bailey and Mrs. E.F. Utley, former occupants of the apartment who knew Mrs. Chilton)
44. (cont.) No original outbuildings survive. Their former locations in the rear yard noted in plowing for a garden and digging holes to plant fruit trees. A squatter's shanty exists 2/3 on lot 59 and partly on an alley right-of-way which is not used as an alley due to the steep slope of the ground.
43. (NOTE: The structure is both architecturally and historically significant on a local level. It is one of the few houses remaining in this district of the Italianate style, however, due to size and location it fits into the streetscape and forms an important element in the neighborhood.)

42 Further Description of Important Features The N facade has a small, 1 bay, raised concrete porch with a round hood canopy on brackets. A pent roof dormer with 2 windows is at the attic level. A 1 room brick, now screened porch is at the NE corner. Its N opening is an segmental arch; openings to the E are rectangular. A brick soldier course runs around the house at the basement level and as the header course of the 1st. story windows and doors. Most windows are 4-over-1. On the S facade is a small screened porch on brick piers and steps (see attachment)
43 History and Significance Past owners - Mrs. Bernice Smith and Mrs. H. Selck. Mrs. Selck, a retired school teacher, sold the structure to M.C. Wilkerson, a nephew, in 1980. Construction is currently underway to expand the 2nd story to form a residence for Wilkerson by adding N and S dormers, and adding kitchen and bath facilities.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Structure sits on small lot facing N onto High Street. A concrete drive runs along the E of the property. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features Characteristic of the style, there are gable roof attic dormers, decorative vergeboards and chamfered corners with scroll brackets and pendants. Windows in the central 2 story projecting bay have stained glass. Porches on the SE and SW retain evidence of Eastlake motifs such as turned posts, spindles, and lattice work. The SE porch has been screened in on the SW; a 2nd. story porch has been added and the 1st. story porch shortened. (approximately 20 years ago.) (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance Important as an element in this streetscape and neighborhood, the structure is significant on a local level. The structure was built by William Alexander Sombart, a part owner of the Boonville Mills Company that was family owned. Sombart also served as the 1st vice-president of the Boonville National Bank and on Boonville's first Board of Public Works. The present owner has resided in the structure for approximately 20 years.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The house faces S onto High Street at the NW corner of High and 7th. Streets. The property drops off sharply to the N and affords a grand view of the river. To the S & E there is a low concrete reinforcing wall. To the E is a gravel drive extending from the Seventh Street dead end section. (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) It originally extended around the W. facade to the rear entrance. Part of this area on the W. facade was converted to a sun room. A single leaf entrance door with a belcast canopy supported by knee braces is on the E. facade. Interior ceilings in living room and parlor still retain a pressed tin ceilings. Several interior openings have spindle frieze detailing. The front door (SW) retains the ornate millwork of the period with an etched glass window pane with the initials W.A.S. the second story belcony door (SW) possesses a finely milled door with red, etched glass window pane in a horsehead motif. Remaining in the Sombart family until c 1950's the majority of additions and alterations have taken place in the last 20 years. Much of the Queen Anne/East-lake stickwork and architectural motifs have been removed at times when the house was painted. There is 1 addition to the rear; it is 1 story on a field stone foundation. Interior alterations include deleting a stairway from the back bedroom to the main stair landing and the door opening between the parlor and kitchen. Three fireplaces remain usable.

44. (cont.) There are 3 outbuildings. A vertical board and batten garage sits to the NE of the residence. It has a hip roof with iron ridge cresting and asphalt shingles. Sitting on a concrete slab, the open carport extension was built approximately 12 years ago. There is a frame open storage building to the NW. To the rear (N) of the structure is a 2 room clapboarded frame building on a brick foundation and with a standing ribbed tin gable roof. According to the oral history as proclaimed by "Judge Roy Williams" the Sombarts' lived in the small structure during the building of the large house; later it was used as servants housing. Residence originally had an iron fence on the S. facade; a wooden fence to the E.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary (S) facade has a chamfered bay to the E which has a gable wall dormer. The 1st story central bay window has stained glass. The central bays of the structure have a double leaf entrance which retain ornate interior doors and a rectangular transom. The 2nd. story has 2 bays. A gable dormer caps this area. The S bay of this facade is a 2 story rectangular projecting bay set at an angle. It has stained glass in the center panels on both stories and is capped by a gable wall (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance The house was built in 1898 by Judge John Thro, a local lumber yard owner and county court Judge, using the highest grade lumber to meet the needs of his growing family. Thro was a soldier in the civil war and in 1863 he made the Overland Trip to California spending three years there before his return. Upon Thro's death in 1924, his wife inherited the house, and in turn left it to her three daughters Emma, Laura, and Ella. (see attached sheet)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto High St., sitting at the NE corner of 7th and High Streets. 42. (cont.) dormer. A 2 story, low hip roofed addition extends to the W at this point. It has an entrance to the S which leads to the 2nd. story. This later addition repeats all the motifs of the main structure. A 1 story porch extends from the chamfered bay to the edge of this addition. Raised on stone piers with lattice skirting, the porch has pediments over each entrance and is ornately embellished with Eastlake porst, spindle balustrade, and a pendant frieze.

The W facade has a centrally located, 2 story chamfered bay with a gabled wall dormer. The N bay is an entrance. Extending from the N entrance of the new addition along the W facade and across the N facade is an open deck which repeats the spindle balustrade from the S facade. On the N facade is a double entrance at the walkout basement level. To the E of this N section is a pent addition on the 1st story with an entrance to the E. It has a concrete stoop and small patio. Capping the addition is a 2nd story porch.

Accenting the structure is a band of fishscale shingling, all gable dormers have small windows, scalloped vergeboards with a cut-out floral motif and a scallop frieze. The roofline has ridge cresting and lightening rods, and retains an ornately corbelled chimney cap and wood bracketed gutters. Openings have segmentally arched, frame headers with a raised scroll pattern applied. Windows are 1-over-1 and shuttered. A frame sill course with vertical motifs are complimented by the use of a bi-chromatic painting scheme. The interior retains the majority of its Eastlake millwork.

43. (cont.) In 1929 it was sold to Robert Turner who eventually lost the house in 1933. Turner converted the house into two apartments altering the floor plans in the rear portion of the house. It was also at this time the front parlor/back parlor doorway was closed in, central stairway removed, west porch removed and the second floor apartment entrance built. In 1933, Mrs. Roy (Adda) Williams purchased the house at a foreclosure sale. Her husband, Judge Roy D. Williams was a prominent mid-Missouri lawyer, State Appellate Court Judge, local historian, and President of the Missouri Historical Society.

In 1976, Mrs. Williams sold the home to the present owners, the Enid and Crosby Kemper Foundation, with the understanding that she could reside in the house as a renter as long as she desired.

Under the ownership of the Kemper Foundation the exterior of the house was restored. Marcus Monroe, re-designed the house, using the Vine Clad City photographs circa 1900 as the standard. Jerry Adkins was the contractor in charge of carpentry and painting. During this restoration the front porch was extended to cover the apartment entrance, the side to rear deck was built, decorative embellishments milled and added, wood shingle roof constructed, and two separate heating and central air conditioning units installed. The two stained glass windows on the first floor were designed for the house by Joe Fray, using 1900 circa glass, the stained glass windows at the second floor level originally in the front parlor was found by James Higbie, restored and installed in 1979. The house is to be used as a model of Queen Anne Architecture, House Tours, Residence for the Kempers when they are visiting in Boonville and other historical purposes.

Past renters of the 2nd. floor apartment have been James Higbie, past Director of Family Counseling In Problem Drinking/C.A.R.E. and current Director of The Historic Survey Office and Tia Higbie, current Director of the Boonville Planned Parenthood Office.

45. (cont.) Personal Remembrances of James Higbie

43. (NOTE: Since its recent restoration, the structure forms a pivotal point in both this district and in the overall preservation scheme of Boonville. It has local significance architecturally as a fine example of the style and historically for its association with several prominent families.

42. (cont.) as square fluted pilasters and heavy entablature with dentils and modillions embellish this entrance in the easternmost bay of this 2/3rds plan house. The W facade has a 1 story Eastlake frame porch. A frame porch is also to the N.

The interior of the house features ornate plaster molds in the ceilings of the living and dining rooms and the hall. Large floor to ceiling sliding doors with ornate panels divide the living and dining rooms. Original window shutters which are louvered and panelled and fold away into the molding are also a distinctive feature. Four fireplaces heated the house. The 2 downstairs are black marble with ornate metal summer plates. A unique feature is the walnut, bracketed string staircase. The landing is large and serves as sitting area (now has piano). The 2nd half flight of stairs split to give access to both the N & S 2nd floor rooms.

43. (cont.) a "merchant, tailor, clothier and dealer in piece goods", Wertheimer lost $4000 worth of clothing when General Joe Shelby occupied Boonville on October 11, 1863.

In 1888 the two sectioned house was divided and 713 E. High became the property of Wertheimer's son-in-law, Charles P. Gott. In 1894 Gott obtained 715 E. High and both remained in his possession until 1899. Gott, a one time partner in the Sauter Brothers Mercantile Co. was employed by his father in the Gott Tobacco Manufacturing Company between 1883 and 1900. The next owner, John F. McClanahan, obtained both sections of the structure in 1899, but sold to T.F. Waltz in 1903. Waltz was employed by the MKT railroad and worked his way up to station agent over a career that spanned 60 years. Both structures remained in the Waltz family until 1964 when Waltz's daughter, Frances Wasco, and her husband gained possession. In 1972, 713 E. High was sold to the present owners, Mr. & Mrs. Barry Thacher, owners of the Thacher Funeral Home.

On the 1st. story openings have heavy stone lintels, and lug sills. The 2nd. story has a stone sill course on the E, N, & W facades. A brick soldier course forms a header course just under (see attachment)
43 History and Significance Built for Mr. & Mrs. A.E. Hirsch, owners of Hirsch Drug Store, located on Main Street. Architecturally this building has local significance due to the fact that it is one of two buildings in town which exemplify the Prairie Style. The brick used on the exterior is "hydraulic pressed brick."
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. A concrete drive leads from High Street along the W side of the residence to the garage. There is a concrete reinforcing wall along the primary facade which faces N onto High Street. An alley is to the W of the structure.

42. Further Description of Important Features This structure is built on a 2/3rds plan with 713 E. High built as a later addition. On the primary facade (S) the entrance is the westernmost bay. It has a transom and retains its interior. Eastlake door. The 2-over-2 windows have flat arch soldier course headers and green shutters. There is a 3 window, pent roof dormer on this S facade. On the E facade, the ground drops off to expose the basement which has a walk out entrance at the NE corner. This and the N facade are done in common bond. Windows are segmentally arched (cont.)

43. History and Significance Architecturally the structure is important due to its early construction date. It is locally significant as an integral part of the E. High Street neighborhood and streetscape.

The exact date and builder are unknown, however, the Flemish bond brickwork dates the structure c. 1840's. Ownership of the structure between 1839 and 1849 is Mary Dobbins, an early merchant (1839); John Dade, executor of the Dobbins estate (1842); August Simpson, (cont.)

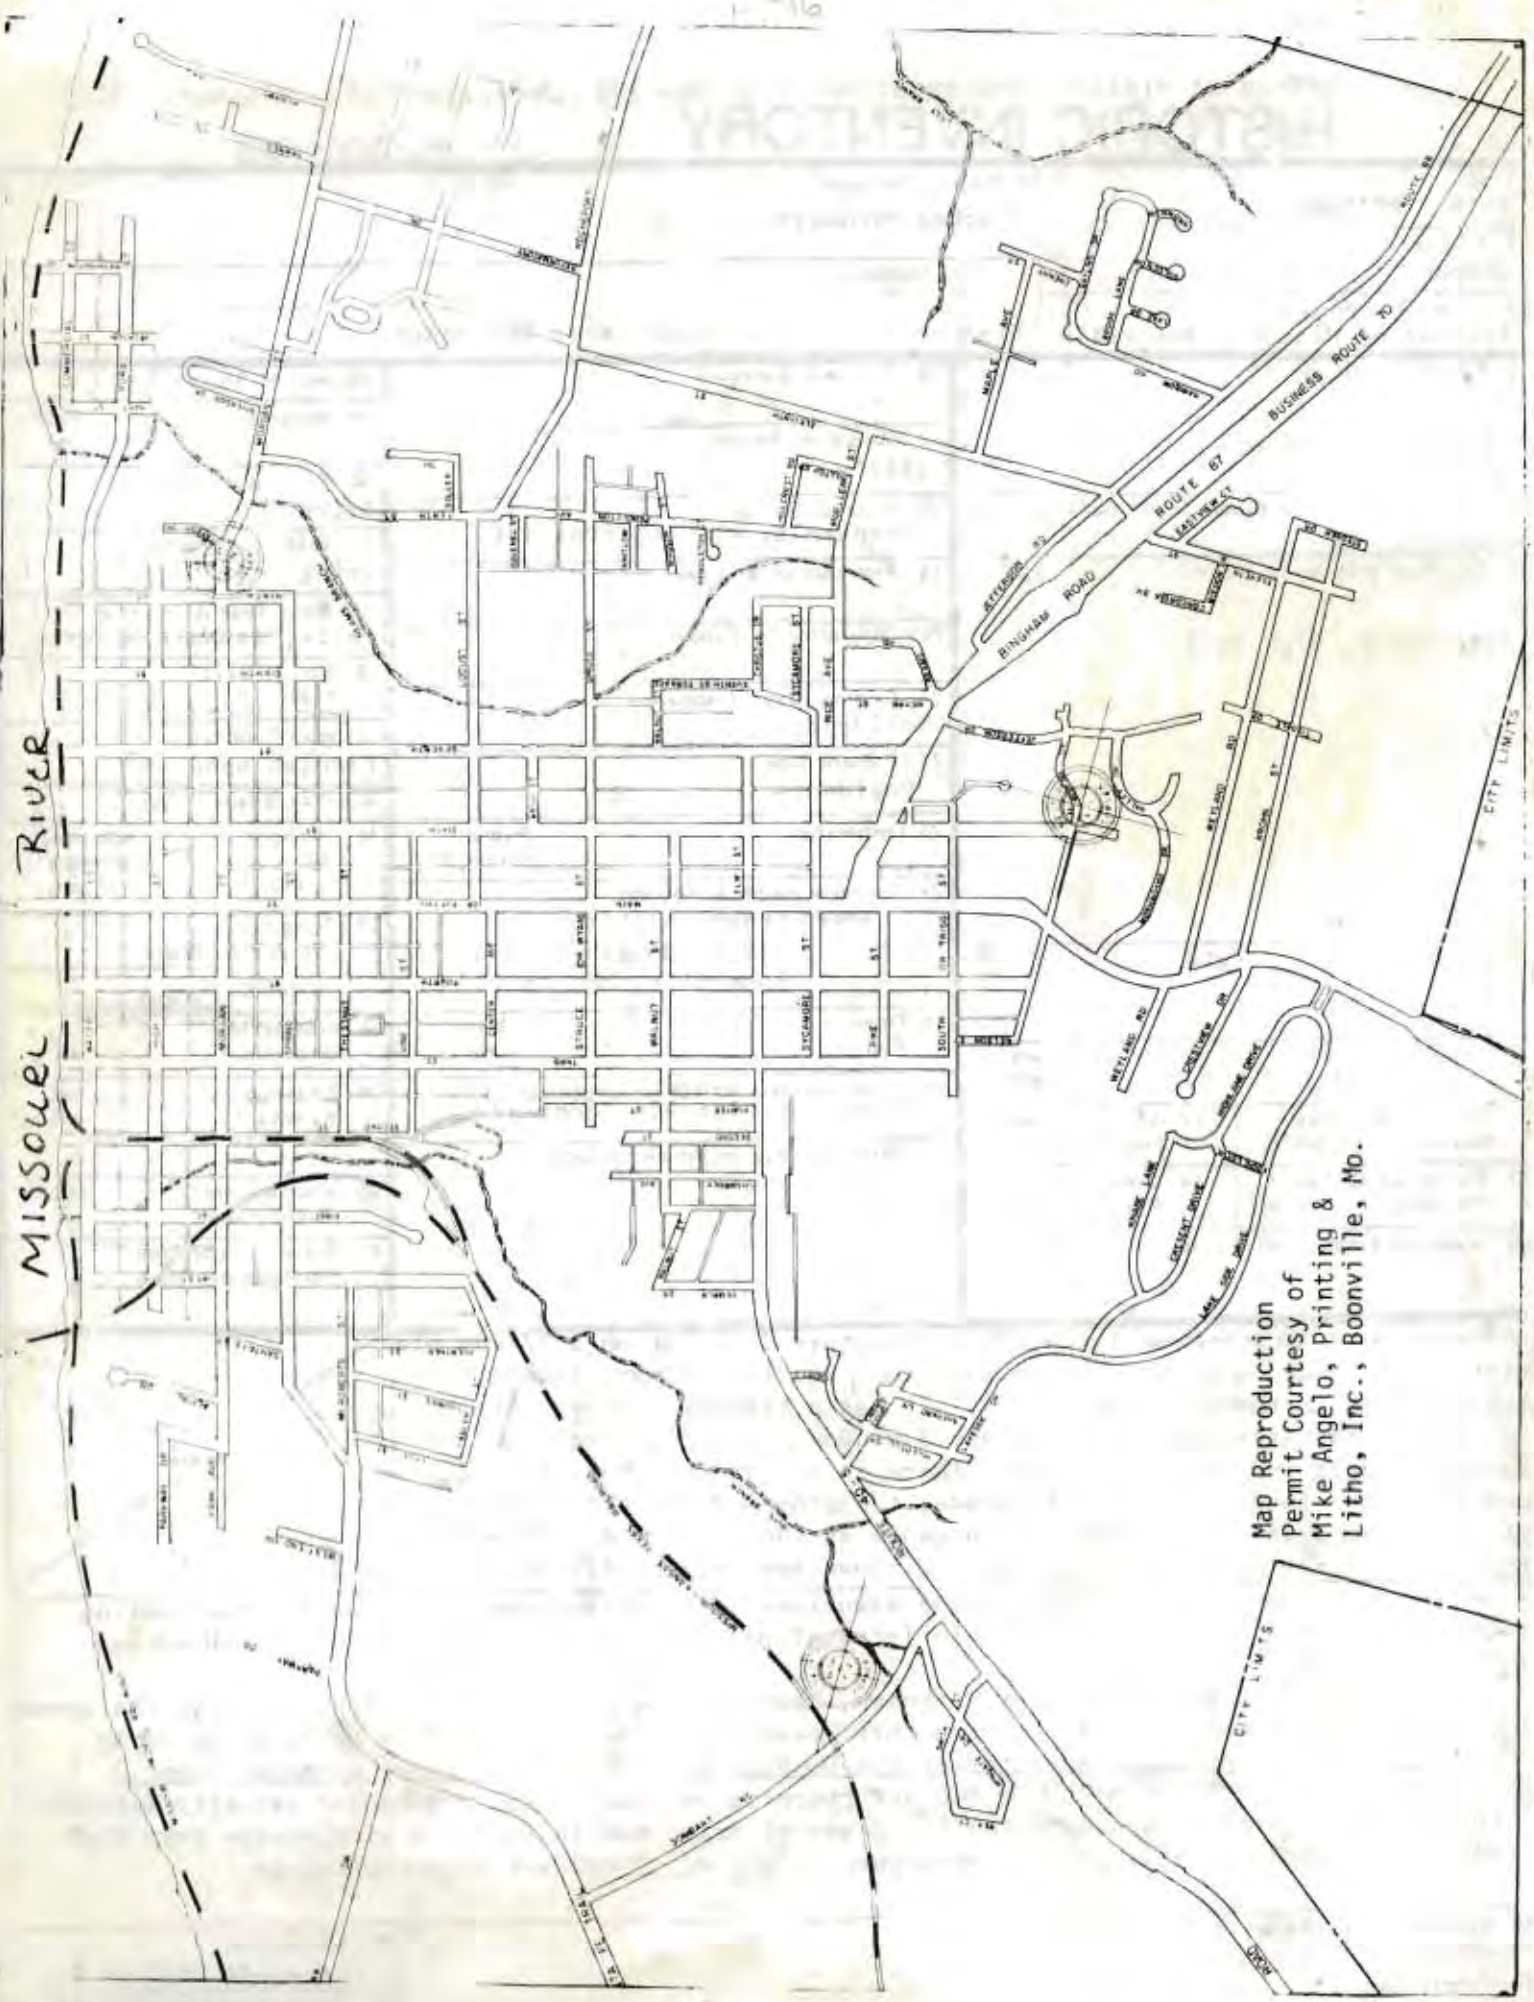

44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto High Street and actually intrudes into the original alley space to the E. A gravel drive now is to the E with access from High Street. 713 High Street abuts the structure to the W. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) 6-over-6, and have rowlock headers. Two rooms deep, the E facade has 2 chimneys, each with an ornately corbelled cap. There is a frame, partially enclosed addition at the 1st story level of the N facade.

The entire interior of the house was panelled during the residency of the Wascos in the 1960's. Interior woodwork repainted upon Frank Thacher's purchase of the house, 10/79.

43. (cont.) publisher of the Boonville Observer newspaper (1849). In 1855 the structure was sold to Morris J. Wertheimer, a Bavarian immigrant. Wertheimer, a "merchant, tailor, clothier and dealer in piece goods," constructed the 713 E. High Street addition in 1866 to meet the needs of his expanding family. In 1888 the home was divided and 715 E. High sold to Charles Gott, a son-in-law. The term "Siamese Twins" probably originates from this date. In 1894 Gott acquired 715 E. High and united the "Twins". In 1899 possession passed to W.C. Knight and then to John McClanahan. In 1903 T.F. Waltz purchased both houses. In 1964 the Waltz's daughter, Frances, and her husband, Judd Wasco, who had been in residence in 715 E. High for many years, obtained ownership of both sections. In 1972 they sold 713 E. High to Barry Thacher, owner of the Thacher Funeral Home. In 1979 the 715 E. High structure was sold to Frank Thacher, son of the owner of the adjoining structure. Thacher has future plans of re-opening a closed doorway between the two structures and restoring them to a one-family residence.

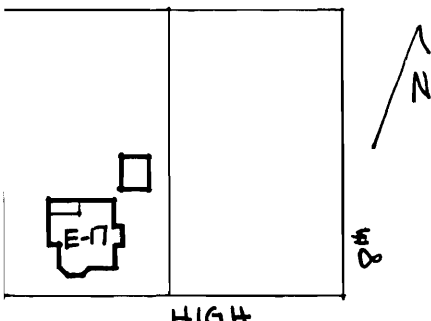

NOTE to Item 42: An impressive reeded Federal fireplace mantle has been retained at the basement level.

43. (cont.) conduct the following alterations: remove original front wooden porch and build present cement porch; change front access (present front door was a window opening); close in 2 rear porches to form a den and sitting room; and install asbestos siding over original clapboard (which was painted green). During Windsor's ownership a coal furnace was installed along with the structure's only fireplace.

42 Further Description of Important Features Added in 1891 the towers are the most outstanding quality of the house. The tower on the NE is 3 stories with a dome roof topped by a finial. Small brackets are under the eaves. Ornate courses of terra cotta of circles, stars and nailheads motifs are below the 3rd. story windows which have small border panes and diamond centers. The nw tower is 2½ stories with a "bell" dome and ball finial. The terra cotta bands are repeated on this tower. (see the attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The house was built by Charles Christian Bell 1848-1931. Bell, one of the most prominent men in Boonville during his era was engaged first in the business of packing and shipping apples. Selling this business in 1901 he developed the Bell Fruit Farm which became known for the production of "Lady Finger" apples. At the Interstate Fruit Growers and Shippers convention of 1885 he was given the title of "Missouri's Apple King." For eleven years he was president of the Boonville Board of Trade and (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SW corner of 8th and High Street facing N with a grand view of the river. A herringbone brick patio is to the N and continues to the E as a walk. A low stone wall is to the N and E. As it continues along the E it is topped by a stepped brick wall built in 1975 wraps around the SE corner. (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) Windows on the 1st. and 2nd. stories are attenuated, have segmentally arched with soldier courses lintels, and have stone lug sills. A corbelled string course is below the 1st. story windows. Intaglio motifs are found in the wood segment between the window and the header. Recent construction rebuilt the entrance and porch on the N facade using the original small brackets and doric columns. Above this area is a 2nd. story sun room which repeats the detailing of brackets and columns. This room has large windows. The large 1 story, gable roofed, brick addition to the W was built in 1959 and serves as a family room. It has large windows and sliding doors on its S facade. There is a gable roofed dormer centrally located on the N facade. It has stickwork at the gable end. To the SE is a brick 2 story ell which has 2-over-2 segmentally arch windows, except at the 1 story polygonal bay which has soldier course, flat arch headers. On the S is an Eastlake 1 story porch and a 1 story board and batten addition which contains the garages. The structure was also remodeled in 1928.

43. (cont.) for many years served on the Boonville City Council. He also served as mayor between the years 1882-1888. The present owner of the house also served as mayor of Boonville.

44. (cont.) An alley to the S gives access to a concrete drive and the attached garages. A frame pilasade is at the SW corner and along the W property line. The original barn and livery stable were removed in 1968.

NOTE to Item #43: Both local historical and architectural significance is attached to this structure. This residence of a prominent business man is built in a style generally constructed in frame, however a strong local tradition dictated that the style could be constructed in brick. It is a pivotal point in the streetscape and cohesive quality of the district.

42 Further Description of Important Features Room on SW is log and was original log cabin. E room and frame addition to N were added in the late 1800's Logs are walnut; clapboard sheathing is under present siding. Rafter are oak. The NW room was changed from a porch to a kitchen in 1961. The NE proch was altered to a bedroom in 1969. These N rooms have a pent roof and are on a concrete block foundation. The 2 bay Eastlake frame porch on the S received a concrete floor in 1967. There is a chimney of the E facade.
43 History and Significance Found large number of minnie balls on site when digging new sewer line. Oral history claims that there is a cannon ball in the E wall of the original 1 room cabin. Original SW room is of log and probably dates from the 1830's. This structure is architecturally significant on a local level as a surviving vernacular log structure from an early period of Boonville history.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the street and faces S onto High street. To the W is Bell Park. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features This house is distinguished by its piano nobile style, large central chimney, saddlebag plan and parapet gable end walls which has corbelling at the roof line. The entrance on the S facade is the easternmost bay, has a 3 light transom, and is covered by a 2 bay frame, flat roof porch with Eastlake motifs. There appears to be an original ell on the N as well as a later pent roofed addition (1955) which sits on a concrete block foundation and has asbestos siding. The house was stuccoed c 1929-30. (see attached sheet)

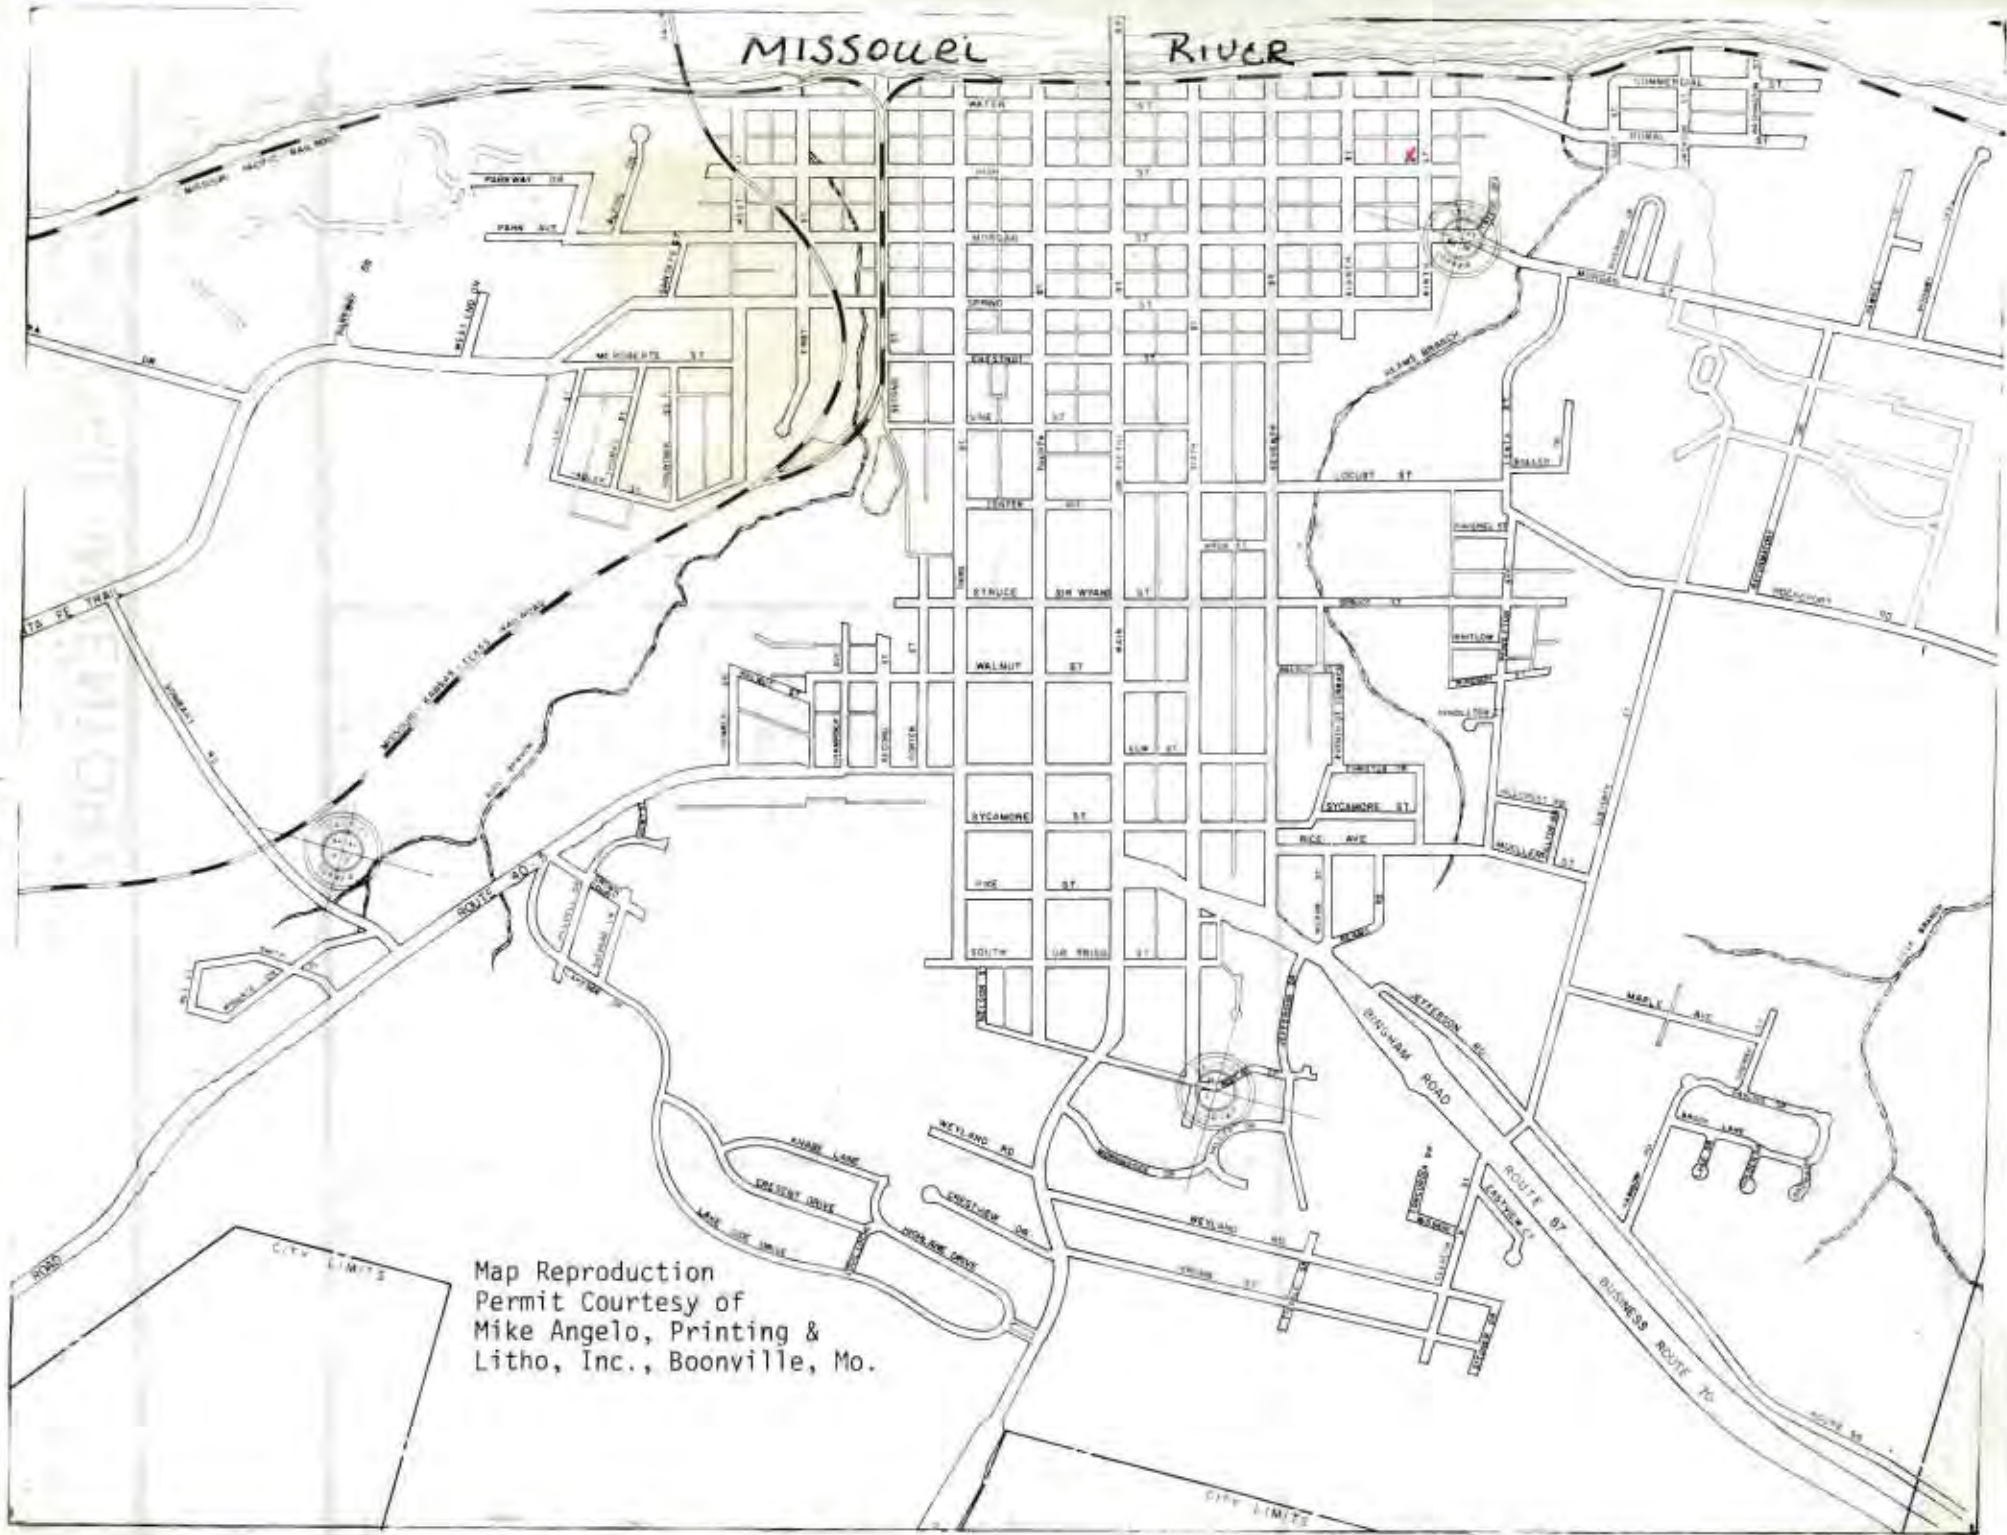

43 History and Significance In 1870, Daniel Kline, insurance agent was listed as living in the house at the NW corner of 9th and High Streets facing S onto High. The Lauer Family purchased the house in 1904 from the Sombart Family.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a high embankment at the NW corner of 9th and High, facing S onto High. This embankment was cut down somewhat while the Lauer's owned the house. There is an alley to the N. There is a frame double garage on the NE corner of the lot. It has a gable roof, asbestos siding, overhead (see attached sheet)

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure retains clapboarding under the later siding and some of its 9-over-6 windows. Where the siding has been removed the half timber construction with brick rubble nogging and the heavy timber sill are still evident. The yard drops off to the E & N so that the basement level is exposed. Windows are to the S & N and an entrance is to the E, at this basement level. The raised porch of the N facade is gone. There is no indication of transom or sidelights for either of the central (see attached sheets)

43 History and Significance This structure is significant as one of the early residences in Boonville. At this point it might be restorable. The property abstract did not offer any worthwhile information or clues as to construction of the house as the ownership of the land was in question until 1838; however, the pioneer doctor, George C. Hartt, along with Henry Carroll and Robert Wallace received a patent for the land in 1822 a number of years after their claim. (cont.)

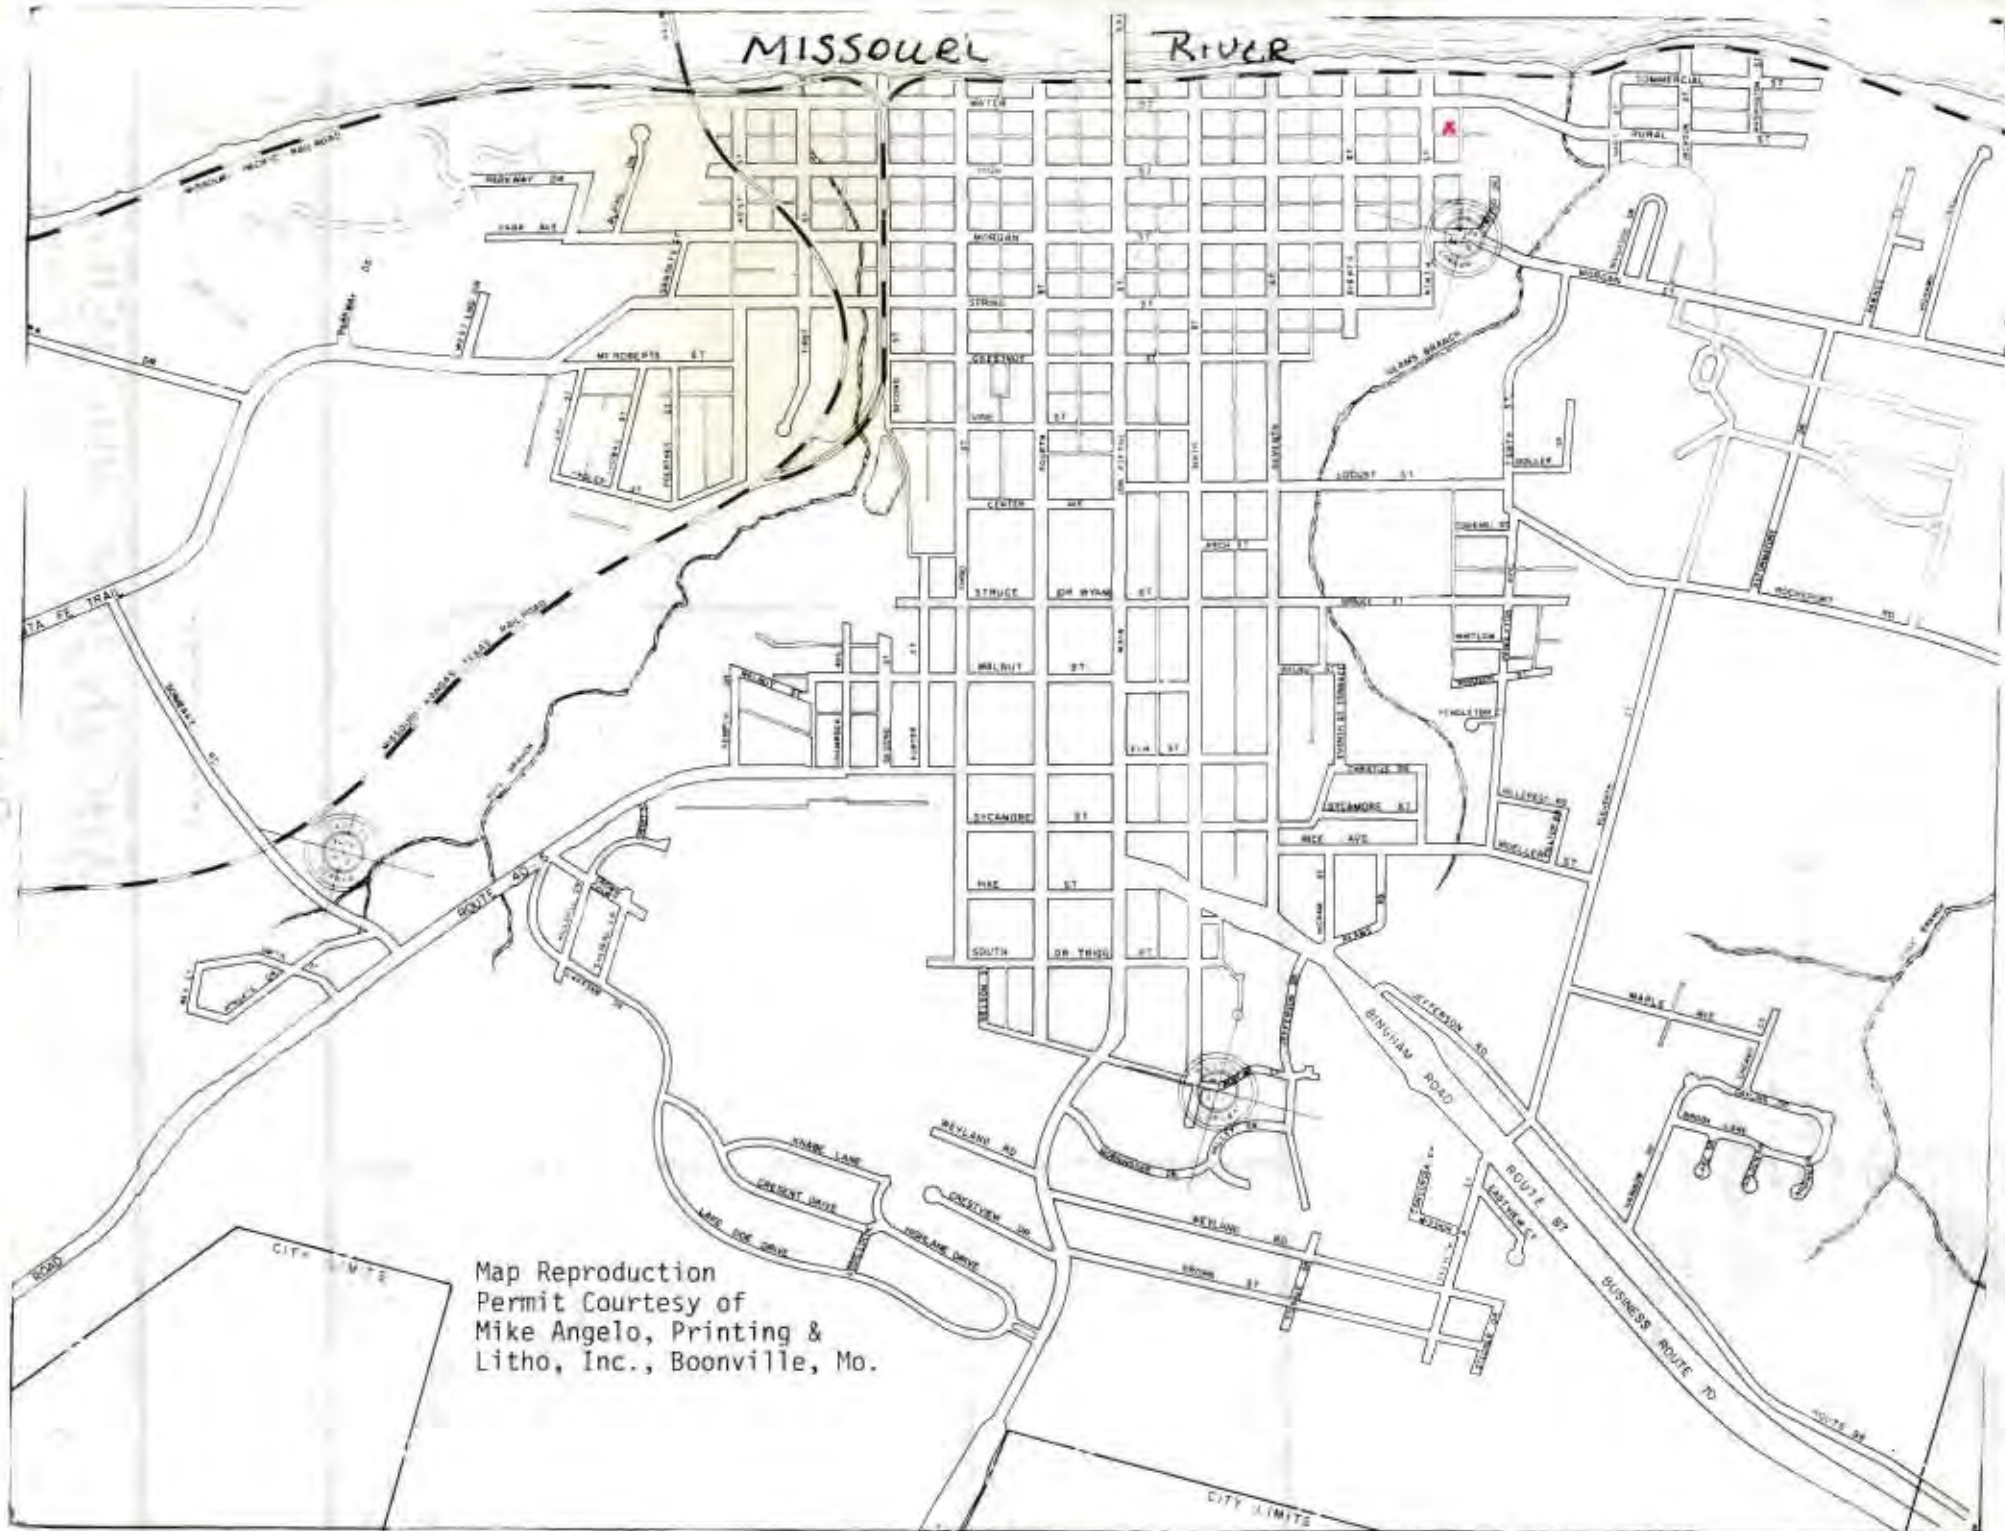

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure appears to have originally faced N and would have had a grand view of the river. Today it sits on a high bluff with Water Street to the N, Bell Street to the E and High Street to the S. An alley way is to the W. To the W of this impressive structure is a later residence. Its front (S) facade has 4 bays including (attached)

42. (cont.) entrances N & S. End chimneys and a boxed cornice accent the roofline. At the attic level, just under the eaves N & S are small 3-over-3 windows. The structure is in the process of being torn down and the interior has already been gutted. One mantel remains.
43. (cont.) Hartt bought out his partners and the size and style of the house indicate that it could have been the house of the prominent doctor. Subsequent owners of the property, but not necessarily those who resided there were: Isaac N. Bernard, an early pioneer, 1835; John Aimslic, 1838; Emmett R. Hayden, 1867; Mathew Gaunt, 1875; Edith Gaunt, 1894; Rudolph Toennes, 1912; Nancy Bruce, 1914; Charles Gooch, professor at Sumner School, and a known resident in the house, 1915; John Stretz, for rental, 1919; Ernest Gooseberry, a known resident, 1919; John Stretz, for rental, 1927; Thomas Jones, a known resident, 1929; John Stegner, for rental, 1940; Charles Coleman, 1960; Rev. 44. (cont.) 2 entrances. Windows are 1-over-1. Extending to the N is a gabled ell on molded concrete block foundation. There is a pent addition to the N with an entrance to the E. The structure is in poor to deteriorated condition.

42 Further Description of Important Features The end chimneys and boxed gutters are the key features of this structure. The primary S facade has 2 entrances with a gable cap, concrete stoop and wrought iron railings. The gable ell extending to the N projects past the main block 1 bay to the E. The E facade of this ell has an integral porch. Gabled additions project to the W & N off of this ell. There is also a pent porch to the N. Windows vary in size and style but the majority are 6-over-6 or 3-over-1.

43 History and Significance The structure was the residence of J.M. and Anna Jegglin. Jegglin operated the Jegglin pottery which was located to the NW of the residence on 7th St. The structure has been converted into 4 apartments for many years and has always remained in the Jegglin-Stegner family. A prior owner was Helen Stegner Whitlow.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces S onto Locust St. An alley is to the W & N. Just to the NE of the residence is a small brick, gabled structure which has a chimney and segmentally arched openings. A gravel parking area is to the N.

43 History and Significance Present owners purchased the house in 1977 for rental property from J.D. Twenter who had bought it in that same year from James F. Edwards who had resided in the house since 1941 when he bought it from John Gentry. Previous to Gentry it was owned by S.H. and Cordelian Hickam (since 1923), and prior to that by M.J. Felton who bought the property at a Sheriff's sale in 1922 for $1820. Previous to this the property was purchased by Horace Kinney for $200 in 1914.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto Locust. A garage along the W alley is gone, only the concrete footings remain.

42. (cont.) dormer on the S. There is a fishscale belt course between the 1st and 2nd, story windows which extends about the house. Most windows are 1-over-1, and are attenuated. There is a belcast cap over the library entrance on the E. A sleeping room and porch on the N were enclosed in 1956-7. The concrete block attached garage to the W was also added in 1956-1957.

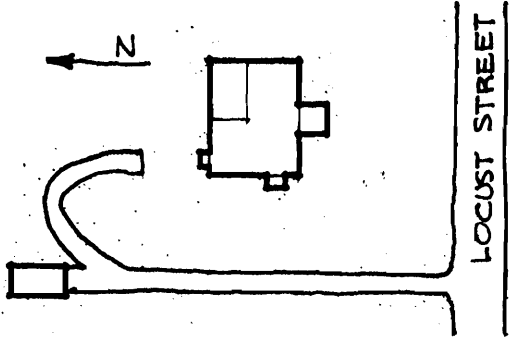

The interior has an L shaped stair with Eastlake balustrade and newel to the W of the entrance foyer. An Eastlake mantel caps a fireplace set at an angle in the foyer. It has decorative tile around the firebox and a brass summer plate. The kitchen has been modernized. Other rooms have been only slightly changed; most of the millwork is retained.

43. (cont.) Frank Truby was a well known photographer in Boonville whose studio was located in the Macurdy Building, 426 E. Morgan Street, c. 1900. IN that year he published Vine Clad City--A Souvenir of Boonville, Mo.--in Photo-Gravures.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure now appears as a piano nobile, however the difference in bond work may indicate that the basement level may not have originally been exposed to its current level. The basement level W & S, and both levels E are laid in a common bond. The 1st story W & S are laid in a more decorative bond work, similar to Garden Bond. The L shaped structure with its original ell to the N. W bay, has a later pent addition at the NE corner which completes the rectangular shape. There are gable parapets with stretcher (attached).

43 History and Significance The structure was built in 1844 by George Vollrath as his residence. Vollrath and his brother purchased a pottery from Marcus Williams which he had established in 1835 and which was located directly across Locust St. from the residence. Both men were also associated in the development of a mill on Water St. (Boonville Mills) later purchased and operated by the Sombart family. George Vollrath, apparently a man of many skills, also (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an embankment facing S onto Locust. A stone wall to the S has similar quarry marks as the "Brewery." A drive from Locust to the W of the residence leads to a 1 car frame gabled garage at the NW part of the lot.

42. (cont.) course cornice and corbelled ends E & N. A boxed frame cornice is S & W. The primary facade features a 2 story frame pedimented 1 bay porch with square wood columns and steps leading to the 2nd level to the W. It caps entrances at each level, over each other. Both have transoms and sidelights. The top entrance is inset into a panelled surround. Openings have soldier flat arch lintels basement level, and a pedimented stone lintel 1st story. The W facade has a basement entrance

43. (cont.) developed an extensive vinyard and built a wine cellar under his house. This cellar with approximate dimensions of 15' x 25' still survives. He is also credited with financing and building the First German Evangelical Church in 1854. Although George Vollrath died in 1865, his widow, Rosina, remained in the residence. In 1901 she sold it to Emma Vollrath. In 1908 it was sold to R.L. Steigleder, but it is unknown whether this was his principle residence. In 1919 the residence sold to H.F. Minor, who was employed in the drayage trade. Minor, however, sold the residence later that same year to John Stretz. The Stretz family sold the house to the present owner in 1964, and the conversion to apartments took place at that time.

42 Further Description of Important Features The 1st story forms a raised basement effect with a heavy belt course over it. Pilasters which extend through the 2nd and 3rd storys set off the bays. Corner bays project slightly. A wide entablature, projecting cornice and balustrade caps the structure. The central bay of each facade projects and contains a double leaf entrance. The N & W facades have ornate central bays with an arch over it decorated by swags. The E entrance repeats the Grecian ear motif but is less ornate. The S bay has only a simple panel over doors.

43 History and Significance The present Cooper County Court House is the 3rd court house to occupy this site. Built by the W.J. Cochran Co. in 1911-12, its construction was supervised by Miss Jessie Cochran, the young daughter of W.J. The building contains numerous offices and three courtrooms. Shortly after its appearance, a group of local athletes gained permission to erect a "Roquet" Court in the attic. The remains of this playing field is still present. The building (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The large structure sits on raised ground with concrete walls to the N, S & W. The open front yard (W) has several memorial markers, a miniature Statue of Liberty, and ornate lamps flanking the entrance. A gravel parking area is to the E.

43. (cont.) currently houses all of the county offices plus space for the counseling center, the health nurse, the Boonville Chamber of Commerce, the Extension agency and the Juvenile officer. Historically it has provided quarters for the Central Missouri Horticultural Society exhibits, the Leonard Thoma Post, Number 52, the American Legion, the Boonville Public Library and the Boonville City Hall and Water Department. To the west of the court house, fronting Main St. were three brick structures which were in existence from c. 1840 to 1910 and were originally used to warehouse supplies arriving by river packet for trans-shipment via overland freight routes. They were also used at various times for businesses selling flour, feed and grain, buggies, furniture finishing and upholstering, monuments, shoes, tin ware. Prior to their relocation to 422 E. High St., the W.J. Cochran Construction Co. was located in the South building. Contemporary but located on Court Street were the Mahan Hotel and a one story dwelling. A one story brick and frame dwelling, which was converted into a duplex, was razed in 1979.

43 History and Significance This structure was built by the Sombart family c. 1900-1910 and from this time into the 1920's was the location of Cal B. Hagar's Santa Fe Inn (a saloon). Upstairs was a printing shop, then Tanner's photographic gallery, and still later a beauty shop. By 1929 it had become a "vulcanizing and battery recharging shop. In 1935, Fowler Metal Products was in the building. Following this there was a series of cafes: Ruth's Cafe, Herb's Cafe (by 1948), Andrews Cafe (1963-72). From 1973-75 it was known as "Boat's Place" and from 1975-78 (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SW corner of Main and High Streets, facing E onto Main. There are no outbuildings.

42.(cont.) storefront now is covered with board and batten siding. The S wall is a common wall as is part of the W wall where the 1st story adjoins the Cochran Construction Co. The N facade has a sawtooth brick cornice. The 4 bays of the 2nd story are 1-over-1 attenuated and have segmentally arched headers. The 5 bay 1st story has an entrance with transom, one 1-over-1 window, and three semi-circular arched windows.

43. (cont.) it was known as "Bob's Place" (Bob Imhoff, proprietor, was the first tavern keeper in Boonville to initiate the use of "membership cards."). Since 1978 it has been known as the "Corner Lounge."

Prior to the erection of the present building, a livery stable run by John Smith and James Q. Ragland was on this site. This firm succeeded Whitelow and Shimer in business in March 1882.

divided by columns and pilasters. It is flanked by entrances with pediments set on a wide plain entablature, ornate block caps and panelled pilasters. Below the central bay is a basement entrance and windows set in a walk down well. The N facade repeats many of the Neo-Classical motifs and has 4 bays. Its E bay is a entrance with wide sidelights and a leaded glass transom. The 2nd, story is visible on the E & S facades. There are 3 1-over-1 windows with double rowlock segmentally arched headers to the E. The 2-over-2 windows of the S repeat the headers and there is a stepped parapet.

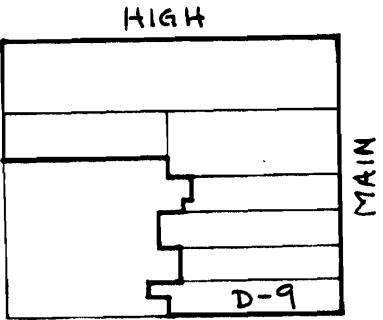

43.(cont.) 2nd story of the building became the site of the Boonville Daily News, which remained there until 1964 with its printing machines at the basement level and offices on the 2nd floor. At that date they relocated to their present offices at 412 High Street. The Cooper County Abstract Offices date from 1964 at which time they moved here from their former location at 213 Main St. The lawyer, Harry Wooldridge, had offices located on the 2nd floor until his death. More recently in 1976, Family Counseling and Problem Drinking/CARE Inc., relocated to the 2nd floor. Planned Parenthood of Boonville located here in 1978.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure's E facade is capped by a crenelated parapet with ornate brick corbelling. The 3 bay 2nd. story has 2-over-2 windows with wood sills and soldier course lintels segmentally arched. A large metal beam with medallion rivets and a large transom run the full length of the 1st story. The entrance is inset as the S bay. The N facade has a stepped parapet with a dentil course, 10 4-over-4 bays on the 2nd. story and 4 bricked-in bays on the 1st story. The S wall is a common wall. (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance A tailor was on the 1st floor and the Salvation Army on the 2nd in 1910. By 1917 it had changed to an office and electrical supplies. It remained as an office in 1929. Missouri Power and Light has been at this location since before 1948. Eugene Paillou, a French emmigre, operated his wig and barber shop on this site prior to the fire that destroyed the original building.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto Main St. An alley is to the N, and an alley and parking area is to the W.

The 1st story repeats the cornice motif on a smaller scale. There is a later advertising sign and awning. The S section is also 3 bays with a projecting cornice with brackets, modillions, and floral panels in the frieze. 2nd story windows have bracketed pedimented lintels with (cont.)

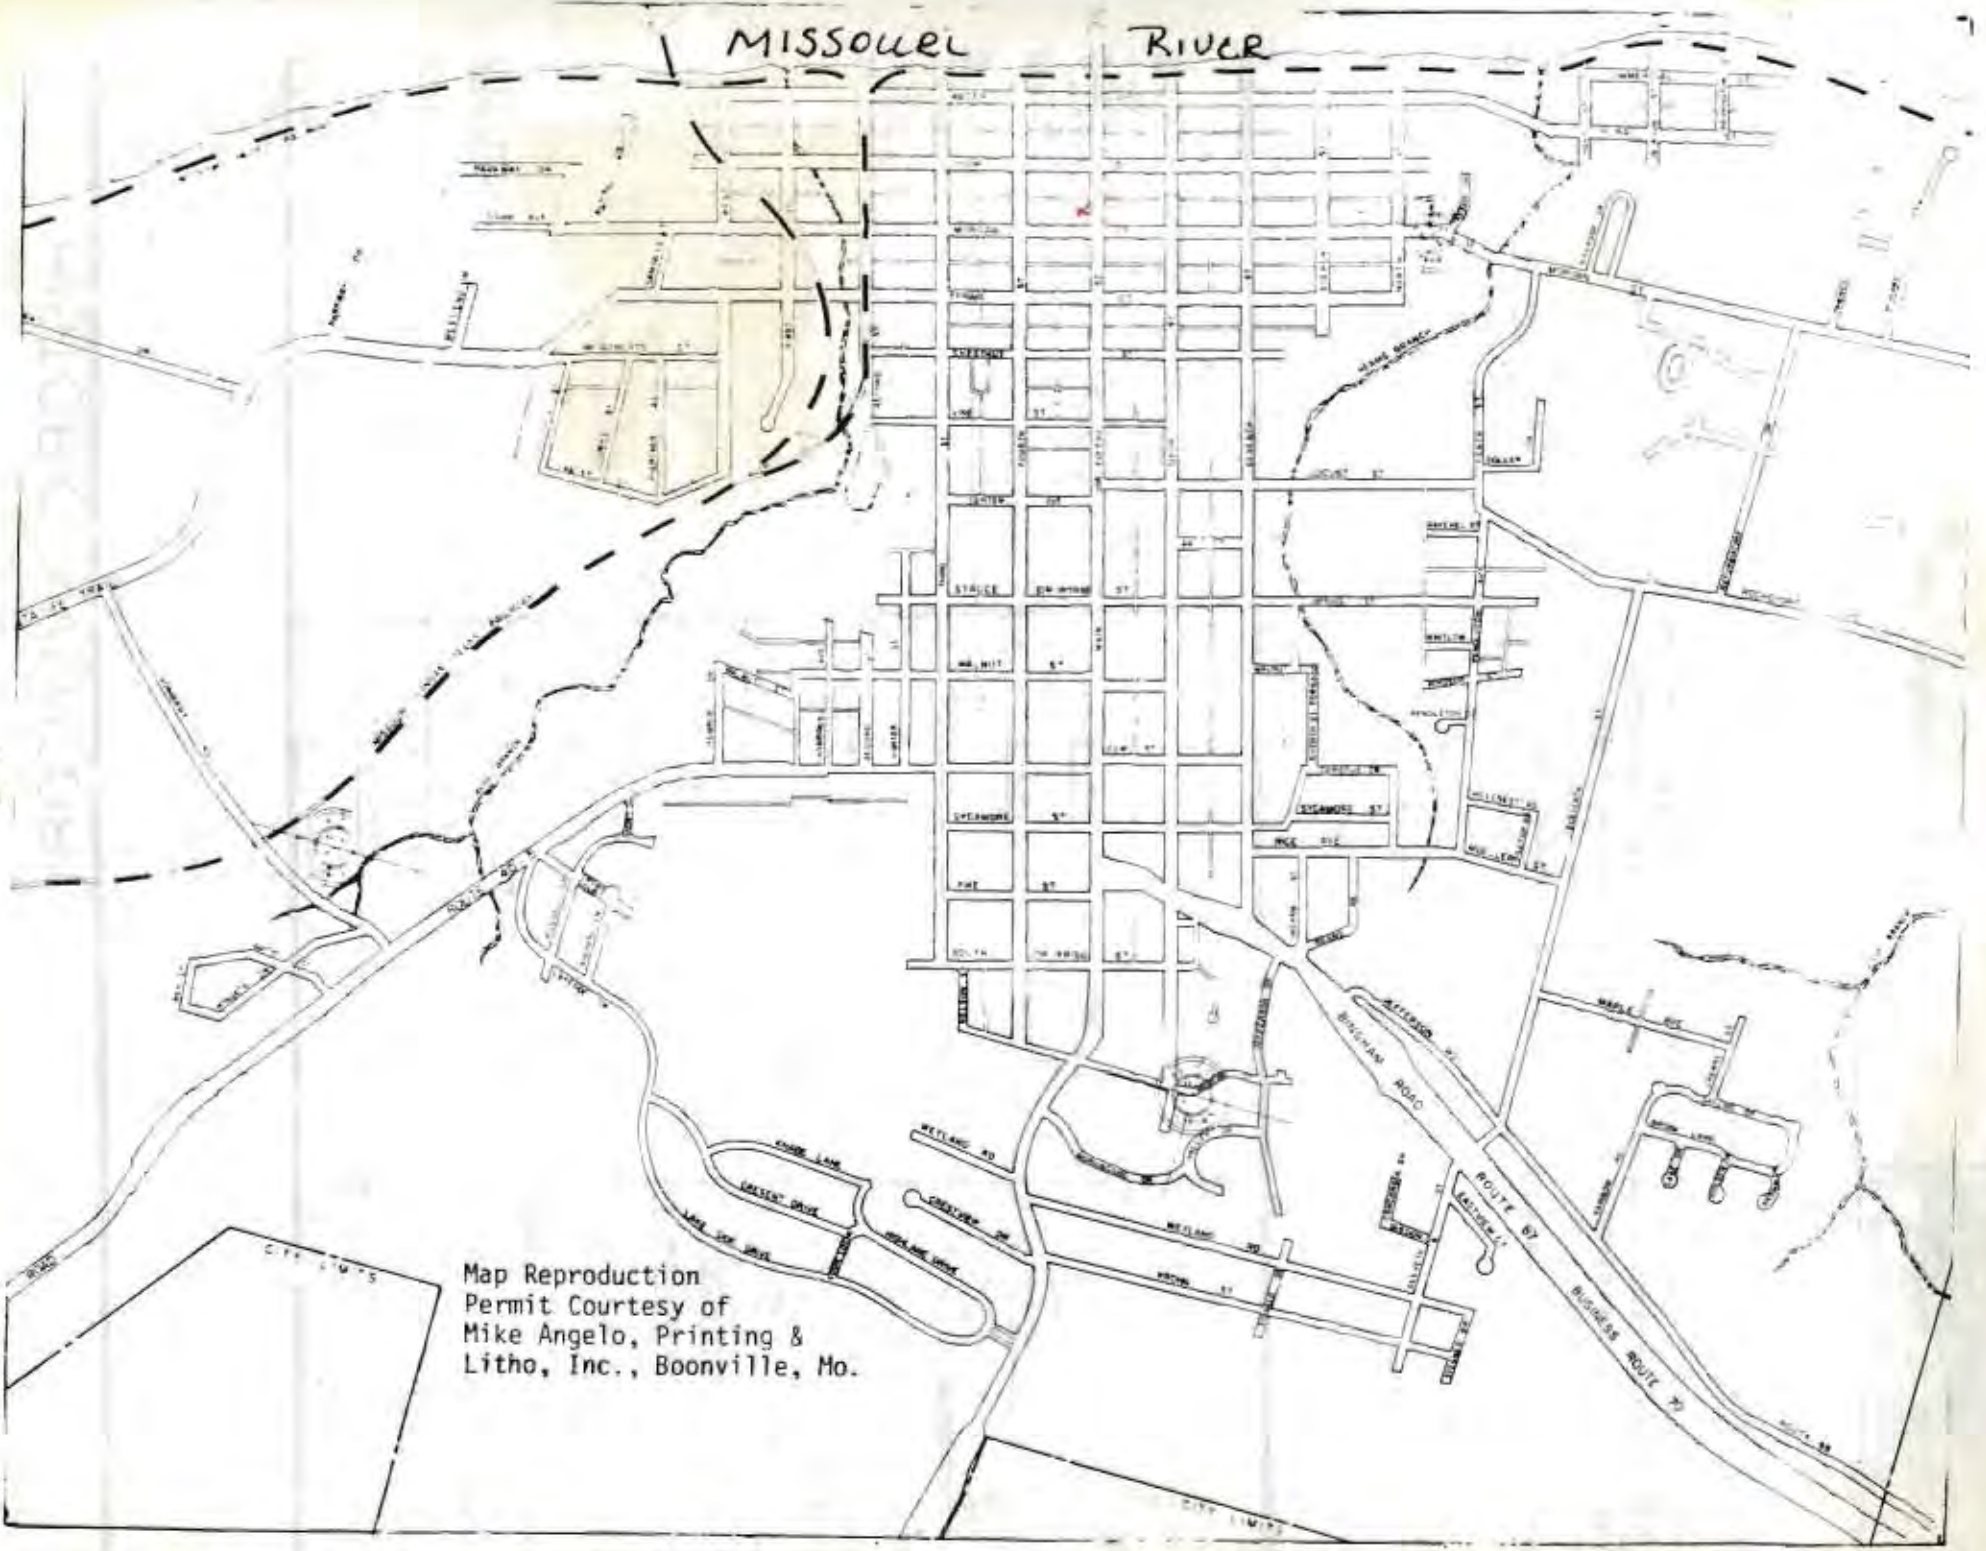

43 History and Significance Prior to 1979 the two store fronts were separate. By 1885 the N section (219) housed the Ally Howard dry goods store, with an undertaker on the 2nd floor. The S section (221) at this time housed the A.M. Koontz Grocery and dry goods business. By 1900 the S section housed a General Supply store and the N section was vacant. In 1910 the S section was still a General Supply store and the N section was occupied by Brokmeyer Plumbing on the 1st floor (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto Main Street. An alley and parking area is to the W. There are no outbuildings.

The W facade N section has a new brick-on-concrete 2nd story addition with a central 1st story entrance. There is a raised porch with a basement entrance below it. The S section's fenestration has been altered. There is a concrete block stoop.

43. (cont.) and the Schieberl tailor shop on the 2nd floor. The plumbing business remained until at least 1917, at which time the S section was once more a dry goods and grocery business operated by L. White, while the 2nd floor housed the offices of the Boonville Ice and Laundry Co. After 1929 the N section was the site of Cain Printing and later the Boonville Cafe. The present business has been in this location since before 1963. In c. 1963 the S section housed the Bantrup Grocery Store and later storage for Boonslick Appliance Company (David Haun, propr.) whose retail store was located across the street. In 1979 this S section was purchased, re-decorated and incorporated into the existing Johnston's Paint Store.

The building was then purchased by Chris Shaler who renovated it and opened Shanna's Restaurant. In the mid 1970's the building and the business was sold to the present owner. The Palace was the first restaurant/bar to serve alcoholic beverages on Sunday, c. 1978. Beneath the basement floor are the remains of two filled in cisterns allegedly used by the cavalrymen during the Civil War for watering their horses.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary entrance is set at an angle, at the SE corner of the structure and is accented by vertical panelling, wood shingles, large display windows and a mirror covered column. The fenestration has been altered several times, however most 2nd story openings retain their segmentally arched headers. Quoin-type pilasters mark the corners of the building and indicate a later 2 story rectangular addition to the W, which has an entrance to the upstairs apartments to the S. Also on the S facade is a double leaf entrance (cont.)
43 History and Significance This structure sits on the site of two of the oldest commercial buildings in town, which were still extant as late as 1937, and a building which faced Morgan Street. In 1885 these buildings housed a hardware store, D.W. Koontz General Store, a gun shop, and an office. At the turn of the century they housed a tailor and the Koontz Store. By 1910 the N section had bowling on the 1st and a tailor on the 2nd, the S section had "Gents Furnishings," but changed in 1917 to billiards (N) and Ruskin's Grocery & Meat Market (S). (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the NW corner of Main and Morgan Sts. An alley and parking area are to the W. No outbuildings are associated with the property.

42. (cont.) with a metal canopy. Large display windows are to the E of this entrance. The NW is a concrete block, pent roofed addition. The building is capped by a parapet with rectangular inset panels and a projecting plain metal cornice.

43. (cont.) It appears that part of the original fabric, 1st story S facade, was retained when the building was reworked. In the 1930's W.G. Holt purchased the building and operated the Greyhound Bus Station out of it. In 1935 Holt moved his cafe to this location after remodeling the 1st story to suit his needs. From at least 1963 to 1975 the A & P Grocery operated at this location followed by the Gibson Department Store until 1979. The 1st story has remained vacant since that date.

From 1912 to 1977 the 2nd story was the site of numerous offices among which were a lawyers offices, Arthur J. Smith, physician (c. 1912), Joseph Varney, dentist (c. 1912), Paul Darby's C.P.A. office, and the American Life and Accident Insurance Co. In 1977 the new owner converted the 2nd story into a number of apartments.

The N section's primary (W) facade originally was capped by a projecting cornice with block medallions, a scroll parapet with a clock and female statue, and a 15' cupola. The ornate facade had a raised 1st story arched entrance and flanking arched basement entrances. The 2nd story had a large central window. Two story pilasters accented the corners and set off the bays on the N facade where the basement and 2nd (cont.)
43. History and Significance The Central National Bank (north section, 300 Main St.) was established in 1865 by Col. Joseph L. Stephens, financier and lawyer. During the life of Joseph L. Stephens until his death in 1881 this was one of the leading financial institutions of central Missouri and continued to be so for a number of years thereafter. Following the death of Joseph L. Stephens, the bank was largely under the control and management of his two sons, (cont.)

42. (cont.) story windows were rectangular and the 1st story had round arched windows. Between 1900-1910 the structure received a coating of concrete stucco, which covered the majority of the decorative detailing. On the N, the present 1st story windows have block glass with the initials BNB (Boonville National Bank) and there are several entrances including a single-leaf 1st story entrance, a double-leaf 1st story entrance, and a basement well with entrance. Metal siding and large display windows now form the 1st story of the W facade. The S section of the structure is a full 3 stories in height and has been less severely altered. It is capped by projecting cornice with panelled frieze and scroll brackets. Windows on the 2nd and 3rd stories are coupled and set off by engaged doric columns of cast metal. The 1st story repeats the metal siding and large windows. The windows on the rear (E) facade have round arched headers.

43. (cont.) W. Speed Stephens and Lon V. Stephens, and for a number of years was a flourishing financial institution. On 28 October 1916 it was forced to close its doors by the comptroller of currency and went into liquidation. There was no run on the bank and every depositor received his money. The supposed cause of the closing of the bank was a series of bad loans running back through a number of years. The Boonville National Bank was opened for business on 30 October 1916 as successor to the old Central National Bank. N. Nelson Leonard, Arthur W. Nelson and Roy D. Williams were among members of the first board of directors. Arthur W. Nelson later became Chairman of the Board.

By 1877 the structure had the Osage Valley and Southern Kansas Railroad Office, the "Speed and Lon Stephens Insurance Department", the Sheriff's Office and a telegraph office located at the basement level. In 1884 the Boonville Post Office was in the basement level, with the office of the bank and of George B. Harper, County Treasurer, on the 1st floor. The 2nd floor housed the offices of the telegraph company, telephone company and the Draffen and Williams law offices. The bank and the telegraph remained on their respective stories till after 1900. Between 1910-25, only the bank remained. In 1932 the offices of the Farmers Trust Company were located on the 2nd floor. These offices were the scene of a disagreement between the two partners, J.L. Meistrell and W. W. Kingsbury, and the subsequent murder of Meistrell. Following the depression the building housed a number of businesses including a confectionary (Ice Cream Mart) and the present Western Auto store. At one time a pair of iron dogs, which were a present from Jay Gould to Col. Stephens, graced the front facade entrance. Presently they are located above the Laura Speed Elliot School entrance.

The building, which comprises 302 Main (south section) was built in the 1870's and was the site of H.C. Miller and Co. during that era. Approximately 1876, a Mr. Aehle operated a china and glassware (Queensware) store, followed by the Sauter Brothers dry goods store. Subsequent businesses include Charles Wagner's restaurant and ice cream parlor, and a music store. Western Auto has been present in the building since the early 1970's. Between the late 19th century and 1929, the IOOF Hall was located on the 3rd floor.

42 Further Description of Important Features The 1st story of the primary facade (E) has been altered by the application of metal panels and a metal awning. The store front sits at an angle with the entrance to the S. The 2nd. story windows are inset into panels which are flanked by brick pilasters. These 2-over-2 attenuated windows have soldier course flat arched lintels and stone sills. A corbelled brick course forms a string course at the pilaster cap level. The projecting cornice, painted 2 colors and having 2 (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance By 1885, Epstein & Hain's Dry Goods Store was in this building. By 1912 it housed the Palace Clothing Co. In 1915, Charles E. Hirlinger bought the building and moved his book and stationery store there from its former location at 311 Main. The business was purchased by Louis E. Hirlinger in 1932. In 1934 the store was completely remodeled. In 1937 Kenneth F. Hirlinger, Sr., purchased the business. Between 1967 and 1978 the business was purchased by Kenneth F. Hirlinger, Jr. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto Main Street. There is an alley and parking to the W. No outbuildings are associated with the property.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade continues the motifs of 304, 306, 308 & 310. Walls divide the 1st stories. The common motifs include a projecting metal cornice, 2-over-2 attenuated windows with pedimented lintels, and a 1st story cornice. The 1st story also has a metal awning and a large sign. Black carrara glass is above and below the large display windows. The entrance is inset. The E facade has segmentally arched 2nd. story openings and a concrete block pent addition at the 1st story level.

43 History and Significance In 1885, this section housed a jewelry store. This business was joined by a drug store in 1892. At the turn of the century only the jewelry business was listed, the 2nd. story business did hand printing. It remained a jewelry store during the first quarter of the century. The earliest known jewelry store at this location was owned by Sam Hannaca, but by the turn of the century it was known as Chilton & Co. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto Main Street. An alley is to the E. There are no outbuildings.

43. (cont.) Louis L. and Joseph W. Chilton, proprietors. This business began in 1888 in a shop on Morgan St. and then moved to this location. In addition to jewelry, the firm carried a line of quality chinaware. The Chilton's traced the origins of their family in America to Mary Chilton who came with the Pilgrims in the "Mayflower" in 1620 and was the first to set foot on American soil (mentioned in Gov. Bradford's Journal). The father of Louis and Joseph (Joseph Chilton, Sr.) came to Missouri from Virginia prior to the Civil War and located at New Franklin where he was engaged in the mercantile business for more than 40 years. From about 1948 to 1968 the building was occupied by Gamble's Hardware Store. In 1968 the present business began in the building.

The earliest known business in the building (1870's-80's) was Martin Schieberl's clothing and tailor shop.

42 Further Description of Important Features This building received a new front facade c. 1920. It has a stepped parapet with concrete copings. A rowlock course echoes the form of the parapet and has a rectilinear panel in the center. This panel is filled with a concrete sign with letters embossed to read "ZUZAK". The 6 bays of the 2nd story are 3-over-1 and have corbelled rowlock sills and soldier course lintels. The 1st story with its large glass storefront and 2 inset entrances is capped by a canopy which echoes the stepped line of the parapet.(cont.)
43 History and Significance From c. 1860 to the 1880's this was the building site of the M.J. Wertheimer clothing and tailor shop. During the Civil War the merchandise of the store was "liberated" by Southern guerrillas. From c. 1885 through 1900, the building housed a book and stationary store on the N first owned by John P. Neef, later purchased by W.J. McCarthy. In 1896 Charles F. Hirlinger purchased the business and remained there until 1915 when he reopened at 307 Main in a building he had just bought. The S section served as a clothing and tailor shop in 1885,(cont.)

42. (cont.) The cast iron pilasters on this facade were manufactured by Christopher & Simpson of St. Louis.

The W facade is divided into a N & S section. The S section has a 4 bay 2nd story with 1-over-1 windows with rowlock lintels. The 1st story entrance has been closed in. The N section repeats the 2nd story; however, on the 1st story is a window and a large opening, now altered to a single leaf entrance and window, both having double rowlock lintels. Openings are all segmentally arched. This W facade indicates an older building with a new front facade.

43. (cont.) a crockery and stationary shop in 1892, and notions and books in 1900 and 1910. By 1917 both stores housed "Zuzak's Wonder Store", Herman Zuzak, proprietor. This store is credited with developing the concept of the "Department Store Santa." Santa would arrive in Boonville the day after Thanksgiving via the ferryboat "Dorothy." For a short period c. 1924 it was the site of Wagner's Ice Cream Parlor. In 1926 Herman Zuzak, leased the store to the Woolworth Corporation for their 5 & 10¢ store. Ben Franklin Stores was in existence, however, in the 1960's. In the 1970's Sunnyday Fashion Shop and Country Squire Mens Shop cooperated in the joint location. The Country Squire went out of business in 1978. Sunnyday presently uses the entire store.

In 1929 the structure is listed as having iron columns and a wall division on the 2nd story only.

43. (cont.) and established his business here. A faded portion of the Durr Saddlery sign is still partially visible on the S wall of the building.

By 1917 the building was occupied by a book and stationary business, and at sometime before 1924 by Manion's Clothing Store. From 1926 until 1932 it was Brownsberger's Clothing Store, and then for a number of years it was occupied by the "Pattie Shop", a women's clothing store. From 1963 to 1968 it was the offices of the Public Finance Corporation, and from 1968 to the present it has been the offices of the Wooldridge Brothers, attorneys.

2nd story offices were occupied by the Ben Smith, Sr., Insurance Co. from about 1933 to 1945, at which time Judge Roy D. Williams moved his law practice to this location. This later became known as Williams and Reeseman, Attorneys, and remained there until 1970. The 3rd story offices were occupied by Schaumberg, Pendleton and Martin, Attorneys, during the 1930's and early 1940's.

42 Further Description of Important Features This building is capped by an ornate cast iron and pressed metal cornice. Above the wide entablature with large paired brackets, small brackets and stamped medallions is a stepped out cap where the words "The Phoenix" appears. Over this is a pediment with stamped panels and shell motifs. This cornice has been cropped to the N when the new Zuzak facade was erected. On the 2nd. story the 1-over-1 attenuated windows have stone hoodmolds and a connecting belt course. The 1st story is now sheathed (see attached)

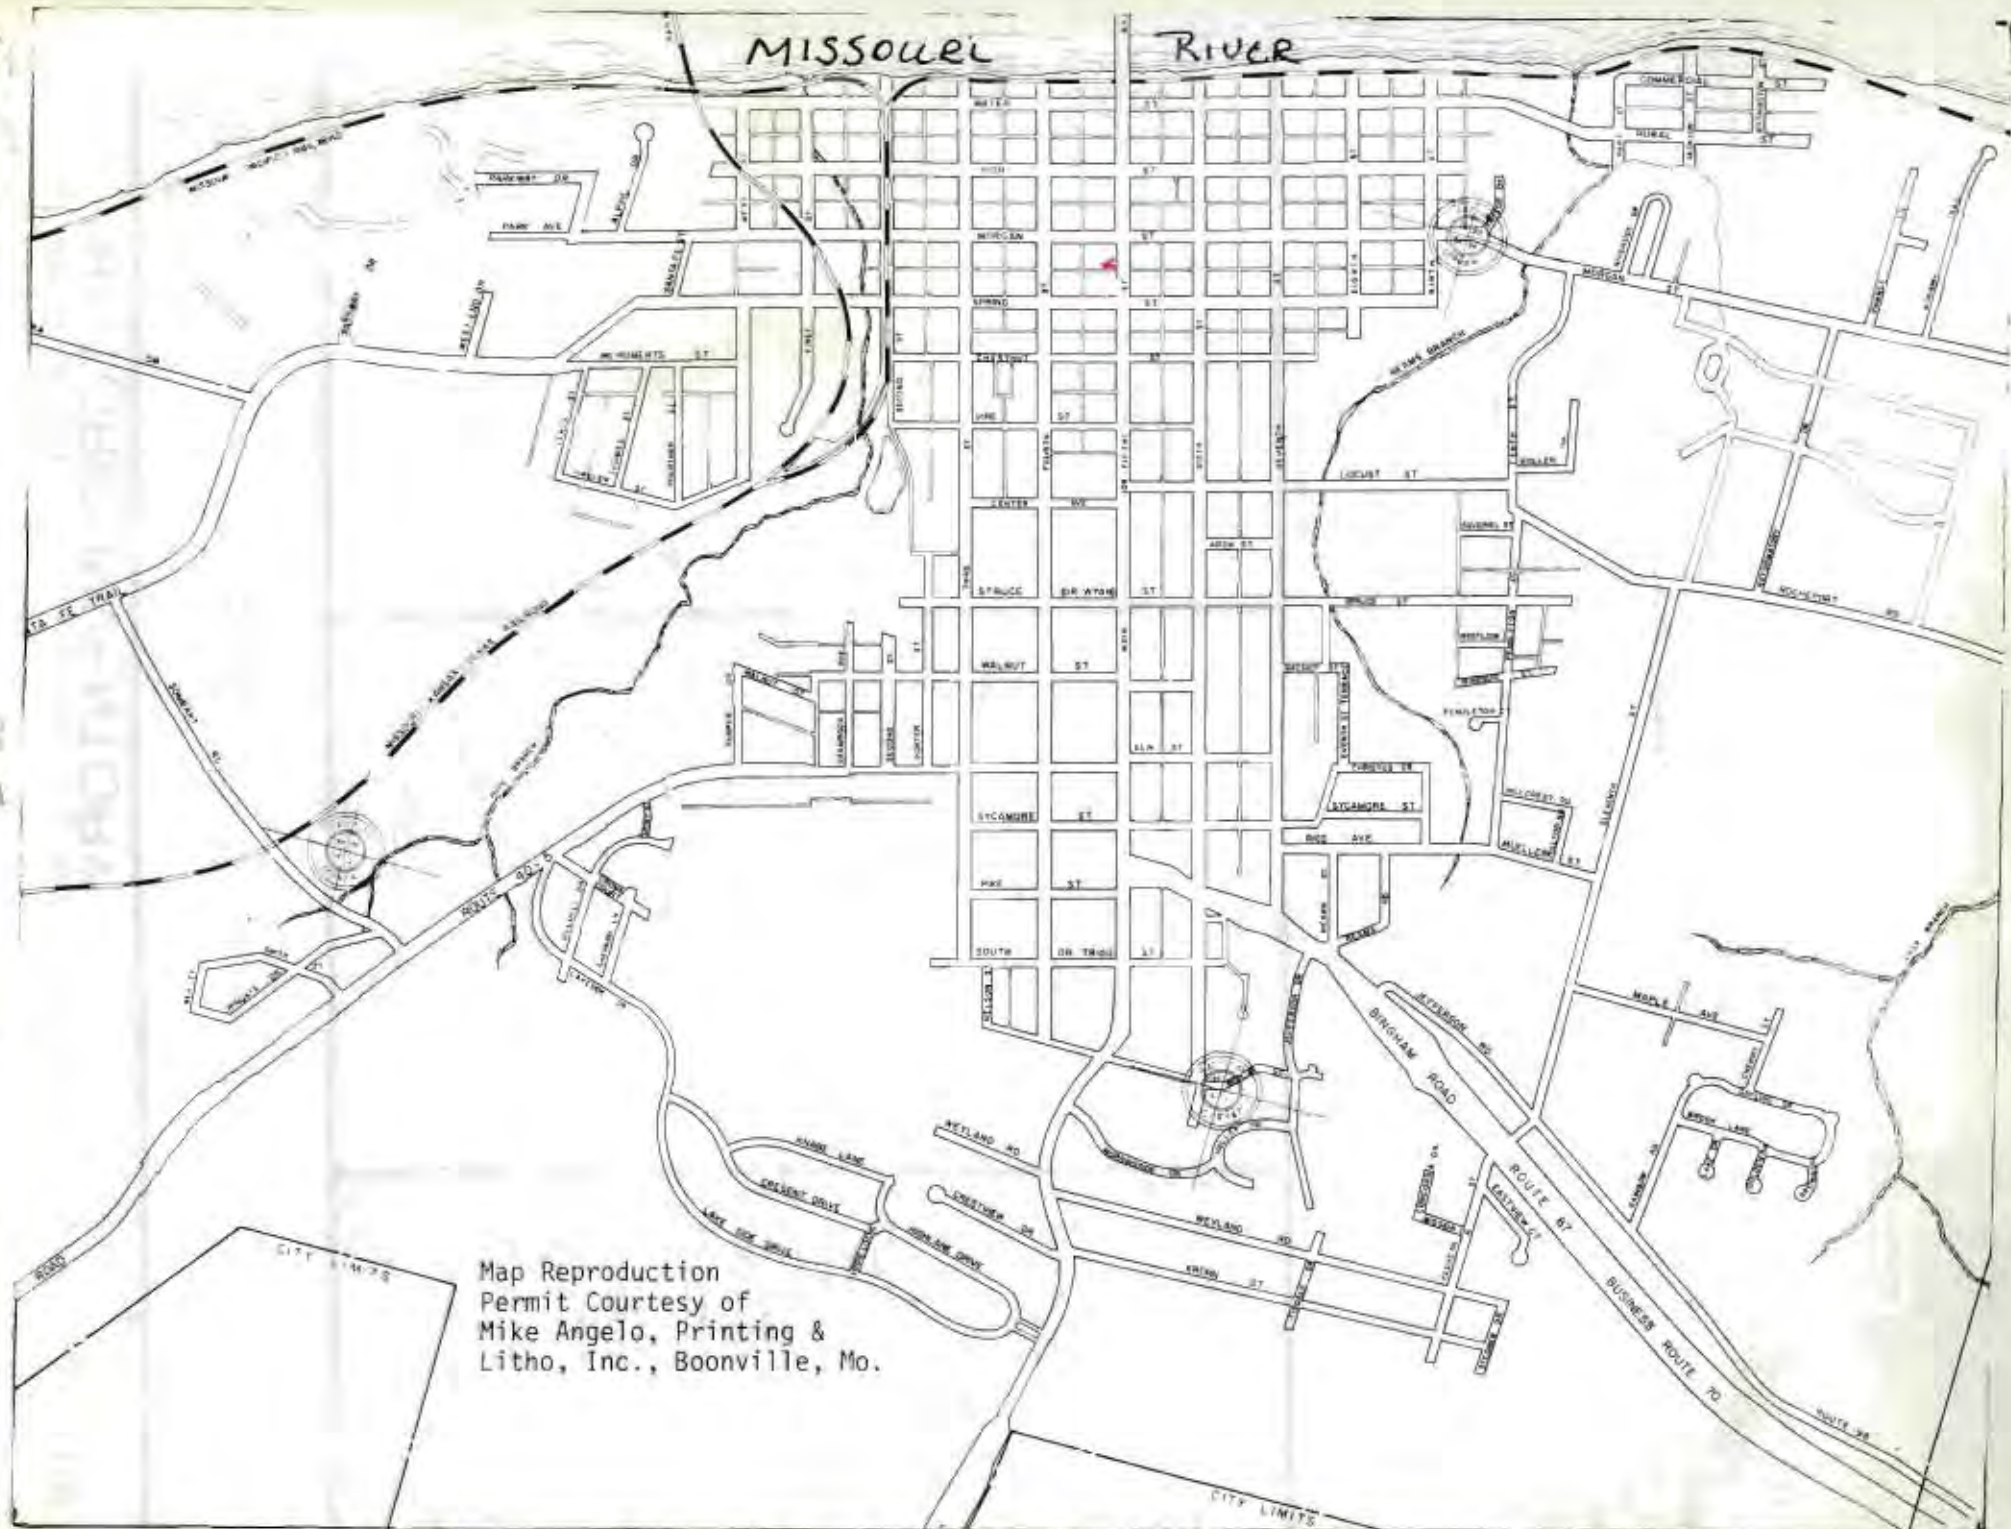

43 History and Significance From 1885 to c 1920 the structure was used as a saloon. In 1892, an ice house was on the alley. By 1900, the alley building was used as a warehouse. It continued to be used for this purpose, including a Grocery Warehouse in 1929. The saloon that existed here until the early 1920's was the Phoenix Saloon.<sup>1</sup> Following prohibition, John Stretz bought the building with Bart Harrison and opened the "Cash and Carry" Store. Stretz later sold out to Harrison and it was operated under his ownership for many years. By 1968 the (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto Main Street. An alley is to the S & W. A parking lot is to the W. A concrete block wall along the S alley forms a court yard area between the 2 buildings.

42. (cont.) are large display windows. An entrance to the upper story is in the N bay and is listed as 316½ Main St. The N facade has 3 bays at each level which repeat the segmental headers and extends in several sections E to the alley. The N section of the E facade has a concrete block 1st story section and is listed as 314½ Grand Street. The S section of the E facade has vinyl siding and 2 entrances at the 1st story level.

43. (cont.) Cafe operated at 314 Main St.

The S section (316) was used as a book and stationary shop with the George Sahm Shoe factory on the 2nd story by 1885. In 1892 the section along the alley was a beer depot 1st story, and Power Printing 2nd story. The Main Street business continued til c. 1915 but by 1910 the rear section was simply a warehouse. A barber shop and billiards hall were located here in 1917, but by 1929 the 1st story was used as miscellaneous storage and the 2nd story was vacant.

By 1948 the S section (316) was occupied by the Montgomery Ward store. By 1963 the partition between 314 and 316 Main was torn out and Rechter's Discount Store (later Rechter's Dollar Department Store) occupied the building. In 1970, P.N. Hirsch & Co., the present business, occupied the building.

Emil Mueller owned this building before it sold to Dick Cochran, the present owner.

42 Further Description of Important Features A corbelled brick cornice with the coping extends across the structure, including 319 Main. The 2nd & 3rd. story windows have pedimented lintels and projecting sill. The 1st story has a large sign, vertical metal panels and a metal awning over the large glass storefront and inset entrance. The N facade has both flat arch and segmentally arched openings and a rectangular bay window at the 2nd. story level. Extending to the W, along the alley is a 1 story brick series of additions with an entrance (see attached)

43 History and Significance The building housed dry goods<sup>1</sup> and groceries on the 1st story, offices 2nd. story, and a photographer<sup>2</sup> on the 3rd. story in 1885. A warehouse was to the rear. By 1892 skylights were added along the alley and a warehouse was built at the corner of the alleys. The same businesses were there in 1900 and another addition was built. They continued there 1929 when the full additions to the rear were completed and listed as a warehouse. The rear area was later used as the "Boonville Sheet Metal & Furnace Works," (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building faces E onto Main St. There is an alley to the N and the W. There are no outbuildings.

43. (cont.) Footnotes to Item #43:

<sup>1</sup>The original store was Heimsen's, but soon after became Waltz and Brenneisen (Nicholas Waltz and C.L. Brenneisen). The store featured dry goods, boots, shoes, groceries, carpets and notions. Waltz, a German immigrant, arrived in Boonville in 1857 and began clerking in Brenneisen's store. By 1860 he bought the business. Prior to 1883 Waltz sat three terms on the Boonville City Council and was an influential member of both the Oddfellows Lodge and the Turners.

<sup>2</sup>O.D. Edwards, an English immigrant, arrived in Boonville in 1859 and became a skilled photographer. He photographed many local Civil War personalities. In 1869 he was listed as operating a confectionary and photography business on the E side of Main St., but by 1885 he concentrated solely on photography and remained in that trade for over 50 years at the 317 Main St. location. Edwards was quite active in civic affairs and developed an area of town known as the Edwards Addition to the City. Edwards resided in a 2 story brick structure on the SE corner of 6th and Locust Sts. until 1891 when the structure was razed for the building of the Meguire Seminary.

In 1928 Fred Barth opened Barth's Clothing Store and operated at this location into the 1950's. Following this, another clothing store operated here, but by 1968 it was called Hirlinger's Clothing Store. The Camelot Shop dates from the early 1970's. During the 1940's and 1950's Dr. Beckett and Dr. Stone had their medical practices on the 2nd floor.

42 Further Description of Important Features This is the N section of the Brokmeyer Building. The top story motifs & ornate cornice continue across both 318 and 320 Main Street. There is a wide projecting metal cornice with a stepped central parapet which has fan brackets and a name panel. Second story windows are 1-over-1 with soldier course lintels. A metal awning extends the full length of the facade at the 1st story level. The 1st story has been covered with metal panels and has a central inset entrance. The E facade is later (see attached sheet).

43 History and Significance 318 and 320 Main St. comprise the Brokmeyer Building. This building has been in the Brokmeyer family since the early 1890's when it was purchased by C.H. Brokmeyer (1845-1902) from John Otten, a clothing merchant. The Brokmeyer Grocery occupied both 318 and 320 Main St. until 1894 when the John Walz Jewelry Store occupied 318, continuing there until the 1940's. John Walz learned the trade of watchmaker and jeweler from 1880-84 with the firm of Hannacke and Kaufmann and then joined the firm of Gmelich & Huber until 1894 when he (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features This is the S section of the Brokmeyer Building. The 2nd. story motifs and cornice continue across both 318 and 320 Main Street. The wide projecting metal cornice is ornate and has a stepped central parapet with fan brackets and a name panel. 2nd. story windows are 1-over-1 with soldier course lintels. A metal awning extends across the full length of the 1st story and caps a central inset entrance and a N bay entrance to the upper floor. Metal panels cover the 1st story wall surface. Additions to (see attached)

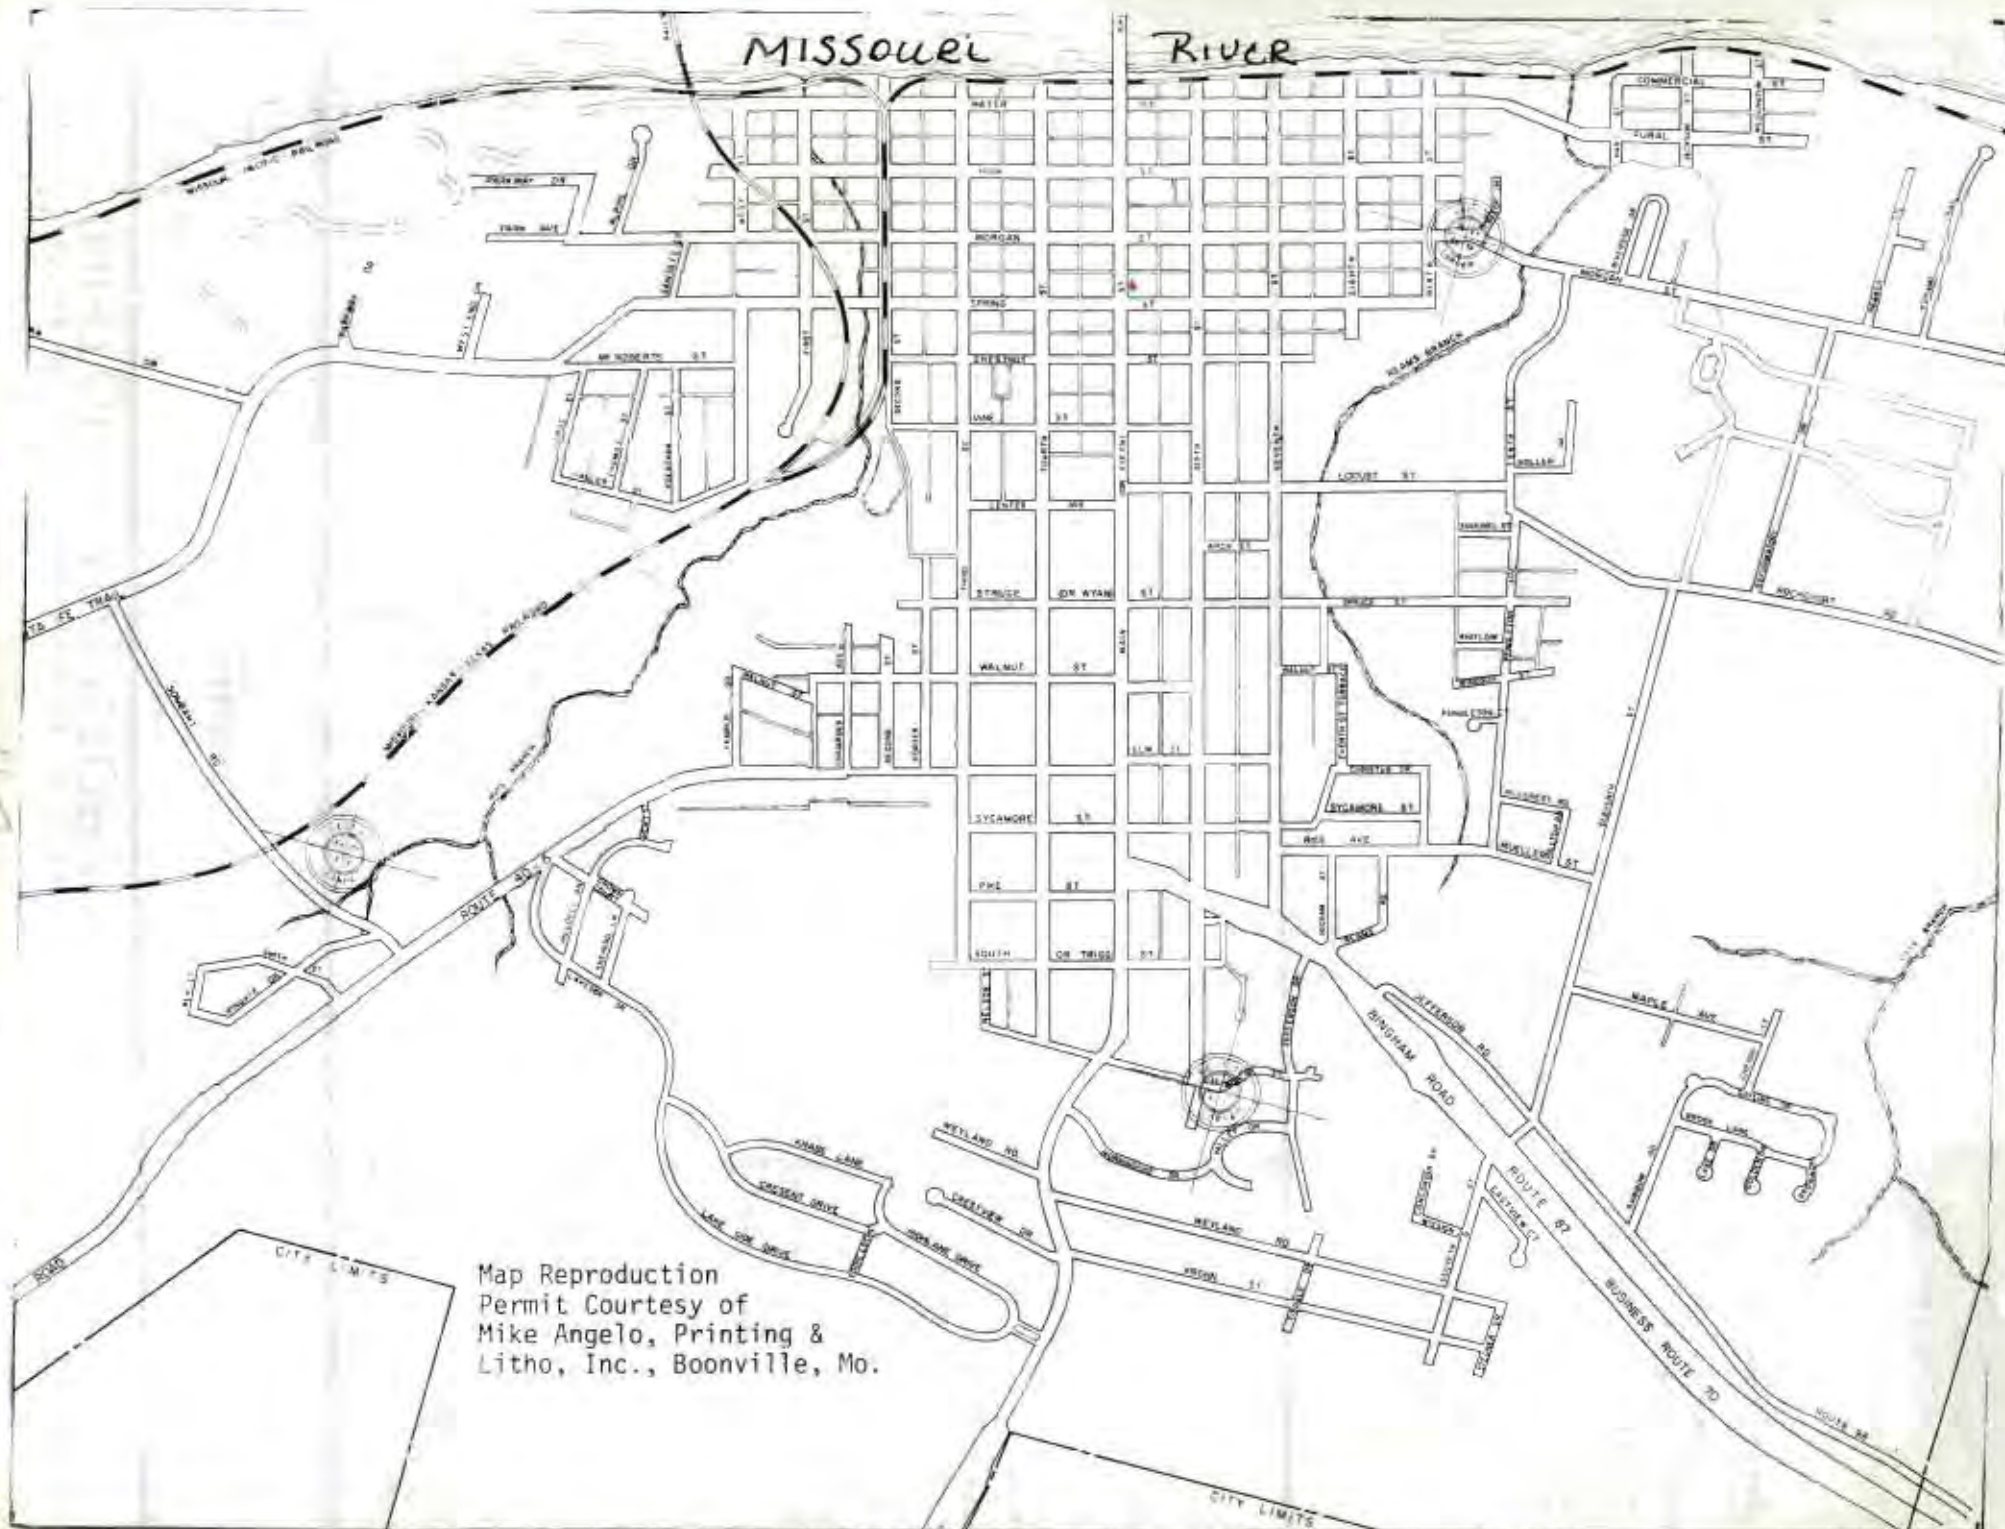

43 History and Significance A grocery business with a 1 story addition was located here in 1885. By 1892 the 2nd story addition had been constructed. The building remained a grocery till c 1910 when it was listed as general supply. In 1917 it was a dry goods and grocery store. 318 and 320 Main comprise the Brokmeyer Building. This building has been in the Brokmeyer family since the early 1890's when it was purchased by C.H. Brokmeyer (1845-1902) from John Otten, (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto Main. There are no outbuildings. Grand Street, now used as an alley, is to the E.

43 History and Significance A tailor used this building in 1885 and there was a 1 story tin shop at the rear of the lot. By 1892 the H.T. Hudson harness and hardware business was operating here. A.K. Mills Undertaking then occupied the building, and by 1910 the George & Goodman Furniture and Undertaking business was at this location. By 1917 it was Lampros Confectionery (Pete Lampros, proprietor). Lampros sold the business to John Toennes and Kelly Brummer who operated it as the "Kandy Kitchen." They sold the business in 1920 to Pete Christus, Sr., who renamed it (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The remains of the building face E onto Main. There are no outbuildings. An alley is to the W.

42 Further Description of Important Features The front facade has a projecting cornice with ornate scroll brackets painted in 2 tones. The brickwork and fenestration has been altered. Glazed brick now covers the wall surface and the 2nd. story has a large 3 part window with transom. The 1st story has metal panels and a metal canopy. The entrance has a transom and is inset. The Wards sign is styled so as not to be obtrusive. To the E is a 2 story gable ell.
43 History and Significance The building stood vacant in 1885. By 1895 a 1 story addition was built to the E and the main structure housed a Book & Stationery shop. Between 1900 & 1910 it changed to a confectionary & bakery. In 1917 an ice cream factory was in the basement of the bakery. This bakery was known as Hirlinger's Bakery (William "Boss" Hirlinger, proprietor) and was at this location from about the turn of the century until the 1950's when Hirlinger died. Following his death it was owned for 3 or 4 years by William Shepherd and the building (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto Main Street. There are no outbuildings. Buildings to the E are part of 326 Grand Street.		46 Prepared by L. Harper/R. Dyer

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary (E) facade has been modernized. It now has a glazed tile veneer. Capped by a projecting tile molding at the cornice. The building has paired windows with large transoms, stone sills and stone lintels with block end and center applied decoration. A large wood sign is beneath the 2nd story window. The 1st story has tile sheathing, large storefront windows and an inset entrance. N & S are common walls. The W facade's 2nd story has 3 windows which are 2-over-2 and have concrete sills and double (cont.)
43 History and Significance The original 3 story building continued the original scheme of the block of buildings constructed after the 1859 fire - corbelled brick cornice and pedimented lintels. Prior to 1885 it was the location of R.H. Howard and Son druggists and book dealers (c. 1869), followed by Gus Howard Jr.'s grocery store. By 1885 there was a stove shop, and by 1892 a hardware and stove shop. In 1900 it is listed as a book and stationery store. During this time offices were on the 2nd story. In 1910 Tearle's Dry Goods was in the building and there (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features A corbelled parapet caps the W facade. The 2nd story windows are inset into panels by brick pilasters with corbelled caps. The 1st story wall surface is now covered by metal panels and capped by a metal awning. Both of the double leaf entrances are inset. These motifs and large windows wrap around the SW corner. Openings on the S facade have segmentally arched headers. There is an entrance with transom and wood canopy. The current business is now connected to 509 & 511 Spring Street. This section was built (cont.)		Photo
43 History and Significance Up to about 1904 this building housed 2 separate businesses. In 1885 a book and stationery shop is shown at 326 Main and a bakery and confectionery at 328 Main (Sanborn). This latter business, and perhaps the one at 326 Main, was operated by John Christian Gross, and, later, his son, Charles Emil Gross. John Christian Gross came to Boonville in the 1860's and just after the Civil War established a bakery on Morgan St., which he operated until 1875 when he purchased the building at 326-328 Main and moved to that location. C.E. Gross (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure's primary facade faces W onto Main. Secondary entrances are to the S onto Spring Street. The building sits at the NE corner of Spring and Main Streets. There are no outbuildings.		45 Sources of Information Sanborn Maps History of Cooper County, 1919, W.F. 42. (cont.) about the same time and originally contained 2 storefronts. The 2nd story has 2 paired windows with straight-side arched headers. The 1st story has cast metal corner posts. A metal canopy covers the large windows, the inset entrance, and an E bay entrance which leads to the 2nd floor. The whole structure has a corbelled cornice.

43. (cont.) took over this business in 1884 following his father's death. C.E. Gross was appointed postmaster in 1897, a post he held until about 1918. By 1897 the bakery was in 326 Main and the post office was in 328 Main.

In about 1899, the W.J. Cochran Construction Co. began remodeling the building, which at that time was owned by the Sauter family, and the Sauter Mercantile Company (est. 1870) occupied 328 Main with the William Johnson Shoe Store in 326 Main. Remodeling continued up to 1904, by which time the building had become a single business (still Sauter Mercantile) and also included the rear portion of the building now occupied by the Million Ins. Agency (where, at the time the Sauter's owned it, Augustus Sauter had a music store). One room on the 2nd story was occupied in 1904, and for a few years thereafter, by C.H. Dunkle, who started his business school here.

A.H. Sauter came to Boonville c. 1860 and embarked in the mercantile business in 1870. At one time he was connected with the Farmers Bank and the Citizens Trust Co. of Boonville (having taken part in the erection of the old Trust building at the corner of Main and Court Streets). He was the main promoter in the organization of the Citizens Trust Co., which purchased the Bankers Bank (both were subsequently merged with the Boonville National Bank). Augustus Sauter was also a noted musician in Boonville and taught music here for some 25 years preceding his death.

Sauter Mercantile continued in operation until 1919, when Fred Sauter, a brother of A.H., died. At this time the extensive stock of goods was sold to the Bassett and Gregory Co. This business was later bought out by Malone and Forbachs Department Store. In about 1939 Mattingly Bros Variety Store (Howard Dyer, mgr.) moved into this building from their former location at the NE corner of Main & Morgan Sts. Mattinglys continued in the building until 1978 when the present Coast to Coast Hardware Store began business at this location.

42 Further Description of Important Features The building was erected with fire-proof construction except exposed steel in reinforced concrete columns floors and roof. Its primary facades are E & S with common walls W & N. A wide parapet is embellished with a projecting cornice which is supported on consoles and block modillions. Windows are 1-over-1 with no lintels. There is a projecting sill course. Below this course metal sheathing has been applied (2nd story-E facade). On the 1st story E facade are large glass display windows, a central (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Felix & Adolf Victor began a clothing store "F&A Victor Clothiers" in 1893. In 1900 they moved to a 3 story building on this lot known as the Windsor Building and an adjoining building to the N. The Windsor building had a cast iron storefront 1st story E facade. All other openings were 1-over-1 and had segmentally arched lintels. The building was capped by an ornate cast iron projecting cornice and ornate pediment. This building had housed clothing stores, a jewelry store (1892) and a drug store (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building sits on the NW corner of Main and Spring facing E onto Spring. There are no outbuildings. In laid into the sidewalk at this corner are the words "Victor's Corner" in brass.

42 Further Description of Important Features The building is sheathed in square, white metal tiles. The 1st story has 2 large display windows and an inset entrance to the N on the primary facade (W). Black carrara tile is below the windows. A canvas awning extends across this facade. The 3 part window on the 2nd. story is centrally located, N & S facades are common walls. To the E, the concrete block structure is evident on the 2nd. story. There are several 1st story additions including one constructed of hollow brick tile.

43 History and Significance This building is on the site of what was once an alleyway alongside present 402 Main, at least until 1892. By 1900 there is a 1 story cigar factory (George J. Garthoffner Cigar Mfg.) on the S half of this site, which remained there at least until 1929. In 1917, on the N half of the lot there was a small "Pop Corn" shop. The present building was on the site by the early 1920's and housed the Hosford Shoe Repair shop up to the late 1940's. In (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto Main Street. An asphalt parking area for the National Bank is to the rear. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade (W) has had alterations on the 1st story. This area sits at an angle, has large display windows and a central entrance, and is capped by a metal awning with a metal advertising sign. The 2nd. story has 2-over-2 windows with soldier course, segmentally arched lintels. Below the lug sills are black tile panels and a large sign. The structure is capped by a raised, flat parapet which has been redone. It is now plain. The N & S facades are common walls. On the E the fenestration has (see attached sheet)

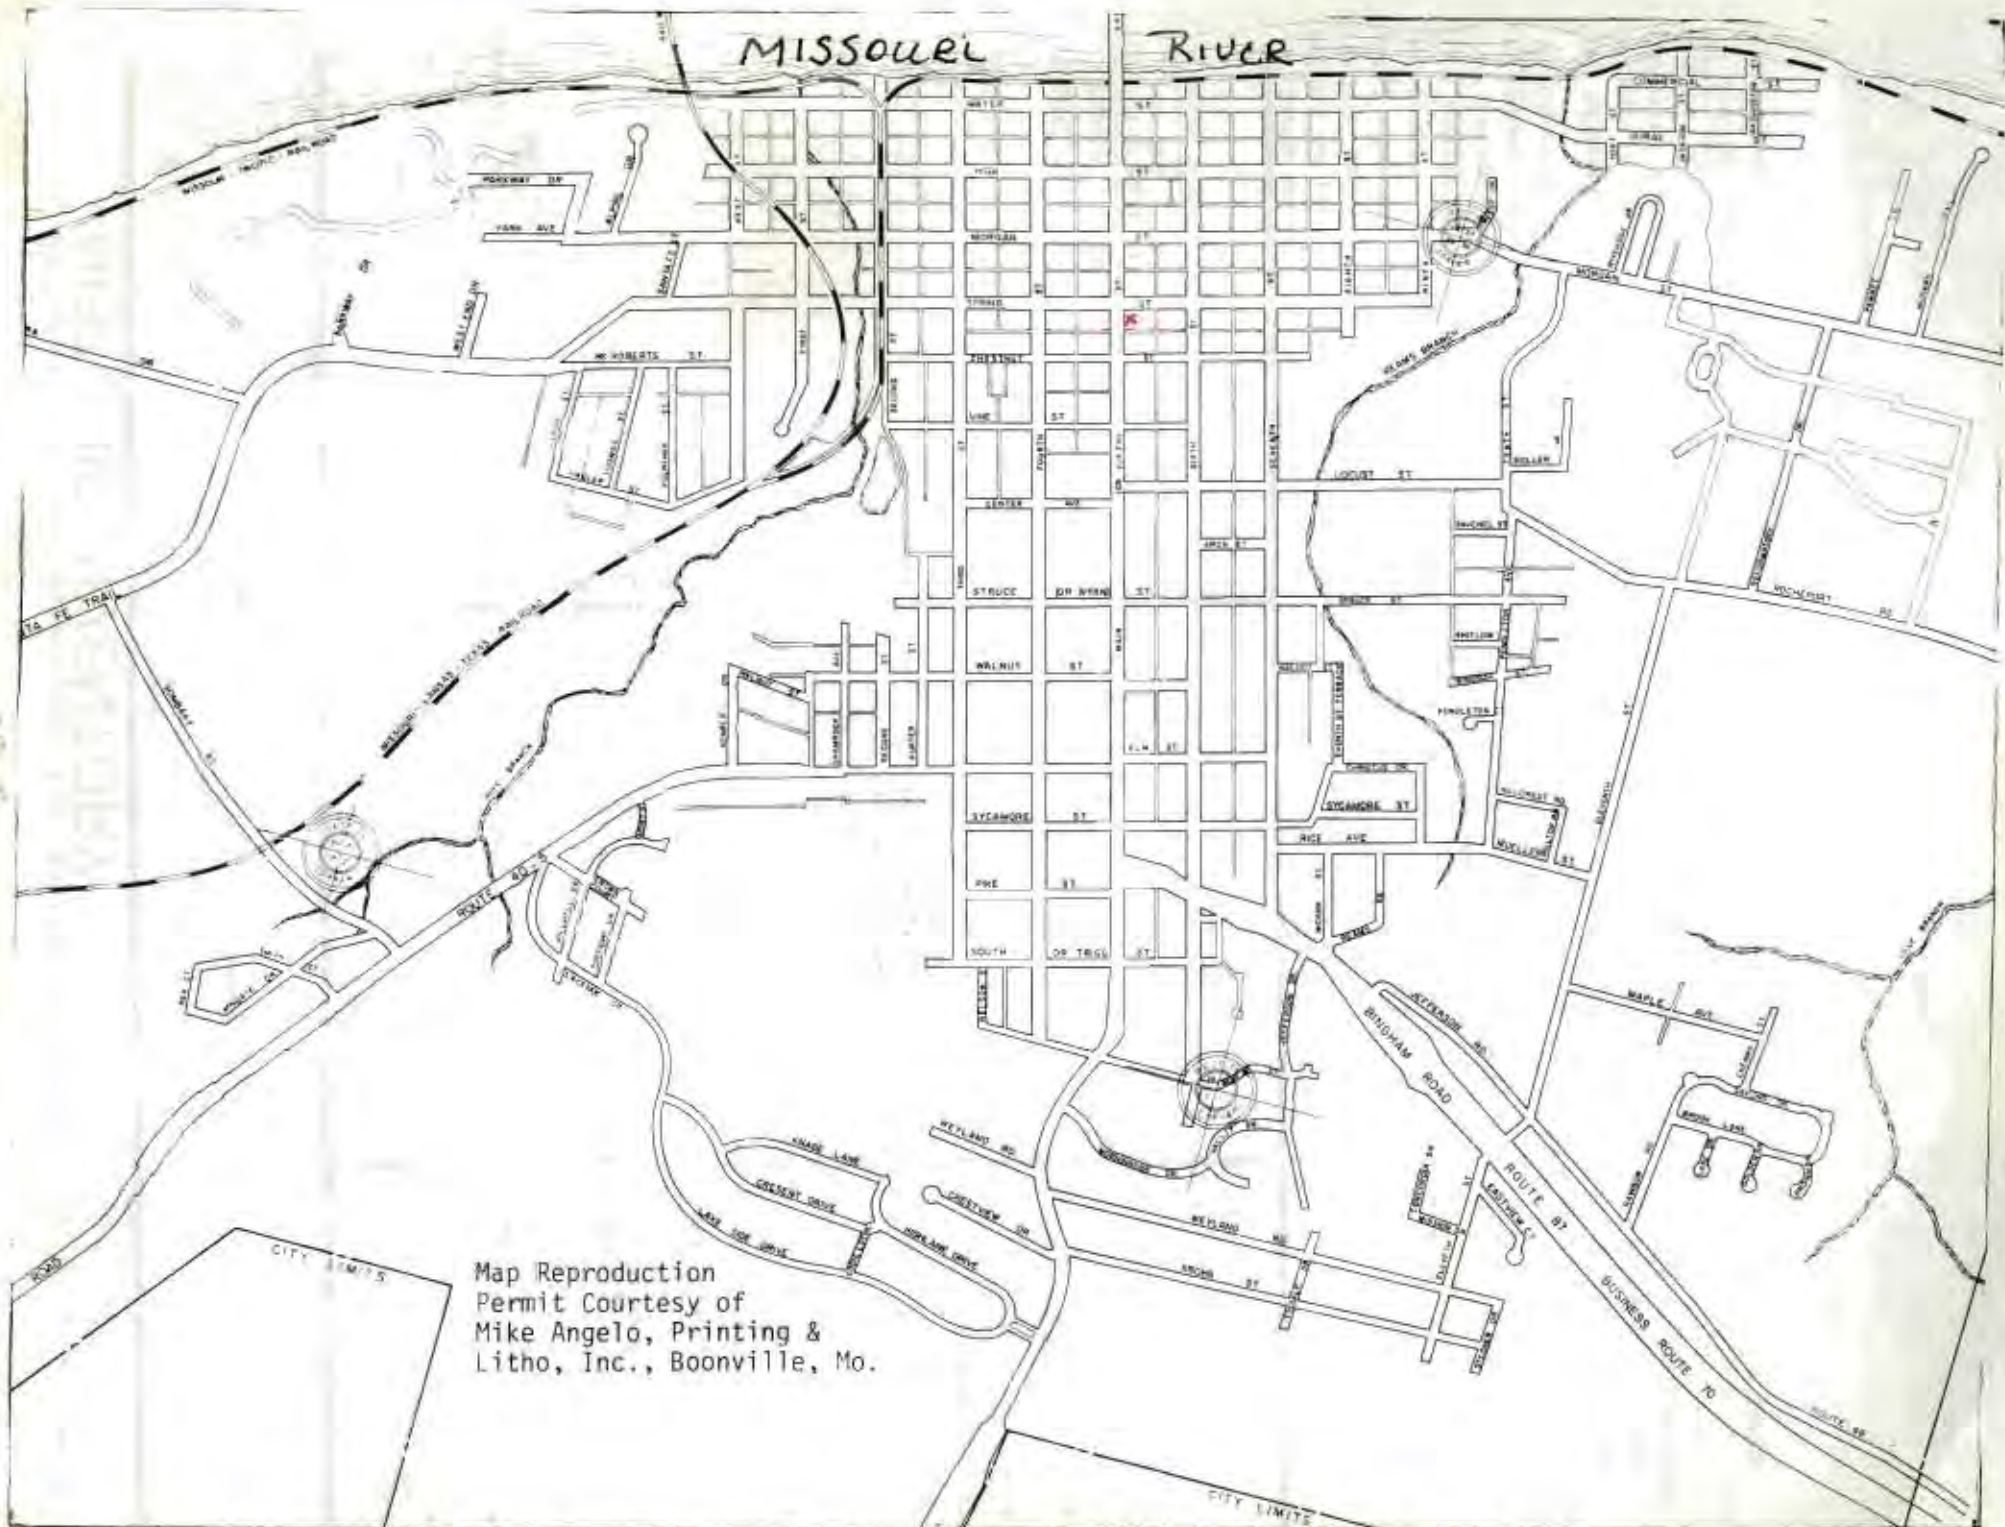

43 History and Significance In 1885 there was a brick dwelling on this site sitting about 10' back from the sidewalk (Sanborn). It is possible that this was the residence and offices of Dr. John Fetzer, a Civil War surgeon and later a U.S. examining physician for invalid pension claims. Sometime just prior to the razing of this house (1885-92) it was used for a marble and granite works. By 1892 the present building was on the site and listed (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto Main. To the rear (E) there is an asphalt parking lot for the National Bank. There are no outbuildings.

Bleckman was still in the building in 1917. From the 1920's into the early 1950's the building was occupied by, first, "Tutti" Fusco's Fruit and Grocery Store, then the Howard Roberts Grocery Store (1938-1948), then Hopper's Supermarket (1948-50), then Gambrill's Grocery (1950-51). Foster's Drug Store moved to this location in 1958. In 1977 Foster's Drug was bought out by Robert Pryor, the present proprietor.

42 Further Description of Important Features The E facade is a c. 1926 alteration. It has a glazed brick surface with a projecting molded cornice which has an egg and dart motif. It is located at a mid-point between the attenuated 2nd. story windows and the top of the parapet. Also in this area is a geometric design laid in blue glazed tile. The 1-over-1 windows have flat arch lintels with extended keystone and label stops. The 1st story has transoms filled with block glass, an inset entrance (N bay), and an entrance to the 2nd. story as the (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance The original 2 story structure was used as a Saloon (c 1885-1930). Several additions were added to the rear through the years. Around 1910, Rudolf Toennes painted a mural on the N front wall, a portion of which remains, but is covered at present. From 1888 to 1918, German immigrant Herman Schnack operated Schnack's Saloon at this location. Between 1918 and 1926 the building was the site of Manion Clothing, followed by Glover the Clothier from 1926 to 1975. In 1975 Ed Scrivner relocated his Family Shoe Store to this location.(cont.)

43. (cont.) The 2nd story apartment was probably developed after 1926. Abstract information indicates that prior to 1858 a log building containing a wool carding machine was located to the rear, west of Main St. In the 1870's this area was the site of a buggy manufactory.

42 Further Description of Important Features The 2nd. story of the primary facade (W) was sandblasted and "restored" in 1976. It is capped by a heavy projecting cornice with brackets and modillions, which is painted white. The windows are inset into panels flanked by brick pilasters with capitals and a corbelled brick course between them. The windows are 2-over-2 and have rowlock segmentally arched lintels and stone sills. The 1st story has been sheathed with metal panels and is capped by a metal awning. The entrance is inset. N & S (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure housed a harness shop in 1885. In 1892, the Pacific Express Company was located in this building. Changing business several times, the building served as a cigar factory in 1900, a Pool Hall in 1910, and became the Huber Jewelry Store in 1915. E.J. Huber, proprietor and founder of the Huber Jewelry Co., was born in Boonville in 1858, the son of Karl F. and Anna (Walz) Huber, natives of Germany. Karl F. Huber came to Boonville in 1857 and conducted a saloon business here until his death in 1873. In 1873 (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto Main. There are no outbuildings. A small yard and fence are to the E.

42. (cont.) facades are common walls. The E facade's fenestration has been altered; original openings had double rowlock segmentally arched lintels. The 2nd. story has a pent roofed open frame porch and frame steps. There is a small frame hip roof skylight visible from the rear facade.

43. (cont.) E.J. Huber was apprenticed to Jacob Gmelich the pioneer jeweler and watchmaker of Boonville. After spending a 4 year apprenticeship with Mr. Gmelich he was then employed by Gmelich for another 3 years. From 1882 to 1893 he was a partner in the business, which was conducted under the firm name of Gmelich and Huber Jewelry Co. In 1906 Mr. Huber sold his interest to Mr. Schmidt and after a period of resting for a few years, he spent seven years in business in Blackwater, Mo. He returned to Boonville in 1915 and established Huber Jewelry at this location. It remained Huber Jewelry until 1946 when it became Grover Jewelry. In 1958 it became Esser Jewelry. The present owner took over in 1965 and since that time it has been known as Gordon's Jewelry.

This building, as well as the two buildings immediately to the S now occupied (and severely altered) by the National Bank of Boonville, were built by Dr. John Fetzer, a Civil War surgeon who at one time resided in a brick dwelling on the site of the present Foster's Drug Store (406 Main).

42 Further Description of Important Features The 2nd. story was sandblasted in 1976 as part of a clean up Bi-Centennial project. The original structure had a metal and wood projecting cornice which has been removed and replaced by a brick parapet with light corbelling. The 2nd. story 2-over-2 windows have pedimented stone lintels. Below the sills and extending to ground level is vertical metal paneling. The centered, inset entrance and display windows are capped by a metal awning. The W facade has a 2nd story entrance with a frame pent (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance In 1885 the building was vacant but had the extended addition to the W. By 1892 the structure was used as a furniture store and the addition as a furniture warehouse. By 1910 it had changed to a Grocery & Grocery Warehouse, and operated for many years under the names Brummel Grocery, Rippeto Grocery and Blanck Grocery. From at least the early 1960's, it was the site of both Mode O'Day Clothing and the Fashion Laundries and Cleaners (1st story) and S.L. Jewett Insurance and accounting office (2nd story).

42 Further Description of Important Features The building's primary facade (W) and SW corner have been altered by the application of stone veneers—a light gray above and red marble below. The 2nd story is embellished by vertical projecting stone panels. This motif is echoed on the 1st story by vertical windows. On the SW corner, 1st story, is a walk up inset window and a round column. The S facade is brick, has a stepped parapet, and 2 windows on the 2nd. story. Windows on the 1st story have been bricked in. There is an exterior brick flue (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance In 1885 the 2 story building had a wall partition on the 1st story level only and central steps leading to the 2nd. story. A Meat Shop was on the N; a Tailor on the S. A jewelry store used the N and a china shop the S in 1892. In 1900, a Tailor was in the N side and the S was vacant. However in 1910 a Millinery shop in the N and a barber shop <sup>2</sup> in the S used the building and remained there at least till 1940's. During the 1930's the N section was (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building faces W onto Main. An alley is to the S. Parking is along this alley and also extending N to Spring Street. There are no outbuildings.		46 Prepared by L. Harper/ J. Higbie

Extending to the E is a 1 story red brick new addition. An entrance and metal awning is on its S facade; on the N is a drive up window with an extended metal carport.

43. (cont.) the site of the Davis Appliance Store, Guy E. Davis, proprietor.

In 1946 the National Bank of Boonville was organized and shortly thereafter they purchased the building and adapted it to their needs. In 1947 the 1st story red granite facade was added with the 2nd story grey granite being added in the early 1950's. The front lobby was remodeled to the way it appears at present in 1970-71. In 1976 the rear addition was constructed for the drive-in banking service.

42 Further Description of Important Features The original structure was 2 stories. A 3rd story with 1-over-1 windows without lintels and the corbelled brick cornice of the parapet were added in the 1930's. This change is evident in the alteration of the brickwork. The 2nd story has 2-over-2 windows with soldier course segmentally arched lintels. The 1st story now has a stone veneer and entrance as the N bay, and a metal awning. The S facade indicates some alteration of the 1st and 2nd story fenestration. An entrance is to the S. Extending to the W (cont.)
43 History and Significance Prior to 1880 this building was occupied by Kaufman's Meat Market. In the rear of the building at that time was a 3 story building that was used to smoke meat. From 1880 to 1923 the building was the site of Dr. William Mittlebach's Drug Store. Dr. Mittlebach came to Boonville in 1852 and entered the drug business under the tutelage of Dr. Ernest Roeschel, the pioneer druggist of Boonville, and received his degree in pharmacy from the Philadelphia (cont.)

42. (cont.) are several 1 story brick additions now used as Popp's Upholstery Sho, listed separately as 417 Trafficway. The primary facade was cleaned in 1976 as a part of the Bi-Centennial project.

43. (cont.) College of Pharmacy in 1879. In 1919, W.F. Johnson called Mittlebach the "oldest druggist in Boonville at this day." His wife, Mollie, was the daughter of George Sahm, a pioneer shoe merchant of Boonville.

From 1923 to 1945 the building housed the Pieper Drug Store (W.P. Pieper, proprietor). The 2nd story was used as their residence for a period of time. Following this use it was the office of Dr. Robert Evans, then the office of Dr. Shields, and, since 1955, the Harlan Law Offices. The 3rd story of the building was added by Pieper in the 1930's and rented as an apartment. From 1948 to the present Long's Drug Store has occupied the building. The rear portion of the building, listed separately as 417 Trafficway, has been occupied by Williams Carpentry Shop, Smith's Sharpening Shop, Loganbill's Sharpening Shop, Mike Angelo's Print Shop, and (since 1978) Popp's Upholstery Shop.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary entrance sits at an angle on the NW corner of the structure. Originally the 1st story had a cast iron facade, large windows and a double leaf entrance. The structure was capped by an ornate cast iron cornice with a pediment on the NW corner. Currently the entrance has been altered to a single leaf entrance with transom and sidelights and the display area has been changed to an inset, multi-pane window. An entrance to the top floor remains at the S bay of the W facade. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Beginning in at least 1885, this was the location of the Palace Saloon, Valentine Diel, proprietor. Mr. Diel was followed as proprietor by a Mr. Linski and, in 1912, by A.J. "Butch" Hesel. During Prohibition the store became the location of Noble Geiger's Radio and Appliance business, alleged to be the first business of its kind in Boonville (1921-30). The next business was a liquor store, managed first by Samuel Ruskin and then by the Boggemeiers until 1964 when the building was purchased by Hilliard Selck, Sr., and renovated to (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto Main Street. An alley is to the N. The NE corner of the property is parking for the National Bank of Boonville. There are no outbuildings. The Hall & Riley office entrance is to the N.

Over this is a large molded entablature with egg and dart and dentil motifs and a name panel. A high (cont.)

43 History and Significance The Knights of Pythias buildings were significant to both the history and architecture as well as the commerce of Boonville. The present building, which replaces an earlier structure was built in 1920. In that year the offices of the Farmers Trust Co. were located on the 1st story, offices on 2nd and the Knights of Pythias Hall on the 3rd. A large vault used by the Farmers Trust Co. is still present at the 1st story level. In 1933 Marion Miller and her husband renovated the 1st story to house the Casino Theater, a movie house (cont)

42. (cont.) closed brick parapet acts as a crowning balustrade. On the N facade, the E bay repeats the motifs of the E facade. Other openings on the 1st and 3rd stories have no headers, the 2nd story has segmentally arched lintels. Windows exposed on the 3rd story S are paired with transoms. To the W, the 3rd story has a central projecting rectangular bay window and an entrance as the S bay. The 2nd story has 4 attenuated windows with double rowlock, segmentally arched lintels. The fenestration of the 1st story has been altered several times.

43. (cont.) that was in operation into the 1950's. Mr. Miller and a young helper were killed in the fire of 1934. In 1937 the 1st floor S was the site of the Walz Jewelry Store while the 2nd floor was utilized for business and professional offices and the Laura Estell Myer Studio of Dancing and Dramatics. A 3rd fire during the 1950's again caused damage to the building, and after repairs, the 1st story S housed the Jones Watch Shop while City Tire and Electric was to the N. During the 1970's the 1st story housed both City Tire and Electric (N) and the Automobile Association of America (S). Presently the building is vacated and the present owners have plans to restore the 1st story into a twin theater movie house.

The original 1898 building was a 3½ story brick structure that dominated the Boonville skyline. An ornate stone entrance graced the center front facade and is now believed to be relocated at the Boonville Water Works building in Harley Park. Vertical and semi-circular stone hoodmolds covered the 1st and 2nd story windows respectively. In its early days the 1st story was used for a dry goods store, the 2nd story as offices, the 3rd story as the Knights of Pythias Castle Hall containing parlors, kitchen, regalia and ante-rooms, and the top ½ story was the Knights of Pythias club room. In 1910 a movie picture theater was in the S 1st story and a business school in the 2nd. In 1917 the S 1st story was used by an auto sales company with a capacity of 6 cars while the N was used for the sale of farm machinery and seeds. By 1919 the 1st floor S was the location of the Farmers Trust Co. of Boonville.

The Knights of Pythias Building replaces an earlier log structure that housed Jacob F. Gmelich's Jewellery Store, est. 1861. George Garthoffner operated his cigar factory in 1894 on the site along with barber and cobbler shops.

42 Further Description of Important Features The 1st story is divided into 2 store-fronts. The 2nd story and cornice continues across 501 & 505 Main. The N section storefront has large glass windows and an inset entrance, all protected by an awning. A large sign obscures the lower half of the 2nd story windows. These windows are 1-over-1 and have soldier course segmental lintels. They are flanked by brick pilasters with corbelled brick caps, and a corbelled course between. The stepped parapet has tile copings. The W facade has a concrete loading dock across (cont.)

43 History and Significance Originally a 1 story frame building with a paint and wallpaper store occupied this site. It was moved on to the back of the lot and existed at least until 1900 after which it was razed. By 1885 the N half of the present structure was on the site and was occupied by the John Weber wagon and blacksmith shop. By 1892 the Jack Monroe Furniture Store was in the building, and in 1907 the Boonville Mercantile Co. was there. The Boonville Mercantile Co. was organized as a corporation in 1906. Its officers were: W.M. Rowe, President; (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SW corner of Main and Chestnut, facing E onto Main. There is an alley and parking area to the W. No outbuildings are associated with the property.

43. (cont.) R.P. Burge, vice-president; W.W. Kingsbury, secretary. R.P. Burge was associated in the mercantile business for many years with H.T. Hudson, prior to the organization of the Boonville Mercantile Co. The company moved to the Main and Chestnut building in 1907 and extensively remodeled the building in 1914. When the Mercantile Co. moved into the building, two dwellings immediately adjoined the building to the south. By 1914 Boonville Mercantile Co. had expanded their building to include the site of the two dwellings and vacant lot to the S of these dwellings. At this time a complete new front facade was given to the building. Boonville Mercantile occupied the N section (501-503 Main) of the building up to 1967 when it became Gibson's Store. In 1977 it was occupied by the Paradise Donut Shop and pool room, the present occupants.

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure is a combination of alterations and additions. The NW section is 2 stories with a corbelled cornice. 2nd. story windows are 1-over-1 and have a rowlock lintel course and sill course. The 1st story has no openings and has been covered with stucco. This forms a rectangular panel motif. The W facade central section repeats the panels and stucco, but retain a saw-tooth cornice. This panel motif is also repeated on the S section. The Southernmost section is frame and inset. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure sits on the site of a dwelling, an office and a shop along Main and the B.F. Jones and Sons Lumber Company along Chestnut (c 1885). Through the years business along Main changed and included a Meat Market, a Glass Shop and Millinery Shop. In 1910 businesses along Main were a restaurant, a cobbler, a tin shop and a dwelling and along Chestnut were a concrete block works, a Pool Hall, and a Negro Lodge. A new building appeared by 1917 and appears to be the base for the current building. (see attached)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings This group of connected buildings is at the SE corner of Main and Chestnut. An alley is to the E. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) It has vertical siding and a porch with arcade motif and is used as a shop. Behind this section is a brick section with large garage doors to the W. It sits on a concrete foundation and is covered with variagated red brick. On its E facade are 4 multipane windows. The central section E is a butler building and a new construction with only the concrete foundation extant. The N section is a Butler building with a concrete loading dock and 4 large garage doors to the N. Large tanks and vaults are to the N. The N facade is 2 stories and repeats the motifs of the NW corner, except there are small rectangular 1st. story windows and an entrance.

43. (cont.) It was a garage which had concrete floors and had a 36 car capacity.<sup>2</sup> Two dwellings were along Main, and E.F. Garthoffer Feed Mill was along Chestnut.

In 1942 Ben Trout hired the Cochran Construction Company to convert the garage into a bakery building. Trouts Bakery, which relocated from 326 Grand Street to this site, remained in business until 1972 when the business was purchased by the C.J. Patterson Co. of Kansas City, Mo. In 1977 the company changed to Interstate Brands, which produces Holsum Bread Products. In 1977 the structures on Chestnut Street were removed for the erection of loading bays.

42 Further Description of Important Features The brick primary (E) facade has a stepped parapet. The central section is an open drive through area with lumber storage at the attic level. Flanking this large opening are 1 story sections with block glass window: a pedimented, colonial type entrance, and a double window with a soldier lintel. This fenestration is repeated on both N & S sections. The W facade of the building has 2 large openings. Pent additions extend to the W along the N property line and across the W property line. (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance Sometime between 1905 and 1910 a lumber yard was constructed on this site (which had been a vacant lot up to this time) by C.J. Harris. Harris, a native of Pilot Grove, Mo., entered the lumber business in 1888 when he and Shaw Roe purchased the Rust-McVeigh lumber yard in Pilot Grove. Harris then bought out Roe and established another lumber yard in New Franklin, and, later, the yard in Boonville. C.J. Harris Lumber Co. was incorporated (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto Main Street. An alley is to the W. The main structure sits at the NE corner of the lot. A gravel lot with access from Main is the S section of the property. In the SW corner is a metal Butler-type building on a concrete foundation.

By 1937 this company owned 12 yards in central and eastern Missouri, and controlled the Fitzroy-Harris Lumber Co. in Biloxi, Mississippi, as well as a large super-service station in St. Charles, Mo., known as Station Duquette. In 1965 the lumber yard was sold to the Stewart chain of Minneapolis, Minnesota, and in 1969 to the Benson Lumber Co., Columbia, Mo., the present owners.

42 Further Description of Important Features The 1st story is sheathed in buff colored brick and is capped by a soldier course string course. Fenestration includes a double leaf entrance with a pediment as the N & S bays and a large central window which has a transom. The red brick 2nd. story has attenuated, 1-over-1 windows with metal grills, concrete sills, and a soldier course lintel course. A wide stone cornice is capped by a rowlock and a soldier course. The parapet has stone work including a panel which reads "IOOF". (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The original structure was an "L" shape. A later addition (NW corner) completed the rectangular shape of the structure. Up to 1910 an east-west street (Marl) separated the old C.J. Harris Lumber Co. property (now Benson Building Materials, 511 Main) from the property on which the present Sears Roebuck/I.O.O.F. Lodge building now stands. This property originally had a 2 story brick dwelling on the N half (built sometime prior to 1869 and razed in the 1940's) and a vacant lot with a well on the S half (site of present bldg.) (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto Main Street. There are no outbuildings. An alley is to the W.

42. (cont.) The N facade shows an alteration and has 4 bays on the 2nd story which are 4-over-1. The S facade's 1st story windows are bricked in. The 2nd story has nine 4-over-1 windows. The W facade has two 4-over-1 windows on the 2nd story. The 1st story fenestration has been altered. There is now a concrete loading dock and a basement entrance on this facade.

43. (cont.) The dwelling was at one time the residence of David Andrews (1809-1893) who came to Boonville about 1828 and followed the trade of tinsmith. During his lifetime he amassed a fortune of over $300,000 and was one of the wealthiest citizens of Boonville, serving as mayor of the city for a number of years.

By 1917 Marl St. had been closed off and the present building had been erected on the S half of the property by the I.O.O.F organization, who used the 2nd story as their Lodge Hall and rented the 1st story to a movie house. In the 1930's and 40's this space was leased by the Piggly Wiggly grocery store chain. From the late 1940's to the late 1950's the space was occupied by W.N. Geiger Furniture and Appliances. From the late 1950's until 1971 it was occupied by Williams Furniture Exchange (Roy Williams, proprietor), and from 1972 to the present it has been the Sears Roebuck store.

43 History and Significance The present church replaces two prior Presbyterian Churches that were erected in 1841 and 1872. Erected in 1904, at a cost of $21,414.07, the church is significant as being Boonville's only example of Baroque architecture. The walnut chancel was made from woodwork original to the second church. The pipe organ was presented in 1941 by the Pigott, Johnston and Hitch families and was originally a theater organ from Kansas City. It repeats the pilaster and cap motifs and is capped by a pediment with dentils and a stained glass attic window. The N facade is somewhat plain, however there is a projecting gabled bay without a window. The S facade repeats the classical motifs of the buff brick structure. A palladian window is flanked by smaller stained glass windows. The SW corner has a projecting rectangular bay which has a 2nd story pedimented wall dormer. A later addition (1920's) on the S facade is a 1 story entrance vestibule. It also repeats the classical motifs. The W facade has arched windows 1st story, rectangular 2nd story, all stained glass. A 1920's addition connects it to the parsonage and sunday school area. This 1 story addition has a double leaf entrance with transom, corner lights and sidelights to the S. The 1 story brick sunday school addition was built in the 1920's and is on the NW corner of the whole structure. It sits on a concrete foundation. Openings have no headers. An entrance to the basement and a 1st story entrance with a lattice porch is to the S. The Education Building and Church offices are in a 2 story brick structure at the SW corner of the whole complex and is listed seperately listed as 417 Vine.

42. (cont.) mansard roof. Interior alterations included the sloping of the 1st floor, construction of a balcony, application of ornamental plasterwork and reworking the lobby. Restoration of the building began c. 1975-76 by the Friends of Historic Boonville with Architects and Planners Colaboratives (John Huffman) of Kansas City as restoration architects.

43. (cont.) In March 1855 the Association reincorporated as the Boonville Library, Reading Room and Thespian Association; and, together with the local Mason's, Oddfellows, and the City of Boonville, raised funds for the erection of a Thespian Hall. On July 25, 1855, the cornerstone was laid with the declared motto "Esto Perbetua". The 50' by 103' structure, built by local contractors with some slave labor, was completed in July 1857 at a cost of $16,000. The building was dedicated on July 4, 1857.

Upon its opening the basement area was used as a library and reading room, the 1st story was used for play reading and other forms of entertainment, and the 2nd floor for lodges and city offices. In 1860, however, William Chamberlin was operating a bowling, billiard parlor and saloon at the basement level. During the Civil War the building saw service as a quartering place for both Northern and Southern troops at various times, and later as a hospital and horse stable. During these war years it was purchased by Col. Joseph L. Stephens.

In 1869 and 1895 the building was leased to the Turn and Gesang Verein Society for play reading, singing and athletic events. During the 1880's a skating rink was in operation at the basement level.

In April 1901, talk of demolishing the landmark was followed by an announcement by Alex Stephens and Crockett Hickman, building managers, and W. Speed Stephens, building owner, that the building would be enlarged by the addition of a stage house, remodeled and modernized with J.L. Howard of St. Louis as architect. On October 5, 1901, the building was reopened as the Stephens Opera House. Being midway between St. Louis and Kansas City, many legitimate, vaudeville, and minstrel shows played Thespian Hall in the years up til 1930. Around 1912, conversions were made to the Hall to accomodate moving pictures and the building was later renamed the Lyric Theater. In 1929-30 the theater was adapted for showing sound films. In the late 1930's the building was again threatened with demolition but local interest in saving the building prevailed and it continued as a movie house until 1975. In May 1975 the building was purchased and donated to the Friends of Historic Boonville by the R. Crosby Kemper Charitable Trusts. A restoration grant was also made for repair and renovation to be matched by the Friends. In 1976 the Kemper Foundations granted funding for the renovation of the Stage House area with work to be completed prior to the 1st Missouri River Festival of the Arts.

The building is currently used for special functions and theatrical endeavors which include the annual Missouri River Festival of the Arts, community plays and other community functions. The building is included on the National Register of Historic Places.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade (E) is accented by brick pilasters with corbel caps and a connecting dentil course at the 2nd. story level. Windows are 2-over-2, attenuated, with soldier course segmentally arched lintels and molded iron sills. The 1st story is capped by a large wood sign and a canvas awning. The entrance is central and inset with large flanking display windows. Fenestration on the other facades repeats the arched lintels, but many windows have been closed in. There are 2 entrances to the N.
43 History and Significance The building was built by Edward Stegner as his place of business for the sale of groceries, hardware and software. When Stegner's sons entered the business the name of the business changed to J.A. Stegner and Sons. The last two businesses to be operated at this location have been photographers. In 1977 Gene Toennes, who was located here for many years, sold his business to Tom Burns. The 2nd story of the structure contains 2 apartments. Prior to 1881 this property was the site of the Hoefer flower shop and greenhouse.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SW corner of Main & Vine Streets, facing E. There are no outbuildings.

Buttresses accent the corners and separate the bays. The gable end is to the street. It has a raking cornice with medallions and a large center bay stained glass window. Over the bay is a segmentally arched name panel. All openings have soldier course lintel and follow the pointed arch motif. There are 2 additions. Extending to the W is an early gable roofed brick (see attached sheet)		Photo
43 History and Significance The first Baptist Church of Jesus Christ in Boonville organized in 1843 and met for 4 years "in the school room of Mr. Bronaugh." In 1847 the congregation built their first house of worship located at 518 Vine Street. The church remained the property of the Baptists until their second and present church was dedicated in 1889. Originally the church was of Gothic design containing a three part stained glass window and impressive (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an embankment and faces E onto Main. Alleys are to the N & W. There is a large parking lot to the W. No outbuildings are associated with this property.

In 1952, a large brick section, Education Building was added to the S. It has 3 bays on the E & W and 11 bays on the S. Windows have corbelled sills, but no headers. They have 2-over-2 horizontal lights. There is a 1st story entrance to the S.

43. (cont.) entrance towers; the NE tower was 3 stories and the SE tower was 2 stories. In 1889 additional hitching posts appeared to the rear of the church to accommodate the growing congregation. In 1892 the church sold their old church bell and charged admission to the dedication to pay for their first pipe organ. This organ was replaced by a Wicks pipe organ in 1958. In 1905 fire caused $1500 damage to the building and furnishings. A new sidewalk replaced the original brick sidewalk and a retaining wall to the N side of the church was added in 1911. In 1912 a basement with a kitchen was built to the rear of the church. In 1922 the educational annex was built to the south of the church with an additional expansion in 1952. The dates for the removal of the tower roofs are unknown. To date the congregation has employed 39 pastors, the present pastor is Rev. Mel Lanz.

42 Further Description of Important Features The N section is the original section and motifs repeat on both the N & W facades. The structure is capped by a brick balustrade and a heavy cornice with block modillions, brick frieze, and concrete architrave. This is supported on 2 story fluted ionic columns. The 1st story has a heavier basement effect. The end bays and the central entrance bay project slightly. The entrance bay is embellished by an ornate cap with dentils, egg and dart moldings and a pair of large dogs flanking the crest. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The Laura Speed Elliot School was built in 1915 on land donated to the Board of Education by John S. Elliot as a memorial to his deceased wife. Recognized as one of the finest high school structures in the State at that time, the building including furniture and equipment cost $85,000. The original school building contained 25 rooms. To meet the needs of an expanding student body the south addition was completed in 1939 and included a new auditorium gymnasium and music room. The building remained as a high school until Sept. 1979 when (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W onto Main Street. There are no outbuildings. An alley and gravel parking area are to the E.

42. (cont.) The entrances are double leaf with transom, corner and sidelights. The central section is the physical education complex as is stated in the entablature over the W entrance. The casement windows have soldier course lintels. The central entrance bay projects. This section repeats the classical motifs of the original section. The S section is the auditorium. To the W are 2 entrances. The S facade has 3 large arched windows.

43. (cont.) the new High School was completed. At that time Laura Speed Elliot became the location of the Junior High School.

42 Further Description of Important Features The new addition to the E, built 1939, is rectangular in shape with slightly projecting end bays E facade. This E side is accented by a parapet with rectangular panels over each bay. The central 3 bays are set off by 2 story concrete pilasters with connecting belt course. The double leaf entrance has a label header, a transom and quoins. A large concrete stoop extends along this facade. Windows in this section are 8-over-8, paired, but have no headers. The irregular shaped original (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance The original Queen Anne structure had a circular tower at the NE corner. This and the primary facade were destroyed when the new E section was added, 1939. Home of W. Speed Stephens, Boonville financier. Following Stephens' death the structure was used as a rooming house. The structure with addition has served as the Masonic Temple since 1939.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SW corner of Center and Main Streets facing E onto Main and to the High School. The rear yard drops downward. There is a gravel drive to the W. No outbuildings are associated with the property.

42. (cont.) much of its original woodwork, however, all fireplaces have been enclosed. The present owners converted the structure from 3 apartments of unknown date back to a single family residence.
43. (cont.) General Nathaniel Lyons. Reprieved, he went on to become one of Boonville's wealthiest citizens. In 1856 Franklin Parker purchased the residence. The next owner, Freeman Wing, 1857, was an early pioneer who arrived in Cooper County in 1831 by covered wagon. He purchased 480 acres from General William Ashley and became his "agent". Later he became attorney to Mrs. Ashley during her marriage to Gov. John Crittenden. Apparently this structure was his "retirement" home. Prior to his death he willed the residence to his daughter Virginia R.S. Wing in 1865. In 1865 Justinian A. Williams, Cooper County Circuit Clerk (1860-67), purchased the house. From 1866 to 1912 the residence was known as the "Gibson House" and was owned respectively by David B., W.T., and Margaret. Additional owners have been Edwin I. Smith, 1912; Iva N. Powell, 1921; Paul Winders, 1921; Oliver Thomas, 1939; Annie, Ruth and Mary Chambers, 1940; Frank and Ruth Arnold, 1946.

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure is built on a 2/3rds, plan with the entrance as the S bay of the E facade. Built in 3 sections the structure has an exposed basement level with front windows set into window wells and a walk out entrance to the rear. Both the basement and 1st story have soldier course flat arched headers. The basement retains the original 6-over-6 windows. The later 2nd. story has windows with double rowlock segmentally arched headers. The primary entrance is inset with a panelled surround, (see attached sheet)		26 Local Contact Person or Organization Friends of Historic Boonville
43 History and Significance Property evaluations obtained from the abstract indicate the structure was built between 1845-1857 by Alfred and Cynthia Simmons probably as their residence. The residence was purchased in 1859 by George Graham Vest. Known as "Missouri's Little Giant" the noted lawyer and U.S. Senator arrived in Boonville in 1856 and opened a law office. In Boonville he became active in the local Thespian Society and was a co-builder of Thespian Hall, ca. 1857. Professing states rights, Vest left the city in 1861 (see attached sheet)		27 Other Surveys in Which Included
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E onto Main Street. There are no outbuildings now, however there had been a frame barn and later a 1 car garage to the rear.		28 No of Stories 2

42. (cont.) a transom and fluted doric columns. The recent porch has a concrete stoop and wrought iron railings supporting a gable roof. The W facade has a small frame stoop and stairs at the 1st story level. On the interior, the structure was for some time divided up into 3 apartments, but the basic plan was not altered. Recent remodeling has returned the structure to a single family dwelling and has been sympathetic to the early date of the primary construction. The large entrance leads into a hall way which contains 2 stairways, 1 up and 1 down, which has been moved slightly to allow for a small half bath. This stair is enclosed. The 2 major rooms downstairs have brick fireplaces, mantels are gone. Some windows have been closed in. Remnants of the old wall paper remain. A chair rail is indicated in the E room. Millwork, where extant, is lightly molded. A bath is being added at this level. The main floor has 2 large rooms to the N, the E one used as a living room, the W one converted to a kitchen. Both have large fireplaces with Greek Revival mantels. They are closed up. The door from the hall to the W room has the original 2 panel wood door. Millwork on this level is wide and heavily molded and has a circular motif at the top corners. Windows have ornate panels below the sills. The newel is turned with a gentle curve and may have been the original post and hand rail to the lower level. The current balustrade is plain. The upper floor, added in the 1920's, has trabeated millwork and is divided into 3 large bedrooms and a bath.

43. (cont.) and as a State Legislator introduced Missouri's Secession Ordinance. Vest's oratory skills and belief in the expansion of personal liberties led him to argue the cause for the fair treatment of Indians and the religious rights of The Church of the Latter Day Saints. His most famous case was representing the owner of "Old Drum", the dog for which his "Eulogy to a Dog" originated. "Old Drum" has been immortalized through a statue in Warrensburg, Missouri. As a United States Senator (1879-1903) he was active in obtaining National Park status for Yellowstone and stood against U.S. imperialism. In the 1870's he returned to Boonville briefly and opened a law partnership with James W. Draffen.

The residence was sold to James M. Nelson an early Boonville banker, large land owner and patriarch of the influential Nelson family in 1861. A city directory credits the house as his residence in 1869. In 1876, Nelson's heirs sold the house to William L. Stephens. In 1876 it was owned by Col. Joseph L. Stephens, president of the Central National Bank, father of Missouri Governor Lon V. Stephens and post Civil War owner of the Stephens Opera House (Thespian Hall).

In 1888 Stephens, heirs sold it back to James M. Nelson, who in turn sold it to Russell Harriman in 1902. It again returned to the Stephens family in 1903 when S.H. Stephens resided there. Stephens was quite active in Boonville public life having sat in the first board of public works and as acting as a public school director.

Subsequent owners of the house have been: R.L. Evans, 1905; Elizabeth Mitzel & Julia Adams 1912; A.F. Nixon, 1919; Dudley Monroe, probable constructor of the 2nd. floor, 1920; Charles Clayton, 1922; Martha Tucker, 1930; Vaughan family (Tucker heirs), 1940; Georgia Smith, 1960; Trout's Investment Inc., 1972.

In 1976 the present owners, Orville and Mai Thi Gordon purchased the residence in poor condition which had been long since converted into three apartments. Under their ownership they have conducted appropriate exterior and interior restoration that includes tuckpointing, new front steps, insulation, rewiring, and interior decorating. There are future plans of additional work to take place at the basement level.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is built on the 2/3rds. plan with the entrance as the N bay of the E facade. Originally the windows were 9-over-6. They are now 1-over-1, and have soldier course flat arch headers. Alterations and additions include a c 1900 1 story plus basement gable ell extending to the W, N bay; and a 1 story and basement addition to the N built c.1975. It is constructed with brick from the original porch, has a basement entrance E, and a 2nd. story deck. The S yard has been graded to expose (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Abstract indicates in 1851 Benjamin Emmons Ferry obtained a $1080 mortgage and may have used this to build his residence on the lot he had purchased from the Jacob Wyan Estate. At the time of Wyan's death the lot was appraised for $201, which strongly indicates the structure was not in existence. In 1868 when the property was sold the evaluation had been elevated to $3845. Ferry was the first editor of the first newspaper in Boonville in 1834, acted as Aide de Camp to General Henry W. Crowther during the (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces E, at the NW corner of Spruce and Main Street. There are no outbuildings. Parking area is to the S. To the E is a filling station which has been converted to a liquor store. Reportedly 4 or 5 sections of slave quarters extended W to the alley.

42. (cont.) the basement which now has a S entrance, which leads to the office space. The W has a pent porch and an enclosed porch area, both in frame, as the S bay. A new concrete porch is to the E. The interior has been reworked but the plan has not been severely altered. The basement was originally 2 rooms and a stair hall; one room had a brick floor and was probably used as a kitchen. Both large rooms had fireplaces. This level is now office area and furnace room. The stairway has been removed. The 1st story has molded pine millwork with circular corner medallions. Both large rooms had large fireplaces, only 1 remains. The back parlor is divided into 2 rooms and the kitchen is in the enclosed W porch. A delicate curved walnut newel and balustrade has u-curves at the landings. It leads to the 2nd. floor and attic. The 2nd. floor has 1 large apartment. Fireplaces may have originally had stoves but are closed in. The attic story is a large bedroom. Trussing is exposed and 2 skylights and a fireplace have been added. The rear ell is 2 bays deep and has Eastlake millwork. This area was used as a kitchen and dining room at the turn of the century. Currently there is an apartment on each level.

Features of the house include the 40' hall, 4 panel doors, and original house hair plaster. The structure has been rewired, hot water heat was added in the 1920's by Nobel Geiger, and new concrete floors added in the basement level.

43. (cont.) Morman War of 1838, and served as Cooper County Clerk, 1837-54.

The next owner William Johnson is listed as residing in the structure in 1869. Johnson operated a clothing and piece goods store located on the west side of Main Street between Morgan and Spring. His widow Margaret retained ownership till 1920, when it sold to Edward S. Harte. In 1928 his son Huston Harte, owner of the Central Missouri Republican newspaper, obtained the deed and in 1929 granted it to this mother Genevive Hart.

In 1929 the house and lot (75' x 187½') was sold to the Milton Oil Company. The property was sub-divided into three lots with a gas station being erected on the lot (51' x 75') fronting Main Street directly to the east of the residence. Oral history indicates apartments by 1940 and could have been completed most likely under the ownerships of the Harte family or possibly by the Milton Oil Company. In 1940, Ben Smith, Sr. abstractor and realtor purchased the rental property and retained ownership till its sale to another realtor, Jerry Quinlan in 1960. In 1963 it was sold to Earl Schader. In 1964, the present owner. Dr. John Rorah bought the structure and conducted sympathetic alterations, in which he modernized 2 apartments, developed his office of Chiropractory office and his residence on the third and fourth levels.

42 Further Description of Important Features The Romanesque affinities on the exterior include the use of corbelled brickwork, ornately molded brick in a jigsaw frieze, & buttresses. Gable parapeted wall dormers accent the roof on each facade; several have 3 part windows with an arcaded header. A circular tower at the NE corner ends with a conical roof with gable dormers & an iron finial. The wall surface is a smooth red brick embellished with white stone belt course and lintels & terra cotta panels. The primary facade has a 1 story hip-roofed (cont.)
43 History and Significance The home was built as the residence for Wilbur T. Johnson, a shoe manufacturer. The rose garland hand painted on the parlor ceiling allegedly was done by Constantine Brundini, a Washington, D.C. artist, who was brought to Missouri to paint the State Capitol by Johnson's brother-in-law, Gov. Lon V. Stephens. The following owners, Anna and Amanda Berndt, were dressmakers who designed and constructed exquisite gowns commissioned by (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on a high embankment at the NW corner of Main & Walnut Sts., facing E onto Main. The porte-cochere and a 2 car brick garage and workshop at the rear (W) of the lot are reached by a circle drive from Walnut. The gabled garage was built 1974-75. A dog kennel is on the extreme NW portion of the property.

42. (cont.) porch with a pediment over the double leaf entrance and transom. To the N is an oriel window with a corbelled brick base and a 1 story polygonal bay. The S facade has a large chimney, a 2 story bow window, and a secondary entrance which is afforded protection by a hip roofed porte-cochere. The interior features a large entrance hall with a fireplace, circular room (base of NE tower) and an ornate staircase with built-in seats at the base and landing where there is a large stained glass window. The spindle frieze canopy has strong "Moorish" motifs complete with moon and stars. This is repeated in the NW room to set off the bay window. The 11 fireplaces feature a different color tile around the firebox in each room and that color sets the tone of the room. Each mantel is different. The SE room has a painted ceiling and there are several pocket doors on the 1st floor. The 2nd floor has bedrooms and the 3rd floor is a large ballroom. Additions and alterations include: 1959 chandelier-gasoliers sold out of house; 1960's fruit cellar filled in, carriage house removed, basement floors concreted; and 1970's rear porch/pantry removed, rear door bricked in, and concrete patio poured. The kitchen area was modernized and redone after this area was badly damaged by fire
43. (cont.) the Boonville aristocracy. The next owner was Henry E. Fuser. In 1961, the next owners, Pete and Shirley Christus, owners of Pete's Cafe, completed interior renovations which included remodeling of the kitchen. Additional owners have been Ruben Linneman and Giles McCoy, who completed interior preservation and added the garage. The present owners purchased the residence in 1979, own and operate Foster's pharmacy.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure indicates a main block and 2 additions to the rear. This main block is built on a 2/3rds plan with the entrance which has a transom and sidelights as the S bay of the primary (E) facade. This opening and the 2 1st story windows have pedimented stone lintels. The 2nd story bays and both levels on the N facade have flat arched soldier course lintels. Extending across the W facade and projecting beyond the main block 1 bay (cont.)
43 History and Significance Lot was purchased by August Glahn in 1863 and he is noted as residing there in 1869. Glahn later operated a business known as "Glahn's Flower Garden" in the area bounded by 2nd, 3rd, Chestnut and Vine Streets. Following his death in 1885, his son Joseph owned the residence. In 1898 M.R. Sloan bought the home but soon sold it later that year to George Viertel. Between 1903 and 1905 it was owned by Levi Gibson. In 1905 it was purchased (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits at the SW corner of Main & Walnut Sts., facing E onto Main. It sits close to the front of the lot. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) to the S is a somewhat later 2 story brick addition. Windows in this section have segmentally arched headers. There is an entrance to the E. The last addition is a 1 story brick room to the W. It too has segmentally arched lintels and there is a W entrance. It has a frame enclosed porch over it to the S. Generally the windows in the residence are 1/1 and the green shutters accent the structure which has been painted white. Extending across the 1st story of the E facade and wrapping around the SE corner is a c. 1920's porch with concrete slab and MCB columns.
43. (cont.) by Jacob Deck, who operated a meat market and owned Thespian Hall prior to 1918. In 1919, E.H. Huffman is listed as owner. In 1924 the dwelling was purchased by Edgar C. Nelson, who was editor and publisher of the Bunceton Eagle, which "had the largest circulation of any newspaper in Cooper County, and is the most prosperous and popular of the newspapers in central Missouri." In the 1930's and 1940's he edited the Boonville Advertiser and in 1947-48 was Secretary of State for Missouri. The present owner bought the dwelling in 1967. Information gained from interview indicates that there are future plans to raze the structure and to build a modern insurance office on the lot.

Due to this structure's association with E.G. Nelson it has both state and local historical significance.

42 Further Description of Important Features The roofline is accented by a bracketed cornice which rakes and has returns at the gable ends. The E facade has a 2 story projecting bay which contains the primary entrance. The E has a transom, sidelights and a frame surround with grecian ear molding. At the 2nd. story level is a 3 part window with an arcade type header. It is shuttered and its large central section is boarded up. A 1 story porch extends across the E facade and wraps around the SE corner, where there is a secondary 1st story entrance with transom. (see attached)

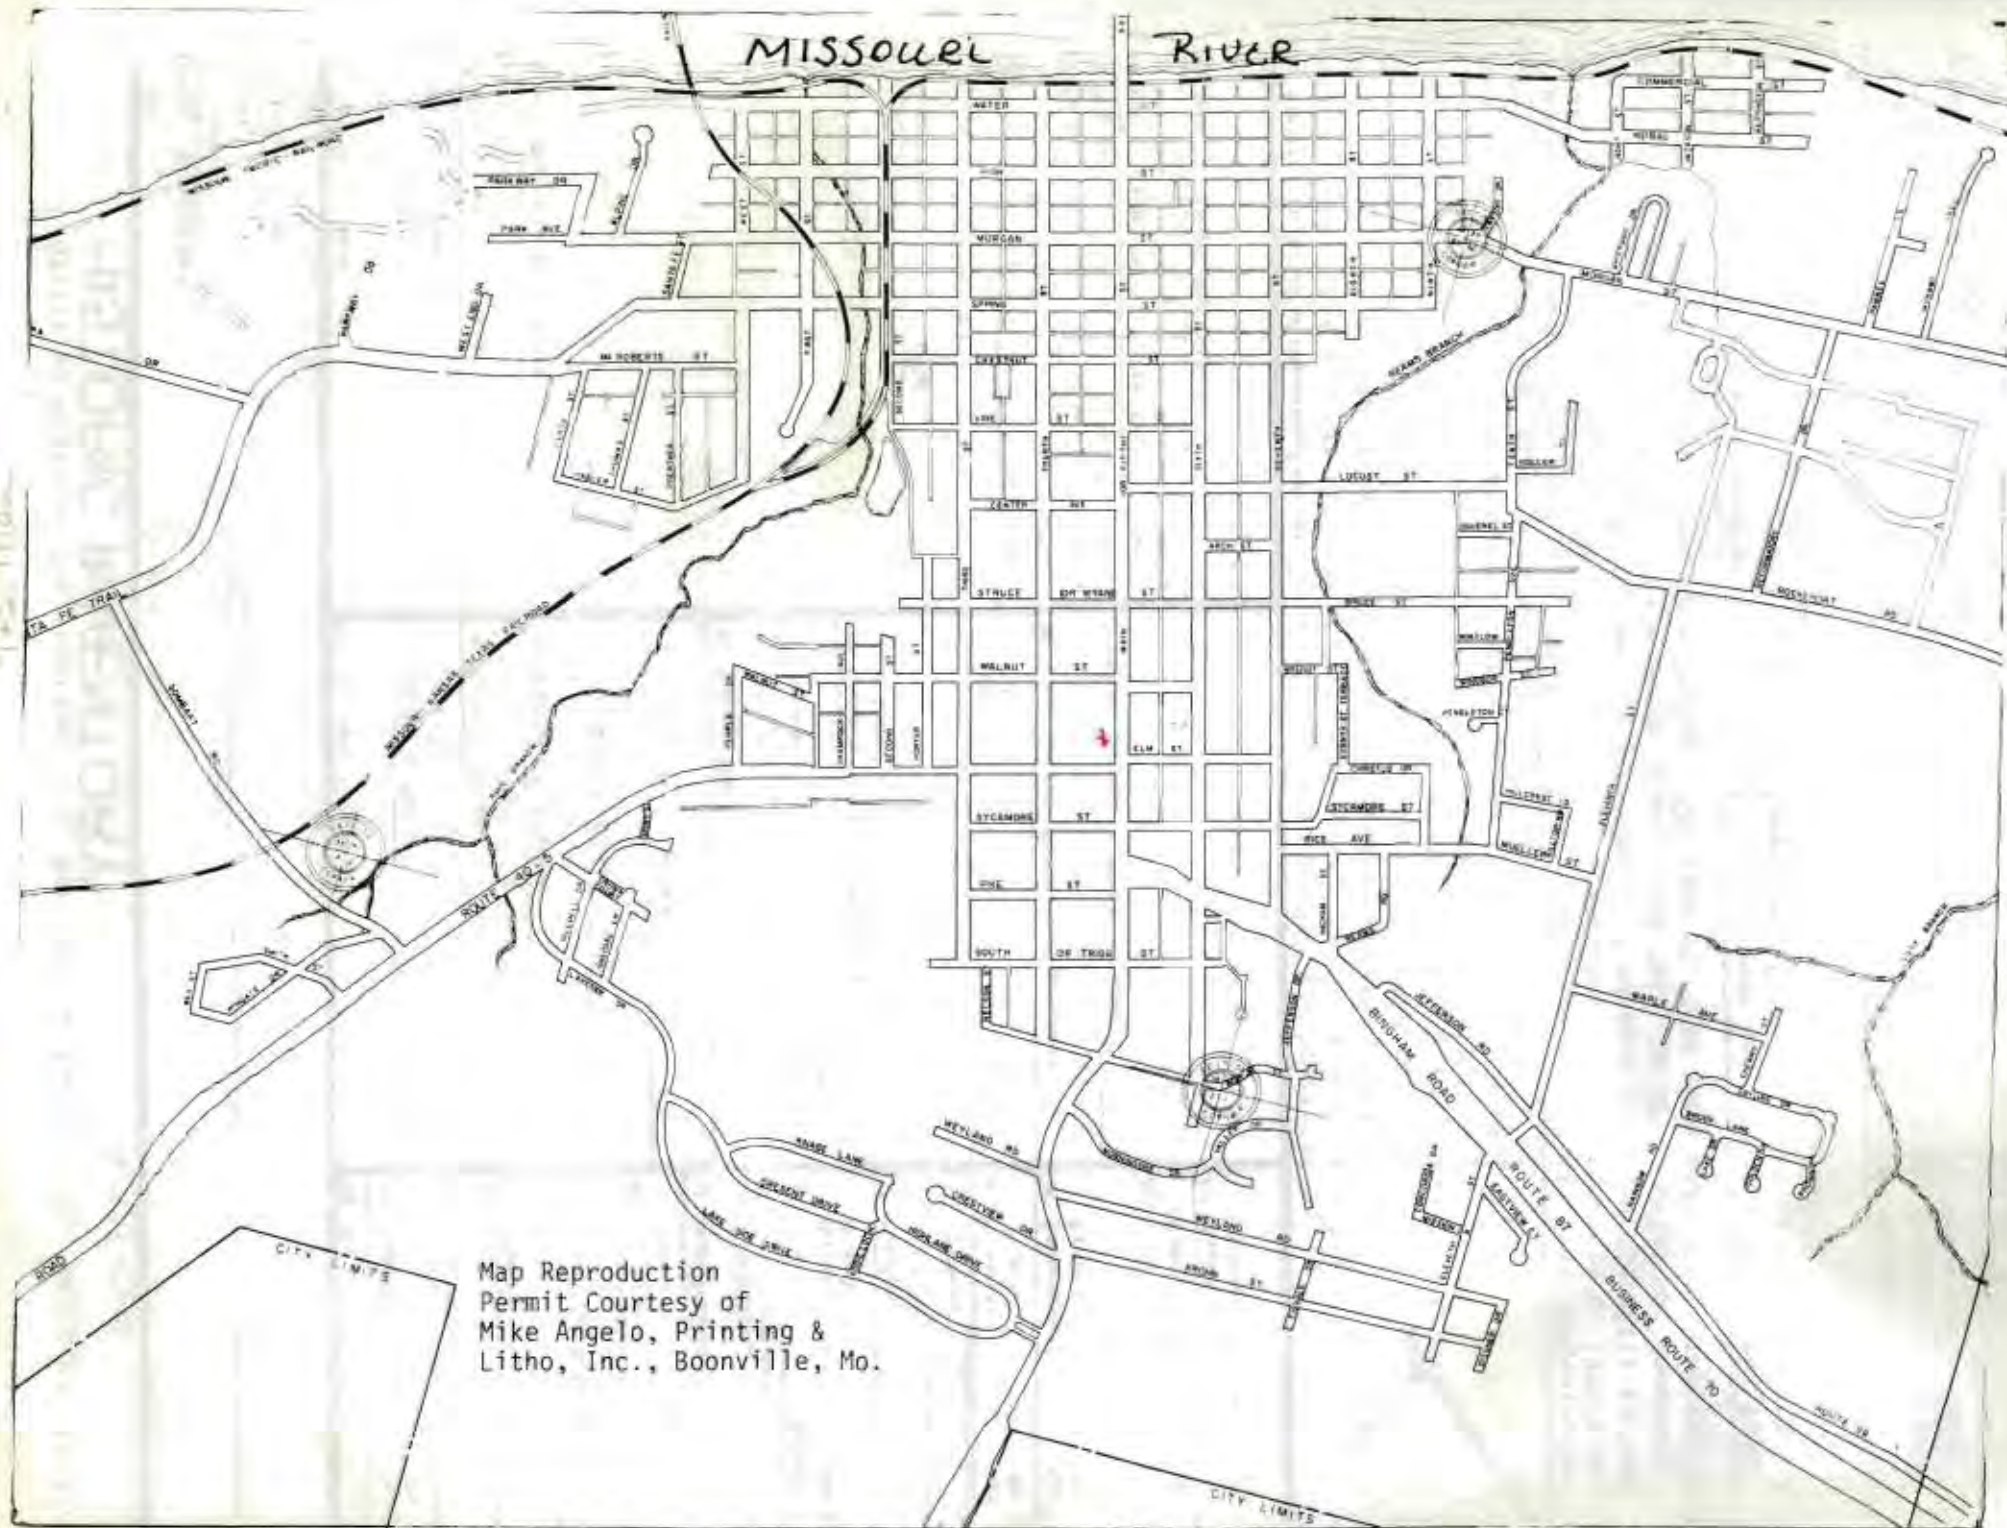

43 History and Significance The structure illustrates the transition period of Greek Revival (plan and entrance) and Italianate (arched openings and polygonal bay). The structure c. 1920's was the residence of O.F. Kelley who became the president and manager of Boonville Mills in 1923. The present owner operated Stephanie's Steak House, 402 Main, in 1968, while her deceased husband, Frank, operated Stephens Meat Market, 209 Main St. that same year. Mrs. Stephens (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces E onto Main Street. Along the front facade is an iron fence. Two ornate cast metal lamp posts flank the walk up to the porch. A stone wall is to the S and an alley is to the W. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) Over this SE corner at the 2nd story level is a later addition, 1 room, which obscures the original fenestration. The NE corner and the S have windows which repeat the arch motif of the primary facade, both at the 2nd. story level. The S facade also has a 1 story polygonal bay. To the W is a 1 story gable addition and several pent additions and porches.

43. (cont.) currently operates an antique shop out of her home. Mrs. Stephens says she has lost her abstract and can relate no history prior to her ownership.

42 Further Description of Important Features The front open porch is supported on 3 square wooden posts on each side. It has a brick ballustrade & a shallow pediment with dentil work and caps a double leaf entrance with transom set in a panelled embrasure. The porch is not original to the structure. Windows are generally 4/4 however some are 1/1 or 6/6. The attenuated openings have straight side arch headers with label stops on the primary facade & segmentally arched soldier course headers (cont.)		Photo
43 History and Significance The house was built ca. 1857-60 by Dr. William H. Trigg, Boonville financier and merchant, as a residence for his daughter, Juliet Trigg Johnson, upon her marriage. In style and detail it is the same as 1307 6th St., which was built for Juliet's twin sister Josephine, except that the 1st story floor plans are reversed. The structure is significant in that it was built by Boonville's wealthiest citizen of the era and is one of a pair of houses that represent the earliest examples of residential Gothic architecture in Boonville. (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Located on a hill, the residence faces W onto Main & sits back from the street with access road in front. A long driveway is to the S side of the house. Steps to the front walk are limestone with carved stone benches on either side. There are no outbuildings.		45 Sources of Information Property Abstract History of Cooper County , Levens and Drake, 1876, p. 101 History of Cooper County , W.F. 42. (cont.) on the other facades. There is a polygonal bay to the N. Two windows on this facade have been bricked in. The bay window on the S was removed and replaced with rectangular paired windows. On each side of the rear ell are 2 gable roof dormers which are very narrow. A N door has been converted to a window. The roof line of the structure is accented by a boxed cornice which has brackets and forms returns at the gable ends. On the S facade is an open porch and entry. A gothic patterned bargeboard embellishes the porch which is supported on 3 octagonal columns. The interior newel repeats this octagonal motif. The staircase and newel are walnut. The floor plan has been altered. Some of the original black walnut woodwork has been retained. Two of four original fireplaces are in working condition. The 2nd story is in near original condition. There is a frame attached pent roofed garage on a stone foundation. It is on the E end of the rear ell.
43. (cont.) The use of segmentally arched window and door openings are among the earliest examples in Boonville. Trigg, a man of means and culture, purchased a large tract of land beyond the southern boundary of the city which became known as "Trigg Hill." On this hill, which is the highest point in the area, Trigg built at least four residences for his children and one for himself. Originally the "twin houses" had grounds landscaped in the Andrew Jackson Downing manner and commanded a fine view of the city to its north. Although the 1304 Main lot has been subdivided in the 1930's, 1307 6th St. still retains the original lot size. From this vantage point General Parsons of the Missouri State Guard surveyed the routing of the State Guard by Federal troops during the first Battle of Boonville, June 17, 1861. The masonry of both structures is believed to have been contracted by Andrew Gantner, a master immigrant brick and stone mason and personal friend of Trigg. Gantner was the only non-family member residing on Trigg hill and his sandstone homestead at 1308 6th St. still survives. Juliet and her husband, William M. Johnson, a prominent Boonville merchant, resided in the structure till 1883 when they moved to their home at 720 6th St.. In 1887 Dr. Trigg sold the house to Nancy Davis, who sold it to John and Josephine Trigg Pigott in 1888. The Pigotts, who had earlier lived in the other twin house, retained ownership till 1895 when it was sold to "Judge" Joseph F. Rutherford, court reporter, Prosecuting Attorney and stand-in Circuit Court Judge. Rutherford is credited with the bricking-in of the two NW windows because "he did not want to view the wicked lights of the city by night." Rutherford sold the residence in 1910 and in 1916 became the successor of Charles Taze Russell, organizer of the Russellites. As leader of this religion he is credited with changing the organization's name to the Jehovah's Witnesses, coining the phrase "millions of people now living will never die", and in furthering their doctrine by writing four books on church philosophy. The next owner, Lafayette Coulter, a supervisor at the telephone company sold the house to Charles W. Powell in 1916. In 1917 William L. Koenig, county collector (1909-15), owner of a local bus and transfer company and the Koenig Auto Sales Company, purchased the house. The next owner, Maude Huckabay, 1919, was foreclosed upon in 1924 and Eugene Windsor and Crockett Hickman became the recipients, possibly converting the house into 3 apartments. In 1927, Lon Wendleton became the owner, made alterations to the house & subdivided the large lot on which he built the 3 houses to the north. The 4 houses were dedicated to the City as Wendleton's Addition in 1928. Also in that year the house was sold to Dr. K.L. Frazier, a local chiropractor. The next owner, Charles T. Babbitt, 1945, was the owner of a large and successful poultry farm near Pilot Grove. In 1946, Hensley Hall, a county extension agent, purchased the house as his residence. The next owner, Thomas J. Miller, President of the National Bank of Boonville, converted the structure back into a one family dwelling, installed a new heating system and lowered the 12 foot ceilings to 10 feet. In 1978 Howard Kelley and his wife Meo, an artist, bought the house. In 1979 James and Tia Higbie bought their "dream house" with the purpose of restoring it to its original opulence. Higbie, past director of Chemical Abuse Rehabilitation and Education (CARE) Inc., 1974-79, and current Director/Historian of the Friends of Historic Boonville's Historic Survey Office, is active in civic affairs being a proponent of issues both popular and controversial. Tia Higbie is currently the Director of the Boonville Planned Parenthood office, a post she has retained since 1979. The structure is significant architecturally on a local level and historically on both a state and local level due to its association with J.F. Rutherford and William Trigg, respectively.

43 History and Significance The structure was the residence of Dr. William H. Trigg, who resided there from before 1869 to 1890. Abstract information indicates that Trigg purchased 3.25 acres to be known as Trigg Hill from his father-in-law's (Jacob Wyan) estate in 1842. This acreage, a high point in Boonville, overlooks the city and was the site of at least five residences built for the Trigg family members. 43. (cont.) Boonville in 1834 and practiced medicine originally. Shortly thereafter he entered into partnership with pioneer merchant, Jacob Wyan. In 1847 he opened the first bank in the city. In 1858, he developed a partnership with J.L. Stephens and James Nelson and the bank became known as W.H. Trigg and Co. til it dissolved during the Civil War. The firm of William H. Trigg and Co., a mercantile firm, developed after 1865 and became the largest business of its type in central Missouri. In 1880 the company erected the building now known as the "Shryack-Givens" building, 515 E. Morgan. In 1890 the residence on Trigg Hill was sold to Anna Lionberger. Subsequent owners have been David C. George, 1895; William C. Scott, 1912; Drury Davis, 1915; Dr. John Barnett, an osteopath, 1915; the First Baptist Church, serving as the Church parsonage, 1926; Grace F. Viertel, as her residence and two apartments, 1930; Augusta M. Farris, 1939; and Marvin and Margaret Greis, 1940. In recent years the present owner, a widow, has placed vinyl siding and has redecorated the entire structure. It is unknown when the one story ell was reduced in size or the veranda decorations were removed.

43 History and Significance The structure was used as a boarding house in 1885. By 1900 a restaurant is listed in the building, and in 1910 and 1917 the building is shown as housing a general store and lunch counter. Lester Sanders operated a cafe here during the 1940's, and in the 1950's "Dutch" Fowler operated a sheet metal shop here. Roy Bridgewater and Lyle Chenault bought out Fowler's business in c. 1963 and operated it as R & L Plumbing, Heating, and Sheet Metal. This business continued through c. 1970. During Fowler's and R. & L. Plumbing's (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the streets at the NE corner of Morgan & 1st. Streets. It faces Morgan Street. There are no outbuildings.

43. (cont.) (operated by Rupert), both of which catered primarily to employees of the nearby shoe factory. The Rennison's purchased the building in 1941 and continued in business there until 1963 when they sold out to Victor Bennett who operated Bennett's Cafe and Bar at this location until c. 1974. He sold the building to Sharon Reed who operated the "Sha-la Inn" there until 1976 when she sold the building to Ed O'Bryan. He continued to operate a bar/restaurant business there and also added a taxi business. In 1979 O'Bryan sold the building to Norma Jean Lenger, the present owner, who operates is as a bar under the name of "Morgan Street Station."

43 History and Significance The structure was listed as a boarding house from 1885 through 1917 and as a hotel in 1929. Prior to 1942 the building was owned by Gene Darby and leased to Jim Ross who ran it as a rooming house/hotel and restaurant. About 1942, the building was purchased by Rupert and Mary Rennison who operated it as the Rennison Hotel until c.1977 when they sold it to Ed O'Bryan who sold it to the present owner, Joe Boggs. It continued to be used as a rooming house until 2/80 when it was extensively damaged by fire.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building sits close to the street facing S onto Morgan St. The rear yard drops off to allow for an exposed basement. There is a large outbuilding to the N.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade is a frame store front with a pent roof porch which extends over the sidewalk and is supported by square wood post. E & W facades have new small windows set into the larger original openings. Ornate holdmolds are projecting brick straight-side segmental arches with labels. There is a brick 1 story addition with a pent roof to the N as well as several additions which are gable roofed and are of corrugated metal.
43 History and Significance Brick section was used as grocery as early as 1885, and remained a store thru 1929 (?) During the 1890's it was known as Miss Preston's Grocery Store. During the 1920's Miss Jess Mitchell continued the operation. The structure sits on the site of the Sandrock Boarding Home, Adolph Sandrock proprietor, 1869.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. The structure faces S onto Morgan St. and sits right on the sidewalk. An open graveled lot is to the W of the structure (past site of RR depot)

42 Further Description of Important Features Built on a piano nobile plan the residence has flat arched soldier course headers, a dentil course with a corbelled string course below, and chimneys and parapets at the gable ends. Windows are 2-over-2; some brick alterations to a main facade window may indicate a change from a door to a window. On the primary facade (S) there are 2 basement entrances. Also on this facade is a raised 1 bay flat roofed frame porch with Eastlake affinities (see attached sheet)		Photo
43 History and Significance As early as 1885 property listed as dwellings. Present tenants A. Williams, H. Jackson, J. Bridgewater Important as example of Piano Nobile plan and Missouri German style. The significance is at a local level.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Structure sits back from Morgan Street, facing S. A brick outbuilding with a gable roof and a segmentally arched rowlock header over the door on the S facade is to the NW of the main structure. 42 Further Description of Important Features Concrete plaster covers the brick foundation. The 1st story is log-cabin half-timber construction. The structure sits at the sidewalk with frame steps leading up to the N entrance which has sidelights. A basement entrance is directly under it. Windows on this facade are 2-over-2 and there is a chimney at the NW corner of the structure. The W facade has an attic window, 1 6-over-6 1st story window, and a basement entrance with a gable cap which is filled with fishscale shingles. (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance The structure is significant as an example of the early piano nobile style. The significance is at a local level. The house was built by Enoch Moss and Azariah B. Bone, a one-time Methodist Minister. Both men were early Pilot Grove area settlers c. 1820 but apparently moved to Boonville in the 1830's. It is unknown whether either man resided in the structure because in 1840 it sold to John Moss, who soon lost it for failure to pay taxes. The next year it was owned by William Shields who sold it when he left to serve a term (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits close to the street facing N onto Morgan St. An alley is to the E. There is a vertical board shed to the rear of the structure.

42. (cont.) The E facade repeats the attic and 1st story windows. The roofline is accented by a boxed cornice.

43. (cont.) in the Missouri Legislature, 1842-44. The house was then purchased, in 1842, by Nancy and Martha Moss. In 1852, Samuel Jackson bought it and in 1854 it was purchased by Daniel Berger. In 1854 Philip Back bought the dwelling for his residence. Back was a co-owner of the Back & Stegner Saloon located on the E side of Main Street between Morgan and Spring Streets in 1869. Following Back's death in 1874 it was willed to his widow, Elizabeth, and later his children, Ernst (City Assesor in 1912) and Emma (1900). Following Emma's death it sold to Frank Mitchell in 1925, who quit his claim to Joseph Memmel later that year. Memmel retained ownership, probably as rental property, until 1939 when it sold to James Stegner. The following year the exterior was renovated by the new owner, Ben Smith, Sr. From this point on both this structure and a brick structure to the rear (built in the late 1850's) served as rental property.

42 Further Description of Important Features The gable runs N & S and the chimneys are at the NW and SW corners of the structure. First story openings all have rowlock, segmentally arched lintels. There is an entrance to the E & W; each has a transom and sidelights. Windows are boarded up, but evidence indicates 6-over-6 lights and frame sills. There are attic windows just below the eaves E (3) and W (2). Basement windows on the W. are also boarded up. Evidence of a raised porch remains to the W. and a line of gabled addition to the S (see attached sheet
43 History and Significance Used as a residence, the structure at one time had an addition to the S which was used as an ice house. The structure was probably built by Philip Back who resided at 210 E. Morgan. He was co-owner of the Back & Stegner Saloon. An assumption is made that both the ice house (since razed) and the cellar were used to store ice and spirits to be sold at the saloon. The structure has had a close relationship since its beginnings with 210 E. Morgan, having never been divided from it. Oral history indicates that when the structure (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure seems to face W, originally onto 2nd. St. however the Swift Building now blocks its view. It sits on the NW corner of the alleys between Morgan and Spring and between 2nd and 3rd. Streets, and behind 210 E. Morgan St. There are no outbuildings.

Windows are 2-over-2 and trabeated. The porch on the N has a pent roof, rest on concrete block piers with lattice skirting, and has a concrete stoop. The basement is partially raised; the brick is exposed on the E. Extending to the S is a 2 section gabled brick ell. To its E is a pent porch with 2 entrances; to its W is a pent (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance Property Abstract indicates that 226 E. Morgan lot and 2 others were purchased in 1837 by Charles Rector for $260 and that the single lot where 226 E. Morgan is located was sold in 1838 for $1000. This would seem to indicate that a structure was erected in that year. In 1838 it was purchased by Nathaniel Mack, a merchant and developer, and may have been his residence prior to the building of his home on Main Street. Subsequent owners have been Elisha W. Brown, 1840; Henry C. Cope, 1865; George Hardcastle, a dry goods merchant, for (cont.)

42. (cont.) same corner. This ell has a paired window with a rowlock header to the S; on its E and W facades the windows have segmentally arched windows with rowlock headers. There is a 2 story brick and frame ell to the NW and a 2 story frame porch on the NE. To the W is a raised frame porch and entrance to 3 apartments. This entrance is marked as 214 3rd St. The structure was converted from a single family dwelling into apartments c. 1941 under the ownership of Ben Smith, Sr. The SW corner of the living room was expanded some 6 or 8 feet by the present owner, Raymond Knabe.
43. (cont.) D. Holman and sold in 1883 to Dr. John B. Holman, who served in the Boonville Home Guards as a surgeon. Subsequent owners are Henry Nicol, 1888; Helen Nicol, 1911; the Skinner sisters, 1918; Jack Brott, 1940; Ben Smith, Sr, 1941 and Dora Knabe, 1952. Present tenants are M. Degraffenreid, W. Hein, C. Schrader, L. Jennings. In 1912, W.H. Thomas, a ferry boat pilot resided at this location as a renter.

43 History and Significance

304, 308 and 312 E Morgan are architecturally alike in plan and style. The orientation has been changed for this structure. This structure and 308 and 312 E. Morgan Street were built in the 1890's by Colonel John and Laura Speed Elliot, for speculative purposes. Mr. Elliot was also involved in supplying the M.K.&T. Railroad with railroad ties, organizing and presiding over the Commercial Bank, and developed and presided over the Boonville Water Works.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment, has a stone wall to the front and faces N onto E. Morgan. The yard rises sharply to the S. There are no outbuildings. There is an alley to the S.

42. (cont.) balustrade over the 1st. story enclosed porch. The E. & W. gable roof lines have been altered to jerkinhead gables. Under the projecting ell to the NW the ground has been removed and a garage has been added. It has an overhead door. Windows are 1-over-1, some are attenuated, the larger ones have shutters. A scallop frieze and turned balustrade are retained on the front (NE) porch, as well as an ornate Eastlake interior entrance door and millwork. Alterations include interior changes to form 2 upstairs apartments.

43 History and Significance The Kiwanis Pool was built to serve the needs of the community and was in active operation until 1977 when it was closed due to its poor filtration system. The present owners plan to raze the pool and locker rooms to expand their lumberyard. Historically the site contained a wagon and paint shop which was in existence until 1885. Around 1892 M. Zimmerman operated a wagon manufacturing company in conjunction with a blacksmith shop.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building faces E. The concrete pool and patio area is to the E. To the N is a grass area with a pent roofed patio cover, constructed of wood posts set in concrete footings. There is an alley to the W.

42 Further Description of Important Features An end chimney (E) and returns accent the gable ends E & W. The primary facade's 2nd. story has 3 bays originally having 6-over-6. The 1st story has an aluminum awning supported on wrought iron columns and a concrete slab extending across this facade. There are 3 6-over-6 windows and a W bay entrance. Extending to the N, E bay, is a 2 story gable ell. It is 3 bays deep, has 2-over-2 windows and 2 story porches and entrances on its W facade. The W bay of this N facade has a pent, (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance Structure was converted to 2 apartments in the early 1900's. On the 1st there is a 3 room apartment, the 2nd. floor has 4 rooms.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the sidewalk facing S onto Morgan. There are no outbuildings. An alley is to the E & N.

42. (cont.) 2 story addition.

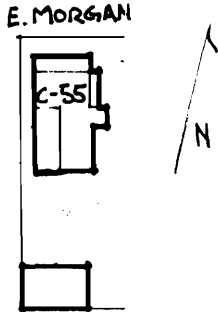

On the interior the entrance leads to a central hall with a plain stair and newel. (Steps to the basement have access from this hall.) There is a 6 panel door to the 1st story apartment. Both levels have a fireplace E end with built in closets or cupboards flanking it which are later additions. The 2nd story Greek Revival mantel is intact. The rear ell is at a different level; there is a step down into it. A chimney divides the 2 rooms with a Greek Revival mantel on the S side of the dividing wall and a stove flue on the N side. Baths are in the pent addition.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is accented by gable end raking parapets with end corbelling, shuttered windows with flat arched lintels, and a 1 story front porch which extends across the 2 entrances. The primary entrance has a pediment and sidelights. The later porch (1920's) has square brick columns and an iron railing. The E facade has a balcony with iron railings and a square tower type structure. It has a coal chute and brick dentil and sawtooth ornamentation. Side windows have segmentally arched headers. An ell to the rear repeats the tower motifs. (cont.)

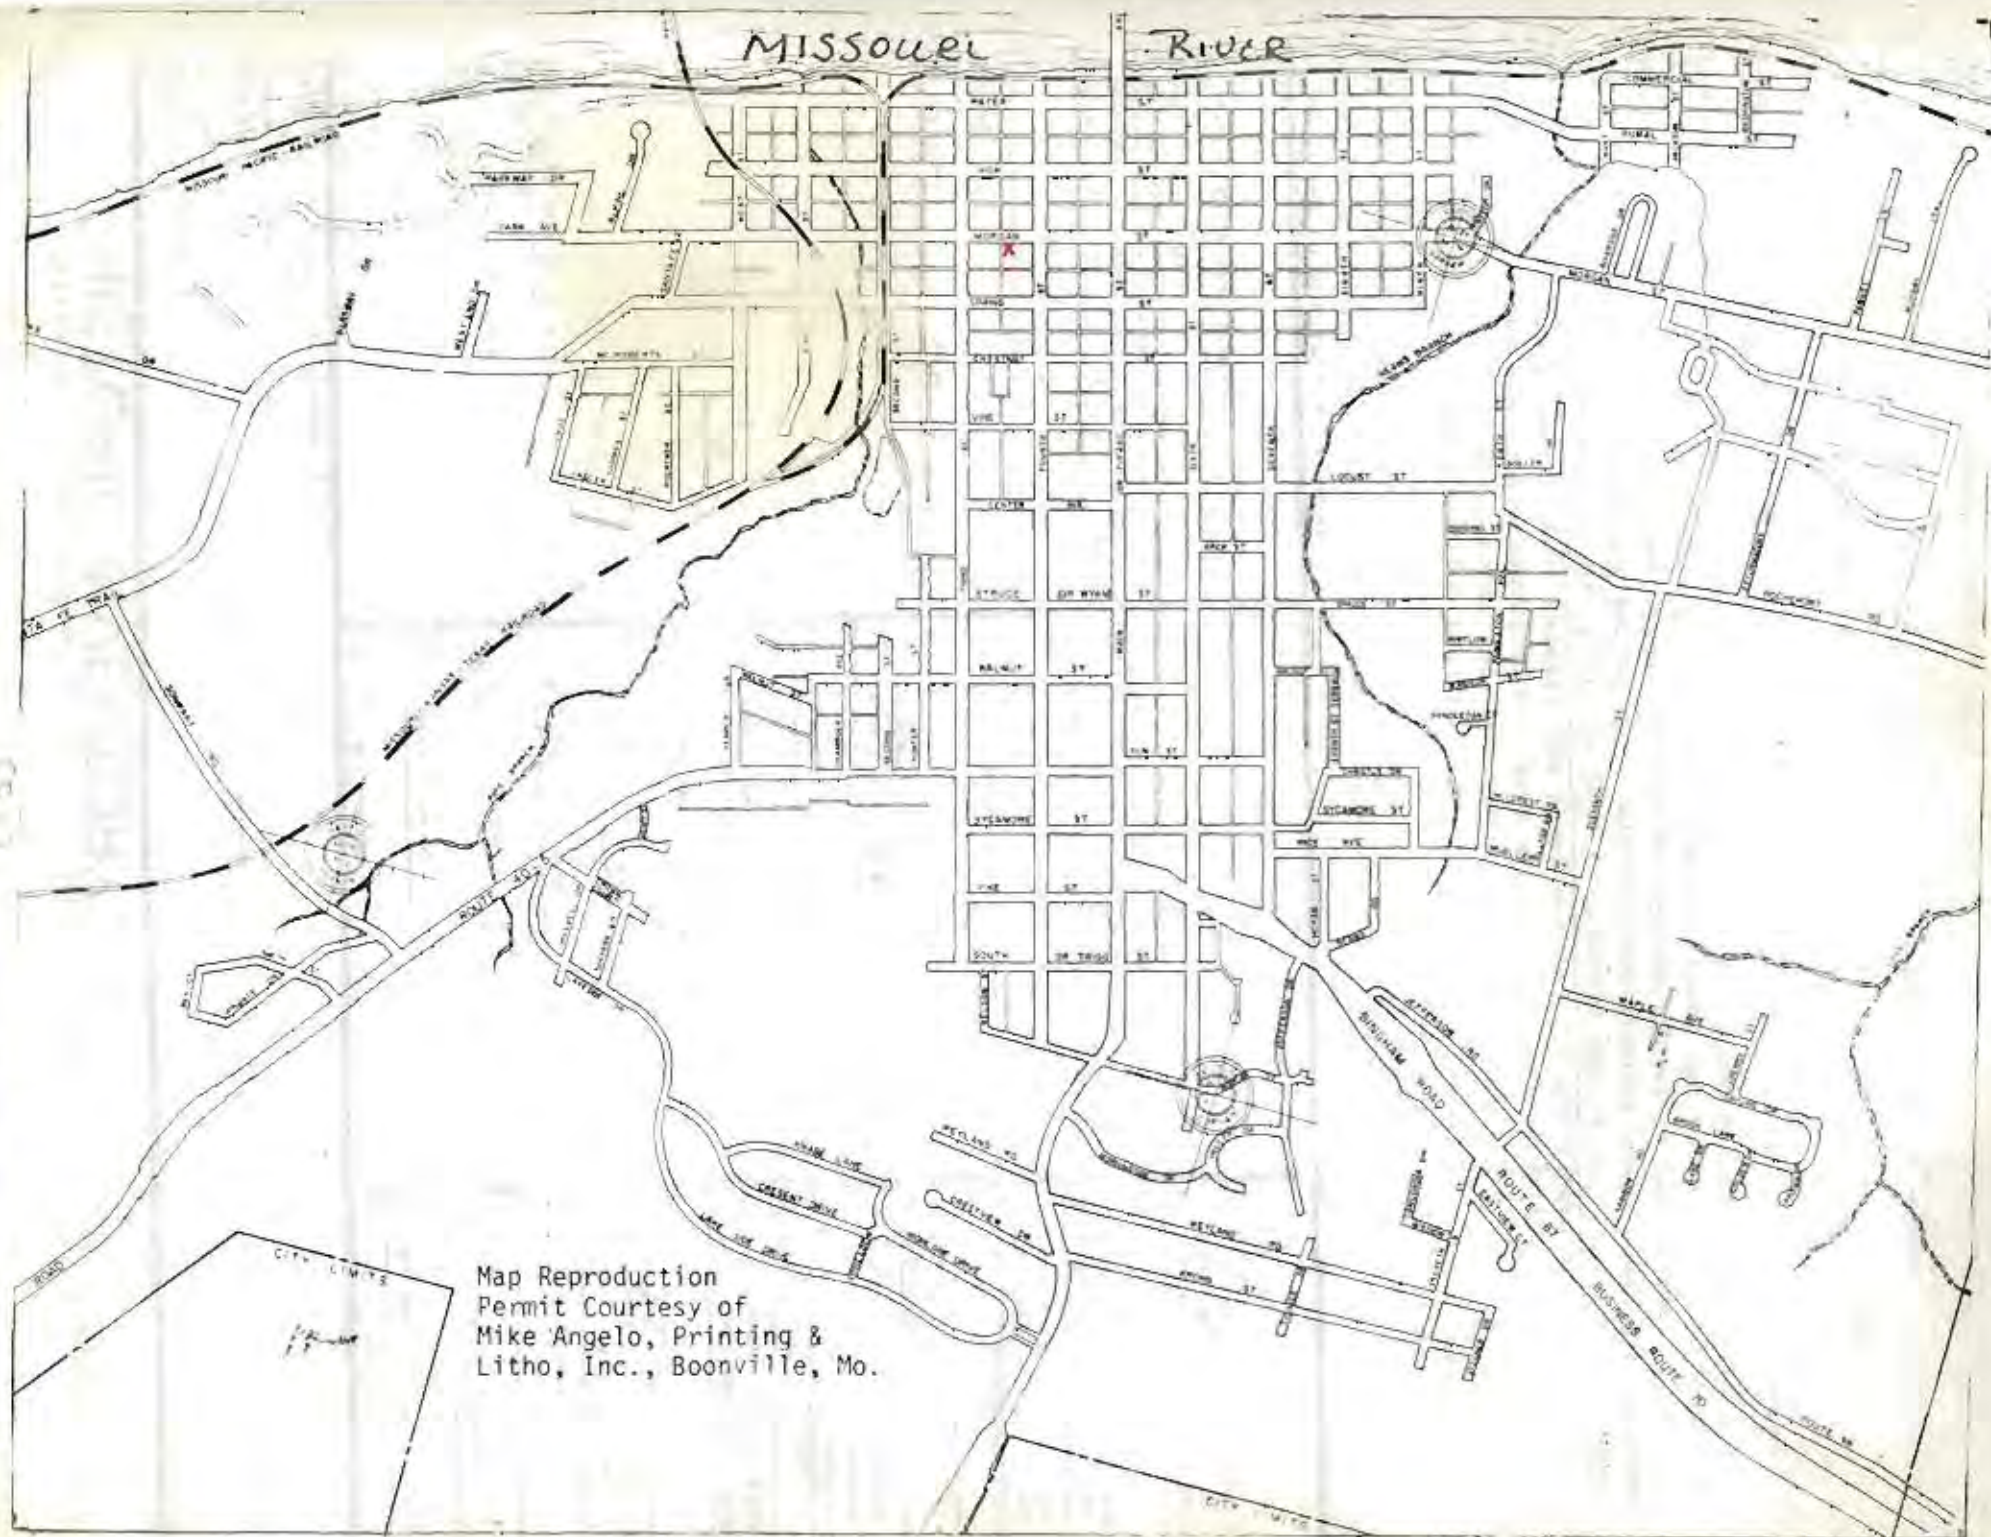

43 History and Significance The dwelling was built by John T. Thornton who is believed to have been present in Howard County during the War of 1812, and may have been an early Boonville merchant. Subsequent owners are: Robert Perry, 1849; Pauline and George Miller, a contractor, 1867; Dr. Roy H. Ellis, a dentist, 1903; Harry Ruskin, a Russian emigrant who operated Ruskin's Grocery Store, 1920; Herman W. Bueker, a carpenter and contractor, 1937; Ben N. Smith, Sr., (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N on Morgan St. and sits on an embankment with a retaining wall to the N & W. There are alleys to the S & W. To the S is a 3 car garage built of molded concrete block with a flat roof and set into the hillside

42. (cont.) To the W of this ell is a 2 story frame addition. It has a side entrance and and patio, and a 1 story section which may have been a porch originally. There is a distinct break in the brickwork from front to back and it appears to be 2 separate structure which have been joined together.
43. (cont.) an abstractor, who rented out the structure, 1946; Arthur Putnam, an abstractor, 1946. During the ownership of Harry Ruskin, the front facade was altered somewhat and the front porch was added. In 1937, Herman Bueker converted the dwelling into 3 apartments. The present owners have made extensive interior changes in developing the house to their tastes. This includes the development of a 3 room art studio and gallery and a 3 room apartment on the second floor with separate entrances and a private stairway. The original house, which was built into a hill, had a formal parlor and entrance hall on the first floor. Dividing the first floor was a breezeway connecting to the kitchen and cellar. The main dining room was upstairs and servants carried food to the upstairs by way of stairs on an "L" shaped two story porch extending on the west side of the house. The bedrooms and sitting quarters were all upstairs. The east side of the dwelling has an interesting brick firewall and design which was the type of brick work done at Williamsburg, Va. Also, the wrought iron balcony on the east side of the dwelling existed from the time the house was built. The front of the house was surrounded by a quarried limestone wall and had a five foot iron fence with gate at the flared front steps. The original house did not have a front porch but only a stoop at the front door.

42 Further Description of Important Features
The building has hip dormers to each facade and a wide frieze and architrave. The windows are attenuated 2-over-2 and have heavy stone lintels and sills. A 1 story porch extends across the N &amp; W facades and wraps around the NE &amp; SW corners. Built on a molded concrete block foundation, it has a molded concrete block balustrade, doric columns, a wide entablature and a flat roof. It affords protection to the primary entrance (NW bay) which has side lights and is now enclosed by a frame (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance Built originally as a 3½ story hotel which sat on a high embankment, the structure was truncated and additions to the SW were removed by W.J. Cochran when he renovated the building into his private residence c. 1909. Brick from the top story as well as materials from the interior, which he gutted, were used to build 4 structures on the same lot which face 4th. Street. The lot was graded and the porch was added. Oral history indicates that the hotel was the headquarters for the Union Troops during the Battle of Boonville.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an embankment with a stone retaining wall and faces N onto Morgan. There is an alley to the E & S. The only outbuilding still extant is a 2 story brick structure with a corbelled stepped parapet to each facade and garage door openings to the E & W. Openings have segmentally (see attached sheet)

42 Further Description of Important Features The 1st story originally contained 2 storefronts. This has been altered (E to W) into an apartment and office, and stairs leading to the upper stories, however the large display windows and doors with transoms remain. The 2nd story has a frame 3 bay balcony. Bi-chromatic paint accents this balcony and the cast iron pilasters and details of the 1st story. Windows on the 2nd story & the corner windows of the 3rd story have ornate straight side arched hood molds. The central 3 bays of the 3rd story (cont.)

43 History and Significance The structure was built in 1882 allegedly by W.J. Cochran for James C. Macurdy. Macurdy, born in 1837 in Ohio, was a well known early professional portrait and landscape photographer. During the Civil War he was engaged by the Federal Government to accompany the army as an official photographer. In 1868 he arrived in Boonville and opened up a photography studio on Main St. A second location during the 1870's may be on the site of the present building. Macurdy operated out of his last studio between the years 1882 to 1888. A description (cont.)

42. (cont.) were originally filled with a large glass skylight; they have since been filled in with brick and 3 rectangular windows. These have no headers, but repeat the bracketed sills of the other windows. A brick parapet with a sawtooth pattern now caps the structure. Originally each end bay had a mansard roof with a round arched dormer. Windows to the W and S are 2-over-2 with segmentally arched headers. There is a frame 2nd story balcony to the S. The ornamental ironwork on the front facade was manufactured by J. Christopher and Co., St. Louis, Mo.
43. (cont.) in 1883 relates: "Recently he has erected a handsome art gallery and photograph building, which for size, beauty of appearance and elegance of finish is not surpassed in the state, and will compare favorably with the finest structures of the kind in the whole country. From its spacious and superbly appointed entrance room on the first floor to the handsome skylight apartment above, including a suite of elegant and richly furnished parlors, it is a perfect triumph of art, beauty and good taste. Certainly the citizens of Boonville owe to the enterprise of Mr. Macurdy no ordinary debt of gratitude for this handsome ornament to their city. If others would show the same degree of ability and enterprise in their respective callings, Boonville could justly claim to be one of the most beautiful cities in the country." Following Macurdy's mortgage default in 1888 the building was owned by numerous people through the years, none of whom were photographers. It is believed that a Mr. Hughs operated a photography business following Macurdy, however no record other than the finding of 'Hugh's Photography' stamped under the wallpaper of the second floor has ever been found. In 1900 Frank Truby was utilizing the building as his studio and shop. Truby is well known for his photographic study of Boonville's new houses and streetscapes of Main Street published in the 1900 souvenir publication, Vine Clad City. In 1916 William L. Tanner leased the studio for 'the Tanner Studio' which was in existence till a fire devastated the north light photography area in 1919. Shortly thereafter the fourth story was removed as was the northlight photography area and a new roof was added. At this time a third story apartment appeared and the second story became the law office of Whit Draffen. A second story apartment was added in 1945 by George Reese-man as was the east first story apartment in the 1960's. Historically, the first story has been the site of many businesses other than those related to photography, among which have been: telegraph office, restaurants, beauty shops, alteration shop, osteopath office, "Old Trails Antique Shop," "Corbin's Shoe Repair," "The Knot Shop." The Historic Survey Office is currently located in the west first story unit. The present owner purchased the building in 1977 from Dale Reese-man and has personally renovated with sympathy all three rental units.

43 History and Significance The structure sits on the site of a 2 story building listed as a cabinet shop and as "old" in 1885. Originally the SE section was divided off as a jewelry store; <sup>1</sup> the remaining L-shaped area was a dry goods store. <sup>2</sup> This continued through 1900 when a barber shop was also in the building. By 1910, the dry goods business used the whole structure. Through the ensuing years the Cambell building has been the location of the following (cont.)		27 Other Surveys in Which Included

43 History and Significance Originally part of a 3 store, 2 story hip roof structure housing 505-07 -09 with a meat market in 1885. In 1892, a jewelry store was housed in this building. At the turn of the century a cigar factory was located here and a 1 story addition was built to the rear. In 1910 an undertaker had the 1st story and a tailor was on the 2nd. story. In 1929, it was listed as "Pressing." From the early 1940's to 1974 Alfred Lammers Barber Shop was at this address. Present owner has been here since 1974.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto E. Morgan Street.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary (S) facade has been altered as well as the roof line. The boxed cornice is probably original. The 2nd. story now has paired windows E & W and a single center entrance; all are 1-over-1 with double rowlock, segmentally arched headers. The 1st story now has large metal and glass panels and the transoms are enclosed. There are 2 entrances. The N facade has a 2 story gable ell as the E bay with pent addition on the ell's W. E & W walls are common walls; to the E is a gable parapet.

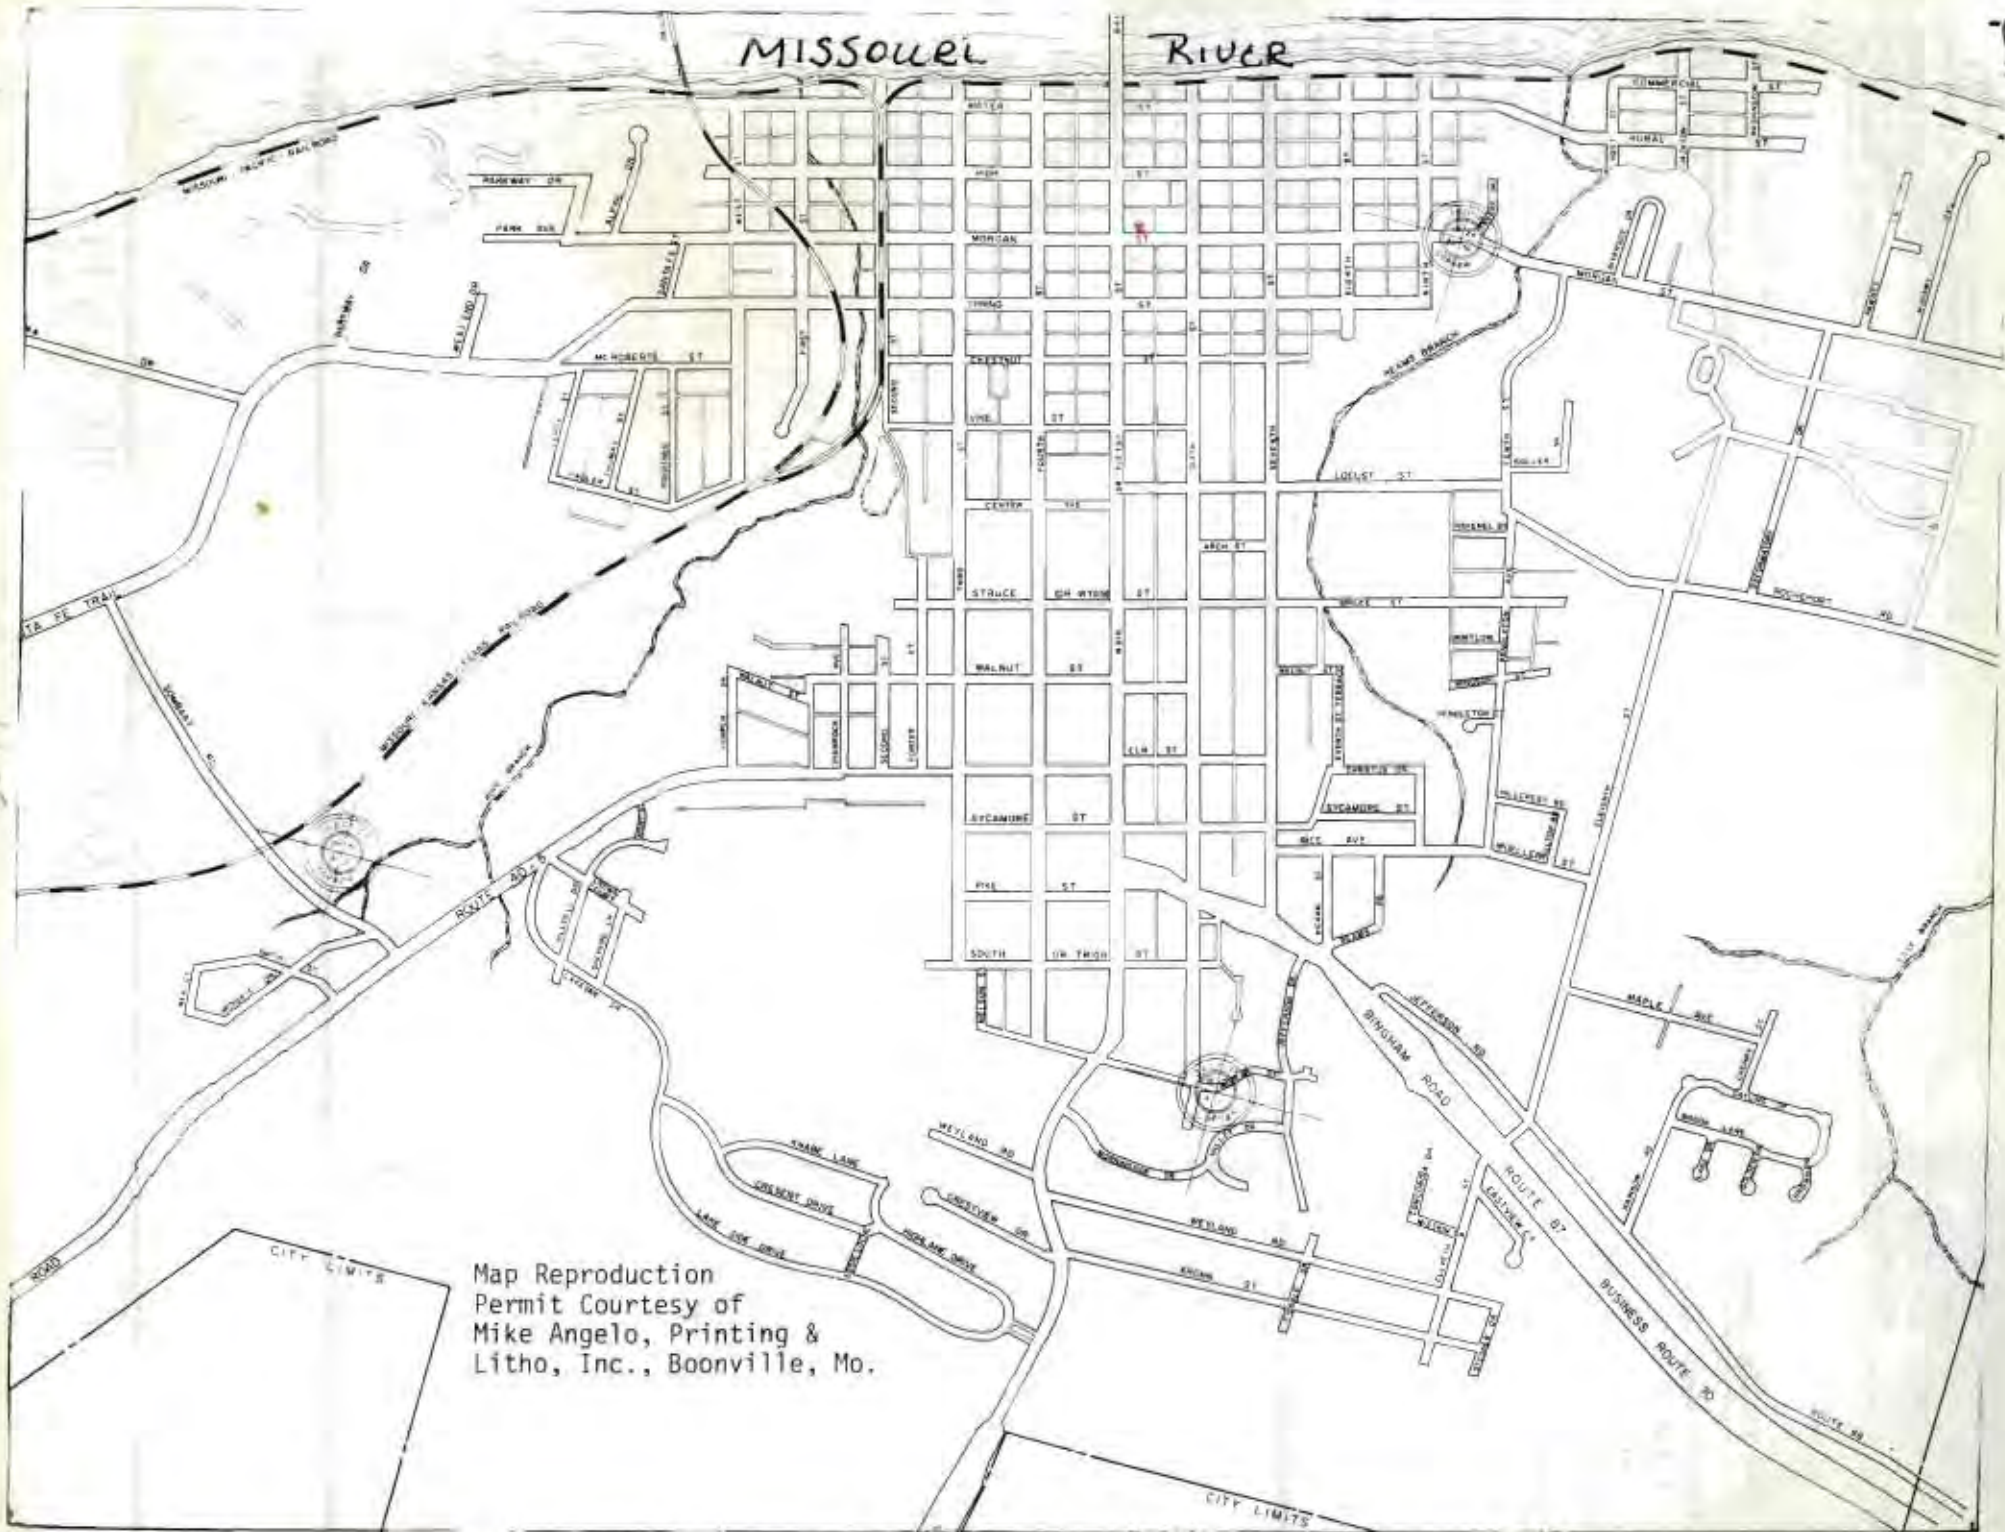

43 History and Significance The original structure had a hip roof and consisted of 3 storefronts (505-07-09). The 2nd. story openings had 1-over-1 windows with slightly pedimented stone lintels with a block motif at the ends. In 1885 a millinery (507) and a drug store<sup>1</sup> (509 and addition to rear) were in the building. Changing by 1892 a Chinese laundry was in the W section and a paint and oil store was on the 2nd story. The drug store continued in 509, and the pent addition was built. The drug store continued til c 1910. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces onto Morgan Street. Court Street and a gravel parking area is to the N.

43. (cont.) By 1917 it was a        a clothing store.<sup>2</sup>

At the 507 location between the 1890's and the 1930's (except for 1900 when a fruit store made a brief appearance) a succession of restaurants were being operated by Charles Heiberger, Mr. O'Neal and J.Q. Hull (c. 1912) respectively. In 1928 this was the site of the Payne Brothers Florist Shop, but by the 1940's the Jones Shoe Shop was operating here. Prior to 1968 Russell Hanna had opened the Hannah's Bookkeeping Service. In the 1970's the address was incorporated into 509 Morgan by Charles Malone for the Malone & Korte C.P.A. firm.

These 2-over-2 windows have stone sills and pedimented lintels which end in a block motif. An early photograph indicates the windows were originally 9-over-6 and the 3 bays were repeated on the 1st story with the same pedimented stone lintels. This 1st story has been altered and now has 2 entrances inset as the W bay. Both have transoms. A large window with black carrara glass is the E bay. A metal awning extends (see attachment)

43 History and Significance The structure is listed as a Cigar Factory in 1885. By 1892 it had changed to a Millinery.<sup>1</sup> It continued in business there at least till 1910. In 1917 it is listed as a Tailor with a 1 story building to the rear which was iron clad and did "chemical cleaning." It changed again and was listed as vulcanizing in 1929. This business was the Farris Tire Co.. During the 1930's a beauty parlor and Morris Johnson's Shoe Store were operating at this location. The building was purchased in the 1940's by Dr. K.L. Frasier who (cont.)

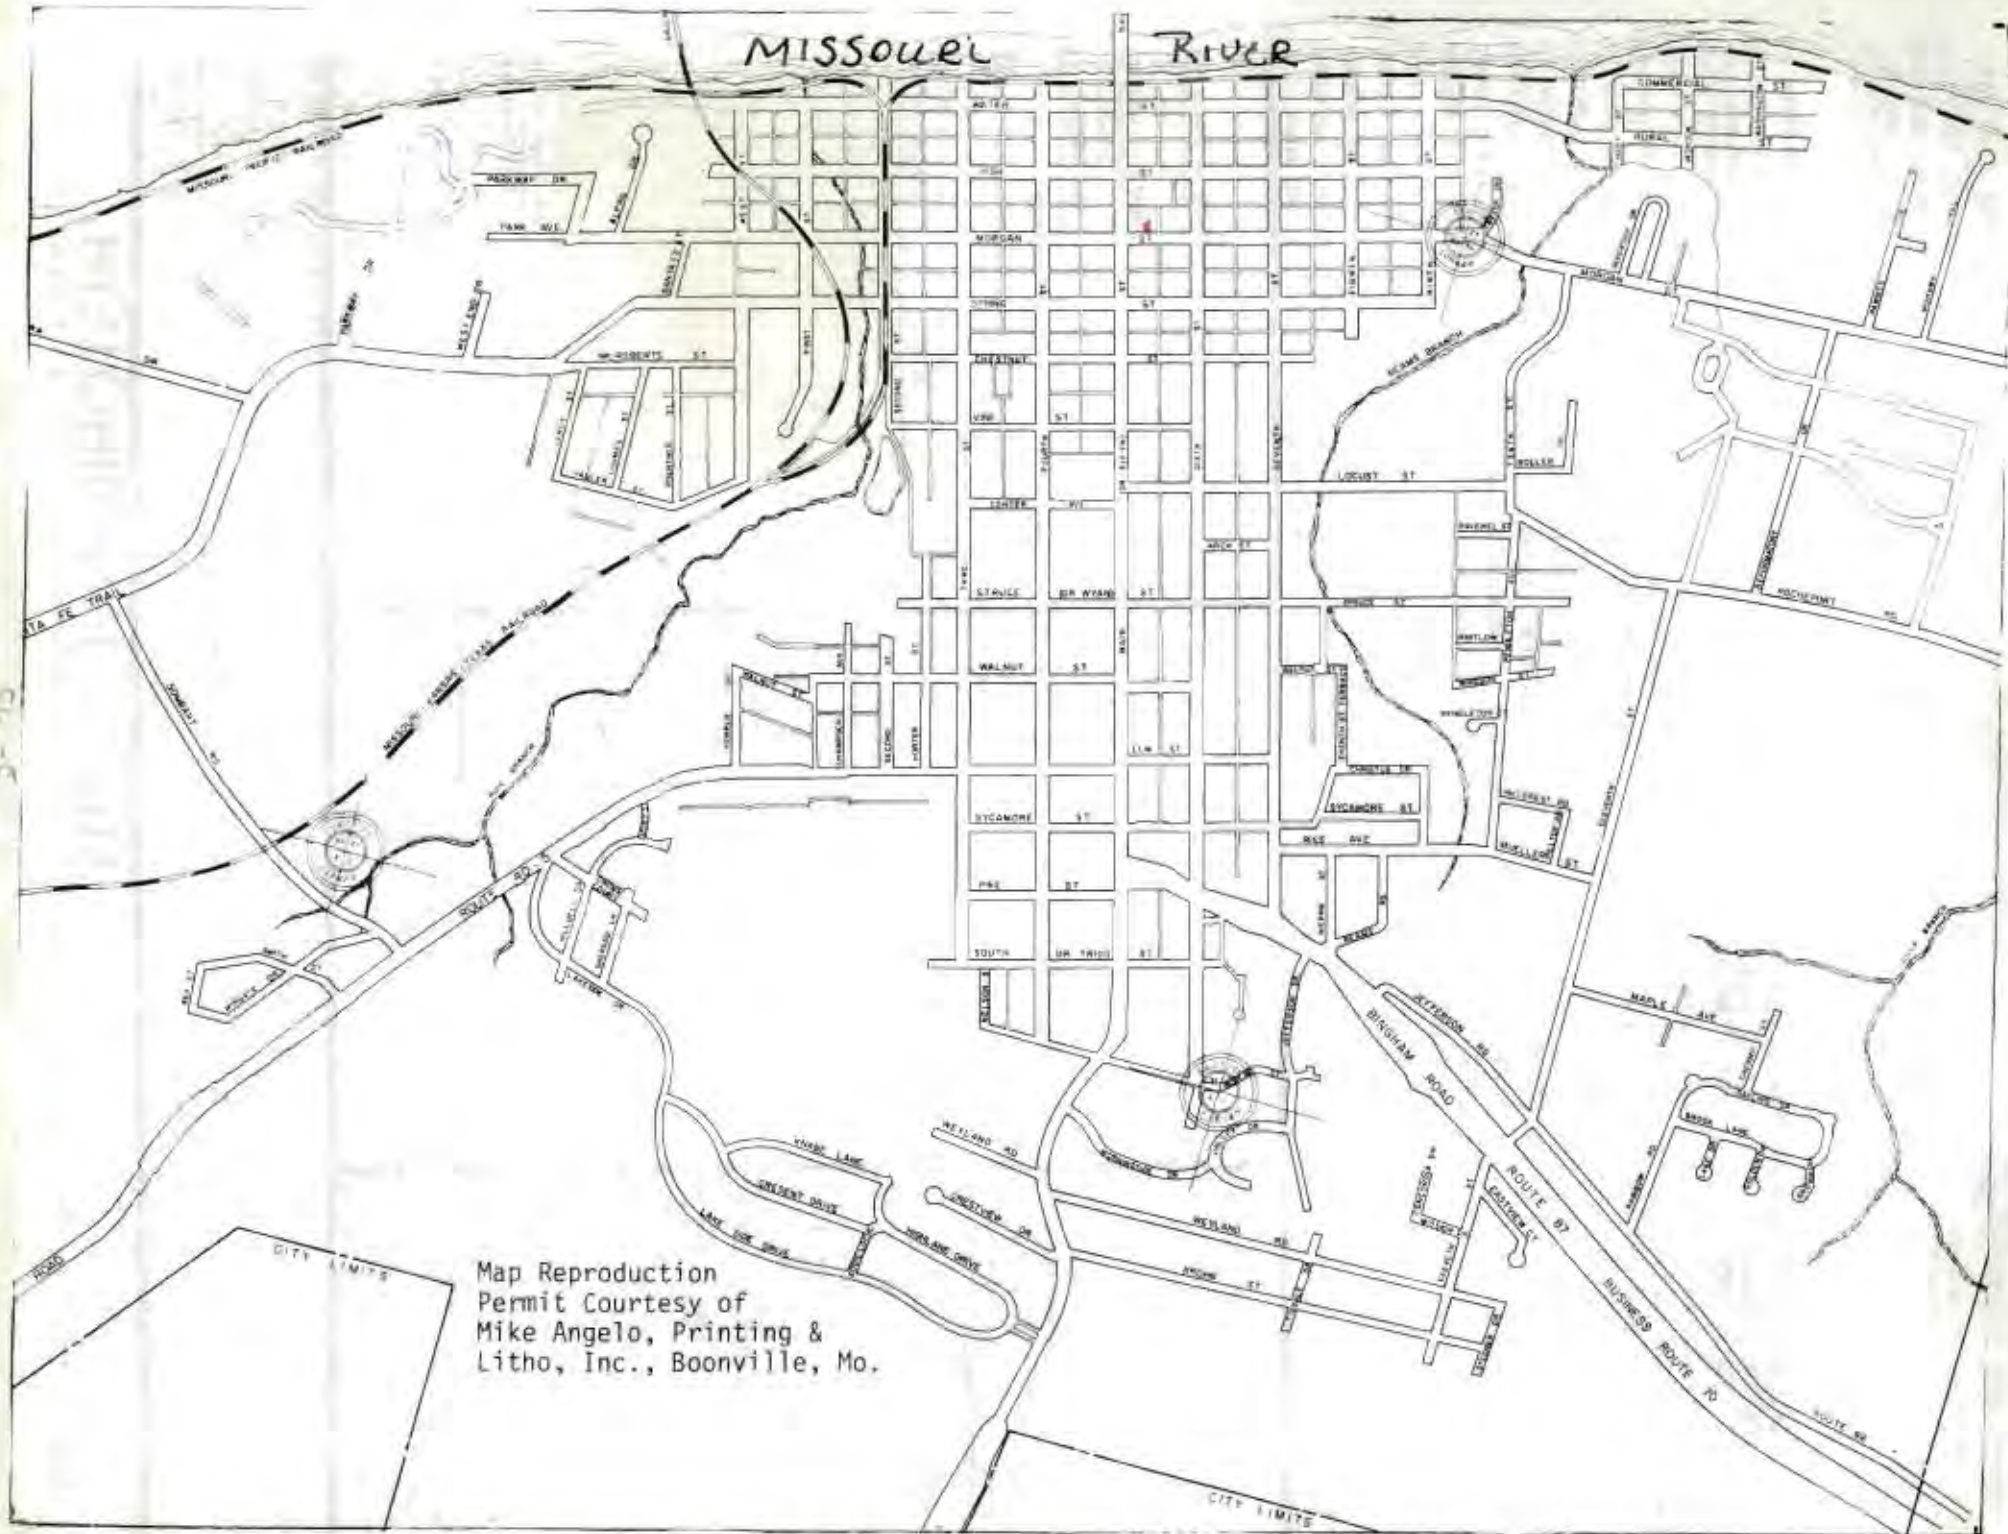

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto E. Morgan. A gravel parking area and Court Street are to the N. A narrow walkway is to the E and separates 513 & 515 E. Morgan

43 History and Significance The structure is listed as a dwelling. 1885 to 1900, when it changed to office space. In the early 1920's until the 1940's the building was the site of Jenry Taxi Company. The building was later purchased by Bill Snapp of Western Auto for storage. The structure has erroneously been called "the first brick building in Boonville" and for many years carried a sign to this effect. The structure has had a close association with 516 E. Morgan and was probably a slave or servant's quarters for that house.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the street facing N onto Main. There are no outbuildings. To the E a brick gateway connects 516 & 514 E. Morgan.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure's primary facade (S) has an ornate projecting metal cornice with a corbelled cornice immediately below it. The 6 bays of the 2nd story are set off by brick pilasters with stone caps. The windows are 2-over-2 with segmentally arched headers. The 1st story is accented by a large metal beam, cast metal pilasters at the corners, a panelled inset entrance and large storefront windows. Panels have been added across the top of this area to obscure the new deck which was added in 1975. The E&W facades repeat the (cont.)

43 History and Significance The building was constructed by the W.J. Cochran Construction Co. c. 1880 for Dr. W.H. Trigg, prominent early businessman (see form O-37, 1314 Main St., for biography) and was originally a mercantile store (considered the first department store in the mid-Missouri area). Before the building was built there was a marble and granite works on the site. The building sat back 50 or 60 feet from the sidewalk and a Mr. Bedwell was the owner. When Trigg's company dissolved the building was occupied by the H.T. Hudson harness and saddle shop. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto Morgan Street. An alley is to the E and a narrow walkway is to the W. The N facade faces onto Court Street and the Court House. There are no outbuildings.

The 2nd story has 4-over-4 windows in a 5 bay pattern. They are attenuated and have stone sills. The 5 bay 1st story has a single leaf entrance and a double leaf entrance with a large transom. Some windows have iron bar grillwork. This facade has a sign painted on the brick surface between floors which reads "Newton's Fidelity Flour." To the W (2nd story) is a "Coca-Cola 5¢" sign and a "Wrigley's Doublemint" sign (1st story). The interior retains a large walnut staircase and corinthian columns of cast metal through the center of the structure. New office space is to the S, 1st floor. The structure was rehabilitated in 1975 with careful attention to retaining the exterior details and style. Rehabilitation cost was less than $2.00 per sq. foot.

43. (cont.) H.T. Hudson and Robert Burge established the Boonville Mercantile Co. in 1906 and moved to their new location at 501 Main St. The Sahm Shoe Co. then moved into this building from their long time location at 316 Main St. By 1910 Hirsch Wholesale Grocery was in the building. This business later changed to Shryack-Givens Grocery Co. The present owners purchased the building in 1975 after leasing it for many years.

43 History and Significance The structure is significant to Boonville in that it was an early hotel and has served the community in this capacity for over 100 years. The first county history, by Levens and Drake, erroneously states that this structure was built by Asa Morgan and is the oldest brick structure in town. Melton, in his history of the county continues the mistake but relates the story to 514 E Morgan, one door to the west. The brick structure cannot be the home of Asa Morgan, the co-founder of Boonville, since Morgan died in 1822 and this lot and (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on the sidewalk. An alley is to the E. The structure is connected to 514 Morgan by a breezeway. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) to a 2nd story entrance on the S facade. The molded cornice is repeated on this facade.

43. (cont.) others were donated to the County Commissioners to be sold by them to ensure Boonville being the county seat of Cooper County. A lot with such a structure present would not have been donated to the commissioners and sold by them in 1821 to David Jones for $160.00. A notation, however, on the obverse of a historic photograph in the Missouri Historical Society which pictures a portion of a log cabin that was allegedly behind the brick structure state: "log cabin of Asa Morgan - Daniel Boone spent most of one winter here during his last hunting trip in the Boonslick." An association between the two structures lying on the same lot may account for the historic inaccuracies.

Abstract information indicates that David Jones did not build the original portion of the brick structure because he sold the E half of the lot on which the structure would later stand for $90.00. The next owner, James Dow, is credited by us as being the builder between the years c. 1828-1845.<sup>1</sup> In 1869 the structure sold to Charles Force and the City Directory of that year indicates that he was residing within and operating the "Star Boarding Home" at this location.

In 1879 the structure was sold to Julius Sombart, owner of the Boonville Mills, who undoubtedly leased the building out to an unknown hotel keeper. During this period, a Dr. Miles had his office located at this site.

In 1888 it was sold to Andrew Hosp who resided in the structure till 1919. In 1906 the hotel was operated by Ben Powell. During the last years of Hosp's life it was operated as the Grey Hotel by a Mrs. Grey. It remained under that name through the ownerships of Clement Sims (1919), Mary McMahan (1920) and Horace D. Quigg (1922).

In 1945 the structure sold to A.H. and Ruby Burkhart and the building was operated as the Boonville Nursing Home. In 1956 it sold to Henry Fuser and leased to Martha Jobe, and operated under the name of Boonville Boarding Home. In 1975 Jobe purchased the structure but lost it due to foreclosure in 1979. The present owner, who owns and operates Western Auto, purchased it at that time.

NOTE to Item #43: <sup>1</sup>The smaller structure at 514 E. Morgan may have been an associated slave house, but nothing to this effect is mentioned in the abstract.

43 History and Significance A dwelling was on this site from at least 1885 until the present building was erected in the 1930's by Gilbert Haller. In 1916 this residence (also listed as 518 Morgan) was occupied by Frank M. Vanatta, a tinner, whose business was located at 506 Main Street.

Haller had the present building erected for a business known first as the Boonville Bottling Works and later as the Dr. Pepper Bottling Co. His partner, Stanley Kramer, bought the building from him in the 1940's and retained ownership until it was sold to the present owner. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N onto Morgan. An alley is to the S & W. There are no outbuildings.

In 1884 Walter Williams, who later founded the first School of Journalism in the world at the University of Missouri, became editor and later publisher. The cypress trees which still grace the sidewalk area in front of the building were planted by Joseph L. Stephens during his ownership of the newspaper. A cleaners operating under the name "Victory Cleaners" has been in operation by many owners for many years.

42 Further Description of Important Features This section is part of a larger building which contained 4 storefronts. Originally it had a hip roof. The fenestration may have been altered from classical motifs to the Missouri German segmentally arched header. The denticulated brick cornice remains across the S facade. The 3 bays of the 2nd. story are 6-over-6. The 1st story has an entrance to the upper floor (W bay), a central entrance, and a large window (E bay). The N facade has soldier flat arch headers over the 6-over-6 2nd. story windows. (see attached)		28 No of Stories 2

43 History and Significance This section housed Mrs. George Koontz's millinery shop from at least 1885 to c. 1900. In 1910 sewing machines were being sold here (possibly still Mrs. Koontz) and by 1917 an undertaker was in the building. In the early 1920's it was utilized as the first location of the Jenry Taxi Co., followed by MacGavock's Furnace Works. By 1928, however, George Shine's Tin Shop was in the building and remained here for many years. (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto E. Morgan. A vacant area is to the N with access from the alley to the W. There are no outbuildings.

Windows on the 2nd. story are 6-over-6 with soldier course segmental headers. The W bay is bricked in. The 1st story has a wide entrance with transom and 1 large window with a large stone sill. The E & W walls are common walls. The 2nd story of the N facade has 6-over-6 windows with soldier flat arch lintels. The 1st story is obscured from view by the (see attached)

43 History and Significance In 1885 this section was listed as a Sewing Machine Shop. By 1892 it had changed to a Soda Water Factory. This soda water factory was first known as the Tackett Bottling Works, then Tackett and Meyer. The Meyer brothers (J.H. and F.A.) purchased the business in 1915, by which time the business was known as the Boonville Bottling Works. Ben Fredmeyer was managing this business in the 1920's, followed by Stanley Kramer and Gil Haller. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto E. Morgan. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built on a 2/3rds. plan with the entrance the easternmost bay. The transom is retained, but the sidelights have been closed in. The structure appears to have several additions. A brick 2nd story was added on the main block before 1885, as well as 2 story brick ells to the N. At an even later date a brick 2 story section was added to the E of the rear addition. It projects beyond the original main block and has an entrance on this S facade. (see attached sheet)

Photo

43 History and Significance The structure is similar in plan and style (originally) to 607 & 615 E. Morgan. It was built as a one story structure by C.W. Sombart for the son of his second wife, J.E. Thro. Thro went on to develop a lumber yard and later built 703 E. High St. as his residence. The owner at c. 1915 was Harry Reed, a foreman for Cochran's Construction Company. Reed was killed on a job site c. 1917, and W.J. Cochran, in sympathy, added the 2 story addition to the earlier rear addition for Mrs. Reed as an extra rental apartment. The (cont.)

42 Further Description of Important Features The jail is the section to the W and is built in a rough, quarry-faced ashlar. The 2/3 plan building has a heavy stone cornice and a T-shaped lintel over the entrance (Eastern bay) which is now closed in with stone. The small windows are now closed up with the exception of the 2nd story central window which has a louvered treatment. The W end chimney has a parapet wall. Attached to the jail on the E is a 2/3 brick section used as the jailer's residence. The entrance is the western-most bay of its N facade. (cont.)
43 History and Significance Built in 1847-48, the Cooper County Jail is significant as being one of the oldest, if not the oldest, existing county jail in the State of Missouri. In operation from 1848 until 1978 the structure was known as the oldest continually operated jail in the state. In August 1846, County Commissioner of public buildings published notice for proposals to build a county jail in accordance to the following specifications: The house is to be two (cont.)

42. (cont.) It has a transom and flanking pilasters and side lights. Windows are 6-over-6 and have iron lug sills and pedimented lintels with floral medallions. On the E and S facades the windows have segmental arches of rowlock brick work. The frame cornice is boxed and rakes at the gable ends. There are 2 end chimneys. On the SE there is a 1 story pent roof brick addition which repeats the window motifs, and 2 pent roof frame porches.

On the interior, the millwork on the 1st story is heavily molded and reflects an early Greek Revival Style. The two fireplace mantels echo these motifs. These features would seem to indicate that this millwork might predate the building and was reused from some other early structure. The 2nd story has very plain millwork. The kitchen and bath are modernized. Considerable maintenance is necessary to the eaves and to some interior walls and ceilings due to water damage. The structure is sound and could easily be rehabilitated.

The western half of the structure is comprised of the jail. At the first story level are a series of iron barred cells complete with bunks, toilets and small sinks. A shower stall is off of the hallway. On the second story level there are a number of iron box cells of varying dimensions and a toilet area at the end of a "U" shaped hallway. The interior outside wall at both levels is unfinished.

43. (cont.) stories high, with two rooms and a passage in each floor, the rooms to be 14 x 15 feet, and the passages 6 by 30 feet in the clear. The foundation walls to be 2½ feet below the surface of the ground, thence to the surface 2½ feet thick - built of large rock, not less than 6 inches thick, 2½ feet broad and 3 feet in length...; there are to be partition walls, one 15 the other 30 feet in length, foundations for which to be of same dimensions as those of outer walls. All the wall from the foundation to the square of the building to be 2 feet thick...and built of rock not less than 8 inches thick, 2 feet broad and 3 feet in length, to be securely clamped together with wrought iron clamps.... All the rock used in the building to be good sound limestone, all other materials to be well seasoned and of best quality, and the work done in the best manner, and finished in a workmanlike style, a plan of the building filed in the office of the county clerk."

The jail was built by local contractor William Spiers, using hand labor supplied by slaves. The limestone blocks were quarried in the vicinity of Boonville. The building consisted of two large rooms each with rings protruding from the walls to which prisoners were shackled. By 1871 the second story's appearance changed with the addition of iron box cells that are present to this day. The jailer's residence was built in 1871 on land previously leased to the City of Boonville for hay scales by Marcus Williams. Records show that this brick addition consisted of three rooms and a hall. Later that year a second story was authorized as well as a rear unattached one story brick kitchen with cellar and a porch to its west: a fence, cistern, and privy were also added at that time. In 1875 a smoke house appeared. None of these out-buildings survive. The jailer's residence served as housing for the Sheriff or jailer from its completion until its closing in 1978.

The most famous of the many prisoners associated with the jail was Frank James, who along with his brother Jesse and other members of the gang, halted and robbed a Missouri Pacific passenger train, one mile east of Otterville on the night of July 13, 1876. Restrained only a short time in the structure, his bond was made by a number of sympathetic local citizens. Later the case was dismissed.

The area around the jail has been the site of numerous hangings with the last being held inside the jail barn

Locally significant on both architectural and historical grounds, the jail is important for its stone construction, for its associations with well known criminals and events, and for its long years of continued use.

43 History and Significance The Cooper County Court saw the need for a stable to house the sheriff's horses. Commissioned by Robert McCullough the structure was built later that month for $149.99. The Barn was used for many years as a stable and for storage. In 1937 one of the last hangings in the state took place here and was in itself a deciding factor in the change from County to State capital punishment. Gradually the barn fell in unuse and disrepair. In 1971 the barn was threatened with razing and the Friends of Historic (see attached sheet)

43. (cont.) Boonville became interested in its purchase and subsequent restoration. On 11/22/71 the Friends purchased the Barn and a small surrounding area. The restoration project was the first venture of its sort for the Friends. In 1974 the restoration project was complete with the following work being completed: replacement and preservation of the brick foundation, ridge, siding, stalls, stairs, roof sheathing and tin roof. The barn has been used once in a Friends historical tour of Boonville and is currently utilized for storage.

43 History and Significance 607, 611, 615 E. Morgan are built on a similar plan and style. This house was built by C.W. Sombart for his sister, Mary. She and her husband, John Durr, a saddler who operated a shop in 1869 on the E side of Main Street between Morgan and Spring, were the early residents in the house. In 1919 the Durr heirs sold the residence to Miller T. Atkinson, who in turn sold to A.L. Vanatta in 1921. In 1926 the residence sold to (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings A pent roof, aluminum sided garage and a concrete drive is on the alley to the E. At the NE corner of the lot is a pent roofed brick structure attached to the N of the garage. An alley is to the N. The residence faces S onto E. Morgan Street.

In 1941, it became the residence of William J. Brownsberger, owner/operator of Brownsberger's Clothing Store. Upon his death in 1971 it was inherited by his daughter Dorothy Brownsberger, a school teacher. The present owner, who purchased the home for his residence from the D. Brownsberger estate, is employed as a history/psychology/sociology instructor at Kemper Military School and repairs automobiles in the garage.

43 History and Significance After 1843 a minor structure was built on this site which probably remained into the 1890's when the present structure was built by George Roeder for his residence. Roeder, a German immigrant, arrived in Boonville in 1853 and entered into the blacksmith trade. By 1860 he began a carriage and wagon manufactory located on the SE corner of 6th and Spring Sts. in conjunction with George Garthoffner who he later bought out. Although Roeder died in (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to 618 Morgan on the W and faces N onto Morgan. To the S is a board and batten outbuilding which is attached to the main structure by a pent roof. There is a pent roof outbuilding, sheathed in a metal at the S alley

42. (cont.) Segmentally arched headers either of soldier or double rowlock courses, cap the windows. The wood cornice is painted white, and rakes at the gable ends, where small scroll brackets support returns. There is a peat roofed addition, covered with composition siding across the S facade, including a small addition on the S of the E rectangular bay. A "hand-carved" fireplace graces the living room.

43. (cont.) sold to James Allen and Bill Robinett, apparently to be used as income property. The present owners acquired the structure in 1978.

42 Further Description of Important Features: Accenting the structure is a polygonal bay S facade. W bay: a stepped projecting rectangular E bay, S facade which has a gable wall dormer. a 2½ story circular tower at the NW corner which has 3 bays of stained glass, 1st story and 13 courses of alternating terra cotta blocks and a chamfered bay with fan brackets, a scalloped frieze and pendants and capped by a gable wall dormer with stickwork on the NE corner. The roofline is accented by chimney gables with fishscale shingles on the E & W, a gable dormer (see attached)

43 History and Significance: Structure was built as a residence for Charles A. Sombart in 1886. Sombart, miller, banker and builder owned and operated the Sombart Milling Company. He is credited with being one of the organizers of the Farmers Bank and the Citizens Trust Company, and developed the block of stores at the southwest corner of High and Main Streets. In 1905, Sombart also erected the Hotel Fredrick costing $40,000. The structure in 1935 became a meeting place for the American Legion, with space being rented to other (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings: The structure sits on the NW corner of Morgan & 7th. Streets, facing S onto Morgan. An alley is to the N. There is a stone retaining wall S & E. A concrete drive to the N separates the house from the 1 outbuilding. Facing 7th. Street is a large 1½ story brick Carriage House. On the E facade is a gambrel parapet. (see attached)

42. (cont.) with a pointed arched window centrally located on the S., an ornate cornice with brackets and a panelled frieze, and ornate iron ridge cresting. Windows on the S facade have extended segmentally arched brick headers with stone skews and stone lug sills with brackets, and are 1-over-1 and attenuated. Windows on the other facades repeat these motifs except the header is laid in a soldier course. On the S facade is a 1 story porch on a stone foundation. Sitting on stone piers, the doric columns support a wide entablature with small brackets. A spindle balustrade is at the 2nd. story level. Stone steps with stone newels with ball finials leads to the double leaf entrance. Its transom is filled with leaded glass. A large canvas canopy leads from the porch to Morgan Street. Another canvas canopy leads from an entrance in the central bay of the chamfered bay on the E to 7th. Street. On the N is a  $2\frac{1}{2}$  brick gable ell with 2-over-2 windows with frame sills and soldier course segmental headers. A 1 story brick addition extends to the N. It repeats the window motifs of the ell, but has a belcast hip roof. To the W of these additions is a 2 story frame clapboarded structure which includes porches on both stories, a porch enclosed with vinyl siding which retains small brackets and a pent 1 story room with asbestos siding.

43 History and Significance Abstract indicates that structure was built in 1866 for Lambert Demkes, since property evaluation increased from $650 in 1864 to $1350 in 1866. City directory of 1869 lists Demkes, a tailor, as residing there with entrance on 7th. Street. The next two owners J.F. Gmelich - 1875 and C.C. Bell 1879 did not maintain residences within. In 1880 the structure was given by Bell to his sister Wilhelmenia Manger who resided within for many years. Buildings along this block form a tight, cohesive neighborhood quality (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on the NE corner of 7th and Morgan facing S onto High. Sitting on an embankment, the property has 1 outbuilding, a 2 car frame garage to the N. It is covered with asbestos siding and has overhead doors to the W. A concrete drive from 7th. Street leads to the garage. A covered breezeway connects the garage and the house.

42 Further Description of Important Features    A wide variety of wood textures cover the structure, on its primary facade (S) including a vertical shingle course under the windows and a band of fishscale shingles over the windows. Gable end decoration on the E, S, & W facades includes 4 bands of fishscale shingles and a wide raking cornice. A small attenuated window appears in each gable end. Windows are 1-over-1, wide on the S projecting bay, and shuttered on the S facade only; the primary entrance has a transom. (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance    Oral history and Historic Sites Map indicate that the house was built by Herman Schmidt in 1892, however abstract indicates that Schmidt did not own the property till 1898. The lot prior to 1898 was owned by Wilhemina and Casper Manger, 703 E. Morgan, who may have actually built the house in 1892. In 1905, Schmidt purchased a 7' by 14' strip of land on the NW portion of property from W. Manger for $60. Subsequent ownership includes heirs of H. Schmidt - 1930, August Blank - 1931, R.H. Mueller - 1941. (see attached sheets)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings    Facing S onto Morgan St the house sits on a slight embankment with concrete steps and a wrought iron balustrade leading up to the residence. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) A frame 1 story porch of Eastlake quality wraps around the SW corner of the structure. There is an addition on the NW which is on a concrete foundation, has a gable roof and is covered with vinyl siding. A fireplace is on the W end.

43. (cont.) Ben Smith, Jr. - 1956. Smith, owner of the Boonville Abstract and Insurance Company, purchased the house at auction and modernization and alterations have taken place under his ownership: The family room addition on the N.W. is finished in walnut woodwork from a home which was originally built in Howard County in the late 1830's.

This structure is an outstanding example of the Queen Anne cottage style and is therefore architecturally important. Its local significance also lies in its relationship to the cohesive quality of the neighborhood.

Windows are 2-over-2 and are attenuated on the 1st. story. Heavy lintels which end in square panels are slightly pedimented and appear on the E, S, & W facades. Windows to the N are segmentally arched with a soldier course and stone lug sills., except a small window at a stair landing level which has a circular arched header and is stained glass. Scroll brackets appear at the eaves with larger brackets at the corners. Dormers include gable roofed dormers surrounding the chimneys at both the E & W ends, and a pedimented dormer located over the entrance on the primary facade: all have fishscale shingles. Single bay frame porches, with enclosed 2nd stories, are on both the E & W facades. The 1st story entrance on the W is now bricked-in. On the E facade is a 2 story ell to the rear. Additions include a small 1 story 1 bay room to the NE of the ell. Its windows have segmental arches and row-lock headers. A 1 story gable roofed addition is on the NW of the main structure. Its openings have stone lug sills and lintels. Two pent roofed additions to this structure. Rooms were added as the family increased and the structure has been remodeled several times.

43. (cont.) of the University.

*George Caleb Bingham served as his apprentice for a short while.

The home was inherited by Judge William Muir Williams, Supreme Court Justice 1898, Grand Master of Missouri Masons, 1888, and President of the Board of Managers of the Missouri Training School for Boys.

The current owner of the home, Charles Leonard operates and owns the B & J Bowling Lanes and farms Ravenswood Farm in Bellaire, Mo. As the home of a prominent citizen and the birthplace of Walter Williams the residence has state historical significance. It is also significant to the district as a pivotal property in the streetscape and neighborhood.

42 Further Description of Important Features The roof has high solid ridge cresting which helps to give it the appearance of a mansard roof, actually it is closer to a truncated belcast hip, roof form. The eave line is accented by a double row of small scroll brackets which alternate. The structure features openings having straight sided segmental arches which are highlighted by a dark glazed brick string course which tops these hoodmolds and continues between windows. This brick course is repeated in a course at midwindow. There is a (see attached sheet)		Photo
43 History and Significance Built for Alex Stephens and his bride Adda Edgar in 1888. At that time the grounds with lovely gardens extended eastward to the corner of Morgan and 8th. Streets. The house was sold in 1913 to Judge T.H. Winterbower, Cooper County Probate Court Judge (1909-17) who resided in the house 15 years. In 1928 Henry Neef purchased the house. Mrs. Neef converted the stables into the Book Barn which served for several summers as a reading center for the young people of Boonville. In 1972, Larry Tate (see attached sheet)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment and has a palisade fence around the back yard. It faces S onto Morgan and has an alley to the W and N. A small frame open well house is to the N of the structure. On the NW corner of the property is a 1½ story, brick carriage house and stable, currently used as a garage (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) stone water table. Windows also feature a typical Queen Anne motif in the small panes of stained glass which border the windows. The (S) primary facade is embellished with a 2 story polygonal bay on the SE which is capped by a mansard roof dormer with a louvered panel and having a raking cornice with medallion trim, a double leaf entrance with segmentally arched transom, a 3 part stepped window under an arcade type hood mold, and an Eastlake 1 story porch on the SW which has square chamfered post, spindle balustrade and medallions on the frieze. Hoodmolds on this facade have ornate keystones. On the E facade is a 2 story circular tower with a conical roof. On the N facade there is a 1 story brick ell on the NE and a 1 story frame porch on the NW. On the W corner of this porch is a frame 1 room addition at the 2nd. story. The ornate hoodmolds, string course on brackets are not continued on the N facade. The chimney has an ornately corvelled cap.

43. (cont.) of the Williams, Reese and Tate Law Firm bought the house. The original masonry was contracted by J.H. Stretz and Co.

44. (cont.) and storage shed. It has a gable roof of standing rib tin roof with a raking cornice at the gable ends. There is a 1 story gable roofed, brick ell to the S. Openings are segmentally arched with rowlock headers except for the wide garage door on the W which has a wood lintel. The 1½ story section has a chimney. Stalls were originally on the N side ~~where~~ small windows appear on the ground floor; a hay loft above, and living quarters. During the time that the Neef's had ~~the~~ property this building was used as a reading room for the young people of the community and was called the "Book Barn".

42 Further Description of Important Features Characteristic of Bungaloid style, the structure has grouped windows, most being 3-over-1; open rafters with rounded rafter ends; knee braces at the gable ends; and oak interior millwork. A concrete porch with square brick columns extends across the primary facade (S). Openings have stone lintels and lug sills with a row-lock course above the lintels and a brick course which runs around the structure just below the header level. Two entrances on the S include double french doors with 8 panels of beveled glass (cont.)
43 History and Significance This structure is a classic example of the Bungalow style, both in its exterior and interior motifs. It was built by J. Hirsch, Sr., a wholesale merchant of the Hirsch Wholesale Grocery Co. whose business house was at 515-17 E. Morgan. Structural masonry was completed by J.H. Stretz & Co. This block indicates a development of architectural styles from the 1850's to this exceptional 1920 Bungalow, and yet they form a visually cohesive (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the NW corner of 8th & Morgan Sts. facing on to Morgan. It sits on a slight embankment. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) each. An enclosed sun porch is to the E and sits atop the single car garage, which is a drive-thru type with access from both Morgan and 8th Sts. On the E is a rectangular projecting bay and an end chimney with small flanking windows. A large gable roofed dormer sits centrally on the S facade. It has 3-over-2 grouped windows and is ornamented with a half-timbering motif on yellow stucco.

On the interior, the large front room has been divided (c. 1930's) with a partition to form a 3 room apartment on the W side of the structure. Stairs to the 3 upstairs rooms are tucked away into the pantry between the kitchen and the dining room, which has a beamed ceiling. A breakfast nook is located off of the kitchen. An outstanding feature of the residence is the leaded glass, done in an Art Nouveau style with red roses, which appears in both the french doors to the sun porch and the sliding doors to the dining room.

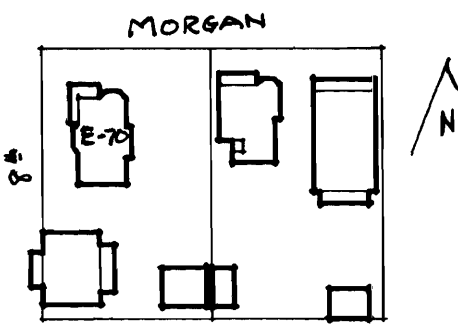

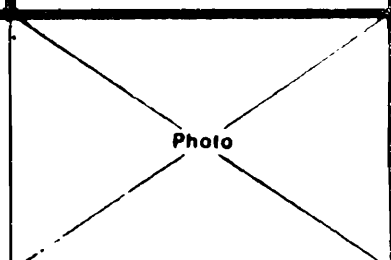

43. (cont.) streetscape. All are fine examples and are locally significant as integral parts of the whole.

42 Further Description of Important Features The brick structure has a frame cornice with brackets and returns which rakes at the gable ends. There are end chimneys E & W. The main block has 2-over-2 windows with segmentally arched headers, rowlock 2nd. story, soldier 1st story. The N facade has 6-over-6 windows with no headers. There is a 1 story gabled brick ell on the E bay, N facade. It is 4 bays deep and has small 1-over-1 windows with rowlock segmentally arched headers. A gable roofed dormer with a parapet front is on (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Abstract indicates that the house and lot is composed of the W. half of lot 142 and E half of lot 143 of the original town of Boonville. The house sits on the line of lot 142 and 143. Both half lots were united in 1865 by A.H.C. Koontz so the structure could not have existed prior to that time. The City Directory records that Koontz, a dry goods merchant, resided there as of 1869. The house was sold to Elmer and Josie Koontz in 1885 and they maintained possession to 1893. J.G. Sexton the owner at that time lost (see attached sheet)

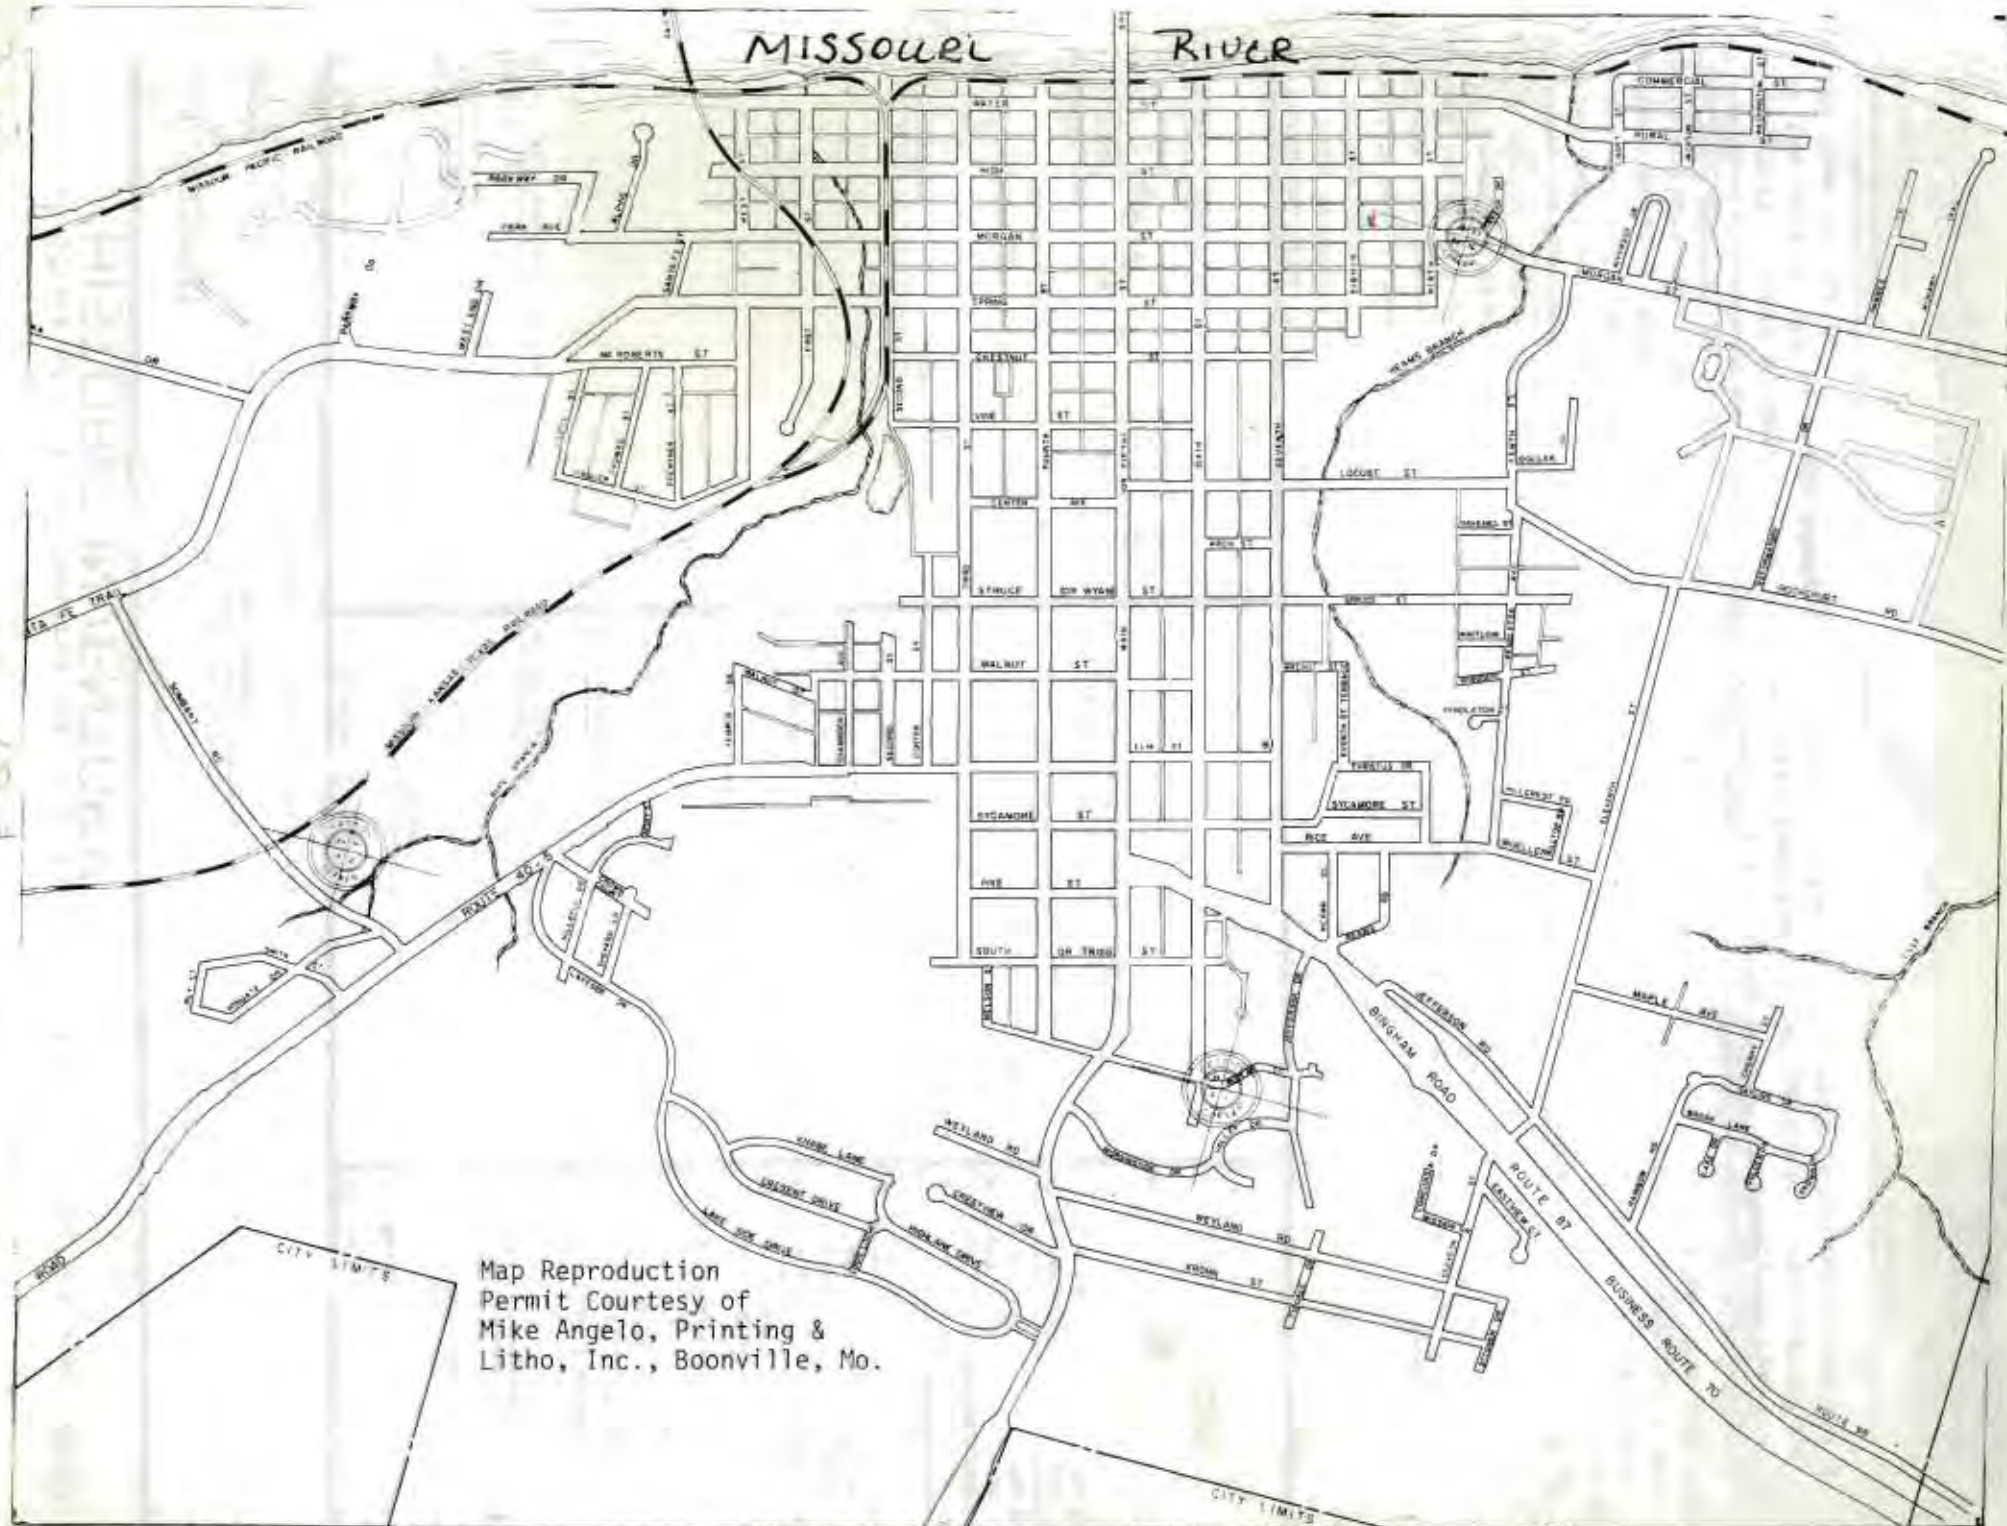

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits close to the sidewalk at the front of the property, facing S. onto Morgan St. The rear yard has a high palisade. The outbuilding is at the rear of the property along the N alley. It has a gable roof, is stuccoed and has a garage door to the N.

42. (cont.) the W side of this ell. The inset primary entrance has a frame surround. It has an arched entablature with molding supported on heavy fluted pilasters. Directly over the lintel is a single rowlock course. Over the entrance on the 2nd. story is a small window which has a frame and wrought iron balcony. There is a molded concrete block porch with wrought iron railing across this S facade. The interior of the house contains 4 rooms on the first floor and 2 bedrooms on the second. It has been modernized in that the E. fireplace has been covered over while the W fireplace contains a modern mantel. The partition originally separating the 2 back rooms of the house has been removed developing a kitchen-dining room area. Ceilings have been maintained at 10 feet and a simple walnut stairway remains.

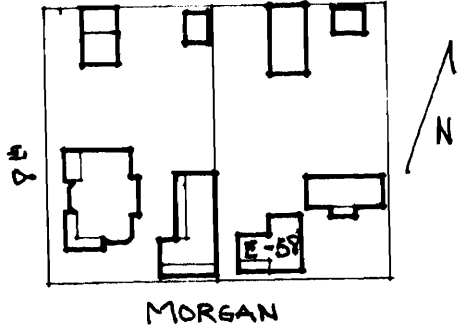

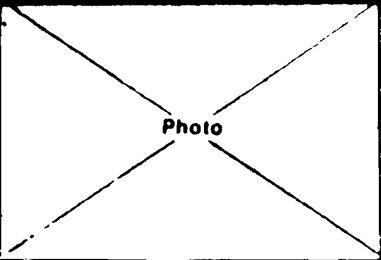

43. (cont.) the house by foreclosure in 1895. It was purchased by John Welby in 1896 and sold immediately to W.T. Gibson a realtor, and again to John Elliot. It was sold in 1919 to Ernest Hoewellman. In 1927 John Stretz (proprietor of the Phoenix Saloon and later the Cash and Carry grocery Store 315 Main Street.) became the owner and the house was utilized as rental property. In 1950 after renting the house "a couple of years" it was bought by Harold Stretz as his residence. Stretz owns and has operated the Stein House Bar and Restaurant since 1945.

The second story iron balcony railing was purchased and installed by the present owner and was originally on the front facade of Dr. Charles Swaps office building located on the Mid-Missouri Savings and Loan lot.

43 History and Significance Rev. R.E. Andrews--current pastor. The Morgan Street Baptist Church was formed in 1865 with 52 members under the pastorship of Grandison Roberts, a blacksmith-preacher. Meeting two evenings a week at the First Baptist Church Building, 518 Vine St., the congregation soon saw the need for their own church building. Between November 1865 and December 1867 the congregation met in a blacksmith shop located at 214 9th St. During this period the present (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings, however in 1910 there was a dwelling to the N of the church. The structure faces S onto Morgan St. An alley runs immediately to the W of the Church.

Morgan Street Baptist Church

42. (cont.) There is a brick addition to the NW. Additions to the N include restrooms. Some windows along the E facade basement level have been bricked in. Most additions were complete by 1929.

43. (cont.) church lot was purchased and a simple frame church was erected slightly to the north of the existing structure. Completed in 1867 it served the needs of the congregation till it was destroyed by fire in 1884. In 1884 the present brick structure was built. In 1928 new additions included the vestibule and the rear chapel. Additional changes include the renovating of the basement into a kitchen and dining area in 1944 and the replacing of the brick sidewalk to the south in 1956. The Rev. R.E. Andrews is the 18th minister to serve the needs of the congregation.

This church is historically important on a local level for its role in the black segment of this community.

43 History and Significance Property owner relates that structure dates from the mid-1920's. There are, however, "hand hewn ceiling joists in the living room ceiling," indicating a modern reworking of an earlier structure, or, more likely, the use of used building materials in the building's construction. A 1968 owner/resident of the structure was Mrs. Mamie Miller. The present owner acquired the property in 1978 for rental property.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Facing S onto Morgan the structure sits at the NE corner of Morgan and 9th streets. There are no outbuildings. A large vacant lot is to the E of the residence.

42 Further Description of Important Features Ornate brick work is the outstanding feature of this small structure. On the S, the gable end has corbelled brick work of sawtooth and dentil patterns with an alternating cross hatch pattern above. Square brick porch (SE) columns become pilasters at the corners of the front projecting bay. A 3 part window in this bay has a flat arch of brick; scowbacks, keystone, and a sill course are of concrete. The SE porch has a brick openwork balustrade. Other windows have double rowlock (see attached)
43 History and Significance This house was built about the turn of the century, probably by J.H. Stretz. Nobel Geiger was an early owner, followed by a Tuttle family and a Brown family. From the early 1950's until c. 1975, William B. and Novel Lamm owned and lived in the house. The present owner bought the house in 1975 from the Lamms.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings House sits close to sidewalk facing S onto Morgan; an alley runs along the E facade and along the N property line. A 1 story brick hollow tile garage sits along the E alley.

43 History and Significance See Missouri Training School for Boys Administration Building form for history of school. The structure was built under the administration of the 1st superintendent, Lyman R. Drake (1888-1904), and served as his residence. During the 1970's it was changed to a Group Home, a residence for 9-10 boys on a "less stress treatment" plan. The 3 bedrooms upstairs now are used as dormitory space. A new furnace has been added.		Photo
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure now faces N onto Morgan. It sits back from the street on a large open lot and has access from a circle drive from Morgan. Extending to the W is a 1 car flat roofed brick garage and a 2 car gabled brick garage, both with doors to the N. A brick wall extends W along the circle drive. The yard to the W is terraced.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure features an extensive use of polychromed and glazed brickwork. The red brick structure has buff brick accents as a jigsaw course at the cornice, quoins, a sill course, and as straight-side arch hoolmolds with connecting belt course. The projecting ell on the S facade has a lozenge design of glazed brick. The 2 gable wall dormers of the central section, S facade have terra cotta courses. The 1 story Eastlake porch has spindle frieze, brackets & turned post on brick piers. Windows are (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure was built by John Henry Stretz for both his residence and as an example of his masonry skills. Stretz, along with his partner, Louis Gantner, purchased Claus Stammerjohn's brick yard and expanded it under the name Boonville Brick Company. By 1919 their brick yard had the capacity to produce 20,000 bricks per day. The firm was also involved in masonry contracting, often subcontracting from the W.J. Cochran Construction Co. The many buildings they contracted include the Cooper County Rest Home, St. Joseph Hospital, (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment with a patterned brick retaining wall to the S. A drive to the E leads to a concrete area to the NE of the residence. Outbuildings include a small 1 story brick building directly to the N. At the NE corner of the lot is a frame barn, converted to 4 garages in 1919 (see attached sheet)

42. (cont.) at that level. The primary double leaf entrance with transom has a stone veneer surround and is protected by a 1 story, 1 bay closed brick porch. The N & S facades have a central 1st story double leaf entrance with transom and concrete stoop. The rear (E) facade has segmentally arched windows and a 2 story ell which was built in 3 sections. Much of the fenestration in this ell has been altered, however there are 1st entrances E & S. By 1892 a 2 story breezeway connected the main building to the 2 story hip roof central section of the ell. By 1910 the eastern most 2 story section was added. The breezeway remained. In the 1920's the breezeway was removed and a brick section connected and completed the ell.

43. (cont.) was constructed in 1888 and all of the functions of the School were administered at this site until the building of the main Administration Building in 1890 or 1891. Prior to 1900 a considerable amount of construction took place with the following buildings being erected: Boys Dining Hall (portions retained in present dining hall), Hospital (razed), Superintendant's Residence (Group House #14), Laundry (Frances and G Cottage), Stone Cottage (C and D Cottage), Stephens (T and H Cottage), Colored Cottage (razed), Shop Building (Commissary) Bakery (razed), Stables (severely altered).

Between 1900 and 1910, "D" Cottage (Dockery Cottage), the Boiler House (with plumbing shop and laundry severely altered in 1949), and the Commissary-Armory (Laundry) were constructed.

From 1910 to 1917 construction included the Commissary, Storage Building, Business Manager's Residence, and the Greenhouse.

Between 1920 and 1930 there were no buildings constructed, however, the main Administration Building received an internal heating system.

In 1937 the Gymnasium was constructed and was the first building solely designed for recreation at the school. In 1945 the Reception Cottage (D Barton Cottage), and Boone, Bingham, Twain, and Carver Cottages were constructed.

Between 1950 and 1960 the following buildings were constructed: Slaughter House (1950), Pershing School (1952), Chapel (1958), Corum Cottage (1958), Staff Cottage, 2 garages and the stables.

After the extensive building of the 1950's the Multipurpose Building appeared in 1969, followed by a brick outbuilding in 1970 and the new Maintenance Building in 1977.

In the years prior to 1930 all of the buildings except the Administration Building were built by labor furnished by the incarcerated boys with direction by supervisors under the principal of "self-sufficiency". One such supervisor who directed the carpenter shop in the 1890's entered into business with his father (W.J. Cochran and Son) and contributed much to the building of Boonville between the years 1900 and 1940. The firm is still in operation. All of the millwork used in the buildings was milled at the school as were the bricks which were burned at the School's brick yard which was established in 1880.

L.D. Drake, the first Superintendent of the Training School, wrote in 1899 that "this school has been founded upon the economic and humane principal that it is better to make a good citizen than to punish a vicious one, and that schools are cheaper to the State than penitentiaries." Also believing that "idleness is the seed of evil" each boy was assigned to one of many differing types of work which included brickmaking and masonry, carpentry, plumbing and steamfitting, blacksmithing, farming, dairy work, animal farming, weaving, tailoring, shoe repair, machinery and later the automotive shop. Each boy was also required to attend school for at least a portion of the day. Boys who were recalcitrant of their duties or who caused problems were "housed in the hole" located on the second story of the main Administration Building.

Under the present Superintendent, Richard "Jack" Bell, the Missouri Training School adopted a new philosophy of "Positive Peer Culture" and became a pioneer in the field. This has greatly affected the overall length of stay from up to 2 years in 1899 to 6 months in 1979. Boys are no longer assigned to manual labor designed to develop a trade, rather they attend GED classes and participate in local area cleanup and "good will" endeavors.

The Administration Building has a primary local and state significance for historical reasons as both the visual and literal center of the campus area.

The large main block has a hip roof with boxed eave and is accented by large round arched windows and 3 entrance towers. The towers are on the W facade at the N & S corner and at the center. They feature round arched 1st story umbrage openings with double leaf doors, circular windows, and a corbelled cornice under the hip roof. This front facade is a result of extending the primary facade of the original block to the west (c. 1905). The (cont.)		41 Distance from and Frontage on Road
43 History and Significance		Photo
See Missouri Training School Administration Building for School history. The original structure had a large projecting central bay and 5 story tower. The structure was capped by an ornate curved mansard roof. Windows were paired, attenuated, and had stone label hoods. 2nd story windows had small stained glass border lights in the top panes. After the c. 1905 remodeling the structure was listed as the dining room with the original ell (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings
The structure faces W into the quadrangle and sits directly behind (E) of the Administration building. A circle drive is to the E. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) The 2 side bays (N & S) of this main block were also altered to repeat the large round arched windows with brick hoods and concrete sills. Projecting to the E is a 1 story brick middle section which is original to the early structure. It retains the stone label hoodmolds. It now has a loading dock and basement entrance. The NE section was constructed at the same time as the front facade and its windows are accented by the stone label hoodmolds removed from the main block. It is a 1 story brick structure with a N entrance which has a 1 bay hip roofed porch and a concrete stoop. A later (c. 1915) 1 story brick section was built to the S of the original ell. In the 1940-50's a 1 story brick rectangular building was attached to the S of the 1915 section. It has large multipane windows, a basement entrance S, and an entrance with concrete stoop E.

43. (cont.) remaining the kitchen and the new NE section listed also as a dining room. Oral history indicates that the attic section of the kitchen was used as a detention area. The latest SE section is the bakery.

Openings have segmentally arched headers formed by 3 corbelled rowlock courses. Windows are 4-over-4, attenuated, and have stone sills. The primary (N) facade has a 3 bay rectangular projecting bay which contains the main entrance. There is a secondary double leaf entrance to the E of this central bay. Currently the fenestration has been altered by the closing up of many windows and the addition of 2 large (cont.)

43 History and Significance This was the original structure on the campus and all functions were administered from there. By 1900 the W section was used as a Blacksmith - 1st, and Printing Shop - 2nd. The E section housed the Woodworking Shop - 1st, and the Knitting Shop - 2nd. These shops continued til c. 1920 with the exception that the Shoe Shop replaced the Knitting Shop c. 1910. By 1929, the W section was listed as "C" Cottage, the "colored" dormitory, and the E section housed the school - 1st floor, and a dormitory - 2nd floor. Further history is available (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N. There are no outbuildings. It is to the E of the Administration Building.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade has a stepped parapet with a large garage entrance. The 6 bays of the 1st story, N & S sides, have concrete lintels and sills. The 9 basement level bays S are large semi-circular arched openings, however most of these have been closed in. The parapet gable end is repeated on the E facade where there is a large arched garage opening, a steep incline ramp, and a 1 story pent roofed ell as the S bay. This ell is brick on a concrete foundation and is 3 bays deep with segmentally arched openings.		Photo
43 History and Significance See Missouri Training School Administration Building form for school history. The original 2 part gabled brick structure was built c. 1890's. It was 2½ stories with segmentally arched openings and a corbelled Romanesque cornice on the gable end. The Sanborn map indicates this building was razed c. 1920's, however there is some indication that the front section was demolished and the rear section was reworked into the current structure. This construction or rebuilding was done c. 1931.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces W into the Campus. There is a steep earth incline or ramp up to the door. It sits E of the Administration Building and is at the eastern edge of the major concentration of complex buildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built in several sections, The primary facade's 3 story W wing is the original section and has a projecting central bay entrance. This has a stepped parapet with a cross and the name panel. A projecting 1st story porch with a balustrade over it and resting on brick columns protects the double leaf entrance with transom and sidelights. Windows are generally 4-over-1, paired and have a brick and concrete square panel in the spandrel. A 2 story brick section connects this wing to a 4 story section (see attached sheet)

Photo

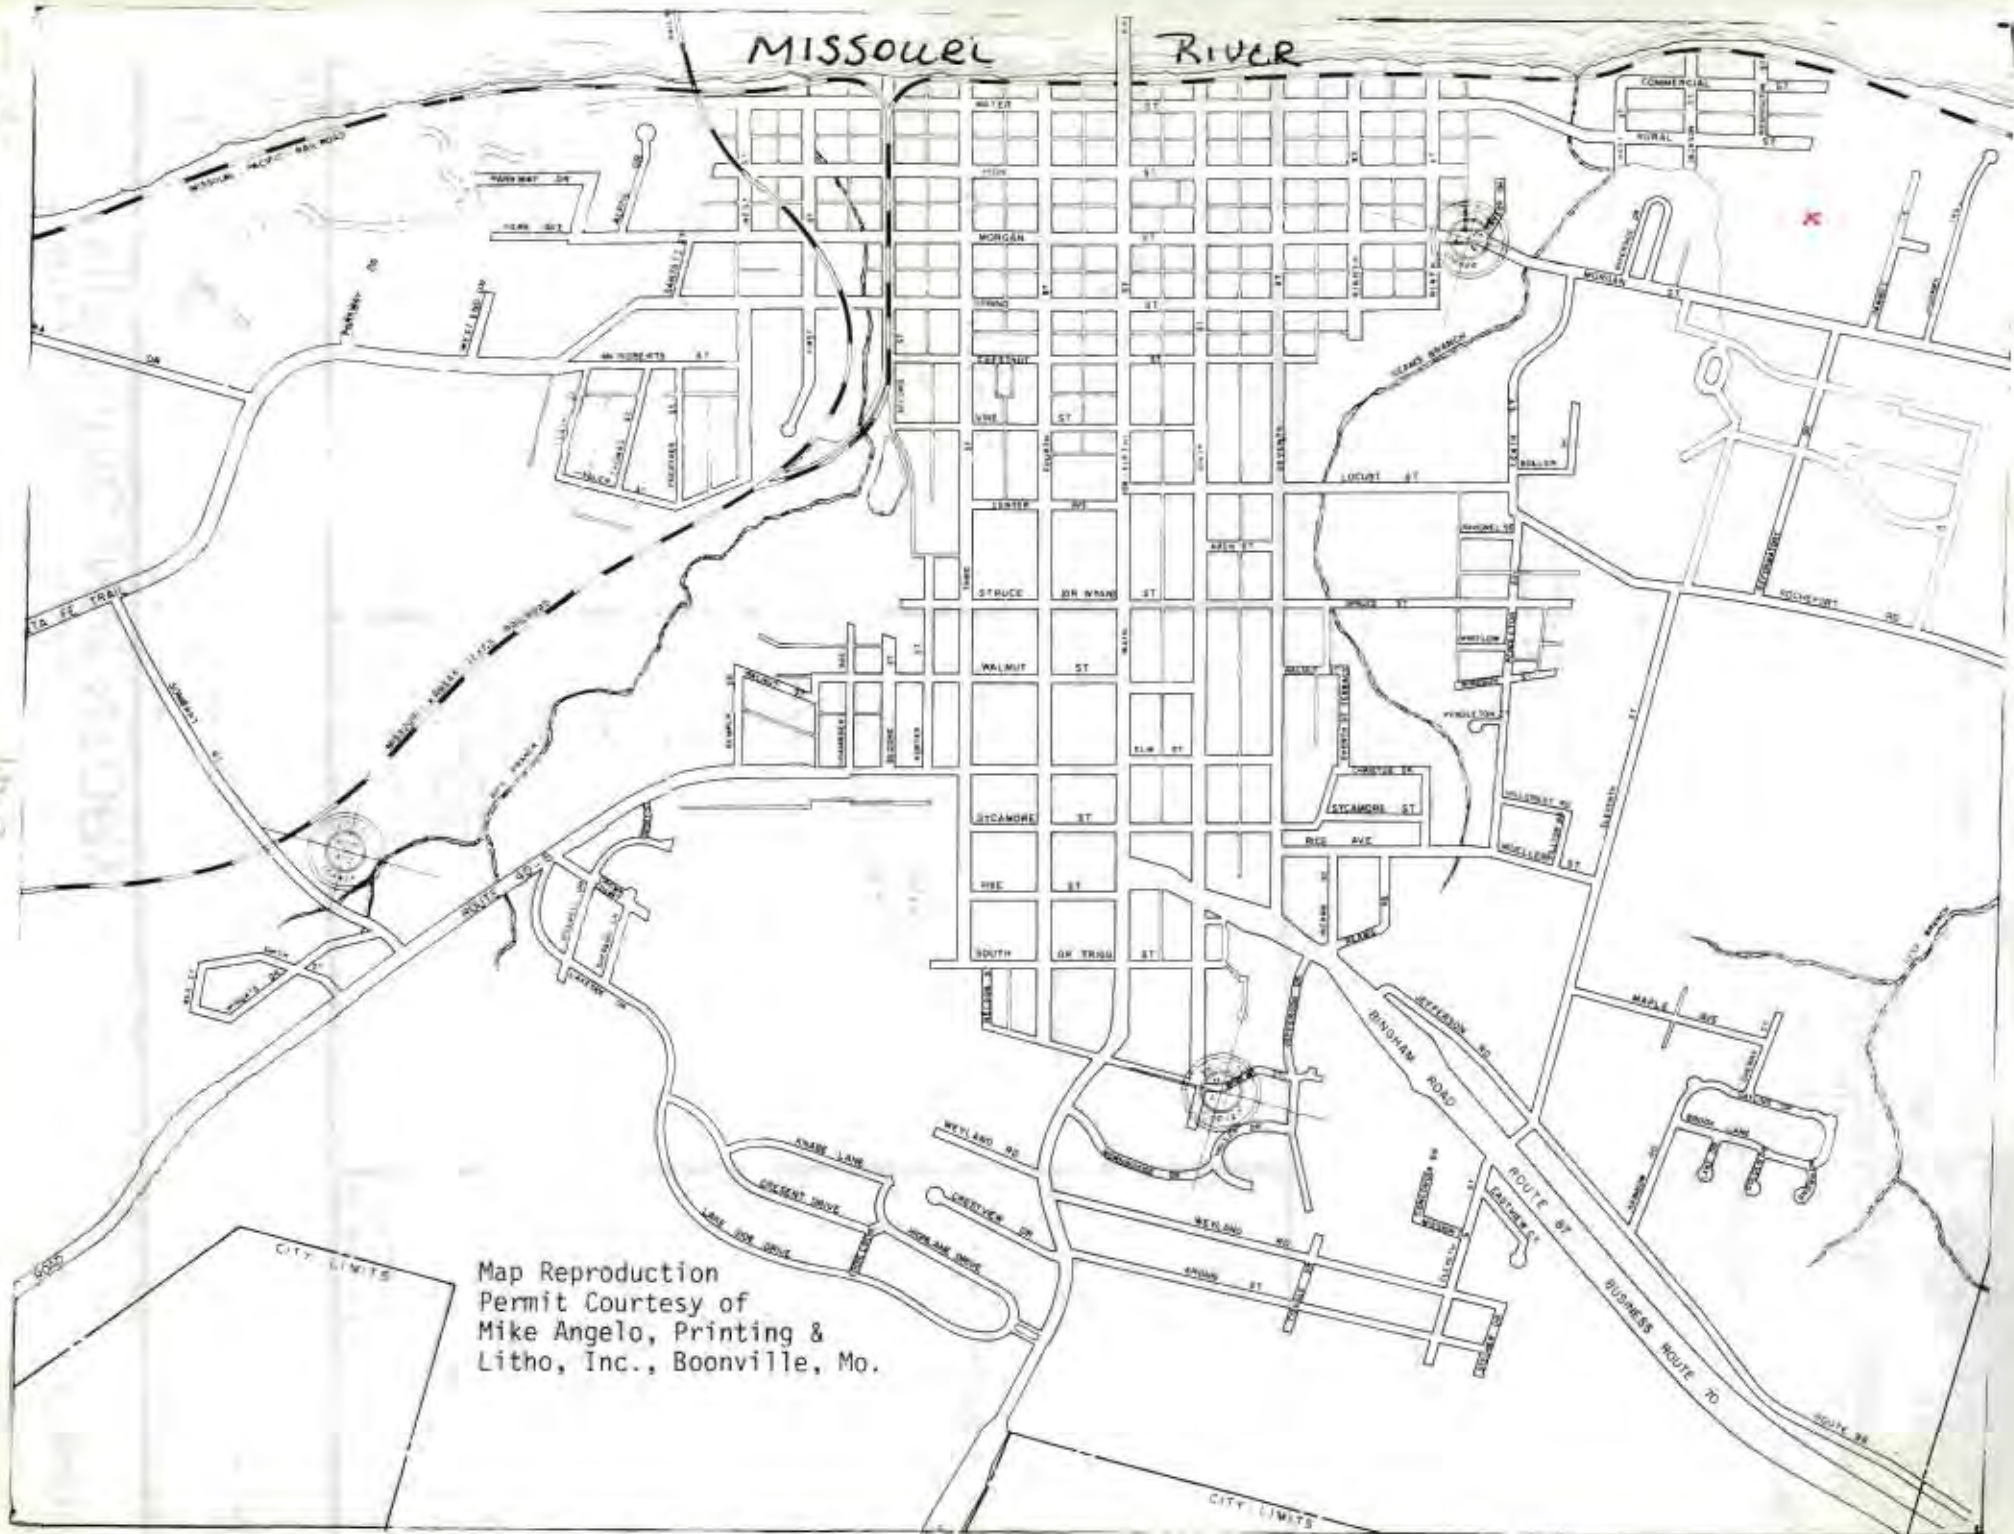

43 History and Significance The central section's cornerstone reads 7-19-1937 in memory of Mother Agatha. The grounds and the building are very significant to the history of Boonville (also see 230 Pawnee Lane form). The grounds is the site of the Hanna Cole homestead and cabin, first Howard County Court, Missouri Fair Grounds, and the Second Battle of Boonville, 9/13/1861. It also contains numerous graves among which are the Burress infant, Samuel Mahan (killed by indians 1814), at least two civil war soldiers killed in (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The hospital has a large 2 level parking area and front yard to the S. To the E is a stone shrine. Gravel parking lot is to the NE. To the rear of the original section is a ground level building with a tall smoke stack which was probably the power plant and a vertical board, gable roofed shed with an entrance to the S and 4 small windows E. Also associated with the property is a 1 1/2 story brick bungalow (see attached)

42. (cont.) built in 1937 which repeats the general motifs of the original including the concrete cornice. A glass and concrete breezeway at the 1st story level connects this to the later E section. Its S wall has a concrete portico and is embellished by tile and a large statue. E & W walls have multiple vertical windows. To its E is a small 1 story brick rectangular structure and to the N is a 6 bay 2 story red brick ell. Its E entrance has a metal canopy. The N facade generally repeats the motifs of each section respectively. The W & N of the original section has loading areas at the basement level.
43. (cont.) action. At least two public hangings took place on the land: Luke Harris, a slave, for killing his master, 1826; John I. West, a tramp, for murder, 1879. In 1911 the Benedictine Sisters purchased the 11 acres for $2,200. The building was dedicated in September 1918 and was constructed at a cost of $49,000. The proceeds for building the hospital were raised locally. In 1920, an accredited nurses training program was organized. The east wing was added around 1934. The bungalow beside the hospital was used as the nurses residence and the area to the north was used for a large truck garden operated by the Sisters. The hospital later became associated with Cooper County and remained in operation till 1969 when the Cooper County Hospital was built. It remained vacant for a number of years until purchased 1977 and used for a retirement center.
44. (cont.) at the NW corner of the property. The lot drops off sharply to the N and gives a grand view of the river.

42 Further Description of Important Features Originally built as a 2/3rds house the structure was enlarged in 1912. This addition resulted in the hip roof, front porch which is a 1 bay, 1 story pedimented structure, S porch which wraps around the SE corner and is a 1 story supported on brick columns with a 2nd. story balustrade S facade, and a slightly off center entrance which has a transom and flanking fluted doric column. The added rooms include a dining room with bedroom above. Windows in the structure are 6-over-1 with (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Original east section of the house was built by Andrew Adams, prior to 1850, and was located on the Santa Fe Trail. Local legend relates that burr oak tree, now a stump, was a meeting place for travelers starting west. A 200 year old sugar maple tree, 46 feet in circumference was designated a "Liberty Tree" in 1976, and was used to plat the city of Boonville in 1817.

The house was later owned by C.F. Wagner, a confectioner, and their (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto Morgan Street and has a grand view of the river. A large yard surrounds the structure which sits at the corner of Morgan and Santa Fe, a remainder of the original trail. A large tree in the yard was reportedly the tree from which Boonville was platted. The Maple Tree was designated (see attached sheet)

In 1912 the Stammerjohns commissioned an architect to design the 2 story west addition which includes the dining and bedrooms, front, side and rear porches, and hip roof. By 1960 the structure fell into disrepair and "practical additions" were conducted by Rev. Emil F. Abele, pastor of the Evangelical Church. The present owner, an interior decorator has conducted redecoration sensitive to the early era of the house in 1978-79.

43 History and Significance The structure was built for August Brueckner as his residence in 1904, on land which encompassed 30 acres. A tree lined lane which later became Pawnee Lane led from Morgan Street and circled the house. In 1905 he set out an orchard which consisted of 500 peach trees on five acres. A portion of his land to the West, 11 acres in all, was sold to the Benedictine Sisters in 1911 for the building site of the St. Joseph's Hospital. Brueckner's eldest son George was killed by lightning on the land. (see attached sheet)		Photo
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces S, but the main road Pawnee Lane is to the W. The 2 car gabled garage is connected to the residence by a gabled breezeway. Both have asbestos siding. The garage is to the N, doors face W onto the Street. This structure now sits in the middle of a 1950's-1960's subdivision.

42. (cont.) Entrances on both levels (S) have transoms, Windows are 1/1 and have soldier course, segmentally arched lintels. On the W is a rectangular bay ending with a small wall dormer, and a gable cap with stickwork detailing. The N facade has a gable wall dormer. To the E is a porch, enclosed to form a dining room (1949-66). The 2nd story Eastlake porch is still open. Frame steps lead up to the 2nd story. A 1 story pent addition has been added to the E and a gable breezeway to the N connects to the garage. A cellar entrance is to the N. The main block is crowned by iron ridge cresting.

43. (cont.) During his tenure of ownership a brick smoke house was built to the NW of the residence, but is no longer in existence. Additional sons farmed portions of the farm for a number of years. The 30 acre tract was sold in 1919 to John Erhardt. In 1926 Alvin and Isla Bozarth purchased the house, enclosing the rear porch to form a kitchen, and developed the 2nd floor into an apartment by installing a bathroom, gas line and exterior frame stairway. Bozarth, past president of the Mid-Missouri Savings and Loan, once found a civil war bullet on the land which is now owned by the F.O.H.B. Archives. In 1946 Russell Hanna purchased the house, the land of which he sold in 1949 to the Boonville Sales Corporation who developed it into the Indian Hills addition to the City of Boonville. Considerable alterations took place in 1957 including the addition of a new fireplace and flue in the "family room." In 1966 the house was sold to Paul Mayginnes who is the Cooper County Extension Agent. The original farm on which the residence is located and which once incorporated the area of the St. Joseph's Hospital is perhaps the most historic area in Boonville. In 1810 Hannah Cole and her family, the first white people to inhabit the area south of the Missouri River, built a cabin on this tract of land on the edge of the bluff. In 1813 the first school in the Boonslick was conducted here. In 1814 nearing the end of difficulties with Indians resulting from the War of 1812, it was necessary for neighboring settlers to fortify Hannah Cole's cabin. From this "fort", which was built in one week, water could be drawn from the Missouri River when necessary. In 1816 the fort became the site of the first County Court within the territorial limits of Howard County, with David Barton presiding as Judge. Prior to the Civil War the tract became the site of the original Missouri State Fair Grounds. Approximately 1837, David Lilly built a residence on this tract, which remained as ruins perhaps into the 1950's when the land was developed into a subdivision. Shortly after 1869 Blasius Heiberger established a vineyard and winery containing at least one cellar becoming known as "Heiberger's Winery." The remains of a cellar was evident in 1936 and was probably covered over with the 1950's development. In September 1861, the tract was the scene of the second battle of Boonville, trenches of which were dug and reportedly still found near the bluffs of the river. The tract contains one marked and at least one unmarked Civil War gravesite. Prominent owners of this tract of land prior to the building of the present residence in 1904, include: C.W. & Julius Sombart, founders of the Sombart (Boonville) Mills, 1864; John Cosgrove, local attorney and U.S. Congressman (1883-85), 1893; John Speed Elliot, pioneer railroad builder and banker, 1893.

43 History and Significance An excellent unaltered example of the early Missouri German architecture in Boonville. This house is significant in that it is the only surviving brick residence in East Boonville, although there are a number of frame houses of similar style and dimensions. It typifies the kind of structure that emancipated slaves were living in after the Civil War. This structure is also unique in that the owners of the house had always owned the adjoining lot which was used as a garden space. The house and grounds at present comprise 3 lots in (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto Rural Street and sits at the NW corner of Rural and Washington Streets. The original primary entrance may have been the N facade. There is 1 outbuilding, a pent roofed frame shed on a concrete foundation.

43. (cont.) East Boonville which was developed in 1857 as a distinct town. East Boonville was platted with 53 uniform lots of 50 by 120 feet with alleys and streets on land once owned by Hannah Cole, the original settler of the area that was to become Boonville. The northern-most boundary of the town contained a wharf area. East Boonville was later incorporated into the City of Boonville and has been traditionally known as the "black area of town." The original owner of the residence was Mary Diggs who purchased two of the three lots in 1869 and 1870. It is possible that the prior owner, C.W. Sombart, built the house, but the property evaluation as indicated on the abstract does not indicate this. The house and adjoining lot remained in the Diggs family till 1943 when it sold to Frank Patterson. In 1944, William and Evelyn Tezon, who owned the lot to the west on which was situated a simple one room dwelling, bought the Diggs house thus increasing the property to its present size. On June 3, 1975, Mrs. Tezon, a widow, and her daughter Dorothy McDonald were murdered in the house by a jealous ex-lover of McDonalds. The present owners purchased the residence in 1977 as a small retirement home and have made minimal repairs to the interior.

Openings are rowlock, segmentally arched on the 1st story 4 ell. Windows are 2-over-2. There are end chimneys E & W. Additions extending to the N include a gabled 2 story brick ell as the E bay and a clapboarded pent addition which sits on a concrete foundation to the W bay. This NW area has enclosed porches. To the N are new frame garages (see attached sheet)		26 Local Contact Person or Organization Friends of Historic Boonville
43 History and Significance Oral history indicates the residence was built by Florenz Pieper , a stone mason, in the 1860's. He was the father of W.P. Pieper, Boonville druggist, who lived there as a boy. The residence remained in the Pieper family until the 1960's when it was bought by Dr. J.M Rorah, chiropractor, as a speculative piece of business property. He divided the lot and built a laundromat just west of the house. In the process of building the laundromat he (cont.)		27 Other Surveys in Which Included

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is built on a 2/3rds. plan and with an exposed basement, piano nobile style. Accenting the structure are the gable (E&W) end parapets which have a flat parapet connecting the chimneys, the boxed gutter, and the pedimented lintels over the 2 & 3rd. story openings. The basement or 1st story has brick flat arch lintels. Windows are 6-over-6 and shuttered. The entrance with large transom and flanking doric columns is reached by frame steps. The E facade has a 2nd. story entrance with a (see attached sheet)

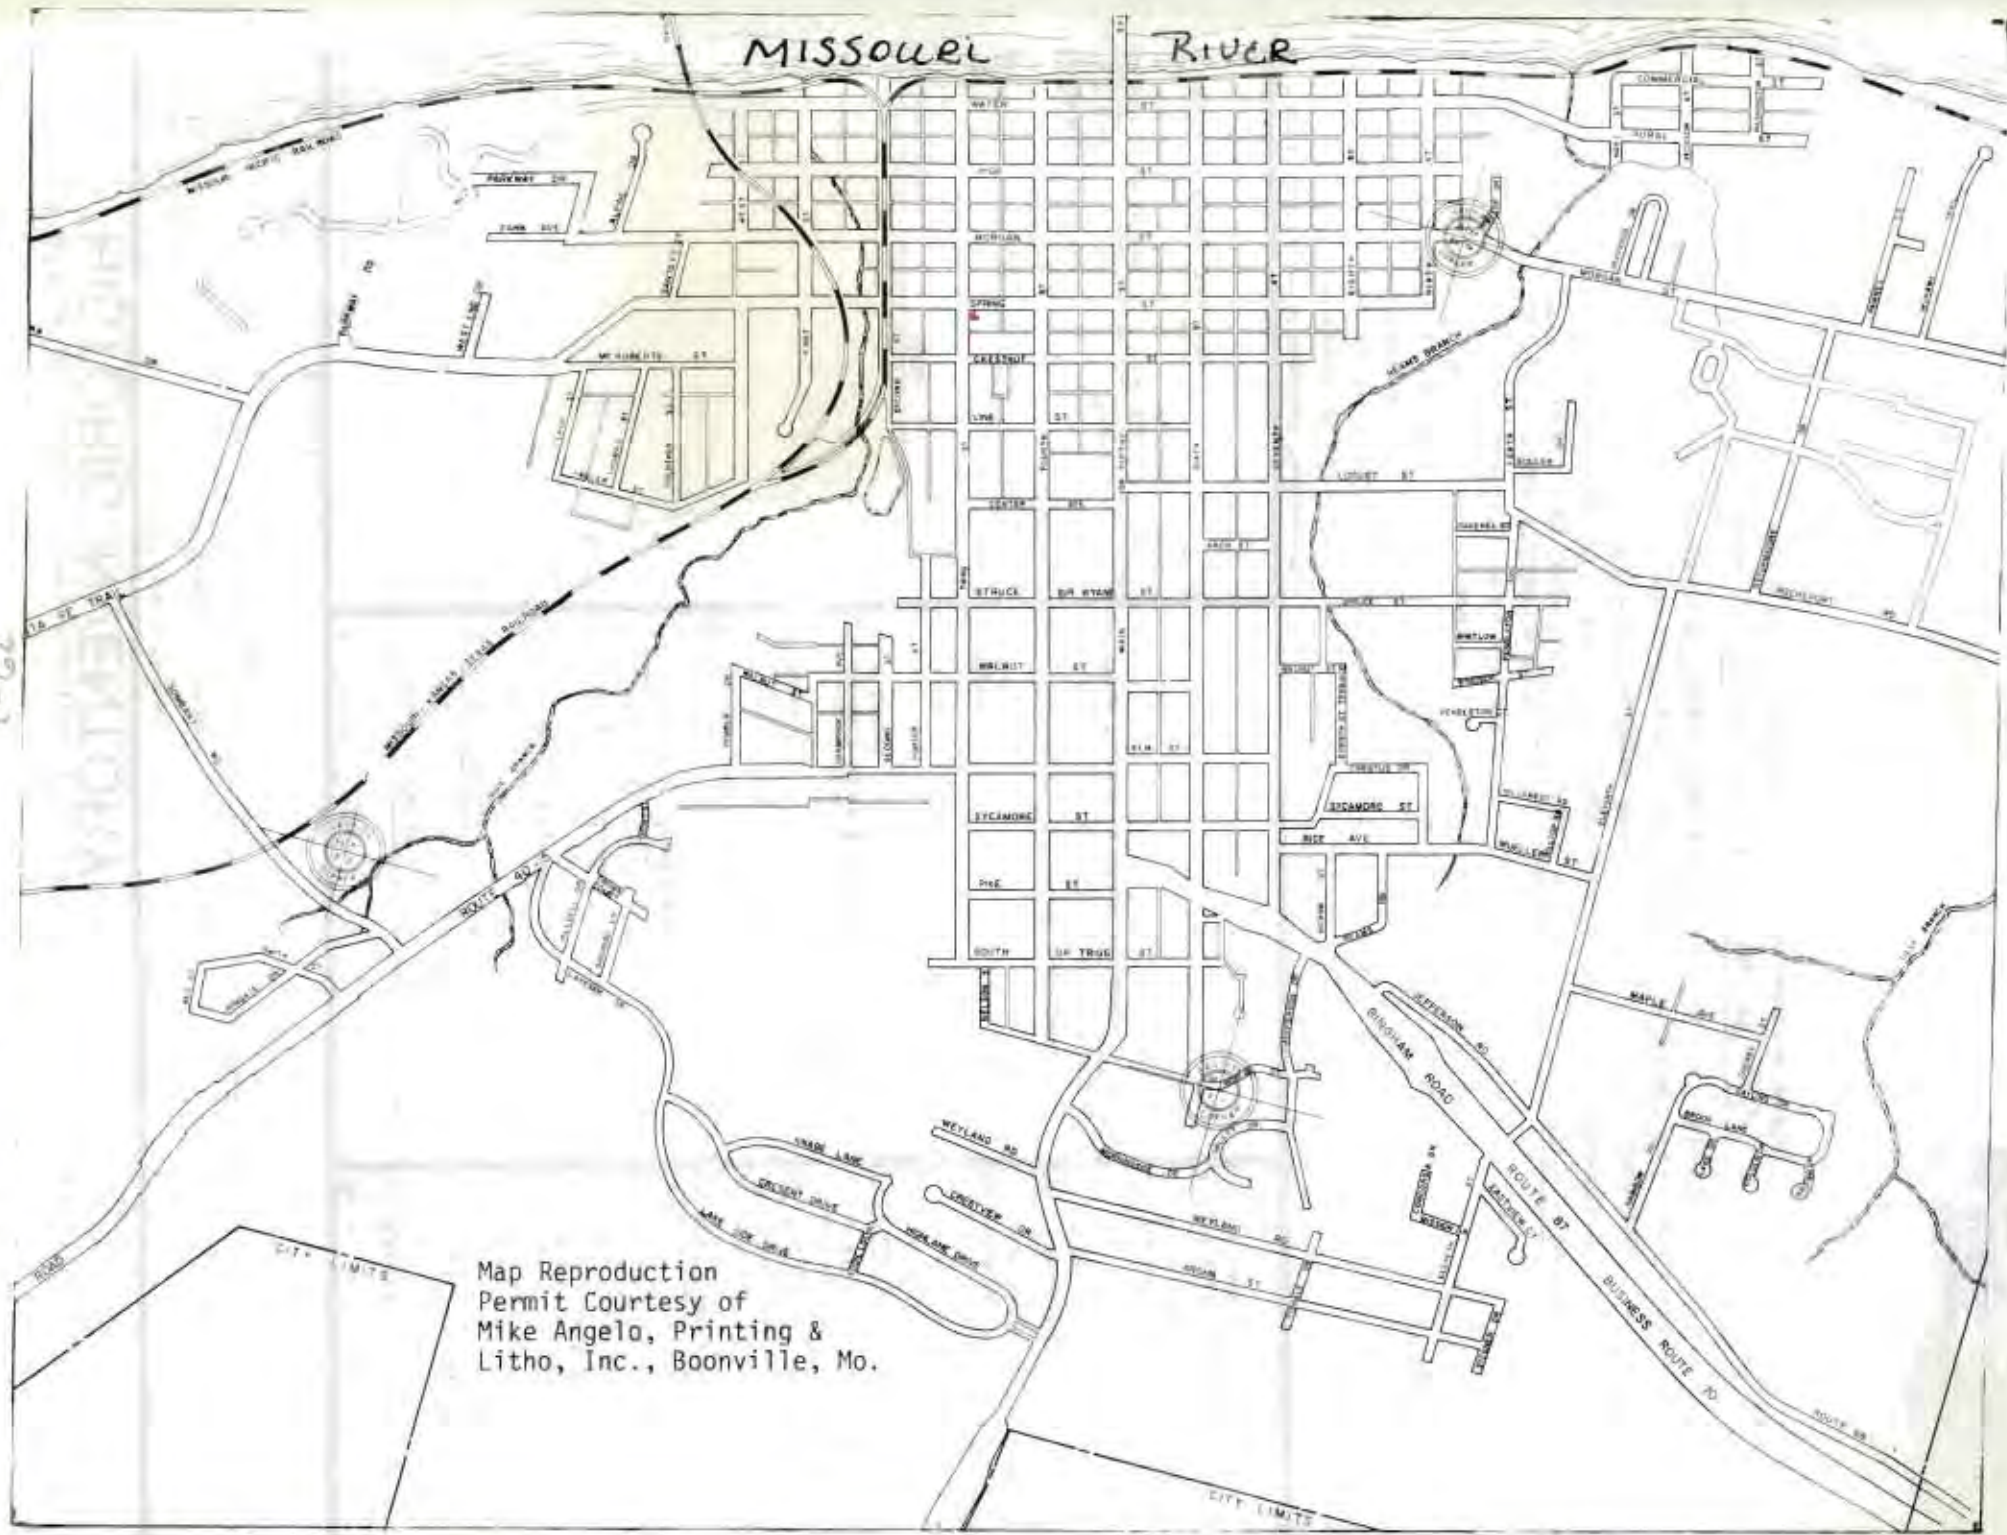

43 History and Significance Travis has owned this property since the mid-1960's. Previous to that it was owned for many years by Emma Wilhite. The house was extensively remodeled in the 1940's by Raymond Knabe. The structure is believed to have been built by Isaac Lionberger, a "dry goods and notions" merchant, combination sheriff and County Collector (1842-46), and County Court Judge (1858-62). By 1869 the structure became the residence of D.C. Lionberger. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the SE corner of 3rd. & Spring Streets, facing N and sitting close to the streets. There are no outbuildings.

The primary entrance (S) is centrally located, has a transom and sidelights, and is protected by a 1 story, 1 bay frame porch with chamfered columns, caps, scroll brackets and braces. There are end chimneys (E & W). To the W, the basement is exposed and has an entrance onto the sidewalk. It has a segmentally arched header. Extending to the N, there is a 2 bay, 2 story original ell as the W bay. To its E is a 1 story pent addition (see attached)

43 History and Significance Oral history indicates the main block of the house was retrieved from the Missouri River during a flood. Dr. Swap lived in residence at turn of century. Edgar Swap lived there c 1950. Recent information obtained from obverse of historical photograph notes that structure was to be built in New Franklin and that prior to its construction the building materials were ferried across the Missouri River. During the grading of Spring St. in the 1880's the structure was moved approximately 15 feet to the East. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on an embankment with a Molded concrete block and stone retaining wall to the S & W, and faces S onto E. Spring. It sits at the NE corner of 3rd & Spring Streets. An alley is to the N. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary (N) facade has 2 entrances each with a narrow transom and Grecian Ear surrounds. Windows are 9-over-6 and the basement windows are partial above ground. The cornice is boxed. There are end chimneys on the E and W facades. Additions include a 2 bay frame porch on the N which sits on concrete block piers and has turned post, spindle balustrade, brackets, and a flat roof, and a pent addition on the S facade W bay which was built as a utility room c 1950. The original weatherboard (see attached sheet)

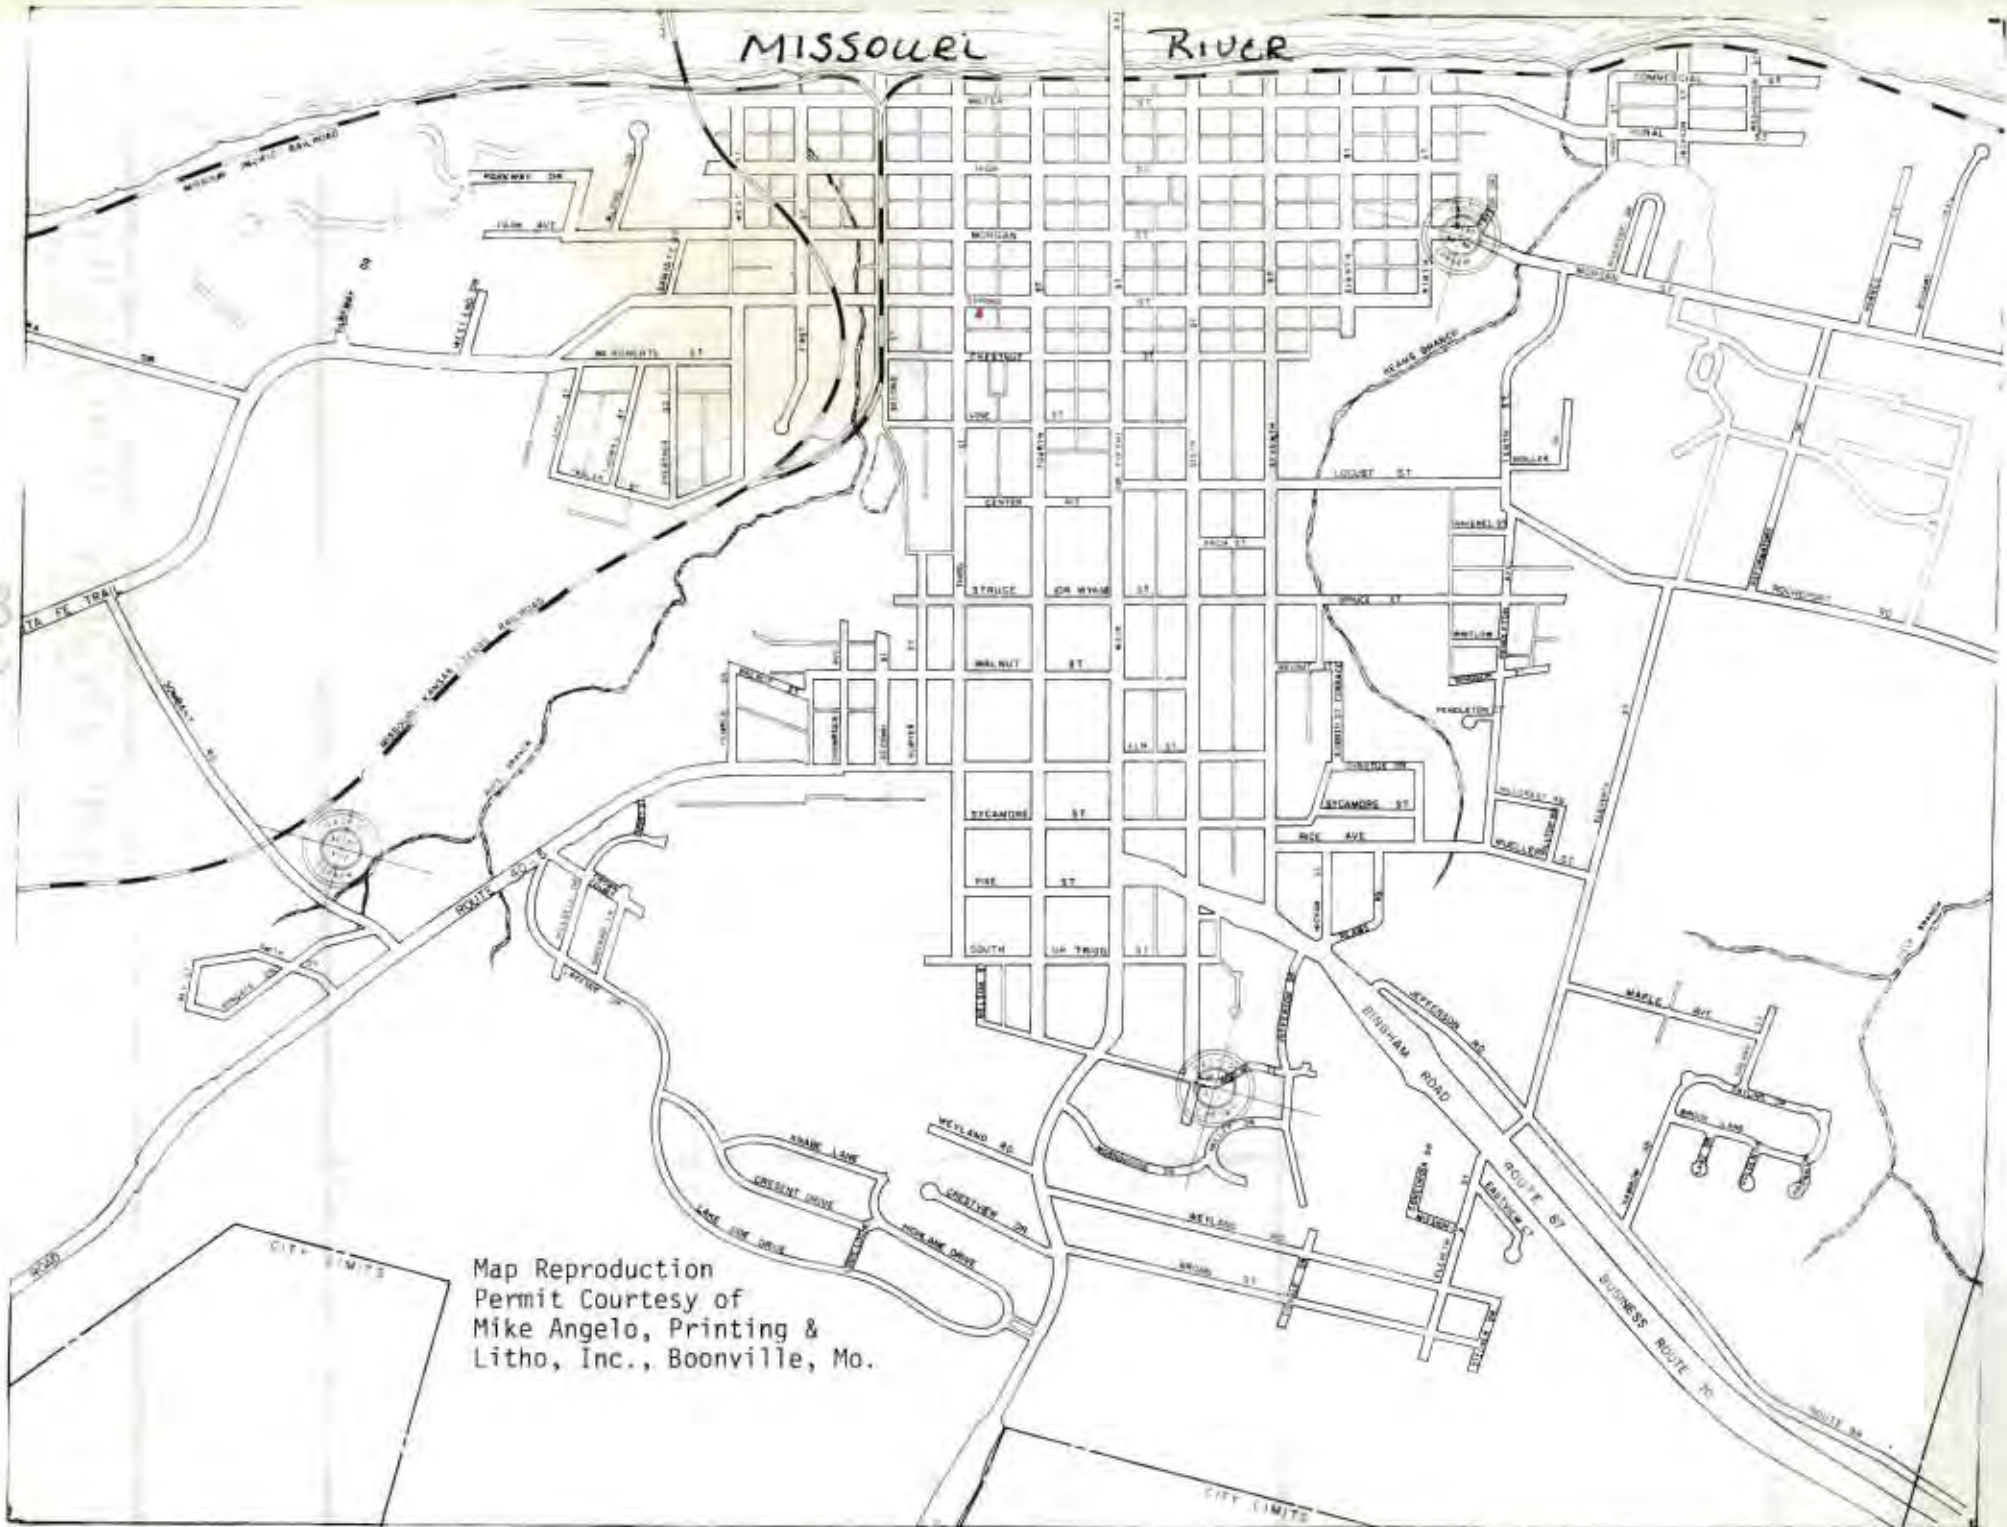

43 History and Significance Significant as fine example of Greek Revival housing on a small scale. Oral history indicates house to be "about 150 years old" and built by a "Mr. Memmel for a piano tuner." Current owners have had property 35 years. From c. 1910 to 1930 the residence was used as a duplex. This structure is significant on the local level.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto E. Spring Street. There are no outbuildings. A new ranch style residence is to the S along the alley, see individual listing 308 E. Spring.

42 Further Description of Important Features The residence is built on a 2/3rds plan with the primary entrance in the W bay of the S facade. It is recessed and has an iron threshold, a panelled embrasure and fluted columns. The transom above has 14 panes of various size lights. The roof line is accented by a boxed cornice and paired chimneys on the E facade. Windows are generally 6-over-6 or 1-over-1, shuttered and have soldier course lintels. Windows set in wells at the partially (cont.)		Photo
43 History and Significance The structure was built in the early 1840's by Herman B. Benedict, part owner of the Benedict and Crawford Dry Goods Store. Benedict, a city mayor (1853-55), resided in the house as late as 1869. For 84 years it remained in the Spahr family. Kate Spahr Waldon, the widow of C.J. Waldon, owner of the Boonville Advertiser newspaper (1872-82), sold to the present owner, Eleanor Penick, in 1941. Before the Butler building was constructed, the slave (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a high embankment with high brick retaining walls and iron gates, facing S onto Morgan. Steep steps lead up to the residence which has a herringbone brick walk around it. There are 2 outbuildings. 42. (cont.) raised S facade basement level are 2-over-2. On the E is a basement entrance which has a small brick extension with a gable roof. Additions to the rear include a frame board and batten hip roofed room. On the interior, ceilings are 13'. Millwork is pine and was reportedly sent up river from New Orleans. It is molded and has a circular corner motif. Marble surrounds the S room fireplace. Original brass locks and hinges remain on several doors including the large 4 panel doors between the living and dining rooms. Windows are recessed and panelled below the sills. A delicate walnut newel and stair leads to the 2 rooms of the 2nd story, which have fireplaces, then turns and extends to the attic level. Additions and alterations include the placing of cove molding and built-in book case in the S room, 1st story in 1941. This work was done so as to complement the original millwork. The rear of the long hall was altered to a narrow kitchen and the rear addition is used as a breakfast nook.
43. (cont.) quarters served as a residence for Mrs. Penick's mother and later as an antique shop.
44. (cont.) N facade. It is accented by a parapet on its S facade. It is the original kitchen and slave quarters to the residence. There is a kitchen and living room on the 1st story and 2 bedrooms up. It now houses an antique shop. To the N is a metal, Butler-type building which also is an antique shop. It has a gable roof and a concrete slab foundation. An overhead garage door is to the E. There is a covered cistern in the rear brick patio. An alley is to the N.

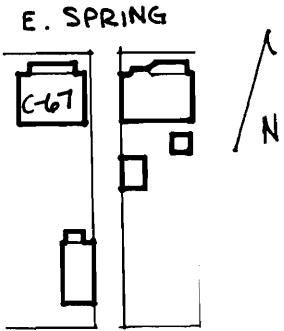

NOTE to Item #43: This structure is locally significant for both its architectural merit and historical association.

42 Further Description of Important Features The most outstanding feature of this piano nobile structure is the molded brick cornice along the N facade. It is obscured by a later Eastlake porch except on the NW corner where it is still evident. The main block has 6-over-6 windows and entrances with transom, all having rowlock, segmentally arched lintels. Additions on the N facade include a gable ell, E bay, which has a wide window with Queen Anne border glass and a soldier course lintel on the N; an Eastlake frame porch raised on (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Significant as an early example of both piano nobile and Missouri German style. Its additions are characteristic of those attached to these early structures in the Queen Anne period.

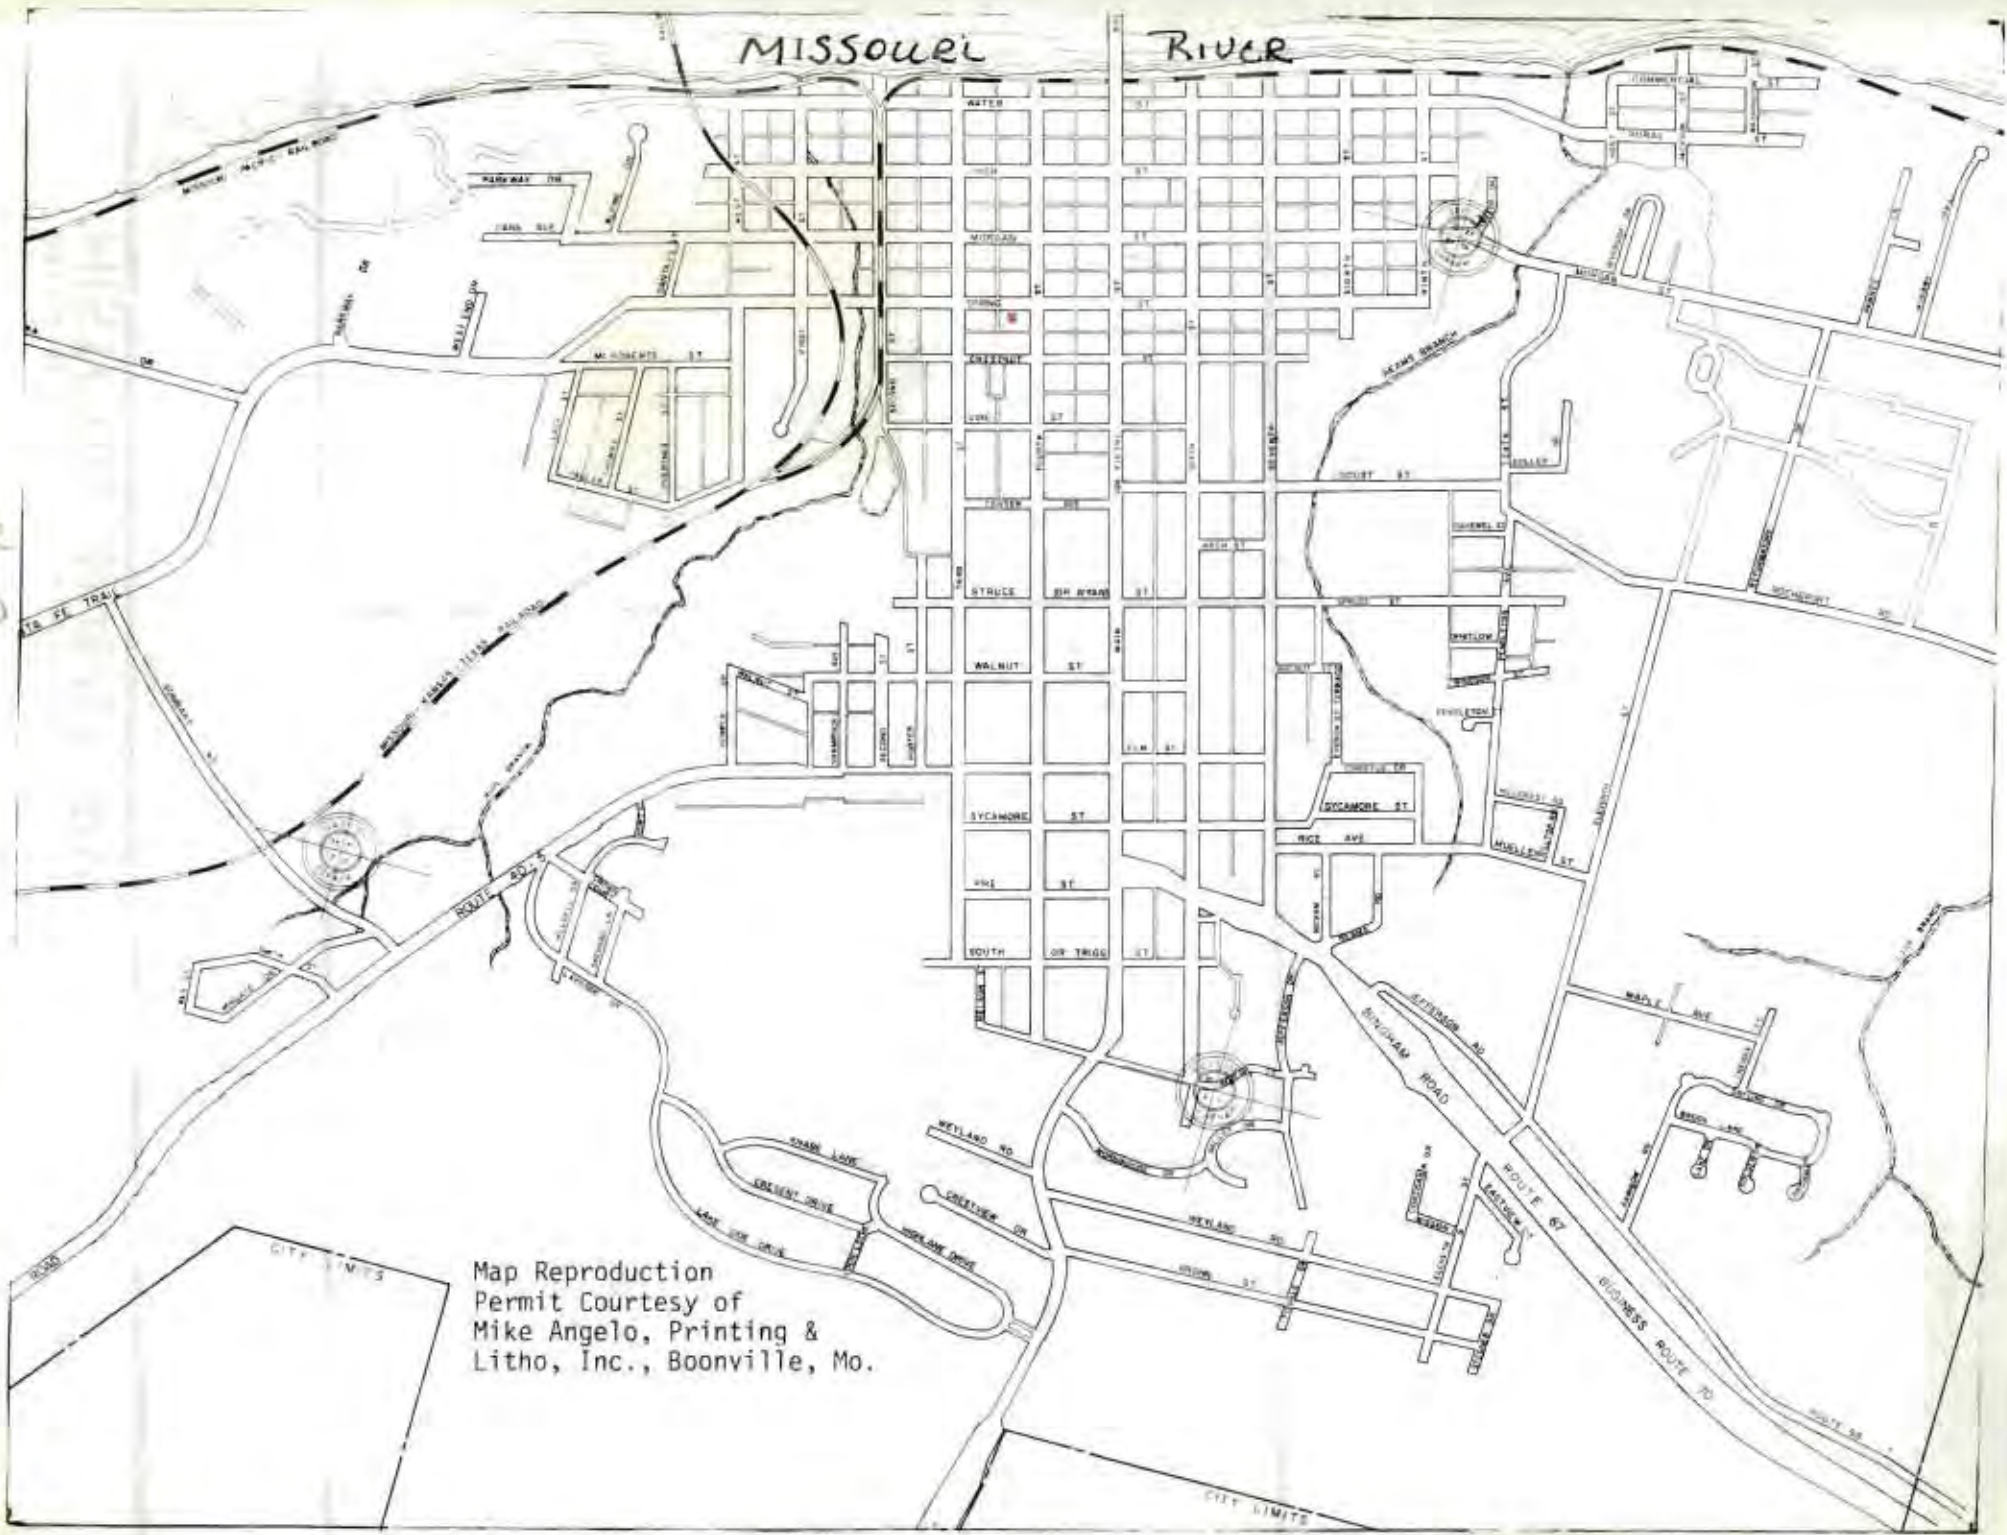

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto Spring St. The basement area is dug out on the N facade to allow a walk out basement. To the S, the yard drops away to expose the basement facades. A concrete drive to the W leads to a open frame carport.

42 Further Description of Important Features Built on a 2/3rd plan the primary entrance is the E bay of the S facade. It is inset with a transom and sidelights and has a frame surround composed of pilasters, entablature, brackets, and a projecting cornice. Windows are 2-over-2 and are attenuated on the 1st story. On the S facade the lintels are ornate cast iron. Other windows are 6-over-6 and have iron pedimented lintels. The E facade has a 2 story frame porch. The W facade has a large chimney and on the NW corner there is an enclosed (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance The structure was built in 1846 or shortly thereafter by Robert D. Perry, a vintner. Perry was active in civic affairs and was one of the developers of Walnut Grove cemetery, and a part owner of a Missouri River ferryboat. Perry sold the structure to merchant H.B. Benedict in 1859 who continued to reside at his residence one door to the west at 311 E. Spring. In 1868, Capt. Henry McPherson, owner of the steamboat "Jennie Lewis" and co-developer of the Boonville Water Co. bought it. McPherson's widow resided there at least until (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a high embankment facing S onto E. Spring Street. A stone wall is along the alleys to the N & W. A gravel drive from the N alley is to the E of the structure.

42. (cont.) 1 story porch which connects the main structure to the 2 story brick slave quarters and kitchen. This structure repeats the pedimented lintels and 6-over-6 windows. It has a cellar entrance (W) and a single leaf entrance (N). The main block has a 2 story frame addition to the N. It is clapboarded and has 6-over-6 windows. The pedimental lintels are repeated. Across this is a 1 story frame addition on the N with 2-over-2 trabeated windows. It connects to the slave quarters/kitchen on the W and projects to the E 1 bay beyond the main block. This E facade has a parapet with an ornate bracketed cornice. These additions were there by 1900.

43. (cont.) 1916 and possibly longer. The house, however, was foreclosed upon in 1918 and purchased by farmer William B. Gibson, a son-in-law of Mrs. McPherson. The house was converted into apartments before this date since Gibson used the structure as rental property. In 1945 the structure was purchased by James Burks, an MKT railroad employee for both his residence and for rental property. In 1978 Jerry Atkins and Marcus Monroe purchased the structure and rehabilitated the apartments for rentals.

On the northwest corner of the structure is a two story brick slave quarters and kitchen. Unverified tradition exists that there is a covered over tunnel in existence in the north wall of the basement that may have been part of an underground railroad.

42 Further Description of Important Features The front (S) facade is embellished by 2 square corner towers with angular corner buttresses and crenelated parapets. The central section has a semi-circular arched stained glass window over a pent roofed, arcaded porch, which was glassed in in 1960. This window, those arched windows in the tower and the large stained glass openings have tracery. The W facade also has an entrance. To the E is a 1 story hip roofed ell with a S entrance. It has a stone and concrete stoop. The initial cost (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance This is the Third church building erected by the Methodists, with the two previous building dates being 1832 and 1880. In 1915, Mrs. Charles Leonard felt that a new building was necessary and offered to donate as a memorial to her parents $10,000 toward the new building if both her brother, Louis Nelson, and her sister agreed to give this amount. A Mrs. Stephens gave $5,000 toward the building fund and $5,000 for a pipe organ. The 1880 building was razed in 1915, the corner stone of the new church laid in 1916 (see attached sheet)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The church sits at the NE corner of 4th & Spring Streets, facing S onto Spring. Alleys are to the E & N. The parsonage is to the NW.

42. (cont.) of building and equipping this original section was $39,000. A new Educational Building was added to the N in 1965 at a cost of $160,000. William Conrad was the architect. It is connected to the main block by a glass breezeway with entrances E & W. This new section is 2 stories and is sheathed in white ashlar brick, which compliments the original section. The kitchen was remodeled in 1964-the sanctuary was redecorated in 1965.

43. (cont.) and the building was completed and dedicated in 1917. The limestone for the building was quarried within the Boonville City Limits near Harley Park and is comparable in quality to Carthage Stone. The cost of building and equipping the church was approximately $39,000.

42 Further Description of Important Features End chimneys E & W. and a raking cornice accent the roof line. The primary facade has an exposed basement 1st. story area, which has 2 entrances, centrally located, and a large storefront window as its E bay. The 2nd. story has 1-over-1 windows without headers. The E facade has been stuccoed. Extending to the S is a gable ell (as the W bay) which has a large central chimney and a corbelled cornice along its W facade. To the E of this ell are 2 brick pent roofed additions. On its S facade (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance The ell and 1st pent addition were there by 1885. The 2nd. pent addition was built c 1917. By 1929 the structure was divided into 406 (W- a dwelling) & 408 (E - a store in the basement), and the porch was added to the rear. Approximately 1920 the basement was exposed forming the store section. Shipman's Barber Shop has been existence since 1977. Prior to this for many years it was a beauty shop.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the sidewalk to the N, and close to 410 E. Spring on the E. Facing N onto E. Spring, the building's additions sit up on an embankment. There are no outbuildings. An alley is to the S.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has changed several times. The structure currently has a molded concrete block porch over the 2 W bays of the N facade. These bays are an entrance and transom and a paired window which is 1-over-1, attenuated and has a segmental header. The porch has a wide entablature. The E bay is a 1-over-1 attenuated window with a segmental header. On the S facade there is a gabled addition. It is clapboarded and sits on a brick foundation. To the S is a pent enclosed porch.
43 History and Significance The structure exhibited floor plan changes in 1900 and again in 1917. This has been a rental property owned by Ben Smith, Sr., since 1948. Prior to that it was the residence of Matilda Muelschuster.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building sits on an embankment facing N onto E. Spring. It sits close to 408 and 412 (E & W). There is an alley to the rear (S) but no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features On the S facade the red brick structure is capped by a parapet which has a corbelled brick cornice. The 2nd. story windows are extremely attenuated and have pedimented lintels, projecting molded sills, and shutters. The 1st story is now covered with vertical board and batten siding and a wood shingle canopy. Fenestration includes a large multi-pane window to the E and a entrance with frame pilasters and entablature as its surrounds on the W. The W facade windows on the 2nd. story have rowlock, (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance By 1885 the structure was used as the Headquarters for the fire department. It continued to serve this function at least until 1929. During these years it had a wooden belfry on the SE corner. Between c 1900 & 1915 the city offices were housed in the 2nd. story. In 1917, the Police station was using the 2nd. story. The same arrangement existed as late as 1968. In the early 1970's Larry Smith relocated his Medical Arts Pharmacy to this location from 510 E. Spring. Dr. Diekroger also moved his office at the same time to space in the rear. (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto E. Spring. There is an alley to the W. Gravel parking is to the N. There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) segmentally arched lintels. One window is extremely attenuated and has intaglio work in its frame header. On the 1st story are 3 small windows with double rowlock segmentally arched lintels. The N facade has a 2 bay deep, 2 story brick addition, extending across its face. Its openings echo those of the original structure. There is an entrance to the W. The E wall is a common wall.

43. (cont.) Smith has continued an on-going program of rehabilitation that has included a complete 1st story interior renovation and floor plan change.

The first story has applied metal tiles. The E section has an entrance with a transom and flanking windows. The central section is a large window. The W section is listed as 415½ and has a single leaf entrance. The area below the 1st story windows is filled with brick veneer. E & W are common walls. The N facade has an 2 story enclosed frame (see attachment)

43 History and Significance In 1885, the structure was used as a Pool Room. In 1895 it stood vacant. The building housed a tailor in 1900 and the American Express Co. between c 1910 and 1917. By 1929 the building was divided into 2 story - a small narrow area to the W (415½) and an L shaped area to the E. A Miss Lowengroen operated a photography studio in the building followed by Ada's Cafe and, by 1948, Kempf's Barber Shop followed by the present business, A & Z Barber shop.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building faces S onto E Spring. A gravel parking area is to the rear. There are no outbuildings.

42 Further Description of Important Features The S facade has a lightly decorated parapet that has 3 courses of ashlar brick, 2 courses of ornate terra cotta of several designs, and 3 courses of ashlar brick. The 2nd. story windows are 1-over-1 and have frame sills and straight-side arched lintels. The E & W bays are paired. Extending across the 1st story is a metal beam with medallions. It is supported by cast iron pilasters and columns. The original inset entrance is centrally located and had 2 single leaf entrances. (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance Small 1 story shops stood on this lot prior to this building. They included a barber shop, Upholstery-Mattress makers, wallpaper & paint shop, a cigar factory, a broom shop and a restaurant. Upon completion of the new 2 story structure there was a photography shop in 417 which had a large skylight on the rear facade, probably the now enclosed NW corner. A dry goods store was housed in 419. By 1917 the building was used for dry goods and clothing shops, but no mention of a use for the 2nd story. (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The building faces S onto E Spring St. There are no outbuildings. A gravel parking area is to the rear.

42. (cont.) The E one is closed up and the entrance to the E store is now inset at the far E bay. Transoms extending across the facade are painted over but basically the integrity of the original store front is retained. E & W are common walls. On the N facade, W section, there is a basement entrance below ground level and 2 windows and an entrance at the 1st story level. All have double rowlock segmentally arched headers. A brick section to the W and an enclosed room on the E have asbestos siding, 2nd story level. The section of the N facade to the E is stepped out and joins the back of buildings which face Main Street.

43. (cont.) However in 1929, this top floor was again in use as a photography studio. In 1943 Herman Deck opened Herman's Beauty Salon at 417. In 1978 in this same location a short lived T-shirt embossing business developed but by 1979 Ron Ross relocated his Ross Interiors store here. In 1976 Corbin's Shoe repair relocated to 419. The name later changed to Sims Shoe Service.

42 Further Description of Important Features The corbelled brick cornice of 509-511 continues across this structure which originally had 2 storefronts. The 2nd. story windows are paired and shuttered. The 1st story has been altered but still has 2 entrances and 2 paired windows: transoms are over all of the openings. The E facade has a stepped parapet, paired 1-over-1 2nd. story windows and segmentally arched 1st story 2-over-2 windows. There is an entrance to the E. Small windows at the attic level appear on the N facade.

43 History and Significance Previous to this structure, 2 1 story commercial structures were on this part of the block. By 1910 the current building housed a music store and a warehouse, run by Professor A.H. Sauter until his death in 1931, at which time the building was inherited by Joe Memmell. From this time to the present there have been a series of insurance agencies in the building: Dauwalter & Son, Dauwalter & Toennes, Sam Phillips, Memmell, R.W. Meyer, & Million.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto Spring Street. There are no outbuildings. Additions were associated with the bakery (316 Grand). Grand Street, now used as an alley, is to the E.

A stained glass window is on the 1st story E of the entrance and on the E facade at the stair landing level. Constructed of molded concrete block, the 1 story porch on the S has a flat roof. Projections include gabled, chamfered 2 story bays to the W and to the S, both with brackets, and a rectangular bay to the E. The gables of the roof are accented by finials. To the N is a (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The structure was built by Frank Felton, a Cooper County farmer and stockman, for his residence. Felton had previously farmed 490 acres of land owned before him by Prof. F.T. Kemper (who had planned at one time to locate his school on that property). Upon Felton's death in 1948 the property was sold to his nephew, Bernard Esser who rewired and re-plumbed the house. In 1954 it was purchased by John Stegner, a lawyer, who sold it in 1956 to present owner. (cont.)

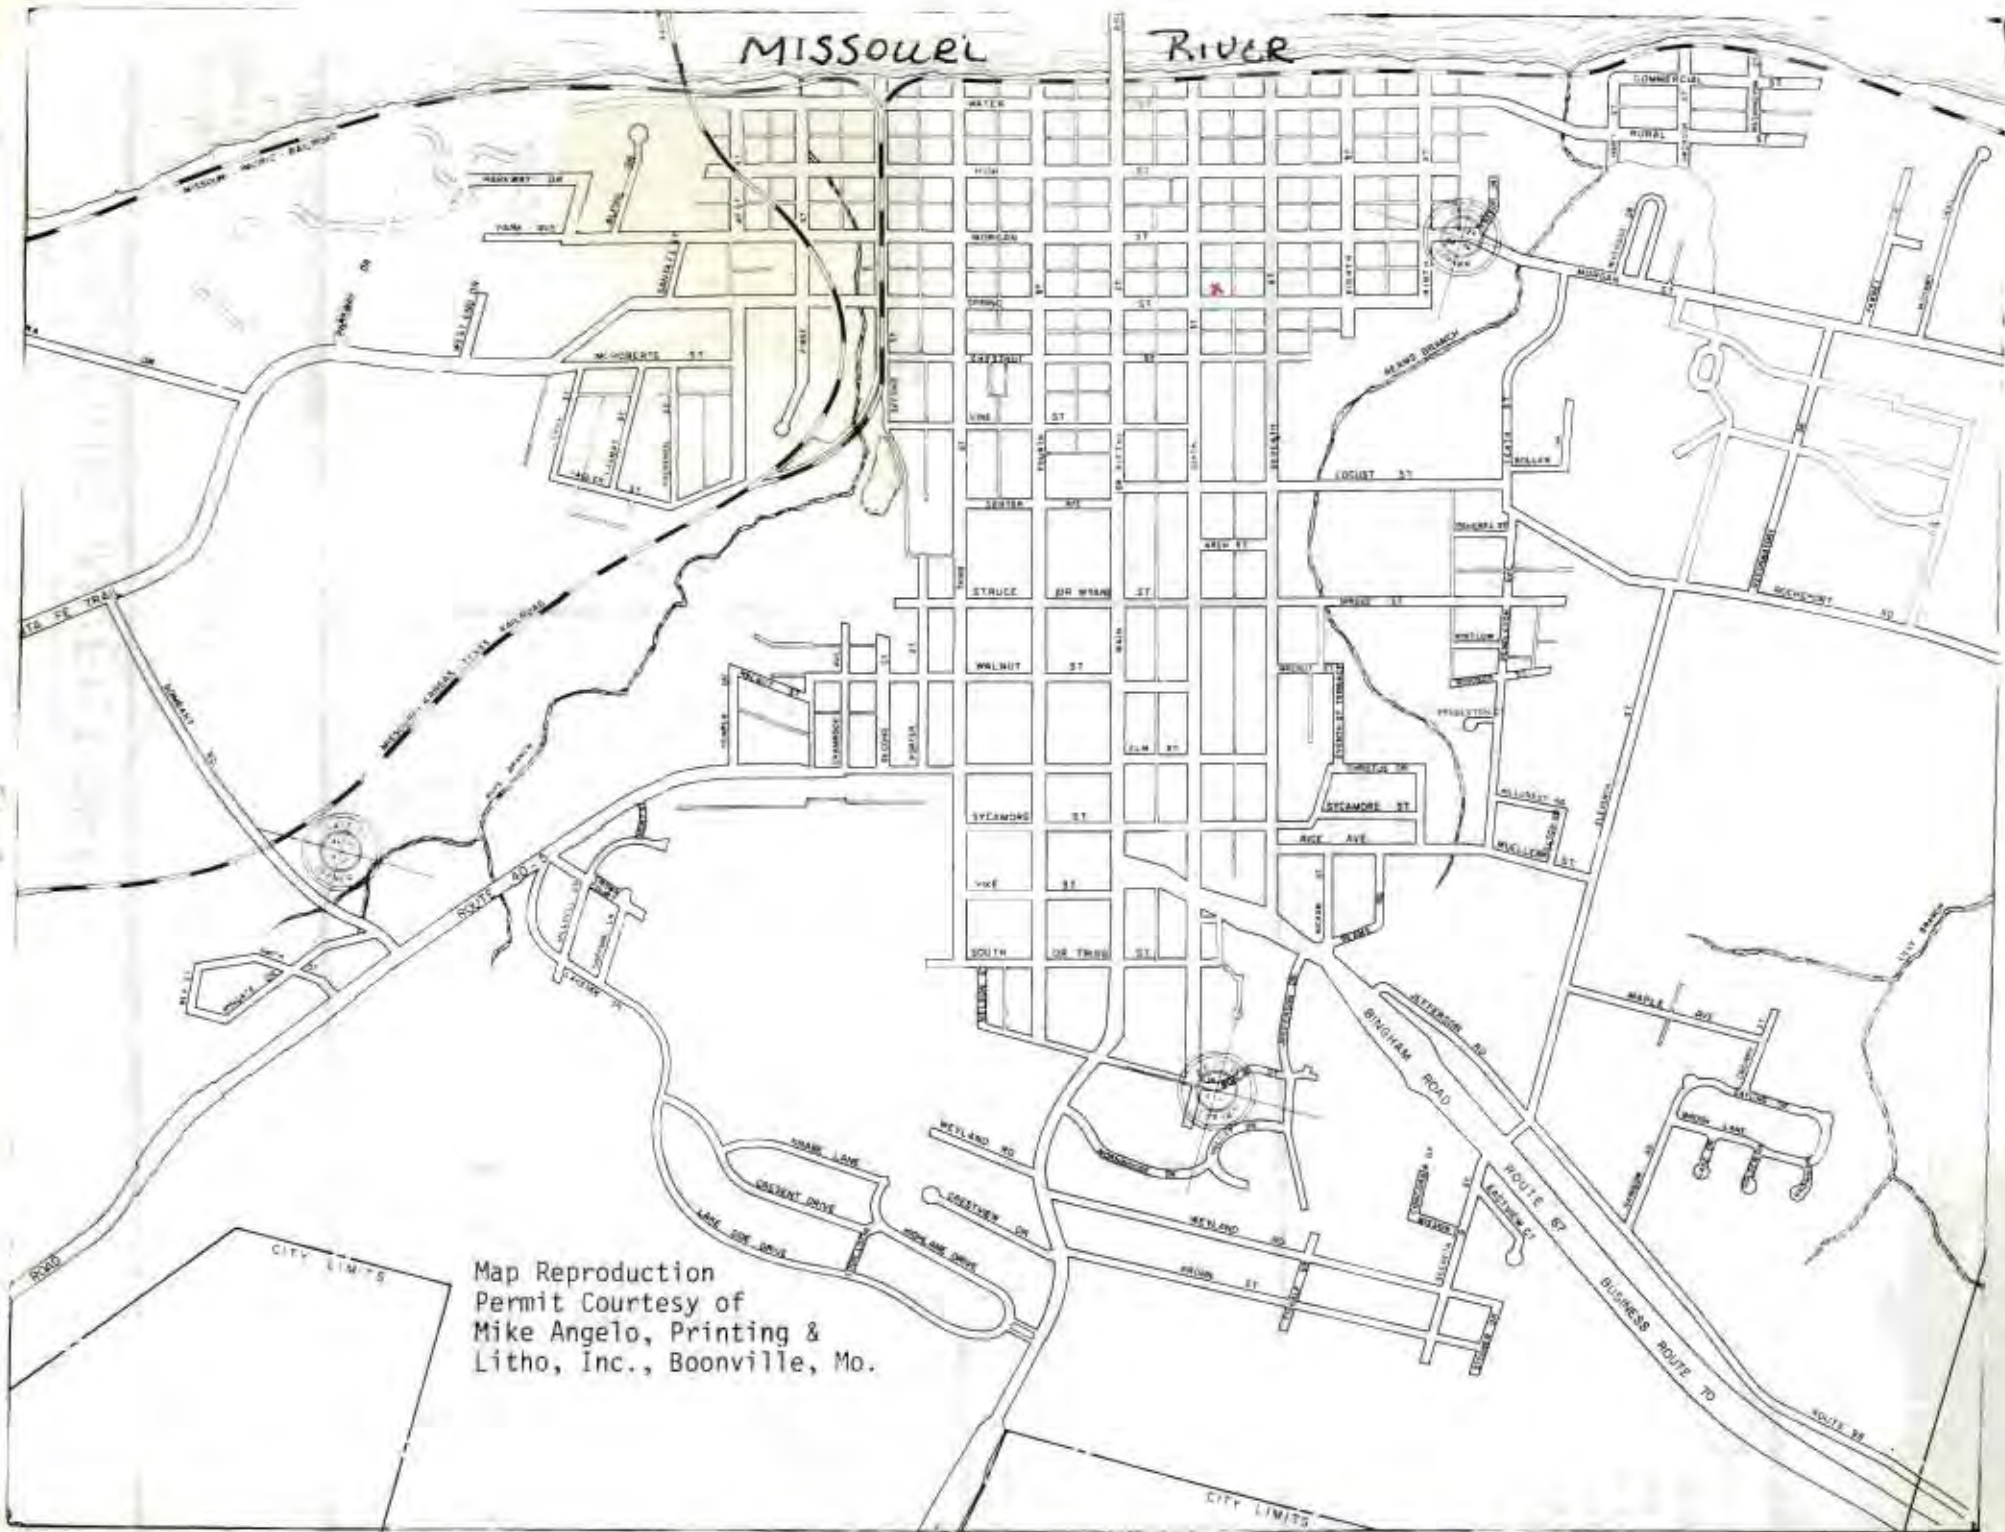

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto Spring Street. There are no outbuildings. An asphalt drive which leads to the garage and a display area for farm implements are to the W.

43 History and Significance The house was built as the residence of John Bernard, a French immigrant cigar maker. Bernard arrived in Boonville in 1851, opened his cigar manufactory and marketed the "Dexter Cigar" nationwide. In the 1869-70 City Directory Bernard is listed as residing on the site, but this structure was razed for the building of the present structure. Bernard was a developer of the Boonville Public Schools, serving on the School Board from 1863-82. He also (cont.)

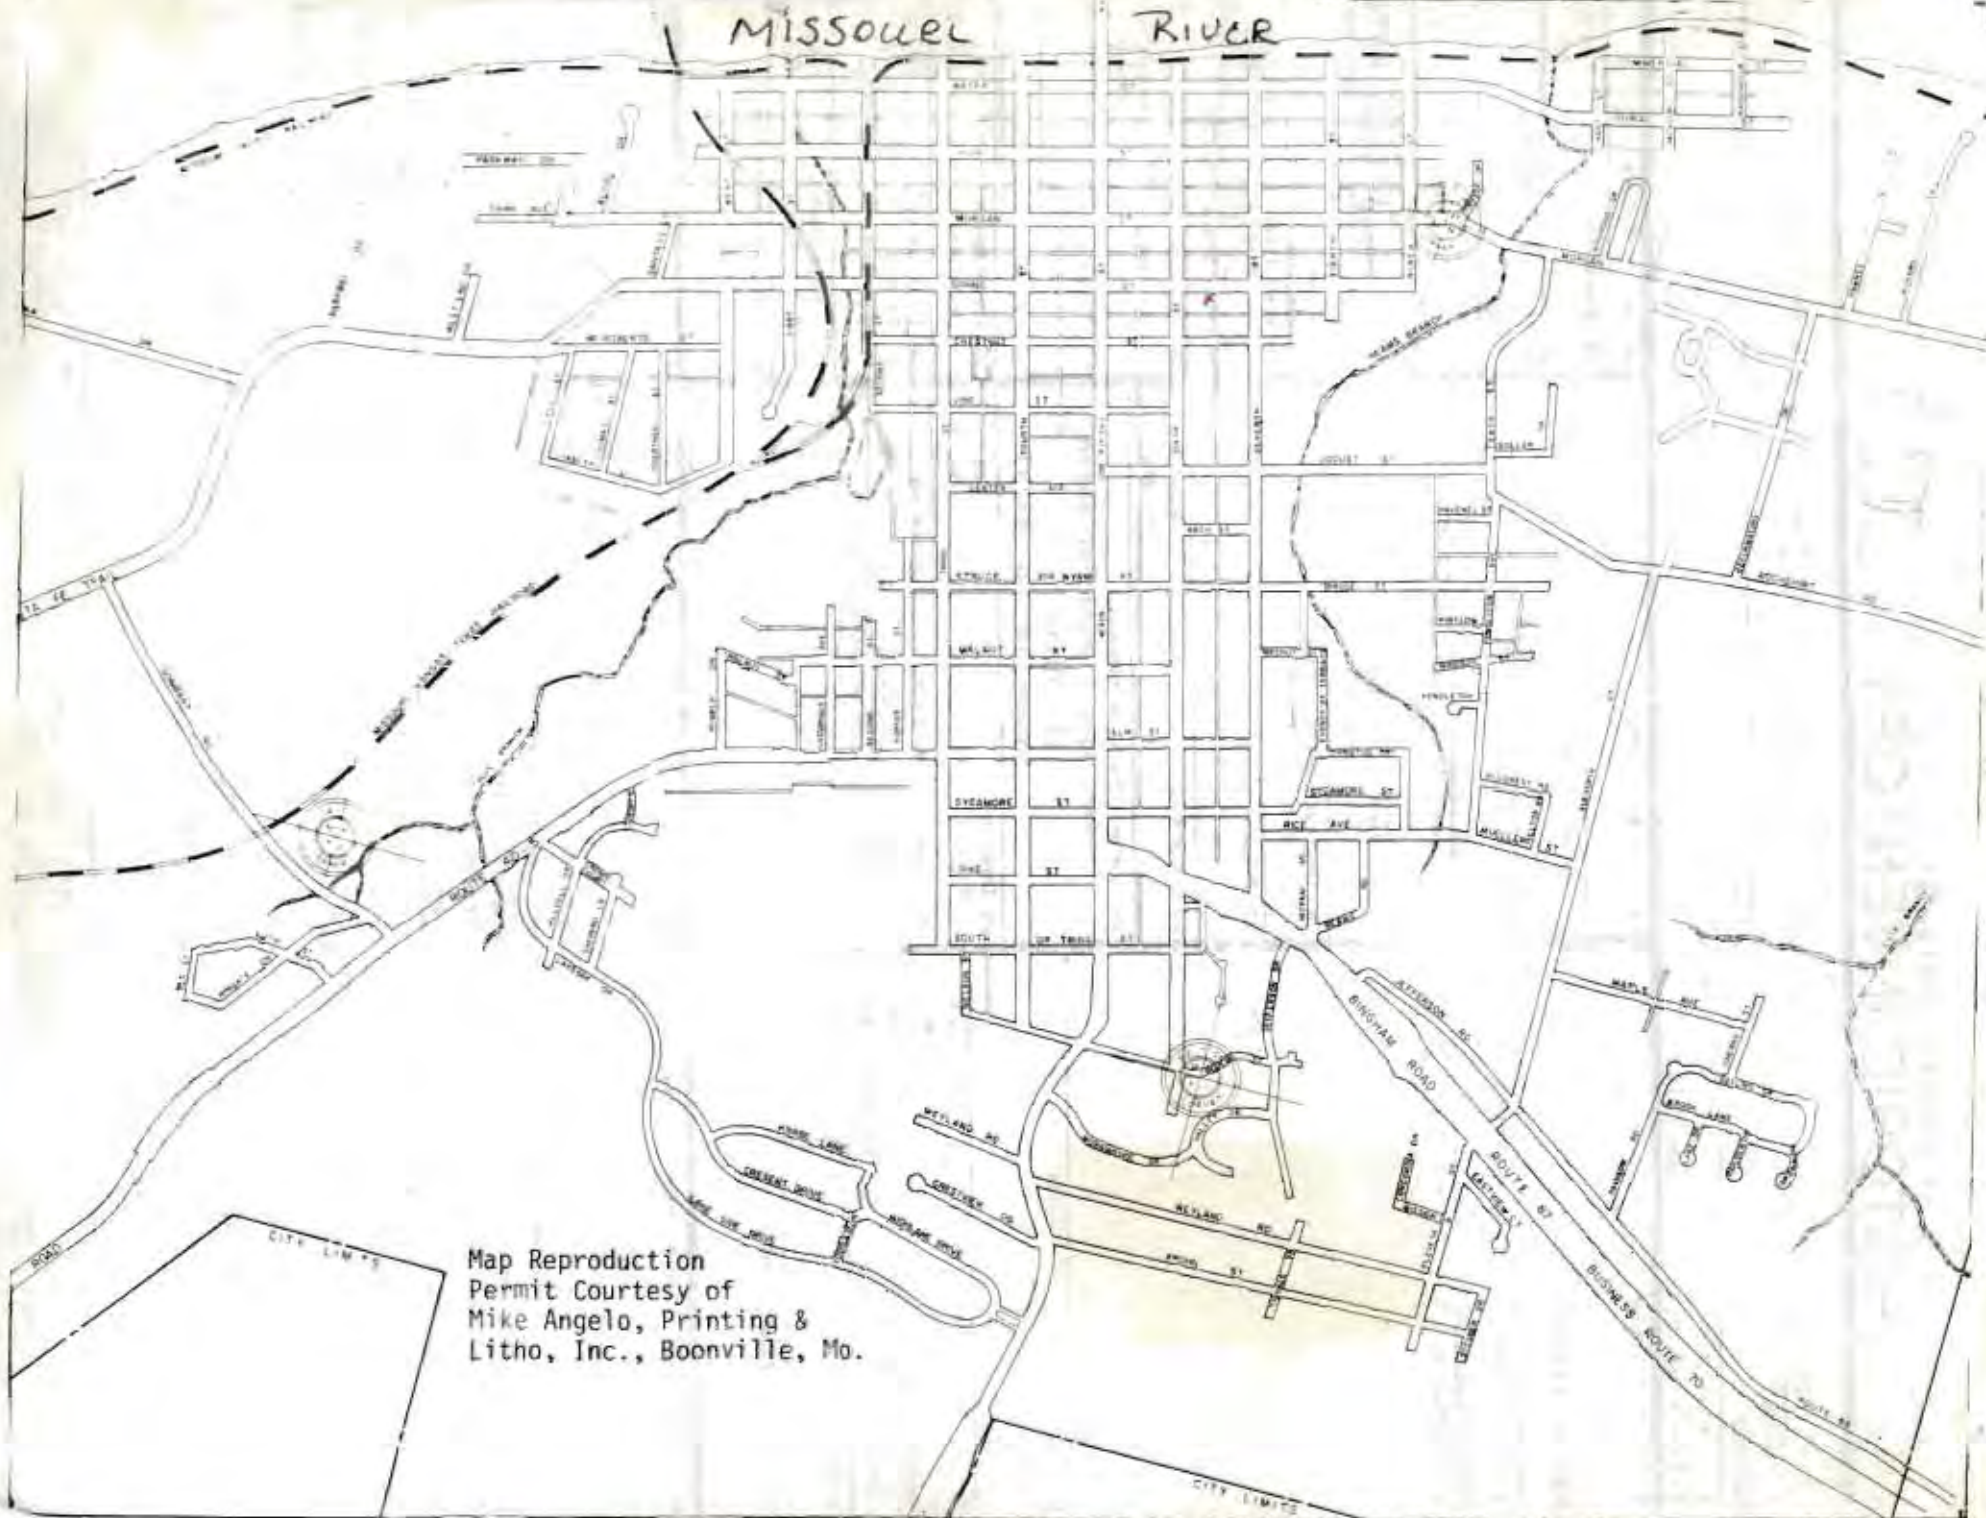

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on a long, narrow lot with alley on E side and in rear. 1 outbuilding, a frame garage and shed combination, has side alley access and composition roof. Wire and post fence on W side only. Sits very close to house on W.

42. (cont.) roof gables. In front, the 2nd floor door goes out over porch (no railing). Door has transom and decorative gable roof extension above. Gutters are enclosed with molding. Some side and back windows are 9-over-6. There is a balcony on the side. The rear porch addition has brick columns supporting turned posts above. A cistern or well is under the back porch and there is a walk-in basement with access through a recessed door under the back porch. One back room appears to be a porch that was enclosed. Interior walnut woodwork has bulls eye motif and there is tracery inside arched doorways. Rooms are of irregular shape. An elaborate mantelpiece is in the front room. Interior is original but needs extensive repair. Brick portion of the basement has an old washing caldron (for clothes).
43. (cont.) served the community as Justice of the Peace and as City Councilman. Subsequent owners were the Mills family who retained ownership until 1924. In that year D.E. Doyle became the owner and Mrs. Doyle, a widow, remained in the house til 1977 when the house was sold to the present owners. Presently the house is in poor condition, although it retains its original appurtenances. The small one car garage to the extreme south of the lot was built in 1928 or 1929 and replace a two story frame barn. This Queen Anne residence retains its decorative elements. It is locally significant due to its architectural integrity and as part of an integral turn of the century streetscape and neighborhood.

42 Further Description of Important Features Brick structure to the N was built c. 1850 as a later addition to the 3 log rooms extending to the S. This brick section is on a 2/3rds. plan; the entrance with a 4 light rectangular transom, is the easternmost bay. Windows are 6-over-6, shuttered and have a flat arch, soldier course lintel. A brick dentil course is below the boxed eaves. A chimney is on the W end. The ell to the S is composed of the original 3 log rooms. Concrete plaster now covers the field stone foundation. Asbestos (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance From abstract it appears that the 1st log structure was built in 1833 by Ewing Ellison. Subsequent owners were Horsley Rea (1834), John McCullough (1837), William Childs (1838). In 1841 John McCullough bought the property back and erected the 2nd connecting log structure selling it to David Andrews the same year. Between 1841 and 1848 Andrews had the Missouri German front addition built. In 1848 it was sold to John Babbit, known as leader of the "Fantastic Company" in 1841. Between 1852 and 1894 the Joseph (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits close to the street and faces N onto Spring. The log ell runs S along to the W. A pent roofed shed sheathed in corrugated metal is on the S alley. A field stone retaining wall is to the S & W. 620 E. Spring is associated with this property - see individual listing.

42 Further Description of Important Features The primary facade (S) has an entrance with a 4 light transom and flanking pilasters and sidelights. It sits on a raised basement and is reached by a brick and concrete stoop with steps to the E & W. The roofline is accented by a wide frame frieze, end chimneys, and gable end parapets. The original ell extends to the NW bay and has a large end chimney. Windows repeat the 6/6 and soldier course, flat arch lintels of the primary facade. To the E, (cont.)		Photo
43 History and Significance Built by William W. Adams about 1844, the structure is both architecturally and historically significant. It is a fine example of Federal period architecture in the Boonslick area. It served as the home of the Christian Science Church for over 50 years (1923-77)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto Main St. Alleys are to the W & N. This house is located in a residential area, just 1½ blocks from the main intersection in Boonville. It was built next to the sidewalk. Two homes of the same period are across the street. Just across the alley at the rear of the residence is the old town jail (1878).		46 Prepared by L. Harper/D. Kirby

42. (cont.) steps lead up the embankment to an entrance of the hip roofed ell addition extending to the NE bay. This 2 room brick wing was added c. 1920. In the 1950's additions and alterations were made to accomodate the church. The 2 back ells were connected by a flat roof and enclosed to form a large hall and bathrooms. The front hall and stairway were removed and the upstairs rooms were sealed off. Fortunately the stairway was saved. The interior features 7 original fireplaces, original doors and hardware, and the restored central hall with original stair and walnut balustrade. Structurally the building is sound and is in the process of being restored. The structure which was once endangered from the neglect of its previous owners is now being returned to its original elegance.

42 Further Description of Important Features Queen Anne features include the irregular plan; front door with spindles, floral motifs, transom; front porch with turned spindle frieze and balustrade and turned posts with decorative brackets. The paired windows of the 2nd story have arched stained glass windows with segmentally arched corbelled double headers with keystone above. A similar decorative arched window is on the W. Heavy stone (or concrete) headers appear above most windows. The front facade has a polygonal bay. On the E facade is a 2 story (cont.)
43 History and Significance The structure was built by Charles Gross for his residence. Gross, a confectioner, operated his father's business out of 328 Main St. and later opened up the "Kozy Korner" confectionary. Gross served the city in many elected capacities among which were City Councilman (1885), City Registrar (1886), Police Judge (1914). In 1897 he was appointed Postmaster, a position he held until 1910. Following this he acted as the Office Manager of the Central Missouri Republican newspaper. The present owner and her husband (now deceased) (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence sits on a high embankment facing S. There is a 4 car brick garage along the rear (N) alley. Its roof has parapet walls.

42 Further Description of Important Features Chimneys on either side of roof, central porch with pediment supported by 4 fluted columns (2 engaged), square posts on balustrade. Front door flanked by engaged columns has transom and sidelights. Soldier course headers above windows, 6-over-6, shutters. Chimney in back portion. East side. porch with lattice enclosure & engaged columns. Two entrances to basement (1 door under porch, one cellar type entrance under main section of house). Small window on either side of main portion has shutters. (see attachment)

43 History and Significance Structure is thought by prior owner to have been built by Marcus Williams, (local builder and sheriff) with slaves in period 1848-50. Bricks allegedly were made on the site. It was the family home of J.L. Hesel and his descendants. Hesel, operator of the city meat market purchased the home shortly after the Civil War and raised a large family within. When his daughter Louise died in the N.E. bedroom it was locked and shuttered remaining unopened for 55 years. (see attaches sheet)

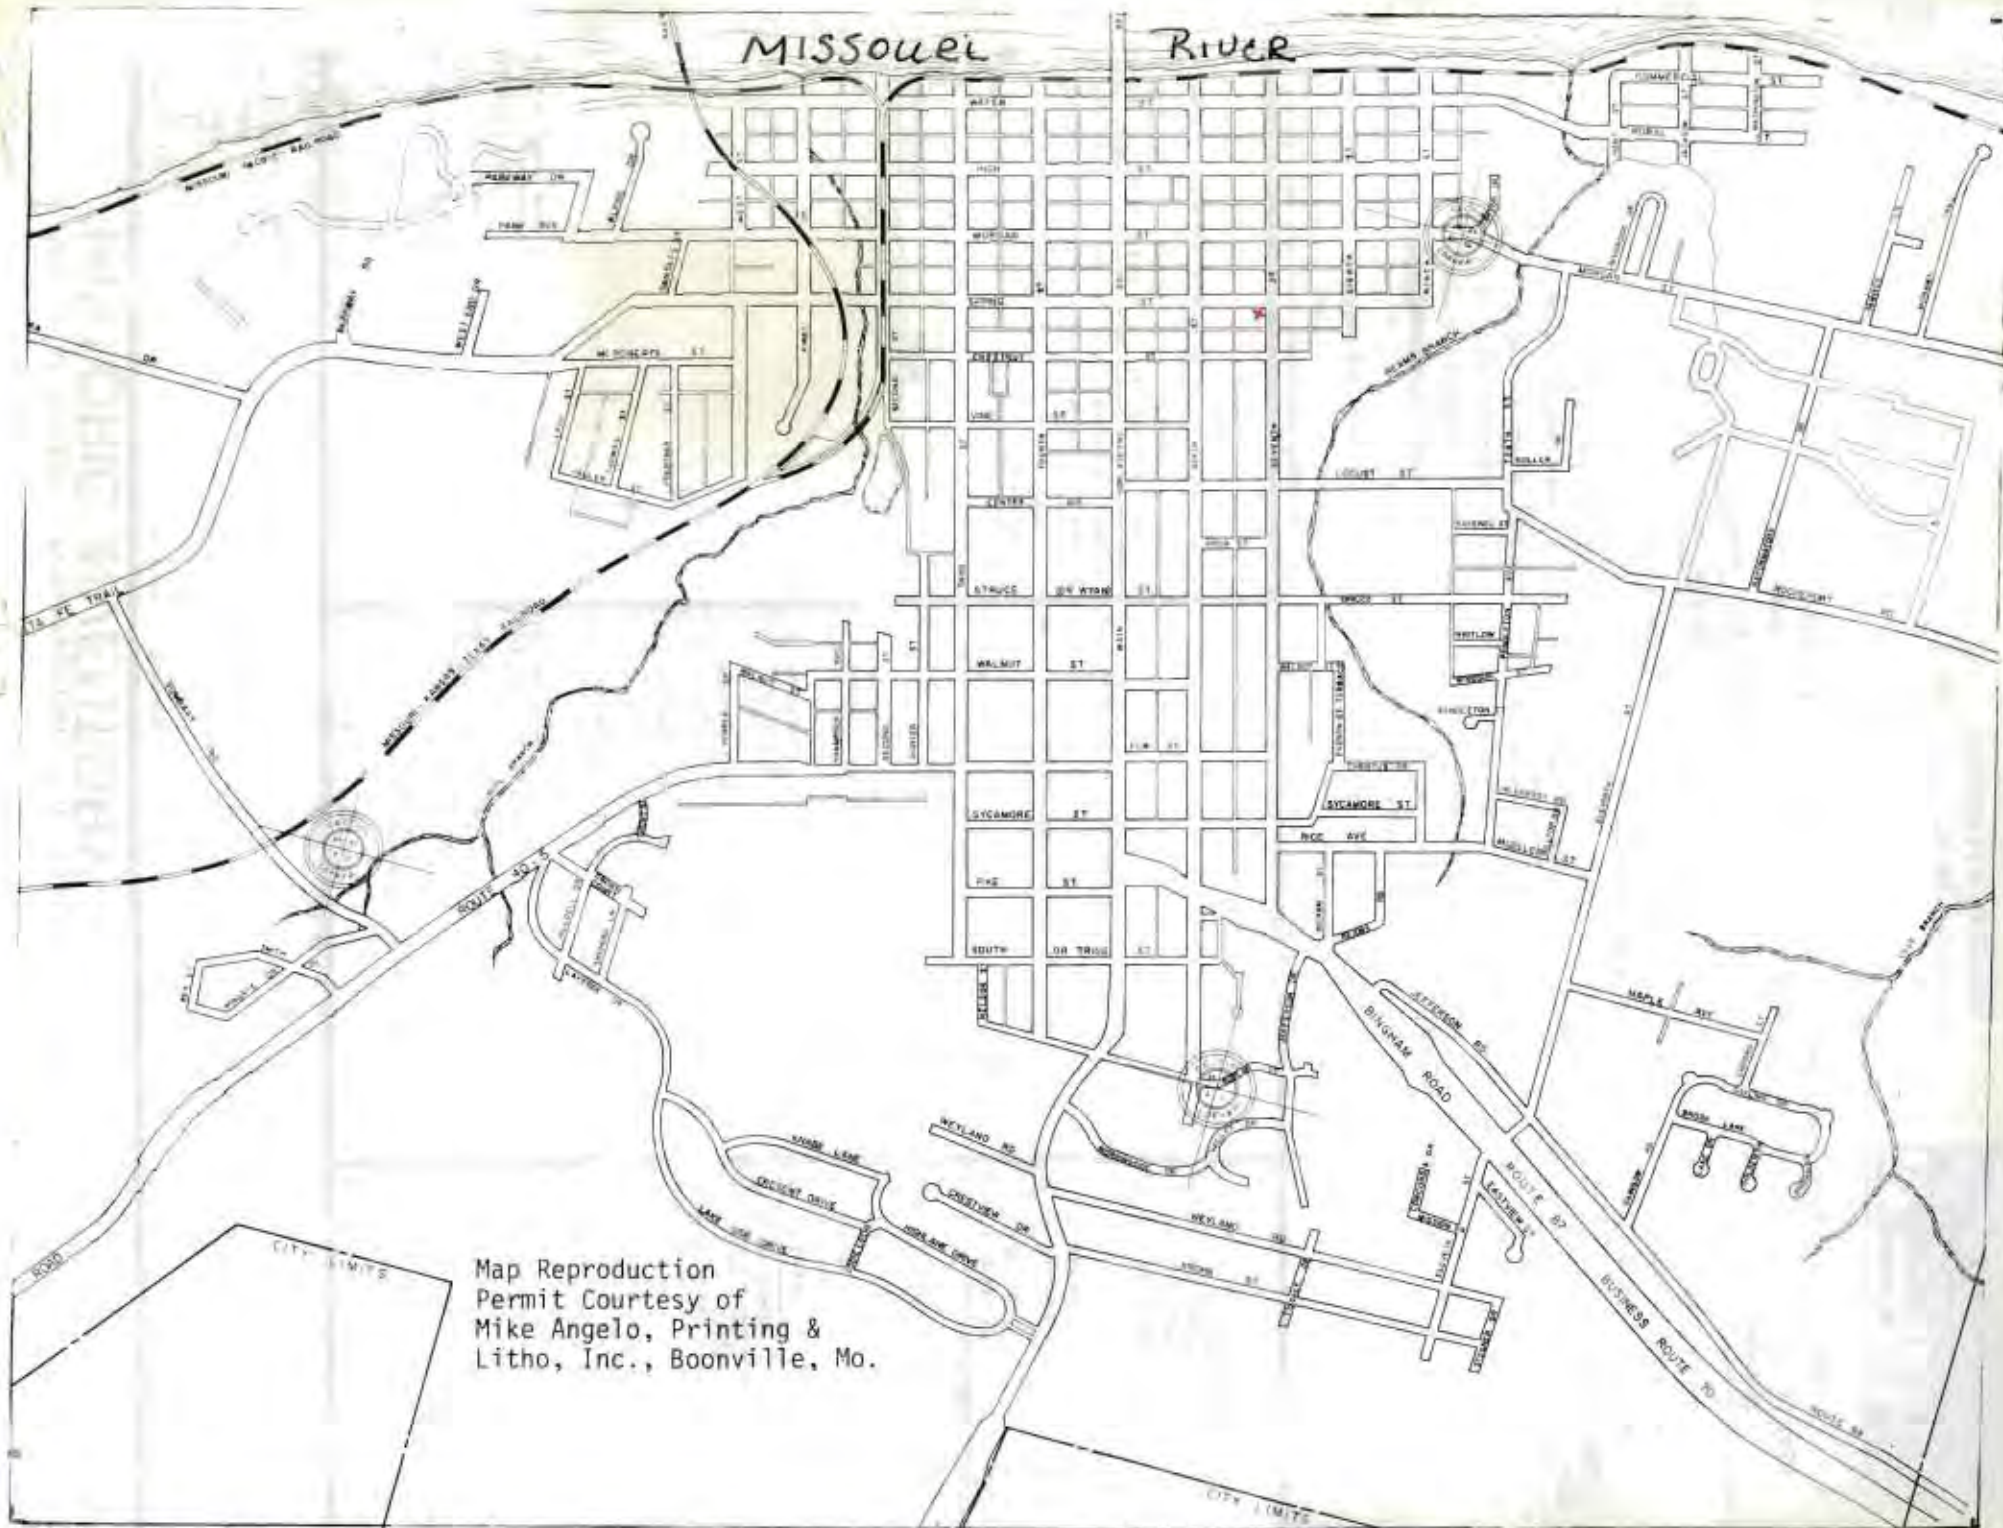

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings SE corner of 7th & Spring, slight rise above street, white picket fence & brick walk on east side. Board and batten barn in rear (used as garage & shed) has drive, access from 7th street, a tin roof, & stone foundation. Alley in rear.

42. (cont.) Interior of structure's first floor was restored in 1968. S.E. bedroom was converted into guest room with an addition of a bath. Original bedrooms in rear (S) have been converted into modern bedroom and kitchen area. The Southern most portion of lattice porch was enclosed to form closet for rear bedroom. Fireplace mantels in living room and guest room are Greek Revival. Beneath the guest room is a wine cellar. Basement area currently contains wash area, simple bedroom and storage. There is no interior stairway to lower level, access is via stairway on latticework porch.

43. (cont.) The Hesel brothers raised game cocks in the back yard and the barn was used at times as a site for area cockfights. There is a "secret" room in the barn. The house was purchased in 1968 by A.L. and Betty Crow as a retirement home. Crow, once superintendent of schools in Boonville, hired the Cochran Construction Company in that year to completely restore the interior first floor, exterior including front porch and barn. Research by the Crows and Cochrans yielded a completed restoration project that has been entitled a "gem" among local residences. Mrs. Crow remained in the home till 1977 when it was sold to J.E. Small. In 1977 the Cochran Construction Company completed restoration of the barn. The original environment contained besides the barn a summer kitchen, well, numerous small buildings interconnected by pink brick walks. Only the barn and one brick walk remain.

42. (cont.) Doors echo hoodmolds and have transoms. The gables has fish-scale shingles. A 1 room, 1 story brick extension, probably original to the house is on NW corner with a cellar type entrance to basement. A 1 room frame addition on NE corner with wooden 1 flight wooden staircase is on E side. A 2nd story door on N facade leads onto roof of addition.

43. (cont.) city street paving projects between 1898 and 1919, the city sewer system, and the construction of the City Water Works basins.

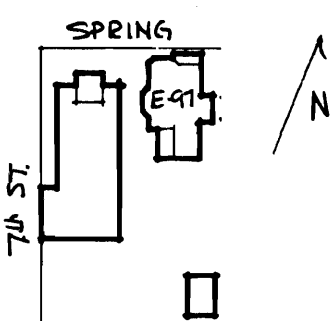

Local significance is attached to this residence because of its association with Thomas Hogan and because it helps to form a turn of the century streetscape and neighborhood identity.

43 History and Significance House was built for a Mr. Smith. In 1920's it was owned by Dr. A. Smith, a doctor, and son of the original owner. At that time it served as both a residence and office. J. Kenneth Esser owned the residence in the 1950's and 60's. Originally the exterior brick walls terminated at ground level without a footing. Esser undermined the walls and installed cement support pilings, and cemented the 1 room cellar in 1957. Shortly thereafter the SW addition was added developing (see attached sheet)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings  The residence sits close to the street and to the alley to the W, and faces N onto E. Spring There are no outbuildings.

42. (cont.) a panelled frieze, brackets, and delicate window hoods. On this side of the rear ell are 2 pent dormers, 1 window which has a bracketed cap, and a pent roof, rectangular bay. Frame steps lead up to the attic story entrance with a gable cap on the N facade. On the 1st story of the facade is an inset porch and concrete stoop.

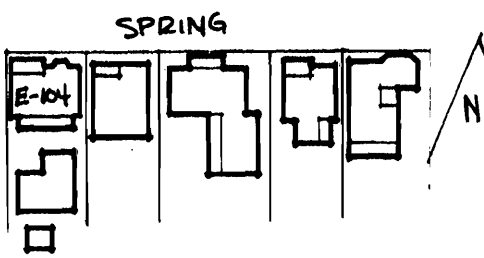

Additions and alterations include rebuilding the roof and porch after the 1923 fire, a basement c. 1920's-30's, & converting the structure into a duplex c. 1940. In 1978 the residence was returned to a single family dwelling and the several walls were removed and the stairway was replaced. An ornate front door and a pair of double leaf doors were retained on the 1st story. The exterior has been recently painted in a bio-chromatic color scheme which highlights the Gothic motifs.

43. (cont.) Co. Other owners include Charles Sauter (1916) and George Esser (1918-1965). The Catholic Church owned the property from 1965 to 1976. Present owners purchased the house in 1978.

42 Further Description of Important Features The inset entrance is the 2nd. bay to the West. It has a hip roof & a 1 bay, 1 story porch with frame square post on a concrete slab. The porch repeats the scroll brackets which are at the eaves. The E bay of the S facade is a 1 story polygonal bay window. It has iron cresting and also repeats the brackets. The windows are attenuated, some are paired, and have segmentally arched lintels of soldier, rowlock, and double rowlock courses. Some have a bull's eye motif in the header. A window at the (See Attachment)

43 History and Significance Lot number 197 of the original town has history of being divided. Property lot is the site of two early structures neither in existence at present. A small simple house must have been in existence in 1855 facing Spring Street when Solomon and Cynthia Williams, "free negroes", purchased the property from R.D. Holman. In 1859 Cynthia Williams, a widow, deeded a 60' by 40' section to the Methodist Episcopal Church for the building of a Church building. The trustees defaulted on a bank loan in 1864 and were (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings There are no outbuildings. A concrete drive gives access from the carport to Spring Street. A herringbone walk remains on the S & W. The residence sits close to the sidewalk at the NE corner of 8th & Spring Streets, facing S onto Spring..

42. (cont.) stair landing to the N has a bordered Queen Anne motif. Capping the structure is a wide frame cornice with scroll brackets. These brackets are larger at the corners and immediately along the facade. There is a 2 story brick ell and a pent roofed frame addition to the NE. The frame section is covered with asbestos siding and is 1 room and a carport. The entrance transom exhibits the name A.M. Koontz.

43. (cont.) forced to sell the lot section for $420 to one of the trustees, James W. Harper, a devout confederate sympathizer. Soon after he sold it to Louise and Fredrick Rottger, a stone cutter, who resided within in 1864.

The large remaining portion of the lot was sold by William's trustees to William Senne, in 1867 Senne divided the lot and sold an "L" shaped center portion to F. Rottger who sold his portion 90' by 58' to Alfred M. Koontz in 1878. A northern portion of the lot was sold by William's trustees to John H. Tholke in 1869. Tholke was listed as residing there in 1869. The northern most portion of the lot (92' X 90') was sold by Senne who resided in a small log and brick structure to Henry Grimm in 1879. In 1887 it was purchased by Christian Sauter who sold it to A.M. Koontz in 1888. The log structure remained in existence till 1958 when it was removed by Harold Oswald who built the structures at 314 and 316 Eighth Street.

In 1878 A.M. Koontz, a prominent Main Street grocer, had the present Italianate structure built. In the front entrance transom appears the name "A.M. Koontz" in red glass. A front door red window glass remained in existence until recently. Koontz remained in his residence till 1936 when his son, McKinzie inherited the house. On 1951 Henry A. Oswald purchased the structure. In 1957 the present owner, William Lang, an electrician, purchased the structure.

In 1958, all ceilings were lowered 3 feet, the rear porch was closed to form a utility room, the bath and kitchen were remodeled.

42 Further Description of Important Features The main block of the structure is capped by a wide frieze with scroll brackets. There is a 1 story gabled ell extending to the S on the SE corner. The primary facade features 1st and 2nd story entrances with transoms, 2-over-2 attenuated windows and a 3 bay, 1 story hip roofed porch with square wood columns and a wide entablature. The S ell has a ribbed tin roof. There is a pent addition to its E which adjoins a porch on the E facade of the main block. There are several additions to the rear. (see attachment)
43 History and Significance Structure was built originally on plan with 2 rooms on each level. Mrs. Hess remembers that prior to her ownership there was a fireplace in the N.W. room and that it was destroyed by fire. House was owned c. 1900 by N. Meistrell. The present owner purchased the house in 1959 from John Stretz. Present owner installed hardwood floors in portions of structure and added insulation and storm windows in 1979. Wide pine floors in first and second N.E. rooms and the original staircase have been retained. (see attached sheet)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto E. Spring. To the S is a stuccoed, 1 car garage. It has a gable, rib-tin roof. A concrete drive to the E of the residence gives access from Spring Street to the garage.

42 Further Description of Important Features This structure has been severely altered. The original section was the gable roofed 5 bay rectangular section to the S. It has 1-over-1 attenuated windows which are tra-beated. A later hip roof ell was added to the NW. It projects to the W and has a molded concrete block foundation. It has a S entrance with a belcast pent cap and turned post and spindle frieze. To the NE are several additions, partially stuccoed. On the primary facade a East-lake porch has been enclosed and obscures the (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance Probably built by Frank Stretz, a builder of area brick streets and culver bridges. His surviving widow remained in the residence until 1944 with her son, John, and her daughter, Mayme. John Stretz was locally known as the owner of the Phoenix Saloon until prohibition, and afterwards as the owner of the Cash and Carry Grocery Store. Upon Mayme's death in 1974 the structure sold to Frank Doyle who resided there until 1976. In that year Mr. Hill from Columbia bought it for rental property. It is presently undergoing alterations.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Along the alleys to the E & N are 2 outbuildings. One is of molded concrete blocks with a hip roof and an overhead door to the S. The other has concrete stucco and a truncated hip roof with a pent dormer on the N and 2 garage doors on the E. A concrete block wall and frame gate are to the N. An ozark rock (See Attachment)

To the S is a pent roofed section as the W bay which may be original to the front section. Large windows on its E facade indicate an exterior wall. However an enclosed porch now fills this space. With its gable roof (E-W), a brick section is also to the S. Before 1929 it had a frame porch across its S facade. Currently it has 2 later additions including a bath. It almost appears as if there were 2 independent structures joined in the center. This is echoed on the interior by the fact that the front 2 rooms, hall and pent ell have trabeated millwork accented by an egg and dart motif. Rooms to the rear have Eastlake millwork with bull's eye motifs. The NE room has a double leaf entrance off of the central hall and at one time was used as a kitchen.

42 Further Description of Important Features A frame Victorian porch on brick piers affords protection to the 2 entrances with transoms and Eastlake interior doors on the S facade. The gutters are boxed and a wide frame cornice, which rakes at the gable ends, accents the roof line. Chimneys with corbelled caps are on the E & W. Windows are 2-over-2, attenuated, have soldier course segmentally arched headers and frame lug sills. On the N, there is a raised 1st story frame porch with a basement entrance under it.

43 History and Significance The land this residence sits on remained undeveloped in the family of original town founder's descendants until 1883. In 1900 the lot was purchased by Rosa Gantner, widow of immigrant brick mason, Andrew Gantner. The structure was built for Rosa by her sons who themselves were masons. Upon her death the structure was sold to Hannah O. Jellison in 1914. Residing in the structure in 1916 was Miss Eula Jellison, Mrs. J.L. and Richard Jellison. In 1917 the structure was purchased by Mary Prestin. In 1928 John Stretz, the last (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces S onto E. Spring. There is an alley to the N & W. The rear yard slopes downward to allow for a walkout basement entrance. On the NW corner of the lot is a frame outbuilding which is sheathed in corrugated tin.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is built on a 2/3rds plan with the entrance with transom and sidelights in the E bay of the S facade. It is capped by a 1 bay rectangular porch with a wide bracketed entablature. Windows are 2-over-2 with rowlock segmentally arched headers. Raking wood cornice frames the gable ends E & W and the gable wall dormer to the S. The remainder of the S facade has a bracketed frieze. There is a gable brick ell in 2 sections extending to the N. It has 6-over-6 windows, and has (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance The abstract indicates that there may have been a structure present by 1855. Present structure which first appeared as a 4 room (2/2) simple dwelling of gothic design dates after 1862. In that year John Fessler, who operated a restaurant in the Commercial Hotel, bought the land and between 1865 and 1867 obtained three mortgages totaling $1500.00. Default occurred and Sheriff Thomas E. Rochester bought the supposed structure but resided elsewhere. In 1872 it sold to Joseph Weber who was a First Lieutenant (see attached sheet)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits on an extremely high embankment facing S. A drive is to the W. A small metal storage shed is to the NW.

42. (cont.) a W entrance. A clapboarded pent addition is to the E of the ell.
43. (cont.) of the "home guards" during the Second Battle of Boonville. Default occurred and in 1878 it sold to B.E. Secongost, hotel proprietor, who probably built the rear "L" extension. In 1897 it sold to Austin K. Wallace who sold it the next year to Richard Toennes. Toennes, who did not reside there, was an orchardist and mural painter whose works appeared in the State Capital, Thespian Hall and a number of Boonville homes. Subsequent owners of the property were: Mary Rennison, 1919; C.W. Kirton, 1919; Henry L. Stewart, 1921; James R. Miller, City Marshall, who resided elsewhere, 1926; Hugo Schilling, 1927; Ben Smith, Sr., 1943; Fred Armstrong, 1944; Lewis Pogue, 1945; Jack Pogue, 1950; John Stegner, a lawyer residing elsewhere, 1953; Luther Shelnutt, 1955, (default - 1961); the present owner Opal Simmons traded her small farm west of Boonville for the structure in 1961. Present owner utilized rear "outhouse" till 2 years ago. The open porch on east side was enclosed in 1966.

42 Further Description of Important Features The irregular plan is accented by a double stepped front facade (N). The E bay is capped by a gable wall dormer with ornate scallop and cut out vergeboard. The central bay has the 1st story entrance with transom and projects only slightly. This N facade retains its original 1 story pent porch with rich spindle work. It wraps around the inset W bay. Over the entrance the porch has a pediment filled with a closed lattice type pattern. Windows are 1-over-1 with ashlar brick, double rowlock (see attached)
43 History and Significance The structure was built as a residence for Col. Albert Gallatin Blakey on land belonging to his father-in-law and known as the "Ells Farm". Col. Blakey, a superintendent of the Missouri Training School, developed numerous reforms and under his supervision many repairs were made to the aging buildings. In 1910 the two story rear addition was built. In 1922 the house and 22 acres was purchased by James R. Miller. Miller operated a
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N onto Spring. It sits on an embankment with a molded concrete block wall to the N. A drive to the W leads to a frame, single car garage. It has a gable roof and entrance to the N.		46 Prepared by L. Harper/ J. Higbie

Windows are 1-over-1 and shuttered. The gable ends of the chamfered bay to the S and the ell to the E have fishscale shingles and returns. Across the E bays of the S facade is a 1 story porch on a concrete block foundation. It has square brick columns and a 2nd story frame balustrade. The gable 2 story ell to the N indicates some alteration. (see attached sheet)
43. History and Significance The house and lands are significant for their relationship to Boonville's wine industry from the mid-19th century to the early 20th century. In 1858 William P. Speed and Ernest Roeschel, druggists and vintners, purchased 16 4/5 acres of land part of which was in vineyards. In 1863 Roeschel bought out his partner's share and consolidated with the Boonville Wine Company. A wine cellar from this era or before existed until (cont.)

- 42, (cont.) Additions include a 2 story frame pent addition to the E of the N ell and a 1 story frame section to the N which is sheathed in composition siding and has a garage entrance to the E & N.
- 43, (cont.) approximately 1965 when it caved in. A second, and larger, sandstone cellar was located to the north of the present structure, with access via 30 to 35 steps beneath a barn. Neither this cellar nor the barn exists at present. The lands still containing a vineyard were purchased in 1902 by Rudolph Toennes from the Roeschel estate. In 1905 Toennes built the residence on the site of a smaller house using the existing structure's basement. A second basement, not connected to the older one, formed the "double basement" as it exists today. Toennes operated a "wine garden" in the second story rear room until 1912 when the house and 33 acres were sold to Estil Oswald. The Oswald family farmed the land and in 1950 developed the area on West End Drive known as the Oswald Addition to the City of Boonville. The house and lot were bought in 1968 by Dwayne White and sold in 1973 to James Inskeep. The present owners purchased the residence in 1978 with plans of restoring the house. Oral history indicates that the original lands contained one Indian mound and the grave of a small child.

43. (cont.) August Bauman was born in 1836 in Switzerland and died in 1915 in Boonville. He came to America with his parents, John and Mary Bauman, in 1844. They arrived in Boonville in the 1850's. John Bauman was a weaver by trade and was also a freighter for a number of years, freighting from Boonville to the southwest. August, his son, was a wagon maker and wheelwright who established himself in business in New Franklin where he operated a shop for 39 years while making his home in Boonville. He was married to Margaret Stuckhart and they had 7 children, one of whom, Edward, was born in 1870 and became a Cooper County Collector by 1914 after spending 23 years as a harness maker (first for H.T. Hudson and then for Daulwalter & Son). The Bauman's daughter, Gertrude, was a milliner who worked for the McClanahan sisters up to the time of her marriage in 1916 to Junius Murray. Prior to the Murray's residence at 314 Spruce they lived in Jefferson City, Mo.

42 Further Description of Important Features The central bay of the S facade projects and has a wood entrance surround with paired pilasters and entablature. The entrance has a transom and sidelights. Fenestration above this opening indicates interior stairs. Windows are 3-over-1 on the basement level and 6-over-1 on the 1st and 2nd stories. Between the basement and 1st story and capping the structure is a corbelled brick string course. The building has stepped parapets at the roof line. On the N facade are frame porches over the double central entrances (cont.)
43 History and Significance The structure was built to serve as a replacement for the earlier Elias E. Buckner Negro school which was destroyed by fire. Built in 1915-16, the Sumner School was Boonville's Negro school offering classes for grades one through twelve. The school ceased operations in 1938 when the new Sumner school at 111 Rural Street was completed. In 1939 the Boonville School District sold the building to a group of local businessmen incorporated as the Spruce Street Investment Corporation, who converted it into apartments (W.J. Cochran Construction (cont.))
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto Spruce and sits at the NW corner of 4th and Spruce Sts. A drive to the W leads to a 6 car brick garage with a pent roof. The doors are to the E. The original playground area extended several lots to the N.

A small window on the W end may indicate the attic was used as a loft. A pent addition extends across the S facade.
43 History and Significance The structure helps to form a small district of early houses whose sites and relationship still exemplify the early streetscapes of Boonville. The structure was built in the early 1860's and was closely associated with the Weyrich Pottery, whose owner resided at 1103 6th St. The 1869 City Directory indicates that this structure was the office of the Pottery. The association with 1103 6th St. was retained until the 1920's and served as (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits close to the front of the lot, facing N onto Sycamore St. A drive to the W leads to a 1 story pent roof frame shed at the SW corner of the lot.

The middle section has a entrance with a rowlock header, a window with a segmentally arched rowlock header, and a bricked-in opening. The western section has 2 small windows with wood lintels and a corbelled rowlock sill. The W facade of this section has a gable end window and double doors with a heavy wood lintel. Concrete block pent addition (attachment)		Photo
43 History and Significance In 1885, the 3 brick sections were used as dwellings and were listed as part of 413 Main Street. In 1910, the larger Western section was used as a General Store and had a oven built to the W. The sections were vacant in 1917. The W section was enlarged c. 1929 and was used as a Carpenter shop. The middle sections were still used as a dwelling. The building was purchased by W.P. Pieper in 1920's. Robert Long purchased the (cont.)

43. (cont.) structure from his father-in-law in 1946. Mike Angelo printing leased the building for his printing shop from 1940 to 1965. From 1965 to 1977 it was used as storage. Popp has operated his business in the structure since 1978. Oral history indicates that the building was in existence prior to the Civil War and was used at times to house slaves prior to their sale at the intersection of Main and Spring Streets. There may also be a wine cellar beneath the cement basement floor. The easternmost section currently houses Robert Long's apothecary collection.

43 History and Significance The Hittners have owned and resided in this house since 1959. The previous owner was Mrs. Marjorie (McGuire) Steer, who inherited the property from her father, Dr. Morris S. McGuire, who acquired the property in 1931 from Charles Webb. Webb owned the property from 1928 to 1931. Previous owners were Lena Elliot (1921-28), Winfrey Gregory (1919-1921) and William Johnmeyer (1914-1919). The house was constructed sometime between 1917 and 1929, replacing an older 2 story frame dwelling. Dr. Morris McGuire (b. 1874) was the grandson (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto Vine Street. It sits on an embankment. A concrete wall is to the W property line along the alley. There are no outbuildings.

43. (cont.) of Levi McGuire, a Boonslick pioneer who came to this country in 1818 and spent 3 winters with the settlers at Ft. Kincaid in Howard County. Dr. McGuire was the son of Jonathan McGuire, a Baptist minister and lawyer. Dr. McGuire was active in the affairs of both Arrow Rock and Boonville, practicing medicine for over 40 years in Howard, Saline and Cooper Counties. He lived in Arrow Rock until 1927 when he moved to Boonville. He was an active member of the old Santa Fe Trail Committee that lobbied to route State Highway 40 through Boonville.

42 Further Description of Important Features The building's front (N) facade has soldier course segmentally arched lintels over the 1-over-1 windows and the entrance with a transom. It also has a 1920's porch with square brick columns. A frame cornice rakes at the gable ends and is accented with small wood brackets. Fenestration has been altered including a newer 3 part window to the S and small windows flanking a chimney on the E. There are several additions to the S including a 1 story brick addition with a frame 2nd story and a gable roof running E & W.

43 History and Significance Oral history has it that this house is one of 4 on the half block between 400 Vine (4th & Vine) and the alley (E of 412 Vine) which were built by one of the Dengolesky family in the 1880's (1885 Sanborn shows this house at that time). According to the present owner, Mary Plumlee, this house and the other 3 on this half block of Vine are on the site of a former girls school (first known as the Female Collegiate Institute and later as Adelphai College, organized in 1840 and in operation until 1860 and then for a brief period after (cont.))

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N onto Vine and sits on an embankment. There are no outbuildings.

43. (cont.) the Civil War under the proprietorship of a Mrs. Main). The part of the school that was on the Vine Street site was the president's home (Prof. Joshua Tracy) and dormitory (a large frame building), while the school building itself was located at the present 607 4th St. and is now an apartment house.

Mary Plumlee bought the house in 1958 from the heirs of the Goodman/Muelschuster family (Goodmans are listed as living there in 1912-13) who are believed to have purchased the property from the Dengoleskys. The house was converted to a duplex sometime during the latter part of the Goodman ownership.

Property Abstract

NOTE to Item #43: Subsequent to preparation of this form, Mary Plumlee located her abstract, which revealed the following information:

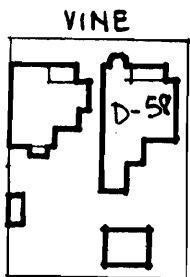

This house spans Lot 6 of Hendrick's Addition to the City of Boonville (1849) & lot 14 of Mack's Addition (1842). In 1855 the E half of Lot #6 (Hendrick's Addition) was sold to George W. Tracy (for Catharine G. Tracy) and a notation is made that a 2 story frame dwelling is on this portion of the lot. It is further noted that this structure was known at that time as the "Boonville House" and as the "Tracy Property". In 1865 this property was sold by Tracy to Thomas Nelson, who in 1878 sold it to Pianner Wettendorf, who in turn sold it in 1879 to William and August Dengolesky for $500. August Dengolesky died in 1917 and his wife, Annie, and her 3 daughters and son (also named August) sold the property in 1919 to John Henry and Bertha (Vollrath) Goodman for $2750. Mrs. Plumlee bought it from the Goodman heirs in 1958.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure is connected to the Church by a enclosed breezeway to the E and to the 1920's Sunday School addition to the N. The original red brick structure has been painted buff to blend with the church. Dentils at the eaves repeat the Church motif. The primary facade has soldier course 2nd. story window headers. The 1st story has paired attenuated window and an entrance with side-lights. Openings have segmentally arched headers. A 1920's porch is on the front. It is 1 story and built on (see attached)		Photo
43 History and Significance The Old School Presbyterian Church was organized in Franklin, Missouri, in 1821, but due to the flooding of that town it reestablished in Boonville in 1830. The first construction of the church building was completed in 1841 with much of its building cost of $4500 coming from the East and through the aid of Dr. William H. Trigg and other local Presbyterians. Deemed as "Boonville's second oldest church" it served the needs of the (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure is a part of the complex used by the First Presbyterian Church. It faces S onto Vine Street. There is an alley to the W. No outbuildings are associated with the complex.

42 Further Description of Important Features The building is accented by an ornate cornice with consoles and dentils which extend across the S facade and wrap around the SE and SW corners, and a gable dormer located centrally on the S facade. Windows on the main block are 2-over-2 with stone sills and segmentally arched headers, double rowlock 1st story and rowlock 2nd story. Those in the 2nd story brick rear (N) addition repeat the header motifs but are small rectangular 3-over-1 windows. Entrances include an opening with transom, sidelights, and a metal (cont.)		Photo
43 History and Significance The Farmer's Hotel Building construction date is undetermined, however it cannot pre-date 1869. Oral history indicates that it was built to accomodate actors and actresses playing next door at Thespian Hall, but this cannot be verified. In 1869, Mathias Thomas, a stone cutter, was residing on that property. Thomas and his heirs retained ownership til 1907 and within this era is the construction date. A loan in 1883 for $1500 conceivably (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the sidewalk, facing S onto Vine St. There is an alley to the W and a concrete wall along the N property line. 42 Further Description of Important Features The original 1½ story block was brick with a gable roof to the street, 14' to the eaves, and a central wood steeple 30' above the roof. An original stone stoop with steps E & W still exists on the N facade. To this structure was added a large brick 1 story section section to the rear (1892-1900). By 1910 the brick 1 story side wings were added and a 1 story brick section to the rear (S), which was used as a stage. The building as it stands today reflects these alterations, as well as more (see attached sheets)		26 Local Contact Person or Organization Friends of Historic Boonville
43 History and Significance The building was originally built as the church building for the First Baptist Church of Jesus Christ in Boonville. In appearance it was a 1½ story Greek Revival structure containing two front facade entrances on a porch having 6 steps. A frame steeple graced the roof. The Baptists retained ownership of the building until the dedication of the second church, 625 Main St., in 1889. Prior to 1895 the building was used as the (cont.)		27 Other Surveys in Which Included

42. (cont.) recent changes. The primary facade has a frame pent roofed addition over the original stoop and a concrete block foundation to the E. This addition has six 1-over-1 windows and is sheathed in asbestos siding. The entrance is on the NW corner. Behind this is the original brick gable end with semi-circular window and raking cornice. The original brick pent roofed wings also are evident and 1st story soldier course, segmentally arched window headers appear. The E & W facades reflect the semi-circular windows with soldier course headers, however there has been some alteration. The additions to the S include 2 rectangular brick structures with a corbelled brick denticulated parapet (E,W & N); and segmentally arched windows, both additions, appear to the E. The W facade's fenestration has been altered. The S facade has 2 stories of windows and a 1st story entrance. Over this, the attic window of the original gable section is still extant. The structure's brickwork has recently been cleaned.

43. (cont.) Four Square Gospel Church building, but it is unknown whether they actually owned the building. Between 1895 and 1936 the building was owned by the Turn and Gesang Verein Society and was known as Turner Hall. The Turners were originally an association of Germans interested in athletics, play reading and society; although in later years persons of non-German lineage were admitted. During the ownership by the Turners the building was enlarged at least twice for the addition of a stage and bar room. Before the purchase of the building the Turners leased the Thespian Hall (1867-95). In 1936 the building was purchased by the present owner for use as the Geiger Furniture Store. When the business moved to Main Street the building became the offices of the "Gygr-Gas Company". In the mid-1950's the building was damaged by the explosion of the Viertel Garage, located to its west. The loading bays on the west side, the front addition, and interior changes were completed by Lloyd Geiger at this time.

42 Further Description of Important Features The building which sits on a raised basement is sheathed in red brick up to the 1st story rowlock sill course. Over this is buff colored brick. The 3-over-1 windows have corbelled sills but no headers. The sill course is repeated on the 2nd. story. Fenestration on the E facade indicates interior stairs. The 2 entrances on the front (S) have a pent cap which is supported on large brackets and extends across the 4 grouped windows of the W bay. Under these windows is a corbelled brick panel. (see attached sheet)
43 History and Significance This house was built for Mr. & Mrs. J.E. Gleason in the 1920's. Mrs. Gleason (Anna) was a daughter of Victoria Givens who owned the old Farmer's Hotel (515 Vine) from c. 1902 to 1928. The Gleason's also owned the Farmer's Hotel from the late 1920's until the early 1940's. The Gleason's sold 521-523 Vine to Helen Morgan who later moved to California.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces S onto Vine Street. The 1 outbuilding, a hip roofed 2 car garage, is at the NW corner of the property and has access from Vine by a concrete drive to the W of the residence. Built of hollow tile, the garage repeats the brick veneer. A concrete wall is along the rear (N) property line.

42 Further Description of Important Features Probably built as 2 row houses originally, the structure has been altered into 4 apartments and the fenestration has also changed. The primary facade (N) has a boxed cornice and each section is 3 bays including an entrance. The S facade has an original 2 story pent addition however a newer pent roofline has been added. Vinyl siding covers this facade. Sliding glass doors were added. The W section has a wood deck to the S. The W facade has a 2nd story entrance with a wood deck and gable cap. (see attached sheet)

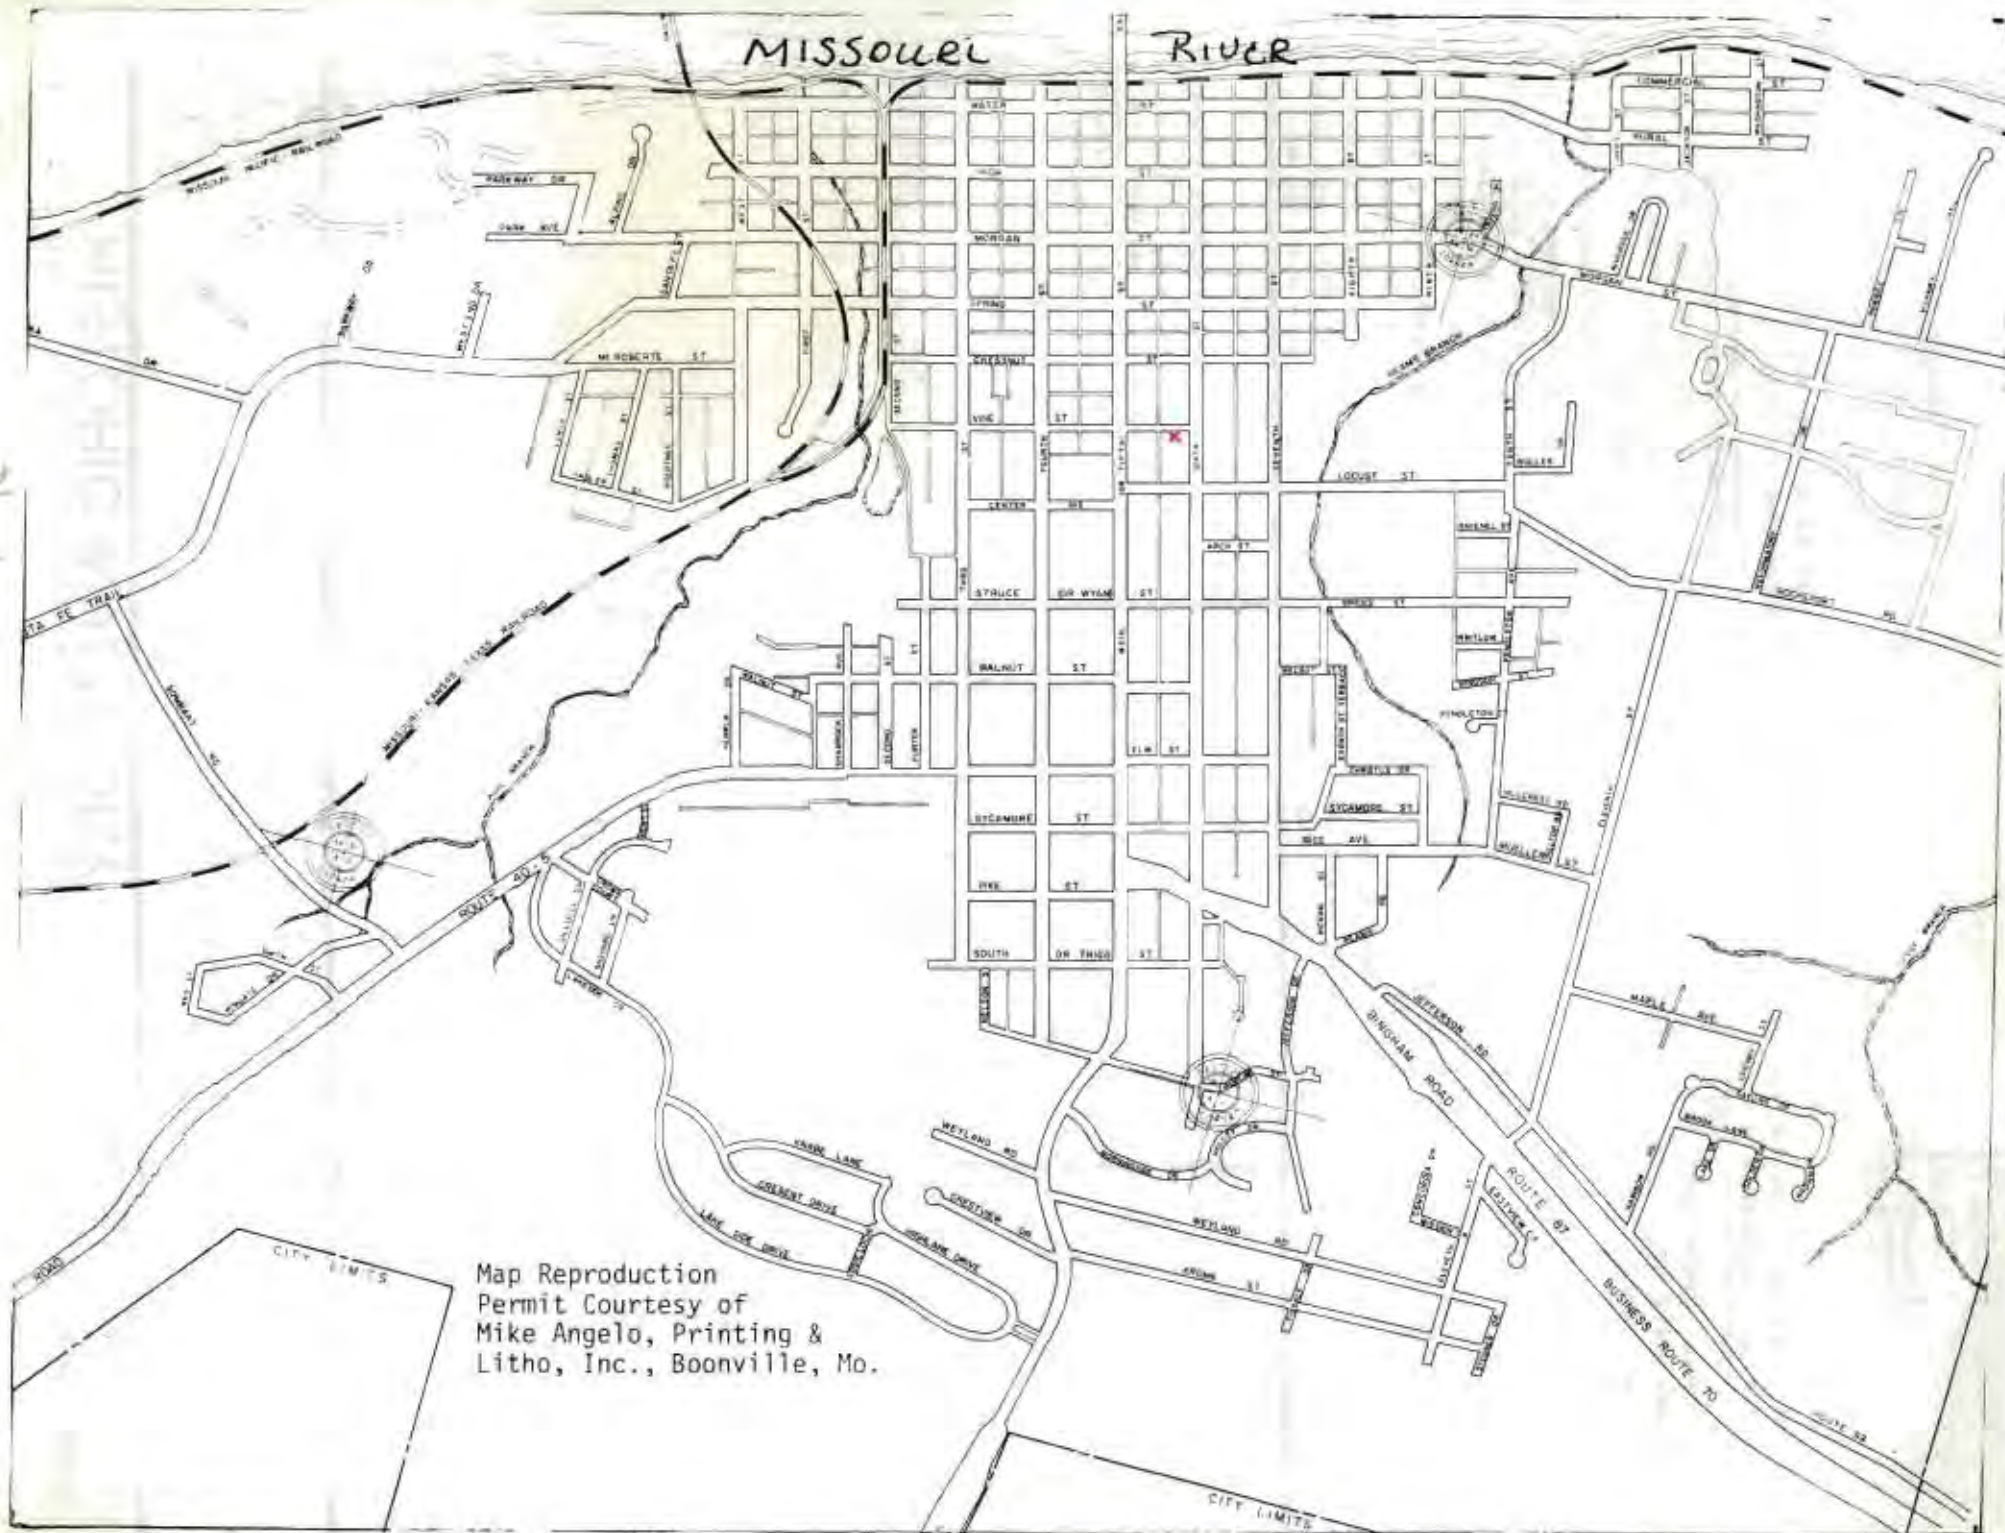

43 History and Significance The first owner of the structure is believed to be Ezeriah Kennedy, a merchant of the firm A. Kennedy and Son.

For many years 530 Vine was the residence of Mr. & Mrs. Frank Draffen, retired farmers. The property was purchased by the present owner in 1967. 526 Vine was purchased in 1968 from Fletcher Korte who operated the Korte Trucking Co. and resided here. Fowler has rehabilitated both structures into 4 apartments and added one fireplace.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits directly at the sidewalk. There are no outbuildings. A concrete and gravel drive leads from 6th. Street to the S of 530 Vine. Gravel parking area for 526 is to the W, with access from Vine.

42 Further Description of Important Features This residence has been altered by the addition of a 1 story, flat roofed room on the SE corner. It has 1-over-1 windows and a N entrance. The original central bay was a gable ell to the S with 2 attenuated windows. These are 2-over-2 with an ornate frame surround, which is pedimented and stepped above the sill level. A rectangular bay to the E repeats this motif with double pediments over a paired window. On the SW corner is a narrow porch which protects a W entrance and its transom. (see attached)

43 History and Significance
Oral history indicates that the structure originally was located on Kemper Military School property and was moved to its present site.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto Walnut Street. A concrete drive to the E leads to several outbuildings at the rear (N) of the lot. They are all frame, 2 have pent roofs, 1 is gabled.

43 History and Significance This house was the long time residence of Marvin Kalb, a Boonville postmaster, who died in 1978. Kalb moved from this house in the 1960's when he married Frances (Bates) Dyer, following the death of his 1st wife, Gladys. From that time until his death he resided at 807 Shamrock. The buff brick house behind 104 W. Walnut that is listed as 905 Shamrock was built by Kalb in 1961, and he lived here for a few years prior to his marriage to Mrs. Dyer. During this time he rented the house at 104 W. Walnut until it sold to the Conners.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces N onto Walnut Street at the corner of Walnut and Shamrock Streets. There is a brick garage to the S with access from Shamrock. It has a hip roof and a pent roofed, clapboarded addition to the W.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure has 1-over-1, attenuated windows which have frame trabeated surrounds and shutters. The primary entrance is to the N and is afforded protection by an integral porch (NW) supported on a turned wood post. This porch is repeated on the SW. A concrete ramp leads to the front porch.
43 History and Significance This SE corner of Water and Third Streets was the previous location of Jean-Hurst-Redfearn Produce (Poultry) Co. in 1900 and the J.S. Henry Tobacco Warehouse in 1910. The structure did not contain plumbing until it was purchased and improved by Lin Calvert in 1971 for his junk yard office. Prior to their purchase it was owned by Hallow Patterson, a city employee. The Calvert's previously had their office located in a school bus across the street on the junk yard lot.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure faces N onto Water ST. A gravel drive is to the E & W, a small metal, gambriel roofed shed is to the S. Associated with the property is a large metal Butler building to the W. Its N facade has a large overhead door, a single leaf entrance, and a window. The large door is repeated on the E, S bay. 43 History and Significance Standard Oil of Indiana was listed on this site as early as 1929. Hekman Oil and Skelly Oil used the rest of the 400 block to the W. Sinclair Refining, Barnsdall Refining and Mid Continent Petroleum Co. were on the N side of the 300 block of Water. In 1971 the present owner obtained the business, which distributes to area Standard stations.

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at the NW corner of Water and Main Streets, facing S onto Water. Surrounding the structure are the tracks and river to the N and several large storage tanks to the N & W.

42 Further Description of Important Features Parapets cap the N & S facades; the N one is ornately corbelled. Windows are 6-over-6 with soldier course flat arched lintels. The primary (E) entrance has a transom and side-lights. There are basement entrances N & E. Additions and alterations include a pent 1 story frame addition covered with wood shingles to the S., a 1 story 2 bay pent porch on the E, a pent enclosure over the basement entrance E, the closing up of 1 window E and 1 window N, and a hip porch over the N basement entrance.

43 History and Significance The building date is an arbitrary date set solely upon architectural style since abstract data and numerous oral histories were inconclusive. Prior to 1872 the land changed hands many times with numerous people owning shares of the land. In that year (1872) Dr. Horatio N. Ells sold a tract of 7+ acres to Daniel B. Ells. It is unknown whether or not the structure was in existence at that time. Later on that same year 1½ acres of this 7+ acres sold to Clarence C. Ells, and the reduced acreage was sold for a higher value, which (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure sits at an angle to the lot. It faces SE onto West Street, where the front embankment is terraced. A gravel drive gives access to a frame, gabled garage with pent addition to the N, which sits at the SW corner of the lot. This outbuilding is sheathed in corrugated metal.

43. (cont.) may indicate a building being constructed. In 1874, a Sheriff's sale was ordered against liens and prior interests and Joseph L. Stephens bought 10 acres for $5,000. In 1888 the Stephens' heirs sold to Anton P. Hain for $1875. In 1900 it was sold to Timothy J. Sanders for his residence and oral history indicates that the structure was in existence. It remained in the Sanders family until 1919 when it sold to Frank Brosius for rental property. Brosius also divided the acreage into the Hilcrest Addition to the City. In 1920 the structure, now lot 3 in that addition, was sold to Arthur Wallace who rented out the apartments. In 1944 it sold to Vivian V. Ravenswaay. In 1960 it was again purchased for its commercial interest, by Jerry Quinlan but was sold in 1967 to Johnnie B. Andrews for their residence. In 1969 D. Edward Scrivner bought the structure for his residence and presently rents out the basement level apartment.

The history of known alterations are as follows: 1920's - interior stairway added, east window closed in, primary entrance changed from N to E; prior to 1950's - kitchen and back porch were added; 1972 - N window was enclosed to develop a bathroom shower.

42. (cont.) reworked the house c 1930's. The 1st pent addition, 2 rooms, extending across the E was already there; they added the pent roofed S bay addition, made closets in the hallway, and closed up the chimney in the S room. A fireplace was reworked and modernized in the N room. The original high ceilings remain.

42 Further Description of Important Features The structure features a unique motif, small half windows directly under the eaves on the W facade. The 1st story W openings have straight-side arched headers with alternating light and dark red brick bondwork. Windows are 1-over-1; the entrance has a transom and sidelights. Capping the 3 central bays is a later (1920's) hip roofed porch. The structure has end chimneys. Extending to the E is a 1 story gabled brick ell as the N bay and a brick pent addition with a pent frame addition as the S bay, (see attached sheet)

43 History and Significance This was the residence of the George Stretz (1861-1938) family from c. 1894 to the late 1930's. George Stretz was a barber in Boonville (in partnership with his brother, Joe) who operated from at least 1910 until the 1930's or 40's in a shop on the site of the present National Bank building (412 Main). His father, John George Stretz (d. 1885) was a bricklayer who was in Boonville by 1855. The residence remained in the Stretz family until 1950 (cont.)

44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The residence faces W onto West Street. The back yard drops off to allow a walk out basement level. To the E is a small metal storage shed.

Concrete abutments on ramp and steel piers support this suspension bridge. From the S ramp to the S end tower is a 71'4" span. The main span is formed of 35 spans of 6' each to total 210'. From the N tower to the N end ramp the length is 87'. This makes for a total bridge length of 368'4". The road width is 12' with a timber deck and steel railings. The bridge is now designated for autos only and has a 3 ton load limit. Bridge report indicates the deck needs replaing and maintence needs to be done on the steel superstructure and cable.
43 History and Significance
The bridge is Cooper County's only "swinging bridge" and was probably constructed as such for economic reason. The contractor, Joe Dice of Warsaw, Missouri hired 8 men to construct the bridge at a cost of $2.50 a day per man. One of these workers was Andy Klenklen.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings		The long bridge crosses the Lamine River in a NW to SE direction.

42 Further Description of Important Features The length is divided by 5 metal trusses, broken arched spans. Beginning at the Howard County side there are 3 spans of equal length, the large vertical lift span, and a span similar in length to the first 3. The approach on the Cooper County side has metal guard railings approximately 4' high. These spans rest on concrete pilings. Three buildings are constructed on the bridge. All are frame with metal sheathing and have gable roofs. There is one at each end of the lift span and one is built on a projecting base at rail (cont.)
43 History and Significance This 1930 bridge replaced the first Katy drawspan bridge which was located 65' upstream. The bridge is considered significant to the design of vertical lift railroad bridges because the automatic leveling mechanism was first developed for this bridge. It contains a 408' high lift which allows free passage of river travel between its pilings. It was opened for operation in January 1932.
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The bridge connects Howard and Cooper Counties, crossing the Missouri River, and is located on the N edge of Boonville. Tracks enter Boonville just W of the corner of Water and West Sts.

42 Further Description of Important Features The total length of the span is 2,100' with concrete approaches: 584' on the Cooper County side and 500' on the Howard County side. The superstructure is divided by 6 metal truss arches: 3 of which are 420' and are 3 of which are 280'. The roadway is 19' wide and sits approximately 73' above the low water level. The flooring is open metal gridwork resting on concrete piers.
43 History and Significance The Boonville Road Bridge is significant as both a state and local landmark and was the only traverse of the Missouri River between St. Louis and Kansas City on transcontinental Highway 40. Funding for the bridge came from the Old Trails Bridge Co., Cooper and Howard Counties, City of Boonville, Franklin Township and Federal aid appropriated by the Mo. State Highway Commission. The bridge was built in 1924 and is presently in use as a traverse for both Missouri Highways 40 and 5. It was designed by Harrington, Howard & Ash (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The structure connects Howard and Cooper Counties and spans the Missouri River. It continues Main St. northward.

MISSOURI RIVER

43. (cont.) of Mt. Vernon, Ohio. The deepest pier descends to a depth of 60' below water through 50' of gravel and sand. The Missouri Valley Bridge and Iron Co., erected the steel bridge section which weighs 1936 tons. The W.J. Cochran and Son Co., Boonville, constructed the Main St. approach. The total cost of the bridge was $550,000.

Originally conceived as a toll bridge, privately owned and to be operated for dividends, the resourcefulness of Boonville civic leaders was responsible for a quick change in plans that got federal and state financial aid to make it toll free and part of the interstate highway system. Dedicated on July 4, 1924, its opening marked a period of growth for the City of Boonville.

42 Further Description of Important Features 1) The 1st major site is a large rectangular structure with a gable roof and an ell extending to the N. It appears to be 2 stories with at least 4 barrel vaulted cellars at a basement level. It is possible that the attic was floored and used for storage, thus accounting for the "4 story" newspaper description. All bays, 5 to each facade, are pedimented except the primary entrance which was an arched opening (see attached photo and measured drawings). The wall surface is of cut stone laid in a broken course pattern (cont.)		Photo
43 History and Significance Prior to 1855, Emile Haas developed a vineyard and small brewery containing buildings and a river mooring approximately 1½ miles west of Boonville. In that year Haas, along with neighboring vintners, consolidated into the Boonville Wine Company. By 1858 the company expanded to include the manufacture of beer. It is unknown if the "Central Brewing Company" name originates from that date. By 1859 an "old" original building containing 3 storage cellars, which was designed by Haas, was present. Although a line drawing published in 1867 (cont.)
44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The area is now within the city limits and is reached by Riviera Drive, which is a dirt street running along the E boundary of the site. To the N are the railroad tracks and the Missouri River. Generally the area is a gently rolling terrain with drainage to a now small creek which runs N through the site. The area is heavily overgrown (cont.)

Item #6: In 1874 the Brewery held an L shaped piece of land in section 34 approximately 1½ miles west of Boonville and just south of the Missouri River. The boundary drawn for the purpose of this survey and nomination is an irregular rectangular shape approximating the original N, E, and S boundary. The W boundary was arbitrarily set. In a reconnaissance survey there appears to be no ruins or major sites in the area W of the line (the 1874 map indicates the rolling terrain was in vineyards and fields to the W). The three major ruins are pinpointed by independent UTM's and all lie to the E of the arbitrary W boundary line. During the survey of the site there appear several other areas which are associated with the brewery including a stone retaining wall along the creek bank and a partially buried cellar (?). Other minor areas of indiscriminate function are also in evidence within the boundaries. Only an intensive survey will uncover all the sites associated with the brewery and their respective functions.

Item #9:	15/ 520290-4313520	NE corner of designated area
	15/ 520290-4313000	SE corner of designated area
	15/ 520090-4313000	SW corner of designated area
	15/ 520090-4313480	NW corner of designated area
	15/ 520215-4313440	1) major brewery bldg. and cellars in ruins
	15/ 520280-4313456	2) stone bldg. in ruins
	15/ 520150-4313140	3) large stone cellar

42. (cont.) Beautifully cut and vermiculated stone blocks accent the corner quoins, pedimented headers, voussoirs, and opening surrounds which have angular mitered interior corners. The interior surface of the walls are of a rubble construction. Currently visible are most foundations. 3 bays of the E & 3 bays of the N facade (NE corner), & 4 interior cellars.

2) To the E of the major building is a rectangular building of like construction and masonry detail. It had a basement. A well cut water table and walls rising approximately 14 feet are still visible at the NW corner of the structure.

3) Of distinctly different construction is the 3rd major site. It is a cellar which stands alone. The stone is smoothly cut and laid in a smooth coursed pattern. Three massive blocks laid as quoins mark the entrance which appears to have had an elaborately cut segmentally arched header. This gives way to a large ante-room and then to a deep cellar. The barrel vaulted ceiling continues the regular coursed pattern. The central oculus is small. Three vent ducts (E, W, & S) at the base of the walls have segmentally arched headers with precisely cut stone voussoirs. Above these are rectangular niches. When these appear above at ground level the 2 side vents have cut stone copings. The rear one (S) is formed of brick.

Secondary sites include a cut stone wall laid in a broken course pattern which forms a retaining wall along the W side of the creek. It currently is visible running from approximately the 4th bay S of the Brewery building in a gentle curve to approximately 50' N of the primary entrance of the Brewery building.

To the S of the 2nd stone building and in the E side of the creek bank is what appears to be another cellar. Only a small section--approximately 4'--of the segmentally arched opening is visible. It is barrel vaulted and may have an ante-room.

Scattered within the area are several areas which warrant further investigation such as an accumulation of quarried stone near the source of what appears to be a spring.

Surface investigation is obviously not enough in such a site. The property associated with the brewery is obviously rich in historical archeological information and, by the development of an early commercial facility, is important to the understanding of industrial history and architecture.

43. (cont.) shows the building as two stories, a Boonville Weekly Observer story of 1859 states "the main building is 4 stories high, 80' square with a 2 story ell, 55' by 35', under which are 6 cellars, one for malt, and 5 large arched cellars for wine and beer. All buildings are stone covered with a composition roof. Water from an elevated spring, furnishes a stream 2" in diameter to any part of the premises.... Mashing and grinding in the brewery is done by steam.... Boats can easily land at the Brewery." Wine was produced from the Catawba grape and is credited as winning the "First Premium" in the "native dry wine class" at a National (cont.)

43. (cont.) fair held in Philadelphia. In 1857 the company produced over 1600 gallons from less than 3 acres of bearing vines of which the cost was "never less than $2.00 a gallon." An ad of that era states that "Haas makes wine and 'lager' to displace 'bald face' and 'blue ruin'." The company probably terminated when the buildings were damaged by fire after 1875.

44. (cont.) in trees and brush, however numerous old grapevines are still extant.
