Phase 1 Survey Description

additional address - 16 N. Gore Ave.

This is a two story, yellow brick building with terra cotta detail along its parapet roof. It has horizontal polished stone panels on the first floor. The first floor contains two retail stores and the second story is offices. The building is in a row of commercial buildings that sit right on the sidewalk.

Continuation Sheet ☐2003 Update

The only changes of note are cloth awnings over the storefront windows and new 1/1 second floor windows

History

The building was built for Ambrose Mueller, a well-known Webster resident who had a drug store on the south half of the first floor from 1930 until the early 1960s. Ambrose Mueller had begun his drug store business at the turn of the century in the big Bristol Building at Gore and Lockwood next to William Straub's grocery. There was a terrible fire in this building in 1939.

Phase 1 Survey Description This is a two-story concrete block building with a flat, parapet roof. The first floor of the front is articulated stone and the whole building is painted off-white. The first floor has two store fronts with large leaded windows in five panels on the south and four panels on the north. There is an entrance recessed at the south end of each store and one panel of the large windows goes around the corner into each recess. Over each storefront there is a cast iron panel containing leaded fan lights over each window panel and door. In the center of the first floor is an entrance to the second story apartments. There is a leaded glass awning over the entrance.

Continuation Sheet ☐

2003 Update The building is now painted yellow. There is a simple stepped cornice approximately two feet below the roofline. The 1/1 windows on the side elevation and the second floor appear to be modern replacements. Each is sheltered by a cloth awning. The second floor apartments are now office suites.

Phase 1 Survey Description

This is a large, two-story, yellow brick office building with a flat parapet roof. It has some Art Deco brick work and terra cotta details. The building sits on the sidewalk on the corner in a commercial block.

Continuation Sheet ☐2003 Update

The elevations facing N. Gore and W. Moody are faced with yellow brick, but the other two elevations are the original red brick. The projecting entrance bay, which is off center has terra cotta Art Deco detailing. There are stepped pilasters dividing the 5 bays on the facade. There is a one story rear addition.

History

After the Civil War, Charles Connon, a Scotsman, owned this block from the railroad tracks to Moody Ave. and from North Gore to Elm. He was a florist with many greenhouses. He built this building before the turn of the century for retail shops and four flats upstairs. Johnson's Dry Goods occupied a shop for some time and there was a shoe repair shop here. Charles' son, John Connon, ran the building until he moved west in 1916. The building was modernized and refaced with the yellow bricks around 1922.

Phase 1 Survey Description These are one-story brick retail stores with flat roofs. They have large storefront windows and ornate cast iron cornices. Inside they have pressed metal ceilings. This row of commercial buildings sits right on the sidewalk.

Continuation Sheet ☐

2003 Update This building is composed of three storefront bays on Gore, three storefront bays on Glenco Ave and a corner entrance bay. Each storefront bay has a large storefront window, a cast iron lintel and an inset brick panel above the storefront. Brick pilasters with cast iron detailing separate the bays.

History The corner building #35, was built in 1901 and the others were probably built the same year. It was built as the original location of the Bank of Webster Groves which became the Webster Groves Trust Company. In 1908, the bank acquired its present lot on North Gore from the Presbyterian Church. For many years in the 1930s, 40s and 50s, the corner store was Jones' Market, a grocery store. Before the bank, this had been the spot where August Moody had the first store in Webster and then the site of the Allen Building with its music hall which burned down in the 1890s.

2003 Update The facade has a tapestry brick stringcourse, an inset brick signpanel and a stepped roofline with stone corbeling. From the back of the building, the roofline of the original frame building can be seen.

History

According to Otto Zinke, this is where Dr. Armstrong had his doctor's office before the turn of the century. John Brown say that it is a relic that has always been there but it wasn't alway brick. It was originally frame with a gable roof and the frame construction is probably still inside. It has been a barber shop for many decades. In 1931, Olaf Nelson put the brick exterior on fro Philip Seris who had a barber shop there. This little building is on the sidewalk in a row of commercial buildings. Directly to the north is a patch of grass and some trees and then a parking lot for the station.

History

Henry Prehn (b. 1833 came to Webster Groves from Germany in 1857. He opened a grocery and dry goods store in a frame building on this site in 1867. It burned the day his daughter, Carrie, youngest of 10 children, was born, and the present structure was built as a replacement. Prehn later was local postmaster, when this building served as post office. He also was a founder of the Webster Groves Bank and Trust Company. His son, Fred, (b. 1875) took over the store after his father's death. In 1903, Henry Prehn built 11 and 17 Marshall Place (the street just opposite this building) for himself and his son. This is one of three commercial buildings on this corner that were built and occupied by residents of Marshall Place.

Phase 1 Survey Description

This building was photographed but not described as part of the 1985 survey.

A one-story L-shaped commercial building. It has a cubic form, brick walls and a flat roof. The facade consists of two unequal bays. The southern bay, which is the largest, has a three-quarter view door flanked by two large storefront-height, multi-pane windows. The northern bay is filled with one large window. The frame for a domed awning stretches across the facade. Set back from the facade is a one-story side ell (55 N. Gore). It has brick walls, a two-tiered flat roof and features a door, a small window in the same style as those on the facade and a garage bay.

Phase 1 Survey Description The building is two Quonsets, side by side. The south one with the brick facade is the original one. There is a wooded hill to the west and the gravel parking lot slopes down to the Deer Creek and Kirkham Avenue on the north. Where the parking lot goes over Deer Creek there are telephone poles making a bridge.

Continuation Sheet ☐

2003 Update The only change to the building since is the addition of awnings.

History The building was built in 1940 by Red La More as an auto body repair shop. It is built over the old septic tanks of Webster, sometimes called the Lagoon, and the building commissioner did not believe the ground would support the weight of the building with a traditional roof.

Phase 1 Survey Description A two and a half story, red brick, Georgian city hall with a slate gable roof. Across the front of the two and a half story part of the building is a monumental limestone portico supported by six stone columns, two stories high, each turned out of a single piece of stone. A square clock tower sits in the center of the gable peak with a clock face on each side and inside a twelve hundred pound bronze bell chimes the hour. A one and a half story wing with a flat roof projects two bays on each side (east and west) of the center section contributing to the symmetry of the building. The double doors in the center of the front have a large fan light above them and the two large windows on either side of the center door are arched, repeating the arch of the center fan light. All windows are double hung and, except for the many-paned arched windows, are six over six with limestone sills and first story windows have decorative stone lintels. There is a limestone frieze across the front of the portico, there are limestone string courses above and below the first and second story windows, limestone articulates the edges of the roofs and there are limestone medallions above the first story windows in the one story wings. The police department is located in the basement level of the wing which projects on the west and its entrance is on the west. A new two story addition with a gable roof projects from the center of the rear (south)

2003 Update In 2001, a second story was added over the east wing and two story addition were added behind the east and west wings. Like the rest of the front section of the building, these additions brick and have gable roofs with parapet end walls. Window lintels replicate the design on the original building.

History The City of Webster Groves was incorporated in 1896 and city office were rented in a frame building on the corner of Lockwood and Gore that is gone now. In 1907 the City Hall moved into the Empire Building, 25 N. Gore, and in 1911 it moved into the west end of the Gorelock Building on the corner of Gore and Lockwood. In 1922 the City of Webster Groves purchased the Congregational Church parsonage on the southeast corner of Lockwood conducted city business from that large frame house until 1932 when money raised in a bond issue of 1931 was used to fund the new City Hall designed by architects Hugo K. History

The Masonic Temple of Webster Groves was built in 1922 by Kremer and Veinol and was originally attached to the old frame Plant home. In 1961, the two-story frame house was torn down and the front added.

Free masonry came to Webster Groves in 1868 when a charter was granted to Grove Lodge No. 296. It disbanded six years later. In 1897, Webster Groves U.D. was founded with Worshipful Brother Joseph H. Tremblay as its first Master. The Lodge met on the first floor of Brannon Hall on North Gore and then in the new Bristol Building at Lockwood and Gore and then in the Empire Building on North Gore. The present location was purchased in 1914.

Phase 1 Survey Description

This building was not recorded in the Phase 1 survey.

2003 Description According to county records, this building dates from the 1920s. Undoubtedly, it is the rear section of the building that gives the building this date. The rear section is a one-story building with a front-facing gable roof with corrugated tin roofing. The entire facade of the rear section is obscured by the newer front section of the building. The visible walls of the rear sections, the side and rear elevations, are covered with permastone or some type of stone veneer. The front section of the building appears to date from the 1960s or 1970s. It is an L-shaped, one-story building with a flat roof. The portion of the front section closest to the street is covered with vertical wood siding, while the rest of the front section is covered with the same stone veneer as the older rear portion of the building. A large storefront window and glass door fill most of the portion of the front section furthest away from the street. A cornice of vertical wood siding spans this section of the building above the storefront and wraps around onto the side elevation.

The storefront on the first floor has been replaced with a pseudo colonial storefront with a large many-paned apothecary window in the center and a wood door with windows on either side of the window. Above and below the window are paneling and a cornice. Second story windows are four over one with limestone sills and cornerblocks. The building sits right on the sidewalk and touches the building to the east. A driveway on the west leads to a gravel parking lot in the rear.

Continuation Sheet ☐

2003 Update The 4/1 windows have been replaced by new 6/1 windows. There is also an early or original one story brick rear ell. The second story enclosed, frame porch over this rear ell is a modern addition.

History

Built as a store and residence for Louise Harter by the Payne Brothers in 1923. In 1926, Louise Harter had a storeroom added to the building. In the 1930s or early 1940s, the building was used as a photo studio and in 1946, it was remodeled to be used as a real estate office by A. F. Renji including the new colonial front.

This one-story vernacular building with a flat roof has two large storefront windows with leaded colored fan lights above them with delicate tracery and copper frames. the two shop entrances are recessed under a center arch and a leaded arched window between the doors forms a Palladian window. the storefront facade is articulated by turquoise speckled terra cotta tiles. A one and one half story frame residence with a gable roof and large cross gable dormers is attached behind the store. It is the shop and residence built in 1924 and there is a small glass greenhouse on the west. The building sits right on the sidewalk adjacent to the building on its west. There is a narrow driveway on the east leading to a gravel parking lot, garage and the entrance to the house in the rear.

Continuation Sheet ☐

2003 Update

The two retail spaces have been converted to one large space. Decorative terra cotta quoining outlines the storefront windows. The house in the rear of the building has been covered with vinyl siding. It retains its early or original 3/1 Craftsman style windows. The parking lot is now paved.

History

Built in 1924 as a flower shop and residence for Charles T. Burgess. in 1929, A. S. Cerny owned the building and added a storage shed with 3 walls and 1 side open. John Cerny, a grandson, owns the flower shop now and was raised in the residence behind the shop. The shops on the front were built in 1932 by Parnell Quick for A. S. Cerny.

This is a one story rough stucco building with a parapet wall roof articulated with terra cotta tile with ornamental urns on top. A pent roof (shingles) supported by wood brackets runs across the front and another one runs across the east side. The rough stucco and several ornamental terra cotta shields and the pent roof have been painted blue. Large showroom windows with transoms above have a glass door in the center with a flat marquee projecting in front of the door. The showroom windows are articulated with terra cotta tiles and have marble beneath them. There is a one story concrete block section projecting on the rear with large windows and garage door entrances on the east. There are still automobile lifts inside this part of the building. This building sits right on the sidewalk with a narrow alley on each side.

Continuation Sheet ☐2003 Update

The ornamental urns and the flat marquee are now missing. A canvas awning now runs across the facade above the storefront windows. There are actually two one-story rear additions, both have parapet wall roofs, concrete block walls and large metal casement windows.

History

Built in 1925 as an auto laundry by Edward Methudy. In 1927 Percy Harrison had an open shed added and a new front put on the building for a garage and service station.

The original storefront has wood paneling covering its transoms and white tape gives the large windows a colonial apothecary appearance but the cast iron frames are under the white paint. The wood door is recessed between the windows. An entrance to the apartment is recessed under a brick arch on the east side of the front. The building sits on a broad sidewalk with a narrow alley on the west and a parking lot and automobile service station on the east.

Phase 1 Survey Description

Two-story, brick, vernacular building with two stores on the first floor and two apartments on the second floor. The building has a flat roof and a terra cotta cornice runs around the building above the second story windows. The shops have storefront windows facing Lockwood on the north and their transoms have been covered with wood. The west storefront has a recessed entrance in its center and the east storefront has a recessed entrance on the northeast corner of the building. On the east side of the building two large store windows have been reduced with vertical wood siding and on the rear of the east side. The entrance to the second story apartments is recessed under an arched opening. Windows on the second floor are double hung, six over six, in groups of three with limestone sills except for two small single windows in the center of the north front. At the rear of the second story apartment on the east side, there are three, floor to ceiling, French windows with arched lintels. The building sits on the sidewalk at the corner of Lockwood Avenue and Plant Avenue. The sidewalk on Lockwood is broad and has two small electrified gas lamps and a free standing sign on it. There is a gas station on the west and on the east a church begins the transition to residential property.

Continuation Sheet ☐2003 Update

The first floor is now entirely occupied by one business and the apartments on the second floor have been converted to office suites. There is a two story vinyl clad addition on the rear and some vinyl infill on the second floor on the west elevation. Awnings span across the storefronts on the front and side.

History

Built in 1924 as stores and apartments for A. Hoffman by R. Meirink. In 1936, the corner store was the White Cottage Ice Cream Shop and in the 1940s, it was the Rex Market selling meats and groceries. Mrs. Mary Blackwell Stevenson held some the classes of her famous music school in the second story apartment in the 1940s.

Phase 1 Survey Description

This limestone Gothic church has been added to and altered many times, growing irregularly. The front of the church faces Lockwood on the north and the oldest part of the building is recognizable as the west section. It is three bays, one and a half stories, under a gable facing north, the gable is articulated with a white terra cotta parapet. The three bays are divided by limestone buttresses and contain narrow Gothic stained glass windows. A square tower, two stories, with a bellcast hip steeple with small gable dormers on each side, is in the center of the front of the church and was added in 1893. It has two bays of Gothic arched louvers on each side of its second story. The first story is the main entrance, double oak doors under a stained glass transom, recessed into a Gothic arch which projects the depth of one stone making a shelter around the door with a limestone gable. A broad flight of stairs leads down to the street. East of the steeple is a section of the church added in 1893 with gables facing north and east and south. The north (front) facing gable contains one large, leaded, blue, stained glass window under a Gothic arch. This only shows on the second story. In 1923, a one story narthex addition was built across the front of the eastern section of the church.

2003 Update

History

This church was built in 1870 for the First Congregational Church of Webster Groves. On a winter Sunday morning in 1865, walking the long trek to the Rock Hill Presbyterian Church, six men decided that it was time to start a church closer to home, a congregational church. These six men, William Plant, Alfred Plant, Charles Cannon, William Porter, James Martling and R. P. Studley, had been Northern sympathizers during the Civil War. The only other Congregational Church in the state of Missouri at that time was the First Congregational Church of St. Louis, partly because Congregationalism was associated with New England and abolitionism. The first public worship was held on February 1866, in the Chapel Grove Seminary, a private school building built by John Helfenstein, Robert Studley, and

It has three bays of leaded windows and a flat roof surmounted by broad battlements.

The east side of the building is two and a half stories under a gable articulated with a white terra cotta parapet. On this side this main floor is actually on the second story. The main floor contains three symmetrical bays, the center bay being a large stained glass window under a Gothic arch, and the bays on either side being small stained glass windows under Gothic arches. There is a door onto a fire escape between the north and center bays but the symmetry of the three stained glass windows seems more important than this fourth bay. Three small Gothic arched indentations are in the gable. Between the first and second floors is a massive stone water table. The first floor is four bays, two of which fit under the large, center stained glass window, continuing its outer lines. The one story narthex addition on the front adds one bay on the north.

The south, back side of the older parts of the church is the equivalent of six bays. The eastern bay contains a stained glass window under a Gothic arch on the second story. The next three bays are under a cross gable with a large blue stained glass window under a Gothic arch on the third story in the gable. There are stone buttresses on the outsides of these three bays defining the outside edges of the gable section. There is another bay to the west and then the gable of the oldest part of the original church. Off of this section of the back of the church, two large rectangular, two-story Sunday school buildings have been added, one in 1926 and one in 1956.

The church has a small lawn on each side and attractive landscaping. There is a large parking lot on the east side on the corner of Elm and Lockwood. There is another parking lot on the west side of the building with access from Gore Ave.

History continued:

William Plant on Lockwood at Jefferson Rd. A small stone church was built at the present location in 1870 by F. William Raeder, the architect of Raeder Place in Laclede's Landing. Dr. Truman Post, minister of the First Congregational Church of St. Louis, laid the cornerstone and delivered the opening address.

The building was added to in 1893, 1923 and 1956.

Outstanding ministers have been Charles Kloss from 1898 to 1904 and again from 1911 to 1917, Dwight Bradley from 1920-1929, George Gibson from 1930-1938, Ervine Inglis from 1939 to 1962 and Paul Davis from 1966 to the present (1981).

2003 Update

Since the Phase 1 survey, the porch over the portico has been removed and a new portico has been constructed in front of the east addition.

History

This house was built in 1863-65 for Nathan A. Allen. Born in New York in 1819, Nathan Allen came to St. Louis in 1837. He married Carolyn Adams in 1842 and they came to Webster with their five children in 1866. Allen was in real estate and built the Allen Building on the southwest corner of Gore and the Missouri Pacific tracks. The upper floor was a large hall with a stage where musicals and dances were held. Allen's son, Harry ran a bakery on the first floor, but the building burned in the early 1900s. Nathan Allen helped to organize the public school system in 1866 and the Congregational Church. The Allen family lived in this house until 1928 when it was sold to Clyde McLaughlin, who converted it for use as a funeral home. Sam Mittleberg purchased it in 1937 and operated it until Donald Gerber joined History William A. Straub built this building in 1926. Straub was born in Kirkwood, the oldest of seven children. His father died when he was 14 and William had to drop out of school to support his family. He founded the Straub Grocery Company in 1901 in the old Bristol Building on Lockwood which was torn down in 1965. Straub's is now a large grocery company with four stores in St. Louis County, specializing in fine, gourmet foods.

Phase 1 Survey Description This church, like others in the area, has grown like Topsy. It is of squared limestone with buttresses at the corners and between the colonnaded doorways on the front and the stained glass windows of the sanctuary on the east side. Window frames, arched doorways, buttress tops, the water table, parapets and battlements are articulated in polished limestone. The front faces south. The oldest section, built in 1891, is on the west end of the front and has been remodeled as the Elizabeth Holloway Woods Chapel. It has a low, square, two-story bell tower with double wooden doors under a Gothic arch on the west and a broad gable containing a large Gothic stained glass window. The Elizabeth Holloway Woods Chapel is connected to the large sanctuary, which was built in 1924, by a flat-roofed colonnade, two arched doorways and an arched window. The sanctuary is taller, two stories, with a huge rose window in its south facing gable and small polished limestone towers on both corners of this gable. Projecting in front of this main gable is a one-story vestibule with a flat roof and containing three pairs of double wooden

History The church was built in 1891 for the Webster Groves Presbyterian Church. In 1865, a meeting was held in the home of Martha Moody to discuss the organization of a Presbyterian church in Webster. In 1866, a petition was presented to the Presbytery of St. Louis, and the new church was organized. A frame building was completed in 1867, but burned to the ground in 1890. The church suffered two other serious fires, one in 1918 and one on New Year's Day in 1958. For awhile, the church bell served as the community fire bell.

Phase 1 Survey Description Two-story brick rectangle with a flat roof. The north half of the building was built in 1909 and in 1966 the Gore Avenue side of the old Classical Revival building was clad with yellow stone panels which bear the impressions of thousands of tiny fossils. The south half of the building was constructed of yellow bricks in 1966. the south side and southwest corner are sheltered by a monumental two-story portico supported by monumental stone columns. The bank sits right on the sidewalks on Lockwood and Gore and the entrance is on Gore. There is a narrow alley on the north and the Presbyterian Church is closely adjacent on the east side.

Continuation Sheet ☐

2003 Update The stone panels have faded to a dull gray and the newer brick sections of the building on the south are now painted gray. There is some new landscaping between the building and Lockwood Ave.

History

The Webster Groves Trust Company was organized in 1900 and in 1901 built a one-story building with a cast iron storefront at the southwest corner of North Gore and the Missouri Pacific Railroad. The Trust Company build a two-story Classical Revival brick building at the present location on Gore in 1909. The Presbyterian Church maintained a small park at the corner of Gore and Lockwood, but the bank purchased the park in 1966 and enlarged the building to fill it the same year. At the same time, the brick and terra cotta architectural details of the old building were clad with large yellow stone panels.

History In 1910 Theodore Bopp of Kirkwood built a post office for the Gorelock Realty Company. It was the one story section that is now 107 W. Lockwood. An old post card shows that it had a dome with skylights around its base and the front was brick with tall casement windows on either side of the center door and there was a stone eagle over the front door. The post card also refers to this building as the city hall. Otto Zinke remembers when there used to be a corrugated metal building in the low area behind these buildings, where the parking lot is now, that was used for a jail. He said it was painted dark red and folks called it the "red onion." The Gorelock Buildings on either side of the post office were built in 1911 for the Gorelock Realty Company. 2003 Update Since the Phase 1 Survey, the windows in the large openings have been changed. Each now has a center plate glass section flanked by narrow multipane side sections. The building is now surrounded on all sides by parking lots.

History This building was built for Martin Coggeshall in 1922. Coggeshall was the head of the real estate department of the Webster Groves Trust Co. For many years, this was the Toll House Restaurant. In the late 1950s, Webster residents picketed and boycotted the Toll House Restaurant because it refused to serve blacks. The restaurant went out of business. The Laurene Davis Real Estate Company has occupied the building since around 1962. Since the mid-1980s, the business has become the Blake and Davis Real Estate Co.

Phase 1 Survey Description This is a narrow two-story brick building with a flat parapet roof. It has a third story square tower in the back formerly for drying hose. Decorative brickwork forms a segmental arch over the triple windows on the second floor. Polished limestone articulates the parapet and is used as window sills and a string course above the second floor. The large garage door on the front has been replaced by a large picture window that is protected by vertical wood slats. The entrance is now on the east side from a tiny courtyard. The building sits on the sidewalk in a row of commercial buildings.

Continuation Sheet ☐

2003 Update A new storefront window has been installed in the garage door opening since the Phase 1 Survey, but the entrance is still on the side via the alley between buildings.

History This building was built in 1913 by John H. Berg, a Webster contractor as the first fire house in the Old Webster section of town. In 1912, Webster Groves became the first county municipality to have a paid fire department and the fire equipment was kept in livery stables until this building was built. It was paid for by funds that the firemen raised by holding picnics and carnivals. In 1974, the fire company moved into new quarters attached to the city hall on Elm and the building was converted into offices.

The shops sit on the sidewalk in a row of commercial buildings. Behind the house is an alley and a steep terrace leading up to Bristol Elementary School.

Continuation Sheet ☐

2003 Update No apparent exterior changes since Phase 1 Survey.

History The two-story house that is the back part of this building was built by William H. Gore some time after he came to Webster with his father, Stephen, in 1857. Stephen had a store on Lockwood at the head of North Gore Ave. For some time around the turn of the century, Charles A. Baker lived in the house. Baker was a prominent real estate developer. He had an office in the Bristol Building and developed the large subdivision in central Webster known as Sherwood Forest. After Charles Baker's death an heir named Sullivan inherited the property and had the Webster Groves Trust Company put the one-story shops on the front. George Blanner rented the western most shop for his electrical repair shop in the 1920s. He had begun his business on N. Gore in 1913. George Blanner wired many of

Phase 1 Survey Description

This building is one of the few in the survey area that has been built since the Phase 1 Survey.

2003 Description It is a one-story stucco building with Mission Revival detailing and a stepped roofline. The five-bay facade which faces Lockwood has an off-center recessed entrance. There is detailing around the arched recessed entrance to give the appearance of articulated stone. To the east of the entrance, there are two bays and to the west there are four bays. Each bay has a tall, double casement window. The bays are delineated by pilasters made to look like articulated stone. Pent roofs supported by brackets shelter each group of bays with windows. The west elevation, which faces Allen Avenue, is similar in fenestration to the front. It features a recessed entrance flanked by two bays with casement windows.

Phase 1 Survey Description

This building has been significantly changed since the Phase 1 Survey.

2003 Description This one-story brick rectangle with the flat roof on the west was built in 1956. The two-story concrete block rectangle with the flat roof was added on the east in 1983. The insides of the building are not connected through the common wall. Then in the late 1980s or 1990s, an addition and new facade was built on to the front and side of the west building bringing its facade up to the sidewalk on the north and west. This addition is covered with the same textured concrete block as on the two-story section of the building. Large tinted plate glass windows stretch across the majority of the front of the new section of the building. The building is located on the southeast corner of the intersection of Lockwood Ave and South Gray. There is a parking lot behind the building. A modern design awning shelters the windows on the facade of the west part of the building.

Continuation Sheet ☐2003 Update*History

The original one story building on the west was built for Farm and Home Savings and Loan in 1956. The moved to the location at 110 W. Lockwood in 1972 and Gillum-Polk bought the building for offices. Gillum-Polk built the large, two-story addition on the east over their parking lot in 1983. The new facade and addition has been constructed since 1985.

Phase 1 Survey Description

This is a modern, one story rectangular building with a flat roof. It is covered with white stucco and has an International feeling. A deep white stucco planter projects across the front of the building with a large picture window above it. Around the entrance is a portico or vestibule made of brick in a lattice pattern. The building stands by itself on the sidewalk on a commercial block. There is a large Catalpa tree next to it.

Continuation Sheet ☐2003 Update

There are no apparent exterior changes since the Phase 1 Survey. A full width flat wooden awning extends the width of the rear elevation. The brick portico is likely a 1960s/70s addition.

History

The building was built in 1947 as a dentist's office for Ray M. Dilschmeider and is probably the only International Style building in Webster.

This building was included in the description for 200 West Lockwood in the Phase 1 Survey, but it is actually a separate building.

2003 Description It is multiple-entry, one-story, brick building with six storefronts. It has a flat parapet roof and pent roof sections supported by brackets over the storefronts, Mission detailing and terra cotta accents. The two north storefronts have been boarded up but the storefront is intact. The other storefronts are little changed. This building is one of the most intact in the survey area. Building address is 1-11 S. Gray.

Continuation Sheet ☐2003 Update*History

This building was built in 1923 for the Webster Company. The corner store was Brennan's Grocerteria until about 1938. The corner was vacant for 2 years until Hans Lemcke opened an appliance store there. His son, Rudolph, runs the shop now. The Thistle Tea Room occupied the two southern most shops on Gray Ave. in the 1920s and during the Depression. It had a fireplace with a roaring fire and a cozy atmosphere. Lechner Printing Company moved in to 11 Gray in 1942.

Phase 1 Survey Description

This building was not included in the Phase 1 Survey.

2003 Description It is a 2 1/2 story brick building with an irregular distribution of windows and doors. The building faces Pacific, and the main entrance is located off center on the east side of the facade. This opening has been partially filled in and modern metal and glass doors installed. On the west side of the facade, there is another rectangular opening like the main entrance. This opening has also been filled in and has a single emergency exit in it. Both of these entrances are raised approximately 4 feet above the sidewalk. There are also three double hung windows on the first floor of the facade. They are irregularly spaced - one near the center and two on the east end. All three have arched brick lintels. On the second floor of the facade there are two windows on the east end and there are also two smaller windows near the center on the third floor. Above the first floor there are joist pockets in the brick indicating the presence of porch roof or awning of some type. There are several one story concrete block additions on the west side of the building. All have flat roofs.
