

THE Ethics & Good Trail Use THE TRAILS IN MISSOURI ARE YOURS. Please help to maintain and preserve their beauty and natural qualities by following these rules:

Carry out what you carry in. If the users before you have not done this, you can help by removing their trash as well.

Keep your group small. Small groups are less likely to harm the environment. Avoid using a trail when wet. Using wet trails causes damage and increases trail enance. Check the eather before you plan a trip.

Share the Trail. Expect to share the trail with other users. Be courteous and communicate your intended movements with other trail guickly in the event that you become cold and wet

Below: Cross tying is the preferred way to secure horses to minimiz impact and avoid damaging trees.

Be aware of changing trail conditions, especiall after rain and snow. Trail conditions may be muddy and ruts may develop in some areas.

Watch for loose rocks, roots and downed vegetation over the trail. Be aware of steep slopes and drop-offs next to the trail.

Always carry water to ensure you stay hydrated. Also carry food for added energy.

Wear the proper clothing and use the proper equipment

Take appropriate gainst commo nsects such as ticks, chigge and mosquitoes. Be prepared with insect repellent.

When you plan to use a trail, especially one for any length or in a remote area. let a friend or family member know where you are going and when you expect to return

Carry some form of communication such as a cell phone but please note that there may not be coverage in all areas

QUESTRIAN TRAIL GUID

Experience the scenic wonders of our state and the joys of being outdoors on one of Missouri's many equestrian trails.

The Missouri Equestrian Trail Guide is a handy reference for horseback riders seeking information on where they can ride and what services are provided. The guide lists equestrian trails open to the public on federal and state lands. Special sections are included on Katy Trail State Park and the Ozark Trail. The guide lso provides helpful tips to ensure your next horseback trip is a positive experience adventure, follow the guidelines promoted by the national education program known as Leave No Trace. The goal of the program is to encourage outdoor enthusiasts to develop an attitude that lessens the impact of their recreational use. That means picking up every speck of litter, even what may have been left behind by a previous user. It basically follows the principle of taking nothing with you but photographs and memories.

Here are the seven principles promoted by the program:

PLAN AHEAD AND

PREPARE: Before you leave home, review park rules, know the weather forecast and repack food for your convenience and to minimize waste. If using a trail, review the route and check trail conditions to make sure the experience is suitable for everyone in your group.

TRAVEL AND CAMP ON DURABLE SURFACES:

When hiking, mountain biking or horseback riding, stay on designated trails. Shortcuts can se erosion and other damage. Know what uses are appropriate for the trails and remember that some trails are closed to bicycles and horses in wet weather. Use designated areas when campin and park only on designated

DISPOSE OF WASTE

PROPERLY: Pack out what you pack in. Even fruit and vegetable peels and cores should be taken with you. Pick up after your pet. If a restroom is not available, dispose of human waste properly. Dig a hole 6 to 8 inches deep at least 200 feet from the nearest trail or water source. After use, fill the hole with loose soil and tamp the sod back down. Remember to pack out your toilet paper.

MISSOURI STATE PARKS

Katy Trail State Park Linear | 287.5 miles; 95 equestrian miles 573-449-7402

Katy Trail State Park is a Missouri state park with a national reputation. Built on the former corridor of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad, the Katy Trail is the longest developed rails-to-trail project in the nation at 240 miles. The entire trail, which runs between Machens and Clinton, is open to hiking and bicycling. Two sections, approximately 50 miles total, also are open to equestrian use.

NOTE: The trail is marked every mile with a sign post that corresponds to the historic railroad mileage system. Mileage will not be exact because the trail deviates slightly from the original railroad corridor. Mileposts are given as a reference for each trailhead in addition to GPS coordinates.

part of a trail system that will eventually run from the St. Louis area to the Arkansas border where it can connect with the Ozark Highland Trail in Arkansas. The idea for the Ozark Trail was developed more than 35 years ago and much of the trail was constructed and maintained largely through the efforts of volunteers, the U.S. Forest Service, Missouri State Parks, Missouri Department of Conservation, National Parks Service, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and other land management agencies and partners. The main support organization today is the Ozark Trail Association, a non-profit volunteer association with a mission to develop, maintain, preserve, promote and protect the Ozark Trail.

The entire trail is open to hiking and backpacking with sections of it also open to mountain biking and equestrian use. Much of the trail is located on state and federal lands with some areas on private property. The majority of the trail is located on U.S. Forest Service land in the Mark Twain National Forest.

SPECIAL NOTE BLAIR CREEK SECTION

Approximately eight miles of equestrian trail are provided on U.S. Forest Service property within the Blair Creek Section before the trail enters the L-A-D Foundation's privately owned Roger Pryor Pioneer Backcountry. There is a Forest Service trailhead approximately three miles north of where the trail enters the backcountry. Once the equestrian trail enters the backcountry, it parallels the Ozark Trail but is not considered part of it. The trail is maintained by the Back Country Horsemen of Missouri and ends on Missouri Department of Conservation property. See Roger Pryor Pioneer Backcountry in the Missouri State Parks section for more details.
