Jefferson Landing State Historic Site

Accessibility Information

These two buildings are located on the hillside along the riverfront. Curbside parking is provided by the city.

Union Hotel

At this time, there is no handicap parking. The city sidewalk has a 4.7 percent slope. Midway up the sidewalk is a brick pathway to the hotel, which houses the Rozier Gallery. The pathway starts out with a short eight-foot slope of 8.5 percent and then becomes level. Inside is a large foyer with a spacious exhibit room. Exhibits are always arranged with accessibility in mind.

Lohman Building

Handicap parking is not available at this time. The most accessible parking is parallel and adjacent to the building. Here, a concrete sidewalk has a 4.7 percent slope to the base of the hill where the walkway turns to flagstone. A railed ramp assists entry into the museum, which has the original brick flooring. Exhibits are in glass cases or are free standing. The audio-visual room is accessible and has plenty of space for seating.
