Windows are one-over-one; those in front are paired. At the rear is a shed-roofed enclosed porch. | | | |
| 43. History and Significance Henry Mergelkamp was the eldest son of Peter Mergelkamp, who had acquired a tract of about 63 acres on the west side of Kerth Road in 1906 and who died in 1913. Henry must have purchased this site about that time, but the house does not appear in the 1909 atlas. He later gave the east part of the lot to his son Joseph H. Mergelkamp, who built another house there, numbered 4960 Amb's Road. On Henry's death in 1968, Joseph inherited 4966 Amb's Road as well. This property was formerly numbered 4980 Amb's Road. | | | |
| 44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings A frame shed behind the house has a bell over the front gable. Farther back are a large two-car garage with hinged doors, several smaller sheds, and a barn. All are painted white. | | | |

| 42 Further Description of Important Features Front porch has been rebuilt with concrete deck, turned posts, nearly flat roof with scalloped frieze. Center gable in front has a door, suggesting that the porch roof originally had a balustrade. The front roof also has two gabled dormers. The first floor windows are paired and one-over-one. The Rear wing appears to have been a separate building, now connected by an ell. The rear gable has returns. | | | |
| 43 History and Significance This house is related in style to several in the Oakville area built by William Baumgartner in the 1890's. Peter Kerth acquired about 36 acres of Lot 2 of Chouteau's Subdivision of Survey 2992 in 1873. At that time it had no street frontage, so he acquired a right-of-way from George Fuchs for a private road. He sold the property in 1897 to George Ambs, who then lived in the city. Ambs presumably built the house, although it could be earlier. Ambs Road, extended south, along the private road, is named for him. | | | |

The main entry is in a projecting bay with a lean-to roof topped by a large gabled brick dormer. The entry itself is framed with stone and has a stone-framed window to one side. Both are under a Tudor label molding. Next to the entry bay is another projecting bay with two full stories under a gable. At the east end is a two-car garage all with a dormer window and the garage (cont'd) | | | | 5 Other Name(s) 12250 Bird Haven |
| 43 History and Significance Sunset Crest was platted in 1922 by Emilie and William C. Uhri and Ida Rose, but this lot was not sold until 1931. It was purchased by Mr. & Mrs. Fred O. Schwartz, who were still living here as late as 1950. | | | | |
| 44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings This property is entered from the north side. Bird Haven Lane has several other house of comparable period and style. This property has many tall fir and pine trees screening it from the road and adjacent properties. | | | | |

| 43 History and Significance This lot was part of the property of Jacob T. Kerth, who died in 1905. A few years later (the records have been destroyed by the Circuit Clerk), his heirs partitioned his property, and this lot of 15 acres was sold to Joseph J. Vonder Haar (also written Vander Haar). He must have built the house, because when he sold the property in 1922, it had "improvements." The buyer that year was Edward F. Rabenhorst. | | | |
| 44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The widening of Butler Hill Road has left this house standing above a concrete retaining wall about three feet high. It is topped by an iron balustrade. A frame garage is to the west and behind the house. (1) | | | |

| 42 Further Description of Important Features The original part of the building is a large picturesque composition for a rural school. It has a gable over the two-bay entry, which has double doors set in round arches. These and the double windows above are set in a rectangular frontispiece about one brick out from the plane of the wall, with a continuous soldier course above the windows and a slight parapet. The arches are stone framed, and rock-faced broken course stone also forms the base and some quoins of the chimney to the right of the entry. | | | |
| 43 History and Significance The construction of this school is recorded on its cornerstone, which was carved by Bastel. The Directors of the school district at the time were Fred W. Bender, Ernest S. Nollan, and Herbert E. Eime. The Building Committee was composed of Hy E. Kassabaum and C. J. Schuetz. This site had formerly been the location of the Washington School. | | | |
| 44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The central part of the building is placed at an angle to the intersection of Butler Hill and Kerth Roads. | | | |

The chimney is tapered toward the top and has a flaring corbelled top. The ends of the original block have gabled roof additions. The wings to the east and south are post-war construction, with flat roofs and regular ranks of paired multipane windows. The front buildings have slightly sunken first floors which are fully exposed as the ground drops to the rear.

| 43. History and Significance This house sits on part of a larger site of 39.75 acres in Lot 5 of Auguste Chouteau's subdivision of Survey 2992. It was probably occupied by 1848, when it was sold by Joseph Sale to John or Johannes Diel. At John Diel's death in 1861, the property was inherited by Philip Diel and John Brellinger. They divided the tract in half; in 1866 Philip Diel sold his part to Joseph Gunter or Ginter, who sold it to Brellinger | | | |

the next year. John Brellinger also owned some other property in this area but that did not face a road as this did. He died in 1893, leaving a widow, a son and four daughters. Although the present house has some features that appear to be later, its general shape corresponds to other pioneer farmsteads.

| 43 History and Significance John Brellinger, who owned this land and whose house was across the street at 4748 Butler Hill Road, died in 1893. After his death the property was sold to Frank Diel, Senior, who was a neighbor and probably a relative. In 1908, he transferred this property, 39.75 acres, to his daughter Julia, the wife of Andrew Fuchs, reserving life estate for himself and his wife Julia. This house was not shown in the 1909 atlas, but it was probably built within a year or two by Mr. & Mrs. Fuchs. They sold the property in | | | |

In 1969 this property was obtained from the heirs of Daniel Wiethop by the Free Methodist Church of North America, a small group based in Canada. They sold it in 1987 to The First Unity Church of St. Louis, located at 3616 Bates, just west of Grand and a few blocks north of Carondelet Park. The Unity Church has been leasing the property to the South County Baptist Church.

The base of the verandah is now concrete, and the balustrade is a modern wood design. Windows are also replacements, mostly one-over-one, and the barn siding is no doubt replacement too. The roof, basement and shape of the house, however, suggest its age. | | | | |
| 43 History and Significance George Kraemer lived in St. Louis when he died in 1927, but in his will he mentioned the five-acre homestead he had in the county on Jefferson Barracks Route 11; he left it to his third and fourth sons William and John. He had seven children in all, and left George, Junior, his blacksmith tools. Kraemer had acquired this property in 1888 from Frank and Mary Hoffman for $375. The Hoffmans had owned the property for only three years. They had acquired it in 1885 from Casper Meyer, also called Jasper and Meier. contd. | | | | |
| 44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings This house now has a garage called Automatic Services Unlimited adjacent to the north. | | | | |

Meier had acquired the property in 1882 for $300 from John B. Mahr, a resident of St. Louis who had obtained the tract at a sheriff's sale in 1875. None of these early owners is likely to have built the present house, as the value of the property increased so little during that time.

The base and parapet are rubble stone laid with deeply recessed joints. Above the porch is a gabled dormer with three one-over-one windows. The gable windows are six-over-six, others are two-over-two. The rear porch has the same hipped gable arrangement but older, lower parts, including turned posts, broad pierced brackets, and balustrades. (continued) | | 43. History and Significance This land was part of the estate of Dr. Jabez Ferris which was subdivided by commissioners William Musick, William Timberlake, and Larkin Williams in 1853. Lot 2 was granted to Lemuel Ferris (transcribed as Samuel Ferris in later documents.) He sold it in 1874 to George Hunckler for $1,850. George Hunckler sold the 63.70 acres in 1892 to George A. Hunckler, who was presumably his son. The price was $700. George A. Hunckler (continued) | | 5 Other Name(s) 12535 Gravois Road | |
| 44. Description of Environment and Outbuildings Several outbuildings are behind the house, including a long, low barn and a smaller barn with lean-to, both unpainted barn siding. Near the shed is a brick smokehouse with concrete foundation and gabled roof. One of the barns has a log structure incorporated into it. This may have been an early residence or outbuilding. | | 45. | 43 History and Significance Survey 2022 was part of the vast land holdings of John Mullanphy (1758-1833), the Irish emigrant who became St. Louis's first millionaire. His property was divided at his death among his seven daughters and one son Bryan. This part of Survey 2022 went to Bryan, who was mayor of St. Louis in 1847. He died in 1851, leaving one third of his estate to form a fund for the relief of indigent emigrants on their way | | | | | | to settle in the west. This fund is still administered by the City of St. Louis. This land was held by the Mullanphy Emigrant Relief Association until after 1893, when 102 acres were sold to George Philip Dauernheim. Charles T. Dauernheim, who was George's older brother, bought a farm in Lot 7 of the Mullanphy tract at the same time, and that house is at 5816 Wells Road. Both were sons of Christian Dauernheim, who died in 1887. George Dauernheim died in 1934 leaving a widow and eight children. The 29 acres with four-room frame house and frame barn were valued at $3,000.

Windows are replacements with two-over- two horizontal panes. | | |
| 43 History and Significance | | This property is located in Survey 902, which was subdivided into seven lots by Frederick Hagemann between 1852 and 1879. Lot 1, of which this is a part, was acquired by Henry Hagemann by 1870, by Henry and Philip Diel by 1878, and by John Adam Johner by 1893, according to atlases of those years, although deeds have not been located. Johner had previously acquired another part of this property. Hagemann road was not extended (cont'd) | | | through here until after 1893, so the house may not have been built until after then.

In 1903 Johner divided his land between Mary and Fritz Kraemer and Katharin and John Adam Wagner. These may have been his daughters. In both cases the transfers were conditional on payment of $100 per year for the remainder of Johner's life. In the case of the Kraemers, who acquired the 28.68 acres including this house, Johner also withheld "one acre on the north side of the house." This may have encompassed a smaller retirement home for Johner.

angled roof creating a low second story on the west side. Part of the roof on west side descends to a first-floor clapboarded gable, which has a pointed door in it. Brick parts of house have a corbelled cornice, and a large, broad corbelled chimney stands at the south end of the main house. Most windows are double-hung, four-over-four and eight-over-eight, but some appear to be six- or nine-pane casements. A shed-roofed porch runs along the west side of the main block and ties into the west wing. It has metal posts.

Bender, who acquired the property in 1891. Eiler was then living in the city. Bender sold half the original 70 acres before his death in 1917, when the remainder was valued at $5,500. Bender was married twice. By his first wife, Anna Maria, he had a son Edward. His second wife Minnie inherited the house for life, but she agreed with the other heirs to sell the property. It was subdivided in 1962 as Pierce Acres and again in 1977 as Sienna Hills.

three other children had died. His own dwelling was on another part of the main farm, and that was left to his sons Mike and John. His fifth son, William inherited the 89 acres in the southeast quarter of Section 8 when Andreas died in 1891, and presumably he built this house about that time. The will specifies that a 30 foot road is to be left open from the corn crib east to Hawkins-Fuchs Road; that corresponds to this road and Ronalene Drive on the east side of present Interstate 55.

| 43 History and Significance Daniel Hewitt bought this property in the mid-nineteenth century. In 1866 he transferred it to his wife Caroline for her separate use, a common business practice at the time. After Daniel's death, Caroline sold the property to her sons John and Charles, selling John the northern part in 1886 and Charles the remaining 100 acres including this site in 1892. She died in 1899. Charles J. Hewitt sold this land and some adjacent tracts to Louis Stockstrom in 1895. In 1899 Stockstrom and his neighbors John M. | | | | |

Arthur Stockstrom House
13290 Maple Drive

43. continued

Dieterle and Joseph Griesedieck made an agreement regarding the private road, now Maple Drive, that led through their property from Rott Road. The map accompanying that agreement shows this house as well as a second house that was demolished for construction of Arthur Stockstrom's house in 1950. At this remove, it is difficult to say which was the primary house on the farm or whether this house was used by a tenant or a member of the family. Also, given the long tenure of the Hewitt family on the property, the date of the house is open to speculation.

In 1921 he acquired the Falstaff name and symbols and in 1933, when Prohibition was repealed, he incorporated the Falstaff Brewing Company. He died in 1938 after a fall here at his house. His only child, Alvin F. Griesedieck (1894-1961) inherited this property and the leadership of the company. His primary residence was 19 Squires Lane in Huntleigh Village, and he also had a winter home in Naples, Florida. He had eight children, and this property was inherited by his youngest son Edmund (called Edward in some sources), a Jesuit. He deeded this property in 1977 to the Servants of the Paraclete.

former carriage house, a rock-faced stone building with a large battlemented tower. The tower has three stories with round-headed windows above a basket-arched carriage opening, now glazed. A similar opening is in the two-story south wing, next to a round-headed door. Second-story windows are flat-topped. This part has a stepped parapet and a rear wing. The cornice has a dentilled effect made of square rock-faced stones.

| 42 Further Description of Important Features The entrance elevation of this house is a curving stone wall broken only by the doorway. Stone steps walled by glass lead through an area of plant boxes to the main house, which has a stone base, vertical wood siding, large expanses of glass including louvered windows, and a shed roof. Kitchen windows are screened by vertical panels, and there is also a large screened terrace room. The sun deck has a raised platform around the edge. | | | | |
| 43 History and Significance This house is one of the masterworks of Harris Armstrong (1899-1973), the dean of modern architecture in St. Louis. Armstrong's career as a modernist had begun in 1935 with the Shanley Medical Building in Clayton and the house for Carl and Gerti Cori in Glendale, both listed in the National Register. Beginning with the Evarts Graham house in 1940, Armstrong had been experimenting with large expanses of stonework contrasting with | | | | | glass and wood. Other examples are the Semple, Evens, and Sachs houses in Ladue, but this house is probably the best realization of this interest. This land had been acquired in 1895 by Louis Stockstrom, Arthur Stockstrom's father and one of the founders of the American Stove Company. Louis lived at 3263 Hawthorne Boulevard in Compton Heights but kept a country house here as well. It is called "Eyere" in the 1909 Atlas but "The Eyrie" on Gladys Stockstrom's stationery. Louis Stockstrom died in 1945, Arthur, who had built a Chateausque house at 6475 Wydown Blvd. in 1922, became president of the company in 1938. He commissioned Armstrong to design a new company headquarters at 1641 South Kingshighway in 1947, a building which was acclaimed in its time. The older house on this site was wrecked to make way for this one, but the garage was retained. Arthur Stockstrom retired in 1956 and died in 1966. The interiors of the house were designed by Eleanor McMillen, Mrs. Stockstrom's sister.

The roof of the porch has X-pattern wooden balustrade. Windows are 'one-over-one' with non-functional shutters. The east wing has a lower gable roof. | | | | Photo |
| 43 History and Significance This house was built by Henry Kissel on Lot 7 of the subdivision of Valentine Bollman's estate, which he acquired from Bollman's widow Magdalena and other heirs in 1883. Henry Kissel entered into a life tenancy with his four children in 1922. He died in 1931 two months before his son John. The remaining children, Frank, Katherine and Elizabeth, sold the property in 1938 to William and Christine Kochner. | | | | |

The windows are one-over-one, those in front have nonfunctioning shutters. The front door has a transom. The basement entry is outside in the north yard. A lean-to addition at the rear seems to be an enclosed porch. | | | | 4 Other Name(s) 4608 Mattis Road |
| 43 History and Significance This property was part of the property of Valentine Meyer since the 1870's. Meyer had owned other property adjacent since the 1860's. He died in 1904 leaving four daughters and a son. He may also have left grandchildren by children who had died earlier. The 1909 Atlas shows the property divided among these heirs, with this part belonging to one of the daughters, Mamie or Mary. | | | | |

Second floor is less than full-height, and second-floor windows rise into the gables. Windows are one-over-one and have nonfunctional shutters. Doors with transoms open from both sides of the corner front porch, which has a hipped roof and one plain post. Rear corners of the house have one-story sections which may be additions. | |
| 43 History and Significance John Philip Wagner bought this property from Herman and Margaret Von Talge in 1859. A house was shown on the site in the 1878 atlas. This house has certain features, such as the one-over-one windows the porch posts, and the exposed basement, which suggest a later date, but portions of the house could date back to the 1860's. Wagner sold the property for $1500 in 1903 to Julius Kretz, a resident of St. Louis, who probably re-constructed the house in its present form. | | 44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The property is situated at the northeast corner of Cedar Lane. A more modern one-story house stands behind and to the west of the older one. The widening of Mattis Road has left this house very close to the road. | | 45 Sources of Information St. Louis City Recorder of Deeds, Book 286, p. 209. Windows are three-over-one and have nonworking shutters. The front door has toplight and sidelights obscured by aluminym awning. A screened porch is under a lean-to porch in the rear. | | Photo | |
| 43 History and Significance This property was part of a tract of 159 acres acquired by Henry Crecelius in the 1860's. The northeast part, 40.87 acres, was sold in 1893 to August P. Crecelius for $2,860.90. In contrast, another 45-acres was sold at the same time for $5,622.50, so this must have been a less developed part of the farm. Crecelius sold the same acreage in 1905 for $4,000 to August Juengel. | | | |
| 44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings Several barns are southeast of the house, including an unusual one of vermiculated concrete block with gambrel roof. (2) | | | |

| 43 History and Significance Worthington Drive was originally part of Tesson Ferry Road, which jogged onto a short section of Mattis Road at this point. The 1909 Atlas shows a pond just east of this house on what was then a 3.55-acre site. The site was part of a larger tract of 159.75 acres acquired in the 1860's by Henry Crecelius. He sold the three acres at the corner of Mattis and Tesson Ferry Roads in 1892 and added another half acre the following | | | | year. The buyer was Dr. Wallace Sappington, who probably built this house at that time. He sold the property in 1906 for $5,000 to George Larson. Dr. Sappington, who died in 1921, was the second son of Thomas Jefferson Sappington (died 1897). Thomas Jefferson Sappington was the son of John Sappington, Junior, the sixth son of the pioneer John Sappington who came to St. Louis County from Maryland in 1804.

| 43 History and Significance Survey 1341 was divided by the heirs of Jacob Wickerham (not Wickersham) who died in 1823. In 1862 this part was owned by Alfred Hardigan, who sold it before 1870 to Peter Porta. Porta owned the property at least until 1909. According to Joseph Porta, Peter's great-grandson, he was born in France. The large house is said to have been built in the 1890's, although Porta had occupied the land for two decades before that. | | | | |
| 44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings A large group of red-painted outbuildings includes one at right angles to the house used as an antique shop. Closer to the house is a large octagonal gazebo. (2) | | | | |

| 43 History and Significance This lot is part of a larger tract acquired by Peter Porta between 1862 and 1870. Porta, who was a native of France, built the large homestead house at 4610 Meramec Bottom Road about 1890, according to his great-grandson Joseph Porta. This house, which is not indicated on the 1909 county atlas, was probably built a few years later by John Porta, Junior, Peter's grandson and Joseph's father. It is the last portion of the larger site still owned by the original family. | | | |
| 44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings A red barn is located east of the house. A three-bay garage is directly behind the house, and there are other small outbuildings. | | | |

The house has a one-story frame back porch. The front porch has five short columns on pedestals, turned balusters and chevron-patterned latticework underneath. Windows are one-over-one. Part of the siding has been removed from or was never applied to the front wall around the door. Upstairs windows on the north side have been covered over except for the small diamond-shaped windows in the center. Two brick chimneys rise on either side of the peak of the roof. The outside basement entrance is in the north yard.

Henry Philip Kraemer acquired a tract of about 40 acres here in 1847 from Valentine and Margareth Dorst. He died in 1887, leaving 4 sons and two daughters. He left the south half of his land to his son Frank and the north half to his daughter Katherine, the wife of Joachim Kempf. They probably built this house shortly thereafter, and they still owned it in 1909.

This house is the last old building in a rapidly developing commercial area created by the rerouting of Tesson Ferry Road. The house is on the corner of Towne South Road.

his executor, Charles Ehrmann, reported "there is a one-story log house, stable and barn" located on this tract. Steinegger was divorced and had no children. He left this property to his sister Emilie, the wife of Philipp Maag. The house must have taken on its present appearance during her ownership. Her husband died before 1893, when the county directory reports "Mrs. Emelia Maag" a farmer in Sappington. She still owned the property in 1909 but sold it before her death in 1935. She was survived by her daughter Emilie Becker, a granddaughter Emilie Kolbe Korn, and five grandsons, sons of her deceased son Philip.

In this century the property was apparently part of the larger farm of Albert Beim. Alice Beim Moore and her son Alwal Moore ran a hog farm, which later evolved into an egg brokerage firm known as Moore Quality Farms. Alice Moore deeded this property to Moore Quality Farms in 1967.

| 43 History and Significance | | This property was part of a tract of 54 acres in Survey 51 owned by W. C. Richardson in the 1862 and 1870 atlases and sold between then and 1878 to George Ploesser. The house, not depicted in the 1878 atlas, must have been built a few years later. George Ploesser died in 1904 leaving two sons and two daughters. He specified that the farm was to go to his son George, Junior. George, Junior, was able to acquire several more pieces | | |

| 43 History and Significance St. John's Evangelical Church is one of the oldest German churches in Missouri. It was formed in 1838 at the same time as Zion Evangelical Church (now Parkway United Church of Christ, a county historic site) by Holy Ghost Church in St. Louis (which is now located at 4916 Mardel). On October 15, 1840, the Evangelical Church Association of the West was organized in the parsonage of St. John's Church under the leadership of | | | | |

are topped by tiered stone pinnacles. These are also featured on the lower south tower, which has shorter but similar upper windows. The large window over the main entry has perpendicular tracery. Above the window is a terra-cotta inscription, "St. John's Evangelical Church, AD 1922," and above that is a lowered lancet opening set under a terra-cotta lintel that creates a cross pattern. A secondary entrance is on the north side of the tower base. Church histories record that the furniture for the sanctuary was provided by Maintowoc Church Furniture Company of Waukesha, Wisconsin. Stained glass is by the Jacoby Art Glass Company.

A three-bay wing extends south from the south transept. It has paired windows and a double door under wide pointed arches and three-pane toplights. The basement is high, permitting good-sized windows. Stone-capped buttresses frame the bays. Behind this wing is the education building added in 1956, a plain brick modern structure. On the north side is the newer education building with gymnasium, built in 1971. It too is a brick block, with tall stone framed window bays framed by buttresses, each with stone cap and attached downlight. The main entry is a three-bay link, stone-faced, with a canopy or marquee over the doors. A lower entry of two doors opens from the east side of the northwest wing.

Reverend Edward Louis Nollau. This was the origin of the Evangelical Synod, which merged with the Reformed Church in 1934 and the Congregational Church in 1957 to form the United Church of Christ. Nollau was one of the outstanding leaders of the early church, a founder of a hospital, an orphanage and a home for the aged. The first church was a frame structure, built at the corner of the cemetery in 1839. It was replaced in 1868 by a brick structure in the early Romanesque Revival style, with an attractive belltower.

Worship was entirely in German until 1912, when an English service was authorized for one evening service a month. The old building was removed early in 1922, and the current one dedicated on December 24 that year. The chancel was enlarged in 1938 with a rose window and a marble altar. The Educational Building was completed in 1956. A newer education building with gymnasium was added in 1971.

The older L-shaped house has newer shed-roofed addition in the angle. This addition moves primary entry to the basement. The door has a small corrugated-metal-roofed porch in front. Some new windows are sliding, others are double-hung. The old stone foundation reveals the original age of the house. | | | | Photo |
| 43 History and Significance Gottfried Westhaus or Westhause, acquired the east half of the northwest quarter of Section 4, just under 40 acres, from Phillip Kleinschmidt in 1864. Some buildings may already have been done on the property at that time. Westhaus lived until 1906 and left the homestead to the second of his three sons, John Henry Westhaus, provided that the latter paid $1,000 to the elder son August Jacob Westhaus. | | | | |
| 44 Description of Environment and Outbuildings The old house is perched on the side of a steep hill behind a garage and a more modern house. A sign at the entry to the complex says "das Weber Haus." | | | | |

It has an all-steel structure with steel porcelain-plated panels for walls, roof, ceiling, and cabinets. The wall panels are two-feet square, dove-gray. The entry at the west end of the house opens onto a partial verandah with one corner post. The west front window is set forward about a foot. Brochures show hinged aluminum windows, but this house has conventional double-hung windows. A large garage | | Photo | |
| 43 History and Significance Lustron houses were the idea of Carl Standlund, a Swedish-born engineer who opened a factory in Columbus, Ohio, in 1947 to make prefabricated houses of steel plates finished in vitreous enamel. The plant closed in 1950, having produced fewer than 2,000 houses at a cost in U.S. subsidies of $37.5 million. Modern Housing Corp. was the Lustron dealer in St. Louis; it was owned by Charles W. and William O. DeWitt, brothers who owned the St. Louis Browns baseball team. Both long sides of the house have additions so that there is no longer a formal front elevation. The north side has a saltbox addition, the east portion of which has a row of four square windows, perhaps an enclosed porch. A one-story shed-roof addition on the south side is two bays wide and one bay deep. Windows vary in size. Most are 6-over-6, but one window on the west side is 2-over-2, probably the original (contd) | | | | | |
| 43. History and Significance The east half of the southeast quarter of Section 23 was granted by the U.S. government to William A. Head before 1838. In 1857 his widow Jemima sold the south half of that 80 acres to John E. J. Fredericks. The property has remained in the family ever since, although the final "s" has been dropped from the name. his three brothers and sister Helen Ossing. Martin died in 1925 leaving a widow, sons Henry J. and Valentine (d. 1945), and seven daughters, two of whom had married into neighboring families: Caroline Heutel and Minnie Weber. Henry J. Frederick (without the s) eventually acquired most of the homestead. In 1978 he entered into a trust agreement with his son Henry E. for the ultimate benefit of his grandchildren. The log core of his house could go back to William and Jemima Head, who no doubt homesteaded here in the 1830's. The second floor is said to have been added about 1900.

The porch has turned posts and a frame at the entry suggesting that it was once screened. The house is threatened by construction of a new house behind it. | | Photo | | |
| 43. History and Significance The chain of title of this tract has been traced back to 1831, when it was part of the estate of William A. Mead. The forty acres sold by his executor Robert Forsyth to Louis G. Picot. He and his wife Margaret sold it in 1865 for $500 to Roswell M. Field. Field had been the attorney for Dred Scott in 1853, and he was the father of writer Eugene Field. He held this property only a year, selling it in 1866 to (continued) | | | | |

Wendelin Heutel House
12703 Weber Hill Road

43. continued

Herman Schiffmann for $500. Two years later Schiffmann sold the property to his father John for $5. Included in the sale were several lots in the City of Carondelet. At that time both Schiffmanns lived in St. Louis. John and his wife Matilda took out a mortgage on the property in 1871, and after their deaths the property was foreclosed. It was purchased in 1893 by Emilie Uhri and Ida Rose from the sheriff. In 1896 Emilie Uhri and her husband William sold it to Wendelin Heutel for $1,200. An error made in the legal description of the property in 1868 was not corrected until 1897, which suggests that the property was not owner-occupied during that time. Probably, therefore, the present house dates from the period of Heutel's occupancy. When he died in 1915, he left the "homestead farm of 40 acres on Weber Hill Road" to his wife Johanna and then to his three oldest sons, but he specified that the house should go to the second son Benedick (not Benjamin). Among the other sons, John had a brick company in Affton, and Peter founded the Sunset Auto Company, the neighborhood of which was sometimes called Heutelville. This house had only two rooms originally.

| 43. History and Significance The present lot was part of a tract of 41 acres owned in the 19th century by Wenzel Sleisner, who died in 1896. It was inherited by his son Wenzel, Jr. who sold it in 1912 to Louis R. and Katharine L. Kimker. Little is known about the Kimkers, but in 1930 Albert H. and Amanda Kimker sold this tract of 1.8576 acres to Arthur H. Fromm. | 43 History and Significance This lot lies in Survey 2022 which was one of a vast number of proper- ties acquired by John Mullanphy, St. Louis's first millionaire. At his death in 1833, it was divided among his heirs, and this part went to his daughter Mary, who married William S Harney. Harney and their three children sold it in 1881 to John Schuetz, who apparently died about 1890. The tract was then divided between two sons, who built nearly identical | | | | 5739 Wells Road |

| 43 History and Significance Survey 2022 was part of the vast land holdings of John Mullanphy (1758-1833), the Irish emigrant who became St. Louis's first millionaire. His property was divided at his death among his seven daughters and one son Bryan. This part of Survey 2022 went to Bryan, who was mayor of St. Louis in 1847. He died in 1851, leaving one third of his estate to form a fund for the relief of indigent emigrants on their way | | | | | to settle in the west. This fund is still administered by the City of St. Louis. This land was held by the Mullanphy Emigrant Relief Association until after 1893, when it was sold to Charles Theodore Dauernheim. George Philip Dauernheim, who was Charles's younger brother, bought the property in Lot 4 from the same seller at the same time, and his house stands at 6098 Hageman Road. Both sons were sons of Christian Dauernham, who died in 1887. Charles Theodore Dauernheim died in 1932, leaving this "home place," which by then had a dwelling, barn, and other outbuildings, to his daughter Lillie. It was valued at $4,500.

| 43 History and Significance This property is part of Survey 2022, which was divided by the children of John Mullanphy after his death in 1833. This was in Lot 3, inherited by Jane Chambers. Jane probably gave it to her second daughter Margaret Fitzsimon Chambers after the death of the latter's husband Commodore William Smith in 1873. She sold it about 1881 to Joseph P. Whyte, a resident of the city, and Whyte sold it to George Studer and Philip Kempf | | | | |

| 43 History and Significance This property is partly in the fractional southeast quarter of section 7 (15.19 acres) of Survey 993. In the 1860's the former had been the property of Gustav Becker, the latter the property of August Becker. They had sold to Wolfart Becht, who is shown as the owner in 1870-1878, and 1893. He must have died a few years later, because in 1898 a mortgage was taken out on the property by his children: Susan, Mattes, and Frank | | | | |

Becht, Lizzie, the wife of Frederick Fink, and Margaret, the wife of Otto H. Morschel. They defaulted on the loan in 1903, and the property was purchased by Frank Koeninger for $3,100. He was the son of John Koeninger, who had owned the adjacent 25 acres in Survey 993 and who died in 1897. From the 1878 and 1909 Atlases, it is not fully clear if the present buildings are in the same location as the Becht homestead, but if so, they may date from the 1870's. Another possibility is that they were added early in this century by Koeninger.
